PROVISIONAL ORDERS RELATING TO OXFORD, &c.⁽¹⁾

LOCAL GOVERNMENT SUPPLEMENTAL ACT, 1865, (No. 5.)

28 & 29 VICT. c. 108.

An Act to confirm certain Provisional Orders under "The Local Government Act, 1858," relating to the Districts of Nottingham, Rusholme, Plymouth, Redcar, Cardiff, Kingston-upon-Hull, Guildford, Ramsgate, Ryde, Workington, and Oxford, and for other purposes relative to certain Districts under the said Act.
[5th July, 1865.]

1. The Provisional Orders contained in the schedule hereunto annexed shall, from and after the passing of this Act, be absolute, and be as binding and of like force and effect as if the provisions of the same had been expressly enacted in this Act.

Secs. 1—6.

2. The Act passed in the twenty-third and twenty-fourth years of the reign of Her present Majesty (23 & 24 Vict. c. 68) (*), intituled "The South Wales Highway Act," shall be repealed so far as it relates to the district of Llanelly in the county of Carmarthen, within which district the Local Government Act, 1858, is now in force. And whereas doubts have arisen as to the effect of the Provisional Order repealing the said Act within the district of Aberavon in the county of Glamorgan: it is hereby declared, that the said Act shall be deemed and taken to be repealed within the said district as if the repeal thereof had been provided by express enactment in the Act confirming the said Order.

7. The Oxford local board shall yearly, at their first meeting in November, appoint one of their number to be chairman for one year at all meetings at which he is present; and in case the chairman so appointed be absent from any meeting at the time appointed for holding the same, the members present shall appoint one of their number to act as chairman thereat; and in case the chairman appointed for the year die, resign, or become incapable of acting, another member shall be appointed to be chairman for the period during which the person so dying, resigning, or becoming incapable would have been entitled to remain in office, and no longer; and the chairman at any meeting shall have a second or casting vote in case of an equality of votes.

8. All public buildings of the university and city of Oxford, and any lands, tenements, and hereditaments within the Oxford district not now assessed or assessable to rates for the relief of the poor, except all such as belong to or are held by the county, and except churches and other public places of religious worship, shall be assessable on a fair valuation thereof by an equal pound rate to the general district rates, to be from time to time made and levied by the local board.

9. If and when any part of the parish of Cowley is added to the Oxford district, then and thenceforth the number of members of the local board for the Oxford district shall be increased by one:

- (a.) The Cowley member shall from time to time be elected by the owners and ratepayers within that part of the parish of Cowley:
- (b.) The first election of the Cowley member shall take place within forty-two days after the passing of this Act, on a day which shall, within fourteen days after the passing of this Act, be appointed by the chairman of the local board:
- (c.) The Cowley member so first elected shall continue in office until the commencement of the meeting of the local board next after the day of the yearly election of members of the local board in the year one thousand eight hundred and sixty-six.
- (d.) The yearly election of the Cowley member shall take place in the year one thousand eight hundred and sixty-six, and in every subsequent year on the day for the yearly election of other members of the local board:
- (e.) The chairman of the local board shall be the summoning officer for the purposes of every election of the Cowley member:
- (f.) In all other respects the provisions of every Act of Parliament from time to time in force with respect to the members of the local board, and their election and continuance in office and retirement from office, shall, so far as the same are applicable, extend and apply to the Cowley member.

10. The member of the Oxford local board now elected for the parish of Saint Thomas shall henceforth be elected for that parish and for the adjoining parish of Binsey as if they were one parish, and for the purposes of the election the two parishes shall be deemed to be one parish:

- (a.) For the election the ratepayers of the parish of Binsey shall form part of the vestry of the parish of Saint Thomas:
- (b.) Notices of the vestry meetings of the parish of Saint Thomas for the election shall be given by the summoning officers of that parish to the ratepayers of the parish of Binsey as if they were ratepayers of the parish of Saint Thomas.

11. If and when any part of the parish of North Hincsey is added to the Oxford district, then the member of the local board now elected for the adjoining parish of Saint Aldate shall thenceforth be elected for that parish and for that part of the parish of North Hincsey as if they were one parish; and for the purposes of the election the parish of Saint Aldate and that part of the parish of North Hincsey shall be deemed to be one parish; for the election the ratepayers of that part of the parish of North Hincsey shall form part of the vestry of the parish of Saint Aldate.

12. For the purposes of this section, and with respect to each of the parishes of Cowley and Binsey and North Hincsey respectively, the overseers of the respective parish shall, when the Oxford local board by notice in writing to them so require, produce to such persons as the local board specify in the notice, and permit them to inspect and transcribe, the rate books for the then current and then last rates for the relief of the poor of the respective parish, and shall afford to those persons all proper and sufficient facilities in that behalf; and if whenever (sic) any overseer of any of those parishes in any way offends against this provision, then every person so offending shall for every such offence forfeit and pay to the Oxford local board any sum not exceeding five pounds.

13. The Provisional Order relating to the Oxford district set forth in the schedule to this Act annexed shall, in accordance with the provisions of this section, apply to the Oxford district and

- the local board for the Oxford district as that district and that local board respectively are from time to time constituted. Secs. 13-20.
14. The Oxford local board, within fourteen days after their yearly election, shall appoint for the current year a committee of their own number to be the assessment committee, and shall determine their number, quorum, and procedure, and shall, when requisite, supply vacancies in their number :
- (a.) All objections to the general district rate shall be heard and considered by the assessment committee :
- (b.) And if and when the assessment to the rate for the relief of the poor of all or any part of the property assessable to the general district rate to be made and levied by the local board is in the judgment of the local board an unfit criterion for making a general district rate, or there is no such assessment, the net annual value of the property shall be ascertained by the assessment committee.
15. The mayor and recorder of the city of Oxford, and the vice-chancellor of the university of Oxford, instead of the court of quarter sessions, shall be the court of appeal for all purposes appeals from assessments and rates of the local board :
- (a.) Provided that during the absence of the recorder the deputy recorder, and during the absence of the vice-chancellor one of the pro vice-chancellors, to be appointed by the vice-chancellor by writing under his hand delivered to the clerk to the local board, and during the absence of the mayor the deputy mayor of the city, shall act in the place of and shall accordingly represent the recorder, or, as the case shall be, the vice-chancellor or the mayor.
16. When any person liable to be rated to the general district rate levied by the Oxford local board is dissatisfied with the amount at which he or any other person is assessed, he may give to the local board notice in that behalf, and the matter shall be referred by the board to the assessment committee, and shall be heard and considered by them, and the objector and his agent, if any, shall be entitled to appear and be heard before the assessment committee :
- (a.) If within twenty-one days next after the delivery of the notice to the local board the assessment committee do not alter the assessment so as to remove the objector's ground of complaint, he may give to the local board and also to the court of appeal notice of his intention to appeal against the decision of the assessment committee :
- (b.) At a time and place appointed by the court of appeal, which, if not the time for holding the quarter sessions for the city, shall be not less than fourteen days after the delivery of that notice, the court shall meet and hear the appeal, giving to the local board and the appellant at least seven clear days notice of the time and place of meeting :
- (c.) The notices shall be in writing, and the first notice to the local board shall state the objections and the grounds thereof, and the second notice to the local board, and the notice to the court of appeal, shall state such of the objections as are not removed and the grounds thereof, and shall not state any objection or ground of objection which was not stated in the first notice :
- (d.) The notices shall be served on the local board and the court of appeal respectively by being delivered for them respectively to the clerk to the local board, and the notices to the appellant shall be served on him personally, or by leaving the same at his place of abode or business.
17. The court of appeal may and shall hear and consider the appeal, and, as they think fit, may either confirm or quash or alter the decision of the assessment committee, and may determine the costs of the appeal, and by whom the same shall be paid, and may make such orders in the premises as they think fit ; and every order so made by them shall be binding on all parties interested, and, where requisite, the assessment shall be altered accordingly.
18. The court of appeal shall meet at the times for holding the quarter sessions for the city of Oxford, or at such other times, and at such places, and on such notice, and shall conduct their proceedings in such manner, as they think best adapted for carrying into effect these provisions, and shall have full jurisdiction, power, and authority for the purposes of their appointment as if they were a court of quarter sessions.
19. The expenses of the assessment committee and of the court of appeal shall be paid by the Oxford local board, and the clerk to the said local board shall be the clerk to the court of appeal.
20. With respect to the general district rate from time to time made and levied by the Oxford local board :
- (a.) All rateable property belonging to the chancellor, masters, and scholars of the university shall be rated in the name of the vice-chancellor of the university :
- The Oxford district, &c.
Assessment Committee to be appointed by the local board.
- The Mayor and Recorder of the City and the Vice-Chancellor of the University of Oxford, to be a Court of Appeal for objections to assessments.
- Persons dissatisfied with assessment to local board, who shall refer the same to Assessment Committee.
- Appeal against the assessment committee's decision.
- Notices how to be given.
- Notices how to be served.
- Proceedings of Court of Appeal.
- As to the time of holding the Court of Appeal and conducting proceedings.
- Expenses of Assessment Committee and of Court of Appeal.
- Who to be rated to the general district rates of the Oxford local board.

Secs. 20-24.

- (b.) All rateable property belonging to the mayor, aldermen, and citizens of Oxford shall be rated in the name of the mayor of the city :
- (c.) All rateable property belonging to the dean and chapter of Christ Church and to the other colleges and the halls in the university shall respectively be rated in the names of the treasurer of Christ Church, and of the senior bursar or treasurer of the several other colleges, and of the principals of the several halls respectively :
- (d.) All rateable property belonging to feoffees or trustees of charities or public buildings shall respectively be rated in the names of the feoffees and trustees respectively.

Rates on the University and Colleges and Halls of Oxford to be collected and paid by the Vice-Chancellor. Power to determine that arrangement.

The Public Library in the City of Oxford vested in the local board.

Limit of the amount to be raised for the public library.

Act incorporated with 21 & 22 Vict. c. 98.

Short title.

21. The general district rate from time to time made by the Oxford local board, and payable by the university and Christ Church and the other colleges and the halls respectively, shall be collected and paid to the local board by the vice-chancellor ; provided that this arrangement may at any time be determined by notice in writing in that behalf given by the vice-chancellor to the local board, or by the local board to the vice-chancellor, and if notice be so given, and be not withdrawn within twelve months after the service thereof, then from and after the expiration of that period the general district rate payable by the university and Christ Church, and the several other colleges and the halls respectively, shall be collected by the local board.

22. From and after the expiration of three months next after the passing of this Act the custody, care, and management of the public library in the city of Oxford shall be vested in the local board, in accordance with the provisions in that behalf of the Acts from time to time in force with respect to public libraries managed by local boards for the purpose of their districts ; and all the expenses of and incident to the custody, care, and management thereof, and the adding to and maintaining of the same, shall from time to time be paid by the local board out of moneys raised by the general district rate as if "The Public Libraries Act, 1855," had been duly adopted for the whole of the Oxford district as from time to time constituted, and the public library had been established thereunder ; and if after discharging all debts and liabilities, if any, relating thereto, there be any balance of the moneys, before the expiration of the three months, assessed for the purposes thereof, the balance shall be paid to the local board, and be carried to their general district fund ; provided that the amount expended by the local board in any one year for the purposes of the public library shall not exceed the amount which might be raised by them by a rate for the purpose made under that Act.

23. This Act shall be deemed to be incorporated with the Local Government Act, 1858⁽¹⁾, and shall be as if this Act and the said Local Government Act were one Act.

24. In citing this Act in any other Act of Parliament, or in any proceeding, instrument, or document whatever, it shall be sufficient to use the words and figures "The Local Government Supplemental Act, 1865 (No. 5)."

SCHEDULE.

SCHEDULE of Provisional Orders referred to in the preceding Act.

OXFORD.

Provisional Order repealing and altering parts of local Acts in force within the district of the Oxford local board.

Schedule.

Whereas the Local Government Act, 1858, has been duly adopted within the university and city of Oxford, the suburbs thereof, and the adjoining parish of St. Clement, by the Oxford commissioners mentioned and referred to in the eighty-second section of the Local Government Act aforesaid ; and the local board for the Oxford district have, in pursuance of the provisions of section seventy-seven of the Local Government Act, 1858, presented a petition to me, as one of Her Majesty's principal Secretaries of State, praying that the provisions of the Public Health Act, 1848, and the Local Government Act, 1858, respectively, with respect to the paving, pitching, repairing, lighting, and cleansing of the several public streets, lanes, ways, passages, and places within the district, should come into operation therein, and that the powers of the commissioners with respect to Magdalen Bridge and the Mileways, and with respect to gasworks and gas supply, should be transferred to and vested in the said petitioners ; that further provision should be made with respect to the election of members of the local board ; and that provision should be made for rendering the property in the university and the colleges and halls thereof liable to the general district rates of such local board.

And whereas for such purposes the said petitioners prayed that such of the provisions of the Oxford local Acts of 1771 and 1781 and 1812 and 1815 and 1848 respectively as do not relate to the markets and to the gasworks and the gas supply respectively (which provisions do not confer powers or privileges upon corporations, companies, undertakers, or individuals for their own pecuniary benefit) should be in part repealed and in part amended, and other provisions enacted and an order for the purpose under section seventy-seven of the Local Government Act should accordingly be made. Schedule.

And whereas, in pursuance of the said Local Government Act, inquiry has been directed in the said district in respect of the several matters mentioned in the said petition, and Mr. Robert Rawlinson, the inspector appointed for the purpose, has reported to me thereon.

And whereas it appears expedient to issue a Provisional Order in relation to the said matters, but no such Order can be valid without confirmation by Parliament.

Now, therefore, in pursuance of the powers vested in me by the said Local Government Act, I, as one of Her Majesty's principal Secretaries of State, do, by this Provisional Order under my hand, direct that from and after the passing of any Act of Parliament confirming this Order,—

1. The following provisions shall have effect on and after the third Wednesday next after the day of the passing of the Act confirming this Order.
2. The provisions of the Local Government Act, 1858, relating to the several purposes included in the five several local Acts of the eleventh year of George the Third, chapter nineteen, and the twenty-first year of George the Third, chapter forty-seven, and the fifty-second year of George the Third, chapter seventy-two, and the session of the fifth and sixth years of William the Fourth, chapter sixty-nine, and the session of the eleventh and twelfth years of Her present Majesty, chapter thirty-seven, which are respectively in force in the Oxford district (in this Order called the five local Acts), with relation to any of the purposes of the Public Health Act, 1848, or the Local Government Act, 1858, which have not already come into operation within the district, shall (except only as in this Order is otherwise provided) come into and be in operation in all places within the district.
3. Provided that this Order shall be subject to the several powers and provisions of the five local Acts respectively, so far as the same relate to the tolls to be demanded and taken in respect of Magdalen Bridge and the Mileways, and to the mortgages of the tolls and the rights and remedies of the mortgagees thereof, and to the markets respectively.
4. The five local Acts respectively are by this Order repealed, save only the sections and provisions thereof following, so far as the same respectively are now in force, that is to say, the sections and provisions of the five local Acts respectively relating to Magdalen Bridge and the Mileways, and the tolls to be demanded and taken in respect of the same, and the mortgages of the tolls, and the rights and remedies of the mortgagees thereof, and relating to the markets, and relating to gasworks and the supply of gas, and relating to all matters incidental to those matters respectively.
5. The sections and provisions of the five local Acts respectively which are so saved (except the sections and provisions thereof relating to the markets) shall, so far as the same respectively are now in force, apply not to the commissioners but to the local board instead of the commissioners, and shall be read and have effect as if wherever in those sections respectively the commissioners are named or referred to the local board instead of the commissioners were named or referred to.
6. All sewers, drains, and other works respectively made by and vested in the commissioners, and all lands and interests in lands respectively acquired by and vested in the commissioners for the widening Magdalen Bridge and its approaches and the streets, and all rights incidental to the same respectively, and the benefit and burden of all contracts entered into by or with the commissioners with respect to the lighting of streets and other public places, and the supplying of paving stone and materials for paving and repairing streets and other public places, and the cartage thereof, and all rates duly assessed under the provisions of the said five local Acts or any of them, and not collected at the time that this Order shall begin to have effect as first hereinbefore mentioned, and all other property and effects, rights, and liabilities whatsoever of the commissioners under the five local Acts respectively with respect to any of the purposes thereof other than the purposes thereof relating to the markets, are by this Order transferred to and vested in the local board.
7. All the deeds, records, minutes, accounts, account books, minute books, and other documents, papers, and writings of the commissioners with respect to any of the purposes of the five local Acts respectively, other than the purposes thereof with respect to the markets, shall be the property of the local board, and shall forthwith be delivered to them by the commissioners accordingly, the local board giving to the commissioners, if so required by them, a schedule of and a receipt in writing for the same; but the same shall at all reasonable times be open to the inspection and transcription of the commissioners and their agents in that behalf, and, if and when requisite for enforcing any claim or demand by or resisting any claim or demand against the commissioners, shall, at their request and expense, be produced in any court of law or equity or elsewhere.
8. Wherever in the Act of the fifty-eighth year of George the Third, chapter sixty-four, intituled "An Act for lighting with gas the University and City of Oxford and the suburbs of the same city," the commissioners are named or referred to, the local board instead of the commissioners shall be deemed to be named or referred to, and that Act shall be read and have effect accordingly.
9. For the purposes of all Acts, from time to time in force with respect to the removal or prevention of nuisances, and also with respect to the well ordering of common lodging houses, the local board instead of the commissioners shall be the local authority with respect to the execution of those Acts within the district.
10. Notwithstanding the repeal of parts of the five local Acts respectively, and the transfer by this Order to the local board of parts of the property, powers, rights, and liabilities of the commissioners, and except only as is by this Order otherwise expressly provided, everything before the coming into effect of this Order done, suffered, and confirmed respectively under or by the five local Acts respectively shall be as valid as if the repeal and transfer had not happened, and the repeal and transfer and the operation of this Order shall accordingly be subject and without prejudice to everything so done, suffered, and confirmed respectively, and to all rights, liabilities, claims, and demands, both present and future, which, if the repeal and transfer had not happened, would be incident to or consequent on everything so done, suffered, and confirmed respectively; and with respect to everything so done, suffered, and confirmed respectively, and to all those rights, liabilities, claims, and demands, the local board shall to all intents represent the commissioners.

11. The accounts of the commissioners with respect to the several purposes of the five local Acts respectively, other than the purposes thereof with respect to the markets, shall forthwith be made up and stated and audited; and if the accounts show a balance in the hands of the commissioners, then the amount of the balance shall thereupon be paid by them to the local board, or if the accounts show that the debts and liabilities of the commissioners are not fully paid or discharged, then the lawful debts and liabilities of the commissioners remaining unpaid or undischarged shall be paid or discharged by the local board.
12. Provided that this Order shall not give to the mortgagees of the tolls to be demanded and taken in respect of Magdalen Bridge and the Mileways any security, right, or remedy in excess of the securities, rights, and remedies which they would have if this Order were not confirmed, and shall not relieve the parishes of Cowley, Ifley, and Saint Clement, or either of them, nor any person or persons, body or bodies politic or corporate, from any liability with respect to the repair of the Mileways or Magdalen Bridge, and shall not impose on the local board any liability with respect to the repair of Magdalen Bridge and the Mileways to which the commissioners would not be subject if this Order were not confirmed.
13. If any rates duly assessed under the provisions of the said five local Acts shall not have been collected at the time that this Order shall begin and have effect, as first hereinbefore mentioned, the local board shall have all the powers for the recovery of the said uncollected rates which were heretofore possessed by the said commissioners, and the moneys which shall be collected or recovered shall be applied by the local board for their general purposes as if they had been part of a general district rate.
14. The accounts of the commissioners to be made up, stated, and audited, as by this Order provided, and the accounts of the local board shall be audited by the auditor of the accounts of the guardians of the poor within the city of Oxford, under the Oxford Poor Rate Act, 1854, and there shall be paid to him by the commissioners, and from time to time by the local board respectively, the like remuneration for his services in so auditing their respective accounts as is from time to time paid to him for his services in auditing the accounts of the guardians.
15. The local board from time to time, if and when they think fit, may, within the district, cleanse any parts of the rivers Cherwell and Thames or Isis respectively, and of the streams running into those rivers respectively, and may prevent or remove any encroachments on any of those rivers and streams respectively, and may convert any parts of any of those streams into which any sewer or drain is from time to time emptied into a covered sewer, and may do and execute all works and things which the local board shall think requisite for or incidental to any of those purposes.
16. Where the local board shall so convert any part of any of those streams into a covered sewer, the arch or other covering over the same, and all works executed by them for the purpose of covering over the same and incidental thereto, shall be by this Order vested in the local board.
17. Except as regards any sewer or drain which now is lawfully emptied into any of those rivers and streams before mentioned, the local board may prevent the emptying of any sewer or drain into any of those rivers and streams, and may do and execute all works and things which they shall think requisite in such case.
18. Where any present or future sewer of the local board is within one hundred feet from any sewer or drain which now is lawfully emptied into any of those rivers and streams respectively, the local board may divert the sewer or drain so that it shall thenceforth be emptied into the sewer instead of into such river or stream, and may do and execute all works and things which they think requisite in such case; but the local board shall not so divert any sewer or drain without providing for it a proper and sufficient outfall into their own sewer.
19. All properties whatsoever within the district which are or hereafter may be assessable to any rate for the relief of the poor shall be assessable to the general district rates to be made and levied by the local board, in the same manner in all respects as is provided by section fifty-five of the "Local Government Act, 1858," and all exemptions from rates heretofore allowed under any or either of the five local Acts shall thenceforth cease.
20. The several powers by this Order conferred on the local board shall be in addition to and not in any respect restrictive of their other powers.
21. Except only as is by this Order expressly provided, nothing in this Order shall take away lessen, prejudice, alter, or affect any privilege or right whatsoever of the university, or of any of the magistrates, officers, ministers, or servants thereunto belonging, or any privilege or right whatsoever of the city, or of any of the magistrates or servants thereunto belonging, or any exercise of any such respective privilege or right.

Given under my hand this thirty first day of May, one thousand eight hundred and sixty-five.

HINCKSEY (OXFORD DISTRICT).

Schedule.

Provisional Order for altering the Boundaries of the District of Oxford, under the Local Government Act, 1858.

Whereas the Local Government Act, 1858, has been duly adopted within the university and city of Oxford, the suburbs thereof, and the adjoining parish of Saint Clement, by the Oxford commissioners mentioned in the eighty-second section of the said Local Government Act, and acting as local board under its provisions: And whereas a petition has been duly presented to me, as one of Her Majesty's principal Secretaries of State, under the provisions of the seventy-seventh section of such Act, from the said commissioners acting as such board, praying that their district might be extended by including therein a certain detached portion of the parish of North Hincksey in the county of Berks as described in their petition.

And whereas, in pursuance of the said Local Government Act, inquiry has been directed and duly held in respect of the several matters mentioned in the said petition, and report has been made to me thereon by Robert Rawlinson, Esquire, the inspector appointed for the purpose.

And whereas it appears expedient to issue a Provisional Order in relation to the said matters, but no such Order can be valid without confirmation by Parliament.

Now, therefore, in pursuance of the powers vested in me by the said Local Government Act, I, as one of Her Majesty's principal Secretaries of State, do, by this Provisional Order under my hand, direct,—

That from and after the passing of any Act of Parliament confirming this Order,—

1. The district of Oxford aforesaid shall be extended by including within its boundaries all that detached portion of the parish of North Hincksey, in the county of Berks, which adjoins the liberty of Grandpont, in the parish of Saint Aldate in the said county, and is bounded by the Shirelake ditch, and including the same on the north, Grandpont, in the parish of Saint Aldate, on the east, the northern side of the towing-path adjoining the river Isis on the south (excluding such towing-path), and the river Isis on the south-west and west, including the said river, and which said portion of the parish of North Hincksey is shown on the map accompanying such petition, and is coloured yellow thereon.
2. The local board for the time being for the district of Oxford shall be the local board for the district as altered by this Order and the Act of Parliament confirming the same.

Given under my hand this twentieth day of May, in the year one thousand eight hundred and sixty-five.

G. GREY.

COWLEY (OXFORD DISTRICT).

Provisional Order for altering the Boundaries of the District of Oxford, under the Local Government Act, 1858.

Whereas the Local Government Act, 1858, has been duly adopted within the university and city of Oxford, the suburbs thereof, and the adjoining parish of Saint Clement, by the Oxford commissioners mentioned in the eighty-second section of the said Local Government Act, and acting as local board under its provisions: And whereas a petition has been duly presented to me, as one of Her Majesty's principal Secretaries of State, under the provisions of the seventy-seventh section of the Local Government Act, 1858, from owners and ratepayers of the parish of Cowley, comprising the townships of Church Cowley and Temple Cowley, partly in the city and borough of Oxford and partly in the county of Oxford, praying that the district of the said Oxford local board might be extended by including therein certain pieces or parcels of land in the said parish of Cowley as described in the said petition, and delineated on the map accompanying the same, the boundary thereof being coloured brown thereon.

And whereas, in pursuance of the said Local Government Act, inquiry has been directed and duly held in respect of the several matters mentioned in the said petition, and report has been made to me thereon by Robert Rawlinson, Esquire, the inspector appointed for the purpose.

And whereas it appears expedient to issue a Provisional Order in relation to the said matters, but no such Order can be valid without confirmation by Parliament.

Now, therefore, in pursuance of the powers vested in me by the said Local Government Act, I, as one of Her Majesty's principal Secretaries of State, do, by this Provisional Order under my hand, direct,—

That from and after the passing of any Act of Parliament confirming this Order,—

1. The district of Oxford aforesaid shall be extended by including within its boundaries the two meadows numbered 1 and 2 on the map annexed to the award dated the twenty-eighth day of June, one thousand eight hundred and fifty-three of the valuer acting in the inclosure of the open fields of Cowley, the Marsh, Bullingdon Green, and Elder Stubbs, situate in the parishes of Cowley, Iffley, and Saint Clement, in the county of Oxford, and which lie on the west side of Magdalen Bridge and between the branches of the river Cherwell there; and also all and so much of the said parish of Cowley, including Church Cowley and Temple Cowley, as lies between and is bounded on the north, north-west, and west by the river Cherwell and the stream leading out of the same to the private road bounding the allotment numbered 3 on the said award, and bounded on the south by the said private road and on the east by the Henley Mileway; and also so much of the parish of Cowley as lies between and is bounded by the Henley Mileway on the west, the Cowley Mileway on the east and north-east, and the road called Magdalen Road on the south or south-east; also the allotment numbered 40 on the said award, lying on the south side of the said Magdalen Road; also so much of the parish of Cowley as lies north or north-west of the Divinity Footway, and east or north-east of the Cowley Mileway; also that part of the said Henley Mileway which extends from the Saint Clement's Turnpike to the first part of the same Mileway marked as belonging to Iffley, and tinted yellow on the map annexed to the said award; also the whole of the Magdalen Road and so much of the Cowley Mileway as extends from the Divinity Footway to Saint Clement's Turnpike, and is not in the parish of Saint Clement; and also all other such parts, if any, of the parish of Cowley as are not hereinbefore described and are in the borough of Oxford.

Schedule.

2. The local board for the time being for the district of Oxford shall be the local board for the district as altered by this Order and the Act of Parliament confirming the same.

Given under my hand this twentieth day of May, in the year one thousand eight hundred and sixty-five.

QUARANTINE ACT, 1825.

6 GEO. IV, c. 78 (¹).

An Act to repeal the several Laws relating to the Performance of Quarantine, and to make other Provisions in lieu thereof.

[27th June, 1825.]

Secs. 1, 2.

Whereas it is expedient to repeal the several laws relating to the performance of quarantine, and to make other provisions in lieu thereof (²).

What vessels shall be liable to quarantine.

2. And be it enacted, that from and after the first day of June one thousand eight hundred and twenty-five, all vessels, as well His Majesty's ships of war as others, coming from or having touched at any place from whence His Majesty, his heirs or successors, by and with the advice of his or their Privy Council, shall have adjudged and declared it probable that the plague or other infectious disease or distemper highly dangerous to the health of His Majesty's subjects may be brought, and all vessels and boats receiving any person, goods, wares, and merchandise, packets, packages, baggage, wearing apparel, books, letters, or any other article whatsoever, from or out of any vessel so coming from or having touched at such infected place as aforesaid, whether such persons, goods, wares, and merchandise, packets, packages, baggage, wearing apparel, books, letters, or other articles, shall have come or been brought in such vessels, or such persons shall have gone, or articles have been put on board the same, either before or after the arrival of such vessels at any port or place in the United Kingdom, or the islands of Guernsey, Jersey, Alderney, Sark, or Man, and whether such vessels were or were not bound to any port or place in the United Kingdom, or the islands aforesaid, and all persons, goods, wares, and merchandise, packets, packages, baggage, wearing apparel, books, letters, or any other article whatsoever on board of any vessels so coming from or having touched at such infected place as aforesaid, or on board of any such receiving vessels or boats as aforesaid, shall be and be considered to be liable to quarantine within the meaning of this Act, and of any order or orders which shall be made by His Majesty, his heirs and successors, by and with the advice of his or their Privy Council, concerning quarantine and the prevention of infection, from the time of the departure of such vessels from such infected place as aforesaid, or from the time when such persons, goods, wares, merchandise, packets, packages, baggage, wearing apparel, books, letters, or other articles shall have been received on board respectively: and all such vessels and boats as aforesaid, and all persons (as well pilots as others), goods, wares, and merchandise, and all other articles as aforesaid, whether coming or brought in such vessels or boats from such infected place as aforesaid, or going or being put on board the same, either before or after the arrival of such vessels or boats at any port or place in the United Kingdom, or the islands aforesaid, and all persons, goods, wares and merchandise, and other articles as aforesaid, on board such receiving vessel or boat as aforesaid, shall, upon their arrival at any such port or place, be obliged to perform quarantine in such place or places, for such time, and in such manner as shall from time to time be directed by His Majesty, his heirs or successors, by his or their order or orders in council, notified by proclamation, or published in the London Gazette; and that until such vessels and boats, persons, goods, wares, and merchandise, and other articles as aforesaid, shall have respectively performed, and shall be duly discharged from quarantine, no such person, goods, wares, or merchandise, or other articles as aforesaid, or any of them, shall, either before or after the arrival of such vessels or boats at any port or place in the United Kingdom, or the islands aforesaid, come or be brought on shore, or go and be put on board any other vessel or boat, in order to come or be brought on shore in any such port or place, although such vessels so coming from such infected place as aforesaid may not be bound to any port or place in the United Kingdom, or the islands aforesaid, unless in such manner and in such cases, and by such licence as shall be directed or permitted by such order or orders made by His Majesty, his heirs or successors, in council, as aforesaid; and all such vessels and boats, whether coming from such infected place as aforesaid, or being otherwise liable to quarantine as aforesaid, and all persons (as well pilots as others), goods, wares, and merchandise, and other articles as aforesaid, whether coming or brought in such vessels or boats, or going or being put on board the same, either before or after the arrival of such vessels or boats at any port or place in the United Kingdom, or the islands aforesaid, and although such vessels or boats shall not be bound to any port or place in the United Kingdom, or the islands aforesaid; and all commanders, masters, or other persons, having the charge or command of any such vessels or boats, whether coming from any infected place, or being otherwise liable to quarantine as aforesaid, shall be subject to all provisions, rules, regulations, and restrictions contained in this Act, or in any order or orders which shall be made by His Majesty, his heirs and successors, in council, as aforesaid, concerning quarantine and the prevention of infection, and to all the pains, penalties, forfeitures, and punishments contained in this Act, for any breach or disobedience thereof, or of any order or orders of His Majesty in council made under the authority thereof.

3. And be it further enacted, that it shall and may be lawful for His Majesty, his heirs and successors, by his or their order in council, or for the lords or others of his or their Privy Council, or any two or more of them, by their order from time to time, as often as they may see reason to apprehend that the yellow fever or other highly infectious distemper prevails on the continent of America, or in the West Indies, to require that every vessel coming from or having touched at any port or place on the continent of America or in the West Indies, shall come to an anchor at certain places to be appointed from time to time by the commissioners of His Majesty's customs (who are hereby authorised to make such appointment), for the purpose of having the state of health of the crew of such vessel ascertained before such vessel shall be permitted to enter the port whereto she shall be bound, or any other port of the United Kingdom; but that such vessel shall not be deemed liable to quarantine unless it shall be afterwards specially ordered under that restraint.

5. And whereas certain sorts of goods and merchandise are more especially liable to retain infection, and may be brought from places infected into other countries, and from thence imported into the United Kingdom, or the islands aforesaid: Be it enacted, that all such goods and merchandise as shall be particularly specified for that purpose in any order or orders made by His Majesty, his heirs or successors, in council, concerning quarantine and the prevention of infection as aforesaid, which shall be brought or imported into any port or place in the United Kingdom, or the islands aforesaid, from any foreign country or place, in any vessel whatever, and the vessels in which the same shall be brought, and also all vessels which shall arrive from any port or place whatever, under any alarming or suspicious circumstances as to infection, shall be subject and liable to such regulations and restrictions as shall be made by such order or orders of His Majesty, his heirs or successors, in council as aforesaid, respecting the same.

6. And be it further enacted, that it shall and may be lawful for the lords and others of His Majesty's Privy Council, or any two or more of them, to make such order as they shall see necessary and expedient upon any unforeseen emergency, or in any particular case or cases, with respect to any vessel arriving and having any infectious disease or distemper on board, or on board of which any infectious disease or distemper may have appeared in the course of the voyage, or arriving under any other alarming or suspicious circumstances as to infection, although such vessels shall not have come from any place from which His Majesty, his heirs or successors, by and with the advice of his Privy Council, may have adjudged and declared it probable that the plague or any such infectious disease or distemper may be brought, and also with respect to the persons, goods, wares, and merchandise, and other articles as aforesaid on board the same; and in case of any infectious disease or distemper appearing or breaking out in the United Kingdom, or the islands aforesaid, to make such orders and give such direction, in order to cut off all communication between any persons infected with any such disease or distemper, and the rest of His Majesty's subjects, as shall appear to the said lords or others of His Majesty's Privy Council, or any two or more of them, to be necessary and expedient for that purpose, and likewise to make such orders as they shall see fit, for shortening the time of quarantine to be performed by particular vessels or particular persons, goods, wares, merchandise, or any other articles, or for absolutely or conditionally releasing them or any of them from quarantine; and all such orders so made by the lords or others of the Privy Council, or any two or more of them as aforesaid, shall be as good, valid, and effectual, to all intents and purposes, as well with respect to the commander, master, or other person having the charge of any vessel, and all other persons on board the same, as with respect to any other persons having any intercourse or communication with them, and to the penalties, forfeitures, and punishments to which they may respectively become liable, as any order or orders made by His Majesty, his heirs or successors, by and with the advice of his or their Privy Council, concerning quarantine, notified by proclamation or published in the London Gazette.

7. And be it further enacted, that if the plague, or such other infectious disease or distemper as aforesaid, shall appear on board any vessel within or without the Straights of Gibraltar, then the commander, master, or other person having the charge or command thereof, shall immediately proceed to such place as His Majesty, his heirs or successors, by and with the advice of his or their Privy Council, shall from time to time direct and appoint; where being arrived, he shall make known his case to some officer of the customs there, who shall with all possible speed send

Secs. 2—7.

Power for Privy Council to order vessels coming from America or the West Indies, when the yellow fever, &c., prevails there, to go to certain places without being liable to quarantine.

Goods and vessels specified in any Order of Council subject to quarantine, as also all vessels arriving from any port under suspicious circumstances as to infection.

The Privy Council may make such order as they shall think necessary upon emergencies.

Regulations for vessels in which infection shall appear within or without the Straights of Gibraltar.

Secs. 7—9. intelligence thereof to the commissioners of the customs in the port of London ⁽¹⁾, to the end that such precautions may be used to prevent the spreading of the infection, as the case shall require; and the said vessel shall there remain until directions shall be given thereto by the lords or others of His Majesty's Privy Council, or any two or more of them; nor shall any of the crew or passengers on board thereof go on shore: and such master and every other person on board such vessel shall obey such directions as he shall receive from the lords and others of His Majesty's Privy Council, or any two or more of them as aforesaid; and the said commander, master, or any other person on board such vessel as aforesaid, who shall not act conformably to the provisions and regulations herein directed, or shall act in disobedience to such directions as shall be received on board such vessel from the lords or others of the Privy Council, or any two or more of them as aforesaid, shall forfeit the sum of one hundred pounds ⁽²⁾.

Masters of vessels liable to quarantine to make signals on meeting other vessels at sea, or being within two leagues of the United Kingdom, or Guernsey, &c., on penalty of £100.

8. And be it further enacted, that every commander, master, or other person having the charge of any vessel liable to the performance of quarantine, shall be and is hereby required, at all times, when such vessel shall meet with any other vessel at sea, or shall be within two leagues of the coast of the United Kingdom, or the islands of Guernsey, Jersey, Alderney, Sark, or Man, to hoist a signal to denote that his vessel is liable to the performance of quarantine, which signal shall in the day-time, if the said vessel shall have a clean bill of health, a large yellow flag, of six breadths of bunting, at the maintop mast-head, and if such vessel shall not have a clean bill of health, then a like yellow flag, with a circular mark or ball, entirely black in the middle thereof, whose diameter shall be equal to two breadths of bunting; and in the night-time the signal shall in both cases be a large signal lantern with a light therein (such as is commonly used on board His Majesty's ships of war), at the same mast-head; and such commander, master, or other person shall keep such signals respectively, as the case shall be, hoisted during such time as the said vessel shall continue within sight of such other vessel, or within two leagues of the said coasts or islands, and while so in sight, or within such distance, until such vessel so liable to quarantine as aforesaid shall have arrived at the port or place where it is to perform quarantine, and until it shall have been legally discharged from the performance thereof; on failure whereof such commander, master, or other person having charge of such ship or vessel so liable to the performance of quarantine shall forfeit and pay for every such offence the sum of one hundred pounds ⁽²⁾.

Masters of vessels to hoist certain signals when plague or infectious disease on board, on penalty of £100.

9. And be it further enacted, that every commander, master, or other person having the charge of any vessel on board whereof the plague or other infectious disease or distemper highly dangerous to the health of His Majesty's subjects shall actually be, shall be and is hereby required at all times when such vessel shall meet with any other vessel at sea, or shall be within two leagues of the coast of the United Kingdom, or the islands of Guernsey, Jersey, Alderney, Sark, or Man, to hoist a signal to denote that his vessel has the plague or other infectious disease or distemper highly dangerous to the health of His Majesty's subjects actually on board thereof, which signal shall be in the day-time a flag of yellow and black, borne quarterly, of eight breadths of bunting, at the maintop mast-head; and in the night-time, the signal shall be two large signal lanterns, such as are commonly used on board of His Majesty's ships of war, one over the other, at the same mast-head; and such commander, master, or other person shall keep such signal hoisted during such time as the said vessel so having the plague or such other infectious disease or distemper as aforesaid on board thereof, shall continue within sight of such other vessel, or within two leagues of the coasts or islands aforesaid, while so in sight or within such distance, until such vessel so having the plague or such other infectious disease or distemper as aforesaid on board thereof, shall have arrived at the port or place where it is to perform quarantine, and until it shall have been legally discharged from the performance thereof; on failure thereof such commander, master, or other person having charge of such vessel shall forfeit and pay for every such offence the sum of one hundred pounds ⁽¹⁾.

Secs. 9—14.

10. And be it further enacted, that if any commander, master, or other person having the charge or command of any vessel, and knowing that the same is not liable to the performance of quarantine, shall hoist such signal as aforesaid, or either of them, by day or night respectively, such commander or other person as aforesaid shall forfeit and pay the sum of fifty pounds ⁽¹⁾.

Penalty on persons hoisting signals when not liable, £50.

11. And be it further enacted, that from and after the first day of July one thousand eight hundred and twenty-five, as to all vessels arriving from any places beyond the Cape of Good Hope, or Cape Horn in South America, and after the first day of August one thousand eight hundred and twenty-five, as to all vessels arriving from any parts of Africa or America not beyond those Capes, and from the West Indies and Mediterranean, and from and after the first day of June one thousand eight hundred and twenty-five, as to all vessels arriving from any other places, every commander, master, or other person having the charge of any vessel coming from foreign parts, shall give to the pilot who shall go on board such vessel a written paper, containing a true account of the names of the place and country at which such vessel shall have loaded, and also of all the places at which any such vessel shall have touched on the homeward voyage, on pain of forfeiting the sum of one hundred pounds for any neglect or refusal to give such paper, or for any false representation or wilful omission therein; and if by any proclamation or order of His Majesty in council, made after the departure of any vessel from the United Kingdom and the said islands, and then in force, vessels coming from any places mentioned in any such paper shall be liable to the performance of quarantine, such pilot shall immediately give notice thereof to the commander or other person aforesaid, of such vessel, on pain of forfeiting the sum of one hundred pounds for any neglect therein; and such commander or other person shall thereupon hoist a proper signal, according to the provisions of this Act, and under the penalties in this Act contained for any neglect or refusal in respect of hoisting such signals.

Masters of vessels, on their arrival from foreign parts, to give to the pilots an account of the places at which they shall have loaded and touched, on penalty of £100.

Pilots to give notice of any proclamation or Order in Council requiring the performance of quarantine, on penalty of £100.

12. And be it further enacted, that every commander, master, or other person having the charge of any vessel coming from foreign parts, which shall not be liable to quarantine in respect of the place from whence such vessel comes, shall give to the pilot who shall go on board of such vessel a written paper, containing a true account of the different articles composing the cargo of such vessel, on pain of forfeiting the sum of fifty pounds for any neglect or refusal to give such paper, or for any false representation or wilful omission therein; and if by any proclamation or order of His Majesty in Council then in force, vessels having on board any of the articles mentioned in such paper shall be liable to the performance of quarantine, such pilot shall immediately give notice thereof to the commander or other person having the charge of such vessel, on pain of forfeiting one hundred pounds for any neglect therein, and such commander or other person shall thereupon hoist a signal, according to the provisions and under the respective penalties in this Act contained, for any neglect or refusal in respect of hoisting such signals; and in case any pilot shall bring or cause to be brought or conducted any vessel liable to the performance of quarantine, into any place which is not or shall not be specially appointed for the reception of vessels so liable, after receiving such paper as aforesaid, whereby it shall have been made appear that such vessel was liable to the performance of quarantine, or without requiring and receiving such paper as aforesaid, unless compelled thereto by stress of weather, adverse winds, or accidents of the sea, such pilot shall for every such offence forfeit and pay the sum of two hundred pounds ⁽²⁾.

Pilot to give notice if any articles be on board liable to quarantine on penalty of £100.

Penalty on pilots conducting vessels to any other place than that appointed for their reception, £200.

13. And be it further enacted, that if any pilot being on board, or any commander, master, or other person having the charge of any vessel coming from foreign parts, whether such vessel shall be liable to quarantine or not, shall be required by any officer of the customs, authorised to act in the service of quarantine, to bring to such vessel, to the end that the commander, master, or other person having the charge thereof may be interrogated, according to the provision of this Act, and shall neglect or refuse to bring to such vessel, as soon as it can be done with safety, in obedience to such requisition, every such pilot, commander, master, or other person having the charge of any such vessel shall for every such offence forfeit and pay the sum of one hundred pounds ⁽¹⁾.

Pilot to bring to at request of officer of customs, on penalty of £100

14. And to the end that it may be better known whether any vessel be actually infected with the plague or other infectious disease or distemper as aforesaid, or whether such vessel, or the vessels be actually infected, or the persons on board liable to orders touching quarantine.

Masters of vessels refusing to answer interrogatories, &c., to forfeit £200.

Vessels subject to quarantine arriving at any port than that at which it ought to be performed, may be forced to repair to the appointed place.

Masters of vessels that have touched at infected places, &c., omitting to disclose the same, or omitting to hoist the prescribed signal, to forfeit £300.

Commanders to deliver up bills of health, manifests, and log book, to the superintendent of quarantine, on penalty of £100.

Penalty on masters, &c., quitting vessels, or permitting persons to quit them, or not conveying same to the appointed places, £400.

mariners or passengers coming, or the cargo imported in the same, are liable to any orders touching quarantine, be it further enacted, that when any country or place shall be known or suspected to be infected with the plague or other infectious disease or distemper as aforesaid, or when any order or orders shall be made by His Majesty in council concerning quarantine and the prevention of infection as aforesaid, then and in such case, as often as any vessel shall attempt to enter into any port or place in the United Kingdom, or of the isles of Guernsey, Jersey, Alderney Sark, or Man, whether such port shall have been appointed for the performance of quarantine or not, the superintendent or assistant at such port or place, or if not, the principal officer of His Majesty's customs at such port or place, or such officer of the customs as shall be authorised to act in that behalf shall go off to such vessel, and shall, at a convenient distance from such vessel, demand of the commander, master, or other person having charge of such vessel, and such commander, master, or other person shall, upon such demand, give a true answer in writing or otherwise, and upon oath or not upon oath, according as he shall by such superintendent or his assistant, or other officer of the customs authorised as aforesaid, be required, to all such questions or interrogatories as shall be put to him by virtue and in pursuance of such regulations and directions as His Majesty by order in council shall be pleased to prescribe; and in case such commander or master or other person having charge of such vessel shall, upon such demand made as aforesaid, refuse to make a true discovery in any of the particulars concerning which he shall be interrogated in manner aforesaid, or in case he shall not be required to answer such questions or interrogatories upon oath, shall give a false answer to any such question or interrogatory as aforesaid, such commander, master, or other person having charge of such vessel for every such offence shall forfeit and pay the sum of two hundred pounds ⁽¹⁾.

15. And be it further enacted, that in case it shall appear upon such examination or otherwise, that such vessel is under such circumstances as shall render it liable to perform quarantine, and that the port or place where it so arrived, or at which it attempts to enter as aforesaid, is not the port or place where it ought to perform quarantine, in which case it shall and may be lawful to and for the officers of any of His Majesty's ships of war, or of any of His Majesty's forts or garrisons, and all other His Majesty's officers, upon notice thereof given to them, or any of them respectively, and to and for any other person or persons whom they shall call to their aid and assistance, and such officers and other persons are hereby required to oblige such vessel to go and repair to such place as hath been or shall be appointed for performance of quarantine, and to use all necessary means for that purpose, either by firing of guns upon such vessel, or by any other kind of necessary force whatsoever; and in case any such vessel shall come from, or shall have touched at any place infected by the plague or such other infectious disease or distemper as aforesaid, or shall have any person on board actually infected with the plague or other such infectious disease or distemper as aforesaid, and the commander, master, or other person having charge of such vessel, knowing that the place from whence he came, or at which he had touched as aforesaid, was infected with the plague or such other infectious disease or distemper, or knowing some person on board to be actually infected with the plague or such other infectious disease or distemper as aforesaid, shall refuse or omit to disclose the same upon such examination as aforesaid, or shall wilfully omit to hoist the signal hereinbefore directed, to denote that his vessel is liable to the performance of quarantine, at the times and on the occasions herein directed with respect to the same, such commander, master, or other person having charge of such vessel shall forfeit the sum of three hundred pounds ⁽¹⁾.

16. And be it further enacted, that every commander, master, or other person having charge of any vessel which shall be ordered to perform quarantine as aforesaid, shall forthwith, after his arrival at the place appointed for the performance of quarantine, deliver on demand to the superintendent of quarantine or his assistant, or other officer of the customs, authorised to act in that behalf, and which superintendent, assistant, or other officer as aforesaid is hereby required to make such demand, his bill of health and manifest together with his log book and journal, under pain of forfeiting the sum of one hundred pounds if he shall wilfully refuse or neglect so to do.

17. And be it further enacted, that if any commander, master, or other person having charge of any vessel liable to perform quarantine, and on board of which the plague or other infectious disease or distemper shall not then have appeared, shall himself quit, or shall knowingly permit or suffer any seaman or passenger coming in such vessel to quit such vessel by going on shore, or by going on board any other vessel or boat, before such quarantine shall be fully performed, unless by such licence as shall be granted by virtue of any order in council to be made concerning quarantine as aforesaid, or in case any commander or other person having charge of such vessel shall not, within a convenient time after due notice given for that purpose, cause such vessel and the lading thereof to be conveyed into the place or places appointed for such vessel and lading to perform quarantine; then and in every such case every such commander, master, or other person as aforesaid, for every such offence shall forfeit and pay the sum of four hundred pounds; and if any such person coming in any such vessel liable to quarantine (or any pilot or other person going on board the same, either before or after the arrival of such vessel at any port or place in the United Kingdom, or the islands aforesaid), shall, either before or after such arrival, quit such vessel, unless by such licence as aforesaid, by going on shore in any port or place in the United Kingdom, or the islands aforesaid, or by going on board any other vessel or boat, with intent to go on shore as aforesaid, before such vessel so liable to quarantine as aforesaid shall be regularly discharged from the performance thereof, it shall and may be lawful for any person whatsoever, by any kind of necessary force, to compel such pilot or other person so quitting such vessel so liable to quarantine to return on board the same; and every such pilot or other person so quitting such vessel so liable to quarantine shall for every such offence suffer imprisonment for the space of six months, and shall forfeit and pay the sum of three hundred pounds⁽¹⁾.

18. And whereas disobedience or refractory behaviour in persons under quarantine or liable to the performance of quarantine, or in other persons who may have had any intercourse or communication with them, may be attended with very great danger to His Majesty's subjects: Be it further enacted, that all persons liable to perform quarantine, and all persons having had any intercourse or communication with them, whether in vessels or in a lazaret or elsewhere, shall be subject, during the said quarantine, or during the time they shall be liable to quarantine, to such orders as they shall receive from the superintendent of quarantine, or his assistant, or from the principal officer of the customs at any port or place where there is no such superintendent or assistant, or from any other officer of the customs authorised to act in that behalf, and the said officers are hereby empowered and required to enforce all necessary obedience to the said orders, and in case of necessity to call in others to their assistance, and all persons so called in are hereby required to assist accordingly; and such officers shall and they are hereby empowered and required to compel all persons liable to perform quarantine as aforesaid, and persons having had any intercourse or communication with them, to repair to such lazaret, vessel, or place, and to cause all goods, wares, and merchandise, and other articles comprised within any such orders to be made as last aforesaid, to be conveyed to such lazaret, vessel, or place duly appointed in that behalf, in such manner and according to such directions as shall be made by order of His Majesty in council as aforesaid, or of the lords or others of the Privy Council, or of any two or more of them; and if any person or persons liable to perform quarantine as aforesaid, or any person or persons having had any intercourse or communication with him, her, or them, shall wilfully refuse or neglect to repair forthwith, when required and directed so to do by such officers as aforesaid to the said lazaret, vessel, or place duly appointed in that behalf, or having been placed in the said lazaret, vessel, or place, shall escape or attempt to escape out of the same before quarantine duly performed, it shall and may be lawful to and for the said quarantine officers, and also the watchmen and other persons appointed to see quarantine performed, and each of them, and they are hereby respectively required, by such necessary force as the case shall require, to compel every such person so refusing or neglecting as aforesaid, and every such person so escaping or attempting to escape as aforesaid, to repair or return to such lazaret, vessel, or place so appointed as aforesaid; and every person so refusing or neglecting to repair forthwith as aforesaid to the said lazaret, vessel, or place, and also every person actually escaping as aforesaid, shall forfeit the penalty of two hundred pounds⁽¹⁾.

19. And be it further enacted, that it shall be lawful for any constable, headborough, tithingman, or other peace officer, or any other person, to seize and apprehend any person that shall, contrary to the provisions of this Act, have quitted or come on shore from any vessel liable to perform quarantine, or who shall have escaped from or quitted any vessel under quarantine, or from any lazaret, vessel, or place appointed in that behalf, for the purpose of carrying such person before any justice of the peace or magistrate; and it shall be lawful for any such justice of the peace or magistrate to grant his warrant for the apprehending and conveying of any such person to the vessel from which he or she shall have come on shore, or to any vessel performing quarantine, or lazaret, from which he or she shall have escaped, or for the confining of any such person in any such place of safe custody (not being a public gaol), and under such restrictions as to having any communication with any other persons, as may in the discretion of any justice of the peace or magistrate (calling to his aid, if he shall see fit, any medical person) appear to be proper, until such person can be safely and securely conveyed to some place appointed for the

Secs. 17-19.

Penalty on persons coming in such vessels, or going on board, and quitting them before discharged from quarantine, to suffer imprisonment for six months, and forfeit £300.

For punishing disobedience or refractory behaviour in persons under or liable to quarantine, or persons having intercourse with them.

Persons refusing to repair to the lazaret or vessel to forfeit £200.

Persons quitting vessels liable to perform quarantine, &c., may be seized.

(1) See note (2), ante, p. 1423.

Secs. 19–23. performance of quarantine, or until directions can be obtained from the Privy Council as to the disposal of any such person, and to make any further order, or grant any further warrant that may be necessary in that behalf.

Intercourse with stations allotted for quarantine of vessels, may be prohibited by Order in Council.

Penalty on persons embezzling goods performing quarantine, neglecting or deserting their duty, or permitting persons, vessels, &c., to depart without authority, or giving false certificates or damaging goods.

Vessels from the Mediterranean, Turkey, or Africa, having undergone examination and released from quarantine, to be admitted to entry upon producing a certificate of such examination. After proof of performance of quarantine, and proper certificate to that effect, vessels or persons shall not be liable to further detention.

20. And whereas it may be necessary for the public security to prevent all communication whatever with vessels performing quarantine: Be it therefore further enacted, that it shall and may be lawful to and for His Majesty, his heirs or successors, by his or their order or orders in council, notified by proclamation or published in the London Gazette, to prohibit all persons, vessels, and boats whatsoever, from going, under any pretence whatsoever, within the limits of any station which by any order or orders in council as aforesaid has been or may be assigned for the performance of quarantine; and if any person whatsoever, after such notification or publication of any such order or orders in council, shall presume, under any pretence whatsoever, to go with any vessel or boat within the limits of any such station, he or she shall for every such offence forfeit and pay the sum of two hundred pounds ⁽¹⁾.

21. And be it further enacted, that if any officer of His Majesty's customs, or any other officer or person whatsoever, to whom it doth or shall appertain to execute any order or orders made or to be made concerning quarantine, or the prevention of infection, and notified as aforesaid, or to see the same put in execution, shall knowingly and wilfully embezzle any goods or articles performing quarantine, or be guilty of any other breach or neglect of his duty in respect of the vessels, persons, goods, or articles performing quarantine, every such officer or person so offending shall forfeit such office or employment as he may be possessed of, and shall become from thence incapable to hold or enjoy the same, or to take a new grant thereof; and every such officer and person shall forfeit and pay the sum of two hundred pounds; and if any such officer or person shall desert from his duty when employed as aforesaid, or shall knowingly and willingly permit any person, vessel, goods, or merchandise to depart or be conveyed out of the said lazaret, vessel, or other place as aforesaid, unless by permission under an order of His Majesty, by and with the advice of his Privy Council, or under an order of two or more of the lords or others of his Privy Council; or if any person hereby authorised and directed to give a certificate of a vessel having duly performed quarantine or airing, shall knowingly give a false certificate thereof, every such person so offending shall be guilty of felony; and if any such officer or person shall knowingly or wilfully damage any goods performing quarantine under his direction, he shall be liable to pay one hundred pounds damages and full costs of suit to the owner of the same.

22. And be it further enacted, that if any vessel arriving from the Mediterranean, or from any port in Turkey or Africa, shall have undergone examination by the proper officer of quarantine, and upon a report of such examination being made to the lords or others of His Majesty's Privy Council, their lordships shall think proper to direct the release of such vessel from the performance of quarantine, it shall be lawful for such officer and he is hereby required to grant to the master or person having the charge or command of such vessel, a certificate in writing of such examination and release, and upon the production of such certificate to the collector or principal officer of His Majesty's customs, at any port in the United Kingdom, such vessel shall be admitted to entry without being liable to any further restraint.

23. And be it further enacted, that after quarantine shall have been duly performed by any vessel, person or persons, obliged to perform quarantine as aforesaid, according to this Act, and to such order or orders made as aforesaid, and upon proof to be made by the oaths of the master or other person having charge of such vessel, and of three or more of the persons belonging thereto, or upon proof to be made by the oaths of two or more credible witnesses, before the collector or principal officer of the customs at the port where such quarantine shall be performed, or at the port nearest thereto, or before the superintendent of quarantine, or his assistant at the quarantine station, or before any justice of the peace living near to the port or place, or when such quarantine shall have been performed within any of the said isles of Guernsey, Jersey, Alderney, Sark, or Man, before any two jurats or magistrates of any of the said isles respectively, that such vessel, and all and every such person and persons respectively, have duly performed quarantine as aforesaid, and that the vessel and all and every person and persons are free from infection, and after producing a certificate to that purpose, signed by the chief officer who superintended the quarantine of the said vessel, or person acting for him, then and in the said respective cases such collector or principal officer of the customs, or the superintendent of quarantine, or his assistant, or such justice of the peace, or such jurats or magistrates as aforesaid, respectively, are hereby required to give a certificate thereof, and thereupon such vessel, and all and every such person or persons so having performed quarantine, shall be liable to no further restraint or detention upon the same account, for which such vessel, person or persons, shall have performed quarantine as aforesaid.

(1) See note (2), ante, p. 1428.

24. And be it further enacted, that all goods, wares, and merchandise, and other articles liable to quarantine as aforesaid, shall be opened and aired in such place or places, and for such time and in such manner as shall be directed by His Majesty, his heirs and successors, by such order or orders to be made as aforesaid, and after such orders shall have been duly complied with, proof thereof shall be made by the oaths of the master of the lazaret or vessel in which the goods, wares, and merchandise and all other articles shall have been opened and aired, and of one of the guardians, or if there be no guardians, then one of the officers authorised by the commissioners of customs to act in the service of quarantine in such lazaret or vessel, or if there be no such officer, then by the oaths of two or more credible witnesses serving in the said lazaret or vessel, before the superintendent of quarantine or his assistant, in case such opening and airing shall be had at a port or place where such superintendent or assistant shall be established, or otherwise before the principal officer of the customs authorised to act in the service of quarantine at such port or place, which oath such superintendent, assistant, or principal officer is hereby authorised to administer; and such superintendent, assistant, or principal officer, as the case may be, shall grant a certificate of such proof having been made, and upon production of such certificate to the proper officer of the customs, such goods, wares, and merchandise, and other articles, shall be liable to no further restraint or detention, either at the port or place where such quarantine shall have been performed, or at any other place whereto they be afterwards conveyed.

Secs. 24-27.
Goods liable to perform quarantine shall be opened and aired, as directed by Order in Council, and proof thereof to be made, &c.

25. And be it further enacted, that if any person shall knowingly or wilfully forge or counterfeit, interline, erase, or alter, or procure to be forged or counterfeited, interlined, erased, or altered, any certificate directed or required to be granted by any order of His Majesty, his heirs or successors in council, now in force or hereafter to be made touching quarantine, or shall publish any such forged or counterfeited, interlined, erased, or altered certificate, knowing the same to be forged or counterfeited, interlined, erased, or altered, or shall knowingly and wilfully utter and publish any such certificate with intent to obtain the effect of a true certificate to be given thereto, knowing the contents of such certificate to be false, he or she shall be guilty of felony.

Persons forging or uttering false certificates required by Order in Council, guilty of felony.

26. And be it further enacted, that if any person shall land or unship, or shall move in order to the landing or unshipping thereof, any goods, wares, or merchandise, packets, packages, baggage, wearing apparel, books, letters, or other articles from on board any vessel liable to perform quarantine as aforesaid, or shall knowingly receive the same after they have been so landed or unshipped, every such person shall forfeit and pay the sum of five hundred pounds; and if any person or persons shall clandestinely convey or secrete, or conceal for the purpose of conveying any letters, goods, wares, or merchandise or other articles as aforesaid, from any vessel actually performing quarantine, or from the lazaret or other place where such goods, wares, merchandise, or other articles as aforesaid shall be performing quarantine, every such person so offending as last aforesaid shall forfeit the sum of one hundred pounds⁽¹⁾.

Penalty on persons landing goods, &c., from vessels liable to perform quarantine, or receiving them, or secreting them from vessels performing quarantine, £100.

27. And be it further enacted, that in case it shall at any time happen that any part of the United Kingdom, or the islands of Guernsey, Jersey, Alderney, Sark, or Man, or France, Spain, or Portugal, or the Low Countries, shall be infected with the plague, or any other infectious disease or distemper as aforesaid, it shall and may be lawful to and for His Majesty, his heirs and successors, by his or their proclamation, to prohibit or restrain all vessels and boats under the burthen of one hundred tons from sailing or passing out of any port or place of the United Kingdom, or the isles of Guernsey, Jersey, Alderney, Sark, or Man, or any of them, until security be first given by the master of every such vessel or boat respectively, to the satisfaction of the principal officers of the customs, or the chief magistrate of the port or place from whence such vessel or boat shall sail, by bond taken by such officer or magistrate, to the King, his heirs or successors, with sufficient sureties in the penalty of two hundred pounds, with condition, that if such vessel or boat shall not go to or touch at any country, port, or place to be mentioned for that purpose in such proclamation, and if neither the master or other person having charge of such vessel or boat, nor any mariner or passenger in such vessel or boat, shall, during the time aforesaid, go on board any other vessel at sea, and such master or other person having charge of such vessel or boat shall not permit or suffer any person or persons to come on board such vessel or boat at sea from any other vessel, and shall not during the time aforesaid receive any goods or merchandise whatsoever out of any other vessel, then such bond shall be void; for the making of which bond no fee or reward whatsoever shall be taken; and in case any vessel or boat for which such security shall be required by such proclamation shall set sail or pass out of any port or place of the United Kingdom, or the islands of Guernsey, Jersey, Alderney, Sark, or Man, or any of them respectively, before security be given as aforesaid, every such vessel or boat so sailing or passing out of any port or place contrary to the true intent and meaning of this Act,

His Majesty in certain cases may prohibit vessels under 100 tons from sailing until bond be given by the master with certain conditions.

Penalty for sailing without giving such security, forfeiture of vessel, &c.

(1) See note (2), ante, p. 1423.

Secs. 27-34. together with her tackle, apparel, and furniture, shall be forfeited to His Majesty, his heirs and successors, and the master of and every mariner sailing in such vessel or boat shall severally forfeit and pay the sum of two hundred pounds ⁽¹⁾.

Power to consuls, &c., to administer oaths.

28. And be it further enacted, that the consuls and vice-consuls of His Majesty, his heirs and successors, shall and are hereby empowered to administer oaths in all cases respecting quarantine, in like manner as if they were magistrates of the several towns or places where they respectively reside.

Persons authorised to take examinations may administer oaths, and persons swearing falsely or procuring others so to do shall be deemed guilty of perjury.

29. And be it further enacted, that in all cases wherein by virtue of this Act, or any other Act hereafter to be made touching quarantine, any examination or answer shall be taken or made upon oath, the person who shall be authorised and required to take such examinations and answers shall and may be deemed to have full power and authority to administer such oaths; and if any person who shall be interrogated or examined shall wilfully swear falsely to any matter concerning which such person shall depose or make oath on such examination, or in such answer, or if any person shall procure any other person so to do, he or she so swearing falsely, or procuring any other person so to do, shall be deemed to have been guilty of and shall be liable to be prosecuted for perjury or subornation of perjury, as the case may be, and shall suffer the pains, penalties, and punishments of the law in such case respectively made and provided.

Superintendents at ports to be appointed.

30. And be it further enacted, that all superintendents of quarantine at the several ports, and their assistants, shall and may be appointed by any instrument signed by the Commissioners of Customs for the time being; and everything required to be done and performed by the superintendent of quarantine, or his assistant, may, in case of the absence or sickness of such superintendent or assistant, be done and performed by such principal officer of the customs as shall be authorised to act in that behalf.

Principal officer of the customs to act as superintendent of quarantine in case of absence, &c.
Publication in the London Gazette of Orders of Council, &c., sufficient notice.

31. And be it further enacted, that the publication in the London Gazette of any order in council, or of any order by any two or more of the lords or others of His Majesty's Privy Council, made in pursuance of this Act, or His Majesty's royal proclamation made in pursuance of the same, shall be deemed and taken to be sufficient notice to all persons concerned of all matters therein respectively contained.

Recovery and application of penalties.

32. And be it further enacted, that all forfeitures and penalties that shall be incurred by reason of any offence committed against this Act shall and may be recovered by suit in any of His Majesty's Courts of Record in England or Ireland, in which no essoign or wager of law, or more than one imparlance, shall be granted, or in Scotland by summary action in the Court of Session, or by prosecution before the Court of Justiciary there, or by suit in any of His Majesty's Courts in the islands of Guernsey, Jersey, Alderney, Sark, or Man; and every such forfeiture and penalty shall belong and be given, two thirds to the person who shall inform and sue for the same, and the remainder to His Majesty, his heirs and successors ⁽²⁾.

In whose name actions for penalties in England, Ireland, or Scotland must be prosecuted.

33. Provided always, and be it further enacted, that it shall not be lawful for any person or persons whatsoever to commence, prosecute, enter, or file, or cause or procure to be commenced, prosecuted, entered, or filed, any action, bill, plaint, information, or prosecution, or actions, bills, plaints, informations, or prosecutions, in any of His Majesty's Courts in England, Ireland, or Scotland, or any proceeding or proceedings before any justice of the peace of any county, riding, division, city, town, stewardry, or place for the recovery of any fine, penalty, or forfeiture, fines, penalties, or forfeitures, incurred by reason of any offence committed against this Act, or against any order or orders made by His Majesty, his heirs or successors, in Council, by two or more of the lords or others of Her Majesty's Privy Council as aforesaid, unless the same be commenced, prosecuted, entered, or filed in the names of His Majesty's Attorney-General in England or Ireland, or Advocate in Scotland respectively, or under the direction of the Commissioners of the Customs, and in the name or names of some officer or officers of the Customs in England, Ireland, or Scotland respectively; and if any action, bill, plaint, information, or prosecution, actions, bills, plaints, informations, or prosecutions, or any proceeding or proceedings before any justice as aforesaid, shall be commenced, prosecuted, entered, and filed in the name or names of any other person or persons than is in that behalf before mentioned, the same shall be and are hereby declared to be null and void.

In prosecutions by officers of the customs the Attorney-General in England or Ireland, or Advocate in

34. Provided also, and be it further enacted, that in case any prosecution, suit, complaint, or other proceeding as aforesaid, shall be commenced or depending by any officer or officers of the customs, for the recovery of any fine, penalty, or forfeiture, fines, penalties, or forfeitures, incurred by reason of any offence committed against this Act, or against any order or orders made by His Majesty, his heirs or successors, in council, or by any two or more of the lords or others of His Majesty's Privy Council as aforesaid, it shall and may be lawful for His Majesty's

Attorney-General in England or Ireland, or Advocate in Scotland, respectively, to stop all further proceedings therein, as well with respect to the share of such fine, penalty, or forfeiture, fines, penalties, or forfeitures, to which any such officer or officers shall or may claim to be entitled, as to the share thereof belonging to His Majesty, if upon consideration of the circumstances under which any such fine, penalty, or forfeiture, fines, penalties, or forfeitures may be incurred, it shall appear to them respectively to be fit and proper so to do.

Secs. 34-37.

Scotland, may stop proceedings.

35. And be it further enacted, that all offences committed against any of the provisions of this Act, for which no specific penalty, forfeiture, or punishment is provided by this Act, shall and may be tried, heard, and determined before any three justices of the peace of the county, riding, division, city, or place where such offence or disobedience shall happen; and if any person shall be convicted of any such offence or disobedience, he or she shall be liable to such forfeiture and penalty not exceeding the sum of five hundred pounds for any offence, or to such imprisonment, not exceeding twelve months for any one offence, as shall in the discretion of the three justices who shall have heard and determined the same be judged proper; and such forfeiture and penalty shall be paid, two-thirds to the person suing for the same and the remainder to His Majesty, to be applied as the proceeds of other forfeitures and penalties are hereinbefore directed to be applied.

Offences not being felony, and offences for which no specific penalty is provided, may be determined before three justices, who may fine or imprison. Application of penalties.

36. And be it further enacted, that in any prosecution, suit, or other proceedings against any person or persons whatsoever, for any offence against this Act, or any Act which may hereafter be passed concerning quarantine, or for any breach or disobedience of any order or orders which shall be made by His Majesty, his heirs or successors, with the advice of his Privy Council, concerning quarantine and the prevention of infection, and notified or published as aforesaid, or of any order or orders made by two or more of the lords or others of the Privy Council aforesaid, the answer or answers of the commander, master, or other person having charge of any vessel, to any question or interrogatories put to him by virtue and in pursuance of this Act, or of any Act which may hereafter be passed concerning quarantine, or of any such order or orders as aforesaid, may and shall be given and received as evidence, so far as the same relates or relate to the place from which such vessel shall come, or to the place or places at which such vessel touched in the course of the voyage, and where any vessel shall have been directed to perform quarantine by the superintendent of quarantine or his assistant, or where there is no such superintendent or assistant, by the principal officer of the customs at any port or place, or other officer of the customs authorised to act in that behalf, they having been so directed to perform quarantine, may and shall be given and received as evidence that such vessel was liable to quarantine, unless satisfactory proof shall be produced by the defendant in any such prosecution, suit, or other proceeding to show that the vessel did not come from or touch at any such place or places as is or are stated in the said answer or answers, or that such vessel, although directed to perform quarantine, was not liable to the performance thereof; and where any such vessel shall have in fact been put under quarantine at any port or place by the superintendent of quarantine or his assistant, or other officer of the customs authorised as aforesaid to act in that behalf and shall actually be performing the same, such vessel shall in any prosecution, suit, or other proceeding against any person or persons whatever, for any offence against this Act or any other Act which may hereafter be passed concerning quarantine and the prevention of infection, or any order or orders which shall be made by His Majesty in council, or any two or more of the lords or others of His Privy Council as aforesaid, be deemed and taken to be liable to quarantine, without proving in what manner or from what circumstance such vessel became liable to the performance thereof.

Answers of persons having the charge of vessels shall be received as evidence so far as relates to the places from which vessels came, or at which they touched, and the having been directed to perform quarantine shall be received as evidence that vessels were liable, unless proof be made to the contrary, and the performing quarantine shall be proof of vessels being liable to perform it.

37. And be it further enacted, that if any action or suit shall be commenced against any person or persons for anything done in pursuance or execution of this present Act, or of any order of council made by virtue thereof, the defendant or defendants in such action or suit may plead the general issue, and give this Act and the special matter in evidence at any trial to be had thereupon, and that the same was done in pursuance and in execution of the said Act; and if it shall appear so to have been done, then the jury shall find for the defendant or defendants; and if the plaintiff shall be non-suited or discontinue his action after the defendant or defendants shall have appeared, or if judgment shall have been given upon any verdict or demurrer against the plaintiff, the defendant or defendants shall and may recover treble costs, and have the like remedy for the same as the defendant or defendants hath or have in other cases by law; and that no such action or suit shall be brought against any person for any matter or thing done in pursuance or execution of this Act, but within the space of six months after such matter or thing shall have been done.

TELEGRAPH ACT, 1863.

26 & 27 VICT. c. 112 (1).

Secs. 3—8.

Interpretation of terms.

3. In this Act—

The term “telegraph” means a wire or wires used for the purpose of telegraphic communication, with any casing, coating, tube, or pipe inclosing the same, and any apparatus connected therewith for the purpose of telegraphic communication :

The term “post” means a post, pole, standard, stay, strut, or other above-ground contrivance for carrying, suspending, or supporting a telegraph :

The term “work” includes telegraphs and posts :

The term “street” (2) means a public way situate within a city, town, or village, or between lands continuously built upon on either side, and repaired at the public expense, or at the expense of any turnpike or other public trust, or ratione tenuræ, including the footpaths of such way, and any bridge forming part thereof :

The term “public road” (2) means a public highway for carriages being repaired at the public expense, or at the expense of any turnpike or other public trust, or ratione tenuræ, and not being a street, including the footpaths of such public highway, and any bridge forming part thereof, and also any land by the side and forming part of such a public highway, but not including a railway or canal :

The term “the Board of Trade” means the Lords of the Committee of Her Majesty’s Privy Council for the time being appointed for the consideration of matters relating to trade and foreign plantations :

The term “justice” means justice of the peace acting for the place where the matter requiring the cognisance of any such justice arises :

The term “two justices” means two or more justices met and acting together, or any one police magistrate or justice having by law authority to act alone for any purpose with the powers of two justices.

Recovery of damages, costs, expenses, and penalties.

4. The provisions of the Railways Clauses Consolidation Act, 1845, with respect to the recovery of damages not specially provided for, and of penalties, and to the determination of any other matter referred to justices, shall, so far as the same are applicable, and save so far as the same are inconsistent with any express provision of this Act, be incorporated with this Act; and terms used in those provisions shall be interpreted as the same terms are directed to be interpreted in this Act.

consents.

5. The following provisions shall apply to notices and consents under this Act :

(1.) Every notice or consent shall be in writing or print, or partly in writing and partly in print :

(2.) Any notice to or by the company or a body having the control of a street or public road, or of the sewerage or drainage thereunder, may be given to or by the secretary, clerk, or surveyor, or other like officer (if any) of the company or of such body, as the case may be :

(3.) Any consent may be given on such pecuniary or other terms or conditions (being in themselves lawful), or subject to such stipulations as to the time or mode of execution of any work, or as to the removal or alteration in any event of any work or as to any other thing connected with or relative to any work, as the person or body giving consent thinks fit.

to gas and water pipes.

8. In the exercise of the aforesaid powers, the company shall also be subject to the following restrictions :

(1.) They shall cause as little detriment or inconvenience as circumstances admit to the body or person to or by whom any pipe for the supply of water or gas belongs or is used :

(2.) Before they alter the position of any such pipe they shall give to the body to whom the same belongs notice of their intention to do so, specifying the time at which they will begin to do so, such notice to be given twenty-four hours at least before the commencement of the work for effecting such alteration :

(3.) The company shall not execute such work except under the superintendence of the body to whom such pipe belongs, unless such body refuses or neglects to give such superintendence at the time specified in the notice for the commencement of the work or

(1) Now by the Telegraph Acts, 1868, 1869, 31 & 32 Vict. c. 110, and 32 & 33 Vict. c. 73, the undertakings of the various telegraph companies have been vested in the Postmaster-General by purchase, and the powers of the companies are exercised by him.

(2) See the definitions in the Telegraph Act, 1878, post, p. 1440.

discontinues the same during the work ; and the company shall execute such work to the reasonable satisfaction of such body : Secs. 8—14.

- (4.) The company shall pay all reasonable expenses to which such body may be put on account of such superintendence :

And the body to whom any such pipe belongs may, when and as occasion requires, alter the position of any work of the company already constructed, or to be hereafter constructed, under, in, or upon a street or public road, on the same conditions as are by the last foregoing and present sections imposed on the company in relation to such a body, mutatis mutandis.

Restrictions as to Telegraphs under Streets and public Roads.

9. The company shall not place a telegraph under any street within the limits of the district over which the authority of the Metropolitan Board of Works extends, or of any city, or municipal borough, or town corporate, or of any town having a population of thirty thousand inhabitants or upwards (according to the latest census), except with the consent of the bodies having the control of the streets within such respective limits ⁽¹⁾.

10. Where the company has obtained consent to the placing, or by virtue of the powers of the company under this Act intends to proceed with the placing of a telegraph under a street or public road, the depth, course, and position at and in which the same is to be placed shall be settled between the company and the following bodies :

The body having the control of the street or public road :

The body having the control of the sewerage or drainage thereunder :

But if such settlement is not come to with any such body, the following provisions shall take effect :—

- (1.) The company may give to such body a notice specifying the depth, course, and position which the company desires :

- (2.) If the body to whom such notice is given does not, within twenty-eight days after the giving of such notice, give to the company a counter-notice objecting to the proposal of the company, and specifying the depth, course, and position which such body desires, they shall be deemed to have agreed to the proposal of the company :

- (3.) In the event of ultimate difference between the company and such body, the depth, course, and position shall be determined in England or Ireland by two justices, and in Scotland by two justices or the sheriff.

11. Every underground tube or pipe of the company shall be so marked as to distinguish it from tubes or pipes of every other company.

12. The company shall not place a telegraph over, along or across a street or public road, or a post in or upon a street or public road except with the consent of the body having the control of such street or public road ; and where a public road passes through or by the side of any park or pleasure grounds, and where a public road crosses, by means of a bridge or viaduct, or abuts on any ornamental water belonging to any park or pleasure grounds, and where a public road crosses or abuts on a private drive through any park or pleasure grounds, or to any mansion, the company shall not, without, or otherwise than in accordance with, the consent of the owner, lessee, and occupier of such park, pleasure grounds, or mansion, place any work above ground on such public road.

13. Where any landowner or other person is liable for the repair of any street or public road (notwithstanding that the same is dedicated to the public), the company shall not place any work under, in, upon, over, along, or across such street or public road, except with the consent of such landowner or other person, in addition to the consent of the body having the control of such street or public road, where under this Act such last-mentioned consent is required : Provided, that where the company places a telegraph across or over any street or public road they shall not place it so low as to stop, hinder, or interfere with the passage for any purpose whatsoever along the street or public road.

Removal of Works affecting Streets and public Roads.

14. In the following cases—

- (1.) If any part of the company's works is abandoned, or suffered to fall into decay ;

(2.) If the company is dissolved, or ceases for six months to carry on business, the body having the control of any street or public road, or the owner of any land or building affected (in the former case) by such part of the company's works as aforesaid, or (in the latter case) by any of the company's works, may give notice to the company, or leave a notice at the last known office or place of business of the company, to the effect that if such works as are

Not to place telegraphs under streets in metropolis and large towns without consent of bodies having control of the streets.
Depth, course, &c. of underground works to be agreed on between street or road authority and company, or else to be determined by justices or sheriff.

Underground tubes to have distinguishing mark.

Company not to place a telegraph along a street or road without consent of body having control of street, &c.

As to where a public road passes through parks, pleasure grounds, &c.

Where landowner, &c., is liable to repair of street, &c., company not to place works in such street, &c., without consent. Proviso.

In case of abandonment of works, &c., street or road authority or owner of land may remove them.

Secs. 14-17. specified in the notice are not removed within one month after the notice given or left, the same will be removed by the body having such control, or by such owner; and in every such case, unless such works are removed accordingly, the body having such control or such owner may, without prejudice to any remedy against the company, remove such works, or any part thereof, and sell the materials thereof or of any part thereof, and, out of the proceeds of such sale, reimburse themselves their expenses relative to such notice, removal, and sale, and consequent thereon (rendering the overplus, if any, to the company), and may recover any unpaid residue of such expenses from the company. The present section shall apply to an existing company, in respect of any work already constructed or to be hereafter constructed, as well as to a future company.

In event of alteration of street or road, company to remove and replace the works under or over the same.

15. In case the body having the control of any street or public road at any time hereafter resolves to alter the line or level of any portion of such street or road under, in, upon, over, along, or across which any work of the company constructed either before or after the passing of this Act is placed, the company shall from time to time be bound, on receiving one month's notice of such intended alteration, and at their own expense, to remove such work, and to replace the same in such position and manner in all respects as may be required by such body, or, in the event of difference between such body and the company, in such position and manner in all respects as may be determined in England or Ireland by two justices, and in Scotland by two justices or the sheriff.

Removal of dangerous posts placed before passing of this Act.

16. Where the company has, before the passing of this Act, placed posts in or upon a street or public road, and the body having the control of the street or road considers the position of any such posts to be dangerous or inconvenient, the following provisions shall take effect:

- (1.) Such body may give to the company a notice requiring them to remove or alter the position of such post, and specifying the grounds of such requisition:
- (2.) The company either shall, within fourteen days after receipt of such notice, remove or alter the position of the post in accordance with the notice; or else, if they do not intend to remove or alter the position of the post in accordance with the notice, shall, within one week after receipt of the notice, deliver to such body a counter-notice, specifying their objection to such removal or alteration:
- (3.) Such body may send copies of the notice and counter-notice to the Board of Trade:
- (4.) As soon as may be after receipt of such copies, the Board of Trade shall (unless the difference between the body giving the notice and the company is arranged) make inquiry and examination, and hear and determine the matter of the notice and counter-notice:
- (5.) On hearing any such matter, the Board of Trade may direct that the company shall comply with the notice, wholly or in part, or subject to any such modifications as the Board of Trade prescribes, or on condition that the body giving the notice shall afford to the company all reasonable and proper facilities in their power for substituting some other work for that to which the notice relates, or on any such other condition as to the Board of Trade seems, according to the circumstances of the case, just and expedient, and the expenses incurred in or about such removal or alteration shall be borne and paid by the company or by the body giving the notice, or partly by one and partly by the other, as to the Board of Trade seems, according to the circumstances of the case, just and expedient, the amount of such expenses to be determined in case of difference by the Board of Trade.

Restrictions as to the opening of Streets and public Roads.

Streets and public roads to be opened only after notice and under superintendence.

17. Subject to any special stipulations made with a company by the body having the control of a street or public road, and to any determinations, orders, or directions of the justices, or sheriff as aforesaid, where the company proceeds to open or break up a street or public road, the following provisions shall take effect:—

- (1.) The company shall give to the bodies between whom respectively and the company the depth, course, and position of a telegraph under such street or public road are hereinbefore required to be settled or determined, notice of their intention to open or break up such street or public road, specifying the time at which they will begin to do so,—such notice to be given, in the case of an underground work ten days at least, and in the case of an aboveground work five days at least, before the commencement of the work; except in case of emergency, in which case notice of the work proposed shall be given as soon as may be after the commencement thereof:
- (2.) The company shall not (save in case of emergency) open or break up any street or public road, except under the superintendence of the bodies to whom respectively notice is by the present section required to be given, unless such bodies respectively refuse or neglect to give such superintendence at the time specified in the notice for the commencement of the work, or discontinue the same during the work: Secs. 17-34.

- (3.) The company shall pay all reasonable expenses to which such bodies respectively may be put on account of such superintendence.

18. Subject to any such special stipulations as aforesaid, after the company has opened or broken up a street or public road they shall be under the following further obligations:—

Streets and public roads to be restored and kept in repair for six months.

- (1.) They shall, with all convenient speed, complete the work on account of which they opened or broke up the same, and fill in the ground, and make good the surface, and generally restore the street or public road to as good a condition as that in which it was before being opened or broken up, and carry away all rubbish occasioned thereby:

- (2.) They shall in the meantime cause the place where the street or public road is open or broken up to be fenced and watched, and to be properly lighted at night:

- (3.) They shall pay all reasonable expenses of keeping the street or public road in good repair for six months after the same is restored, so far as such expenses may be increased by such opening or breaking up:

If the company fails to comply in any respect with the provisions of the present section, they shall for every such offence (without prejudice to the right of any person to enforce specific performance of the requirements of this Act, or to any other remedy against them), be liable to a penalty not exceeding twenty pounds, and to a further penalty not exceeding five pounds, for each day during which any such failure continues after the first day when such penalty was adjudged; and any such penalty shall (notwithstanding anything herein-before, or in any Act relating to municipal corporations, or to the metropolitan police force, or in any other Act, contained) go and belong to the body having the control of the street or public road, and shall form part of the funds applicable by them to the maintenance of the street or public road. Penalty.

19. Whenever the permanent surface or soil of any street or public road is broken up or opened by the company, it shall be lawful for the body having the control of the street or road, in case they think it expedient so to do, to fill in the ground, and to make good the pavement or surface or soil so broken up or opened, and to carry away the rubbish occasioned thereby, instead of permitting such work to be done by the company; and the costs and expenses of filling in such ground, and of making good the pavement or soil so broken up or opened, shall be repaid on demand to the body having the control of the street or road by the company, and in default thereof may be recovered by the body having the control of the street or road from the company as a penalty is or may be recoverable from the company. Power to street or road authorities to execute works and charge the expenses to the company.

20. The company shall not stop or impede traffic in any street or public road, or into or out of any street or public road, further than is necessary for the proper execution of their works. They shall not close against traffic more than one third in width of any street or public road, or of any way opening into any street or public road, at one time; and in case two-thirds of such street or road are not wide enough to allow two carriages to pass each other, they shall not occupy with their works at one time more than fifty yards in length of the one-third thereof, except with the special consent of the body having the control thereof. Restrictions on impediments to traffic.

Appointment of Arbitrator by Board of Trade.

34. If in any case where any matter is herein-before authorised or directed to be determined by the Board of Trade it appears to the Board of Trade to be expedient, for convenience of local investigation or for any other reason, that the matter should be determined by an arbitrator, the Board of Trade may, notwithstanding anything herein-before contained, and whether the Board of Trade has entered on the investigation or not, refer the matter to some competent and impartial person as arbitrator; and with respect to the matter so referred any such arbitrator shall have the like authority and jurisdiction as the Board of Trade has under this Act, and his determination shall have the same effect as a determination of the Board of Trade under this Act. The reasonable expenses and remuneration of the arbitrator (to be settled in case of difference by the Board of Trade) shall be paid by the company. Board of Trade may in any case appoint arbitrator.

TELEGRAPH ACT, 1878.

41 & 42 VICT. c. 76.

An Act to make further provision respecting the Post Office Telegraphs.

[16th August, 1878.]

Secs. 2—5.Definitions.

2. In the construction of this Act, unless there is something inconsistent in the context, words and expressions shall have the same meanings as in the Telegraph Act, 1863, and in addition thereto—

Amendment of 26 & 27 Vict.
c. 112 as to

The expressions "street" and "public road" shall respectively include any highway ⁽¹⁾.

3. Where any body or person (within the meaning of the Telegraph Act, 1863), having power under the said Act to give or withhold their consent to the Postmaster-General ⁽²⁾ placing telegraphs and posts (within the meaning of the said Act) in, under, upon, along, over, or across a street or public road, or any estuary or branch of the sea, or the shore or bed of any tidal water, or where any proprietors, lessees, directors, or persons having the control of any railway or canal (within the meaning of the said Act), and having power under the said Act to give or withhold a consent to the Postmaster-General placing telegraphs and posts under, in, upon, along, or across such railway or canal, fail within twenty-one days after being required to do so by the Postmaster-General to give their consent, or attach to their consent any terms, conditions, or stipulations to which the Postmaster-General objects, or withdraw a consent, a difference shall be deemed to have arisen between the Postmaster-General and such body or person, proprietors, lessees, directors, or persons (as the case may be), and that difference shall be determined in manner hereinafter provided, and the authority by whom the difference is to be determined may, if after hearing all parties concerned they think it just, give their consent either unconditionally or subject to such pecuniary or other terms, conditions, and stipulations as they may think just; and that consent shall for all purposes be of the same effect as if it were a consent given under the Telegraph Act, 1863, to the Postmaster-General by such body or person, proprietors, lessees, directors, or persons.

Differences relating to a street or public road to be determined by stipendiary magistrate, county court judge, or sheriff.

4. Where any difference arises under this Act or the Telegraph Act, 1863, between the Postmaster-General and any body or person having any power, jurisdiction, or control over or relating to a street or public road, or having power under the last-mentioned Act to give or withhold a consent to the placing of telegraphs and posts in, under, upon, along, or across a street or public road, such difference shall in England or Wales and Ireland be referred to the police or stipendiary magistrate having jurisdiction within the district in which the difference has arisen, or if there be no such magistrate, then to the judge of the county court having jurisdiction within such district, and in Scotland to the sheriff, and such magistrate, judge, and sheriff are respectively empowered and required to hear and determine such difference, and sections thirty to thirty-three, both inclusive, of the Regulation of Railways Act, 1863, shall apply to every difference so referred to such magistrate, judge, or sheriff (as the case may be), in like manner as if he were an arbitrator appointed pursuant to those sections, and as if the Postmaster-General, body, or person between whom the difference has arisen were companies within the meaning of those sections.

c. 119.

Provided always, that in case either the Postmaster-General or the body or person between whom the difference has arisen shall be dissatisfied with the award or decision of such magistrate, judge, or sheriff, the party so dissatisfied may within twenty-one days after such award or decision require, by a notice in writing given to the other party, that the difference shall be referred to the Railway Commissioners.

General provisions as to arbitration.

5. The differences so required to be referred by the last preceding section to the Railway Commissioners and all other differences under this Act, except a difference between the Postmaster-General and any body or person having any right, power, jurisdiction, or control in, over, or relating to any estuary or branch of the sea or the shore or bed of any tidal water, shall be referred to and shall be determined by the Railway Commissioners for the time being; and every difference referred to them under this Act shall be conducted by the Railway Commissioners in the same manner as any other proceeding is conducted by them under the Acts relating to those Commissioners; and it shall be the duty of the Railway Commissioners, and they are hereby empowered, to undertake and determine any difference referred to them under

(1) See the definitions in the Telegraph Act, 1863, ante, p. 1436.

(2) See note (1), ante, p. 1436.

this Act; and any difference between the Postmaster-General and any body or person having any right of property or other right, or any power, jurisdiction, or authority in, over, or relating to any estuary, branch of the sea, or the shore or bed of any tidal water shall be referred to and determined by the Board of Trade. Section 5.

In the event of the Railway Commissioners ceasing to hold office, all differences directed under this Act to be determined by them shall be determined by the Board of Trade, and sections thirty to thirty-three, both inclusive, of the Regulation of Railways Act, 1868, shall apply to every difference to be determined under this Act by the Board of Trade, in like manner as if the Postmaster-General, undertakers, body, or person between whom that difference has arisen were companies within the meaning of those sections. 31 & 32 Vict. c. 119.

COMPANIES CLAUSES CONSOLIDATION ACT, 1845.

8 VICT. c. 16.

An Act for consolidating in one Act certain Provisions usually inserted in Acts with respect to the Constitution of Companies incorporated for carrying on Undertakings of a public Nature.

[8th May, 1845.]

1. This Act shall apply to every joint stock company which shall by any Act which shall hereafter be passed be incorporated for the purpose of carrying on any undertaking, and this Act shall be incorporated with such Act; and all the clauses and provisions of this Act, save so far as they shall be expressly varied or excepted by any such Act, shall apply to the company which shall be incorporated by such Act, and to the undertaking for carrying on which such company shall be incorporated, so far as the same shall be applicable thereto respectively; and such clauses and provisions, as well as the clauses and provisions of every other Act which shall be incorporated with such Act, shall, save as aforesaid, form part of such Act, and be construed together therewith as forming one Act. Secs. 1—3.

Act to apply to all companies incorporated by Acts hereafter to be passed.

2. And with respect to the construction of this Act, and of other Acts to be incorporated therewith, be it enacted as follows: Interpretations in this Act:

The expression "the special Act" used in this Act shall be construed to mean any Act which shall be hereafter passed incorporating a joint stock company for the purpose of carrying on any undertaking, and with which this Act shall be so incorporated as aforesaid; and the word "prescribed" used in this Act, in reference to any matter herein stated, shall be construed to refer to such matter as the same shall be prescribed or provided for in the special Act; and the sentence in which such word shall occur shall be construed as if instead of the word "prescribed" the expression "prescribed for that purpose in the special Act" had been used; and the expression "the undertaking" shall mean the undertaking or works, of whatever nature which shall by the special Act be authorised to be executed. "the special Act:"
"the undertaking:"

3. The following words and expressions both in this and the special Act shall have the several meanings hereby assigned to them, unless there be something in the subject or the context repugnant to such construction; (that is to say, Interpretations in this and the special Act:

Secs. 3—45.

justices" shall be understood to mean two justices assembled and acting together in petty sessions:

"the company:"

The expression "the company" shall mean the company constituted by the special Act:

"Directors:"

The expression "the directors" shall mean the directors of the company, and shall include all persons having the direction of the undertaking, whether under the name of directors, managers, committee of management, or under any other name:

"Shareholder:"

The word "shareholder" shall mean shareholder, proprietor, or member of the company; and in referring to any such shareholder, expressions properly applicable to a person shall be held to apply to a corporation: and

"Secretary."

The expression "the secretary" shall mean the secretary of the company, and shall include the word "clerk."

And with respect to the borrowing of money by the company on mortgage or bond, be it enacted as follows:

Power to borrow money.

38. If the company be authorised by the special Act to borrow money on mortgage or bond, it shall be lawful for them, subject to the restrictions contained in the special Act, to borrow on mortgage or bond such sums of money as shall from time to time, by an order of a general meeting of the company, be authorised to be borrowed, not exceeding in the whole the sum prescribed by the special Act, and for securing the repayment of the money so borrowed, with interest, to mortgage the undertaking, and the future calls on the shareholders, or to give bonds in manner hereinafter mentioned ⁽¹⁾.

Power to re-borrow.

39. If, after having borrowed any part of the money so authorised to be borrowed on mortgage or bond, the company pay off the same, it shall be lawful for them again to borrow the amount so paid off, and so from time to time; but such power of re-borrowing shall not be exercised without the authority of a general meeting of the company, unless the money be so re-borrowed in order to pay off any existing mortgage or bond.

Evidence of authority for borrowing.

40. Where by the special Act the company shall be restricted from borrowing any money on mortgage or bond until a definite portion of their capital shall be subscribed or paid up, or where by this or the special Act the authority of a general meeting is required for such borrowing, the certificate of a justice that such definite portion of the capital has been subscribed or paid up, and a copy of the order of a general meeting of the company authorising the borrowing of any money, certified by one of the directors or by the secretary to be a true copy, shall be sufficient evidence of the fact of the capital required to be subscribed or paid up having been so subscribed or paid up, and of the order for borrowing money having been made; and upon production to any justice of the books of the company, and of such other evidence as he shall think sufficient, such justice shall grant the certificate aforesaid.

Mortgages and bonds to be stamped.

41. Every mortgage and bond for securing money borrowed by the company shall be by deed under the common seal of the company, duly stamped, and wherein the consideration shall be truly stated; and every such mortgage deed or bond may be according to the form in the Schedule (C.) or (D.) to this Act annexed, or to the like effect.

Rights of mortgagees.

42. The respective mortgagees shall be entitled one with another to their respective proportions of the tolls, sums, and premises comprised in such mortgages, and of the future calls payable by the shareholders, if comprised therein, according to the respective sums in such mortgages mentioned to be advanced by such mortgagees respectively, and to be repaid the sums so advanced, with interest, without any preference one above another, by reason of priority of the date of any such mortgage, or of the meeting at which the same was authorised.

Application of calls, notwithstanding mortgage.

43. No such mortgage (although it should comprise future calls on the shareholders) shall, unless expressly so provided, preclude the company from receiving and applying to the purposes of the company any calls to be made by the company.

Rights of obligees.

44. The respective obligees in such bonds shall, proportionally according to the amount of the moneys secured thereby, be entitled to be paid, out of the tolls or other property or effects of the company, the respective sums in such bonds mentioned, and thereby intended to be secured, without any preference one above another by reason of priority of date of any such bond, or of the meeting at which the same was authorised, or otherwise howsoever.

Register of mortgages and bonds.

45. A register of mortgages and bonds shall be kept by the secretary, and within fourteen days after the date of any such mortgage or bond an entry or memorial, specifying the number and date of such mortgage or bond, and the sums secured thereby, and the names of the parties thereto, with their proper additions, shall be made in such register; and such register may be perused at all reasonable times by any of the shareholders, or by any mortgagee or bond creditor of the company, or by any person interested in any such mortgage or bond, without fee or reward. Secs. 45-53.

46. Any party entitled to any such mortgage or bond may from time to time transfer his right and interest therein to any other person; and every such transfer shall be by deed duly stamped, wherein the consideration shall be truly stated; and every such transfer may be accorded to the form in the Schedule (E.) to this Act annexed, or to the like effect. Transfers of mortgages and bonds to be stamped.

47. Within thirty days after the date of every such transfer, if executed within the United Kingdom, or otherwise within thirty days after the arrival thereof in the United Kingdom, it shall be produced to the secretary, and thereupon the secretary shall cause an entry or memorial thereof to be made in the same manner as in the case of the original mortgage; and after such entry every such transfer shall entitle the transferee to the full benefit of the original mortgage or bond in all respects; and no party, having made such transfer, shall have power to make void, release, or discharge the mortgage or bond so transferred, or any money thereby secured; and for such entry the company may demand a sum not exceeding the prescribed sum, or, where no sum shall be prescribed, the sum of two shillings and sixpence; and until such entry the company shall not be in any manner responsible to the transferee in respect of such mortgage. Transfers of mortgages and bonds to be registered.

48. The interest of the money borrowed upon any such mortgage or bond shall be paid at the periods appointed in such mortgage or bond, and if no period be appointed, half-yearly, to the several parties entitled thereto, and in preference to any dividends payable to the shareholders of the company. Payment of interest on moneys borrowed.

49. The interest on any such mortgage or bond shall not be transferable, except by deed duly stamped. Transfers of interest to be stamped.

50. The company may, if they think proper, fix a period for the repayment of the principal money so borrowed, with the interest thereof, and in such case the company shall cause such period to be inserted in the mortgage deed or bond; and upon the expiration of such period the principal sum, together with the arrears of interest thereon, shall, on demand, be paid to the party entitled to such mortgage or bond; and if no other place of payment be inserted in such mortgage deed or bond, such principal and interest shall be payable at the principal office or place of business of the company. Repayment of money borrowed at time fixed.

51. If no time be fixed in the mortgage deed or bond for the repayment of the money so borrowed, the party entitled to the mortgage or bond may, at the expiration or at any time after the expiration of twelve months from the date of such mortgage or bond, demand payment of the principal money thereby secured, with all arrears of interest, upon giving six months previous notice for that purpose; and in the like case the company may at any time pay off the money borrowed, on giving the like notice; and every such notice shall be in writing or print, or both, and if given by a mortgagee or bond creditor, shall be delivered to the secretary or left at the principal office of the company, and if given by the company shall be given either personally to such mortgagee or bond creditor or left at his residence, or if such mortgagee or bond creditor be unknown to the directors, or cannot be found after diligent inquiry, such notice shall be given by advertisement in the London or Dublin Gazette, according as the principal office of the company shall be in England or Ireland, and in some newspaper as after mentioned. Repayment of money borrowed where no time fixed.

52. If the company shall have given notice of their intention to pay off any such mortgage or bond at a time when the same may lawfully be paid off by them, then at the expiration of such notice all further interest shall cease to be payable on such mortgage or bond, unless, on demand of payment made pursuant to such notice, or at any time thereafter, the company shall fail to pay the principal and interest due at the expiration of such notice on such mortgage or bond. Interest to cease on expiration of notice to pay off mortgage or bond.

53. Where by the special Act the mortgagees of the company shall be empowered to enforce the payment of the arrears of interest, or the arrears of principal and interest, due on such mortgages, by the appointment of a receiver, then, if within thirty days after the interest accruing upon any such mortgage has become payable, and, after demand thereof in writing, the same be not paid, the mortgagee may, without prejudice to his right to sue for the interest so in arrear in any of the superior courts of law or equity, require the appointment of a receiver, by an application to be made as hereinafter provided; and if within six months after the principal money owing upon any such mortgage has become payable, and after demand thereof in writing, the same be not paid, the mortgagee, without prejudice to his right to sue for such principal money, together with all arrears of interest, in any of the superior courts of law or equity, may, if his debt amount to the prescribed sum, alone, or if his debt does not amount to the prescribed sum he may, in conjunction with other mortgagees whose debts, being so in arrear, after demand as aforesaid, shall, together with his, amount to the prescribed sum, require the appointment of a receiver, by an application to be made as hereinafter provided. Arrears of interest, when to be enforced by appointment of a receiver.
Arrears of principal and interest.

Secs. 54—

of receiver.

54. Every application for a receiver in the cases aforesaid shall be made to two justices, and on any such application it shall be lawful for such justices, by order in writing, after hearing the parties, to appoint some person to receive the whole or a competent part of the tolls or sums liable to the payment of such interest, or such principal and interest, as the case may be, until such interest, or until such principal and interest, as the case may be, together with all costs, including the charges of receiving the tolls or sums aforesaid, be fully paid; and upon such appointment being made all such tolls and sums of money as aforesaid shall be paid to and received by the person so to be appointed; and the money so to be received shall be so much money received by or to the use of the party to whom such interest, or such principal and interest, as the case may be, shall be then due, and on whose behalf such receiver shall have been appointed; and after such interest, and costs, or such principal, interest, and costs, have been so received, the power of such receiver shall cease.

by mortgagees.

55. At all seasonable times the books of account of the company shall be open to the inspection of the respective mortgagees and bond creditors thereof, with liberty to take extracts therefrom without fee or reward.

Security to be
officers in-
Officers to
demand.

And with respect to the accountability of the officers of the company, be it enacted as follows:

109. Before any person intrusted with the custody or control of moneys, whether treasurer, collector, or other officer of the company, shall enter upon his office, the directors shall take sufficient security from him for the faithful execution of his office.

110. Every officer employed by the company shall from time to time, when required by the directors, make out and deliver to them, or to any person appointed by them for that purpose, a true and perfect account in writing under his hand of all moneys received by him on behalf of the company; and such account shall state how, and to whom, and for what purpose such moneys shall have been disposed of; and, together with such account, such officer shall deliver the vouchers and receipts for such payments; and every such officer shall pay to the directors, or to any person appointed by them to receive the same, all moneys which shall appear to be owing from him upon the balance of such accounts.

Summary
to account.

111. If any such officer fail to render such account, or to produce and deliver up all the vouchers and receipts relating to the same in his possession or power, or to pay the balance thereof, when thereunto required, or if for three days after being thereunto required he fail to deliver up to the directors, or to any person appointed by them to receive the same, all papers and writings, property, effects, matters, and things, in his possession or power, relating to the execution of this or the special Act, or any Act incorporated therewith, or belonging to the company, then, on complaint thereof being made to a justice, such justice shall summon such officer to appear before two or more justices at a time and place to be set forth in such summons, to answer such charge; and upon the appearance of such officer, or in his absence upon proof that such summons was personally served upon him, or left at his last known place of abode, such justices may hear and determine the matter in a summary way, and may adjust and declare the balance owing by such officer; and if it appear, either upon confession of such officer, or upon evidence, or upon inspection of the account, that any moneys of the company are in the hands of such officer, or owing by him to the company, such justices may order such officer to pay the same; and if he fail to pay the amount it shall be lawful for such justices to grant a warrant to levy the same by distress, or, in default thereof, to commit the offender to gaol, there to remain without bail for a period not exceeding three months, unless the same be sooner paid.

first instance.

113. Provided always, that if any director or other person acting on behalf of the company shall make oath that he has good reason to believe, upon grounds to be stated in his deposition, and does believe, that it is the intention of any such officer as aforesaid to abscond, it shall be lawful for the justice before whom the complaint is made, instead of issuing his summons, to issue his warrant for the bringing such officer before such two justices as aforesaid; but no person executing such warrant shall keep such officer in custody longer than twenty-four hours, without bringing him before some justice; and it shall be lawful for the justice before whom such officer may be brought either to discharge such officer, if he think there is no sufficient ground for his detention, or to order such officer to be detained in custody, so as to be brought before two justices, at a time and place to be named in such order, unless such officer give bail to the satisfaction of such justice for his appearance before such justices to answer the complaint of the company. Secs. 113—145.

114. No such proceeding against or dealing with any such officer as aforesaid shall deprive the company of any remedy which they might otherwise have against such officer, or any surety of such officer. Sureties not to be discharged.

And with respect to the making of bye laws, be it enacted as follows:

124. It shall be lawful for the company from time to time to make such bye laws as they think fit, for the purpose of regulating the conduct of the officers and servants of the company, and for providing for the due management of the affairs of the company in all respects whatsoever, and from time to time to alter or repeal any such bye laws, and make others, provided such bye laws be not repugnant to the laws of that part of the United Kingdom where the same are to have effect, or to the provisions of this or the special Act; and such bye laws shall be reduced into writing, and shall have affixed thereto the common seal of the company; and a copy of such bye laws shall be given to every officer and servant of the company affected thereby. Power to make bye laws for the officers of the company.

125. It shall be lawful for the company, by such bye laws, to impose such reasonable penalties upon all persons, being officers or servants of the company, offending against such bye laws, as the company think fit, not exceeding five pounds for any one offence. Fines for breach of such bye laws.

126. All the bye-laws to be made by the company shall be so framed as to allow the justice before whom any penalty imposed thereby may be sought to be recovered to order a part only of such penalty to be paid if such justice shall think fit. Bye laws to be so framed as that penalties may be mitigated.

127. The production of a written or printed copy of the bye laws of the company, having the common seal of the company affixed thereto, shall be sufficient evidence of such bye laws in all cases of prosecution under the same. Evidence of bye laws.

And with respect to the recovery of damages not specially provided for, and penalties, be it enacted as follows:

142. In all cases where any damages, costs, or expenses are by this or the special Act, or any Act incorporated therewith, directed to be paid, and the method of ascertaining the amount or enforcing the payment thereof is not provided for, such amount, in case of dispute, shall be ascertained and determined by two justices; and if the amount so ascertained be not paid by the company or other party liable to pay the same within seven days after demand, the amount may be recovered by distress of the goods of the company or other party liable as aforesaid; and the justices by whom the same shall have been ordered to be paid, or either of them, on application, shall issue their or his warrant accordingly. Provision for damages not otherwise provided for.

143. If sufficient goods of the company cannot be found whereon to levy any such damages, costs, or expenses payable by the company, the same may, if the amount thereof do not exceed twenty pounds, be recovered by distress of the goods of the treasurer of the company; and the justices aforesaid, or either of them, on application, shall issue their or his warrant accordingly; but no such distress shall issue against the goods of such treasurer unless seven days previous notice in writing, stating the amount so due, and demanding payment thereof, have been given to such treasurer, or left at his residence; and if such treasurer pay any money under such distress as aforesaid, he may retain the amount so paid by him, and all costs and expenses occasioned thereby, out of any money belonging to the company coming into his custody or control, or he may sue the company for the same. Distress against the treasurer.

144. Where in this or the special Act, or any Act incorporated therewith, any question of compensation, expenses, charges, or damages is referred to the determination of any one justice, or more, it shall be lawful for any justice, upon the application of either party, to summon the other party to appear before one justice, or before two justices, as the case may require, at a time and place to be named in such summons; and upon the appearance of such parties, or in the absence of any of them, upon proof of due service of the summons, it shall be lawful for such one justice, or such two justices, as the case may be, to hear and determine such question, and for that purpose to examine such parties or any of them, and their witnesses, on oath; and the costs of every such inquiry shall be in the discretion of such justices, and they shall determine the amount thereof. Method of proceeding before justices in questions of damages, &c.

145. The company shall publish the short particulars of the several offences for which any penalty is imposed by this or the special Act, or any Act incorporated therewith, or by any bye-law of the company affecting other persons than the shareholders, officers, or servants of the company, and of the amount of every such penalty, and shall cause such particulars to be painted on a board, or printed upon paper and pasted thereon, and shall cause such board to be hung up or affixed on some conspicuous part of the principal place of business of the company, and where any such penalties are of local application shall cause such boards to be affixed in some conspicuous place in the immediate neighbourhood to which such penalties are applicable or have reference; and such particulars shall be renewed as often as the same or any part thereof is Publication of penalties.

Secs. 145—158. obliterated or destroyed; and no such penalty shall be recoverable unless it shall have been published and kept published in the manner hereinbefore required.

146. If any person pull down or injure any board put up or affixed as required by this or the special Act, or any Act incorporated therewith, for the purpose of publishing any bye-law or penalty, or shall obliterate any of the letters or figures thereon, he shall forfeit for every such offence a sum not exceeding five pounds, and shall defray the expenses attending the restoration of such board.

147. Every penalty or forfeiture imposed by this or the special Act, or any Act incorporated therewith, or by any bye-law made in pursuance thereof, the recovery of which is not otherwise provided for, may be recovered by summary proceeding before two justices (1).

150. Where in this or the special Act, or any Act incorporated therewith, any sum of money, whether in the nature of penalty or otherwise, is directed to be levied by distress such sum of money shall be levied by distress and sale of the goods and chattels of the party liable to pay the same, and the overplus arising from the sale of such goods and chattels, after satisfying such sum of money, and the expenses of the distress and sale, shall be returned, on demand, to the party whose goods shall have been distrained.

151. No distress levied by virtue of this or the special Act, or any Act incorporated therewith, shall be deemed unlawful, nor shall any party making the same be deemed a trespasser on account of any defect or want of form in the summons, conviction, warrant of distress, or other proceeding relating thereto, nor shall such party be deemed a trespasser ab initio on account of any irregularity afterwards committed by him, but all persons aggrieved by such defect or irregularity may recover full satisfaction for the special damage in an action upon the case.

152. The justices by whom any such penalty or forfeiture shall be imposed may, where the application thereof is not otherwise provided for, award not more than one half thereof to the informer, and shall award the remainder to the overseers of the poor of the parish in which the offence shall have been committed, for the benefit of the poor of such parish; or if the place wherein the offence shall have been committed shall be extra-parochial, then such justices shall direct such remainder to be applied for the benefit of the poor of such extra-parochial place, or of any adjoining parish or district and shall order the same to be paid over to the proper officer for that purpose.

154. If, through any act, neglect, or default on account whereof any person shall have incurred any penalty imposed by this or the special Act, or any Act incorporated therewith, any damage to the property of the company shall have been committed by such person, he shall be liable to make good such damage, as well as to pay such penalty; and the amount of such damages shall, in case of dispute, be determined by the justices by whom the party incurring such penalty shall have been convicted and on non-payment of such damages, on demand, the same shall be levied by distress, and such justices, or one of them, shall issue their or his warrant accordingly.

155. It shall be lawful for any justice to summon any person to appear before him as a witness in any matter in which such justice shall have jurisdiction, under the provisions of this or the special Act, or any Act incorporated therewith, at a time and place mentioned in such summons, and to administer to him an oath to testify the truth in such matter; and if any person so summoned shall, without reasonable excuse, refuse or neglect to appear at the time and place appointed for that purpose, having been paid or tendered a reasonable sum for his expenses, or if any person appearing shall refuse to be examined upon oath or to give evidence before such justice, every such person shall forfeit a sum not exceeding five pounds for every such offence (2).

156. It shall be lawful for any officer or agent of the company, and all persons called by him to his assistance, to seize and detain any person who shall have committed any offence against the provisions of this or the special Act, or any Act incorporated therewith, and whose name and residence shall be unknown to such officer or agent, and convey him, with all convenient despatch, before some justice, without any warrant or other authority than this or the special Act; and such justice shall proceed with all convenient despatch to the hearing and determining of the complaint against such offender.

158. No proceeding in pursuance of this or the special Act, or any Act incorporated therewith, shall be quashed or vacated for want of form, nor shall the same be removed by certiorari or otherwise into any of the superior courts.

(1) The concluding portion of this section, which was repealed by the Summary Jurisdiction Act, 1884, is omitted. Proceedings must now be taken under the Summary Jurisdiction Acts, 1848 and 1879.

(2) This section is repealed by the Summary Jurisdiction Act, 1884, so far as relates to any matter to which the Summary Jurisdiction Acts apply.

159. If any party shall feel aggrieved by any determination or adjudication of any justice with respect to any penalty or forfeiture under the provisions of this or the special Act, or any Act incorporated therewith, such party may appeal to the general quarter sessions ⁽¹⁾

160.

160. At the quarter sessions for which such notice shall be given the court shall proceed to hear and determine the appeal in a summary way, or they may, if they think fit, adjourn it to the following sessions; and upon the hearing of such appeal the court may, if they think fit, mitigate any penalty or forfeiture, or they may confirm or quash the adjudication, and order any money paid by the appellant, or levied by distress upon his goods, to be returned to him, and may also order such further satisfaction to be made to the party injured as they may judge reasonable; and they may make such order concerning the costs, both of the adjudication and of the appeal, as they may think reasonable.

Parties allowed to appeal to quarter sessions, on giving security.

Court to make such order as they think reasonable.

WATCHING AND LIGHTING ACT, 1833.

3 & 4 WILL. IV., c. 90.

Secs. 5—10.

On application of three rated inhabitants, churchwardens to convene a meeting in vestry to determine whether the provisions of this Act shall be adopted.

Chairman to be elected who shall determine any controversies.

Chairman to read requisition, and require persons to determine whether the Act shall be adopted.

If meeting determine to proceed the provisions of this Act shall thenceforth take effect.

Inhabitants to fix amount of money to be raised.

Poll may be demanded as to adoption of Act.

Notice of poll to be given by churchwardens.

5. And be it further enacted, that from and after the passing of this Act, upon the application in writing of three or more of the ratepayers of any parish, it shall be lawful for the churchwardens thereof, and they are hereby required, within ten days after the receipt of such application as aforesaid, to appoint and notify a time and place for a public meeting of the ratepayers of the said parish, for the purpose of determining whether the provisions in this Act contained shall be adopted and carried into execution in the said parish: Provided always, that the time appointed for holding the said meeting shall not be less than ten days and not more than twenty-one days from the time of the said application so being delivered to them as aforesaid, and that notification of the time and place of meeting shall be made by forthwith affixing a notice on the principal outer door of every parish church or chapel situate within such parish, or on the usual place of affixing notices relating to the parochial affairs of any such parish, and also by publication of the same in the parish church or chapel on the Sunday previous to the day appointed for holding such meeting, during or immediately after divine service.

6. And be it further enacted, that such person as may be elected by the ratepayers present shall preside as chairman at such meetings; and that if any controversy shall arise at any such meeting as to the qualification or right of voting or eligibility of any person claiming to vote, or as to the qualification or eligibility of any candidate, such controversy shall be determined by the chairman presiding at such meeting.

7. And be it further enacted, that the chairman who shall preside at any meeting assembled as herein directed shall read or cause to be read the requisition whereupon the meeting shall have been summoned, and shall require the persons assembled thereat to determine by majority of votes, as herein mentioned, whether the provisions of this Act, as herein set forth, shall or shall not be adopted and acted upon within such parish: Provided nevertheless, that it shall be lawful for the majority of the ratepayers present to adjourn such meeting from time to time.

8. And be it further enacted, that if at any such meeting it shall be determined by a majority consisting of two thirds of the votes of the ratepayers present at such meeting that the provisions of this Act shall be adopted, then and in such case such provisions shall from thenceforth take effect and come into operation in such parish; and it shall forthwith be determined that a certain number not being more than twelve nor less than three inspectors shall be elected to carry such purposes into effect; and the number of inspectors so determined upon shall be elected in manner herein mentioned.

9. And be it further enacted, that the ratepayers of such parish shall at their first meeting, or at some adjournment thereof, and so on from time to time in every succeeding year at a meeting to be called for that purpose in manner herein directed, fix and determine the total amount of money which the inspectors shall have power to call for in any one year, in order to carry into effect the provisions of this Act, such sum to be raised in the manner herein directed, upon the full and fair annual value of all property rateable for the relief of the poor within such parish, such full and fair annual value to be computed according to the last valuation for the time being acted upon in assessing the poor's rate for the said parish: Provided nevertheless, that any five rated inhabitants, qualified to vote as herein mentioned, may, at such meeting or adjournment thereof, in writing given to the chairman of the said meeting, demand a poll to be taken of the ratepayers qualified to vote upon the question as to whether this Act and the provisions thereof, or any part thereof, shall be adopted in such parish, and also as to the amount of money to be raised in the succeeding year for the purposes thereof, and the number of inspectors to be elected as determined at such meeting, and which said demand of a poll the said chairman is required forthwith to deliver to the churchwardens of the said parish.

10. And be it further enacted, that the said churchwardens of the said parish shall, on the first Sunday next after the receipt of such demand of a poll, affix, or cause to be affixed a notice on the principal outer door of every parish church or chapel situate within such parish, or on the usual place of affixing notices relating to parochial affairs of any such parish, specifying some day, not earlier than ten days and not later than twenty-one days after such Sunday, and at what place or places within the said parish, the ratepayers are required to signify their votes for or against the adoption of this Act, or such part thereof as may have been agreed upon at the said meeting, as well as with respect to the annual amount of money to be raised in the succeeding year for the purposes thereof, and the number of inspectors to be elected as determined at such meeting, which votes shall be received on two successive days, commencing at eight of the clock in the forenoon and ending at four of the clock in the afternoon of each day ; and the said notice shall be to the following effect : Secs. 10-15.

"The churchwardens of this parish [insert the name of the parish] having received a demand for a poll, duly signed according to the provisions of an Act of the fourth year of the reign of King William the Fourth, intituled 'An Act,' &c. [setting out the title of the Act], the ratepayers of this parish of [insert the name of the parish] are hereby required, all and each of them, on the day of next, and the following day, to signify to the said churchwardens, by a declaration, either printed or written, or partly printed or partly written, addressed and delivered to one of the churchwardens at [insert here the place], their votes for or against the adoption of the aforesaid Act, or so much thereof as relates to watching or lighting [as the case may be], the amount of the money to be raised in the succeeding year for the purposes thereof, being [here insert the sum agreed on at the meeting], and the number of inspectors to be elected [insert the number also agreed on], such sum and such number of inspectors being fixed and determined upon at a meeting of the ratepayers called pursuant to the said Act.

"(Signed)

Churchwardens."

11. And be it further enacted, that the said declaration shall be to the following effect :
 "I A. B. of Street [or place or house] in this parish of vote [for or against, as the case may be], the adoption of the Act of the fourth year of the reign of His Majesty King William the Fourth, intituled 'An Act,' &c. [set out title of the Act], or so much thereof as relates to watching or lighting [as in the notice], the amount of the money to be raised in the succeeding year for the purposes thereof, being [as in notice], and the number of inspectors to be elected [as in notice]."

Form of declaration.

12. And be it further enacted, that the said churchwardens shall carefully examine the votes to them delivered as aforesaid, and shall compare them with the last rate made for the relief of the poor of the said parish, and shall be empowered to call before them and examine any parish officer touching the said votes, or any ratepayer so giving his vote, and after a full and fair summing-up of the said votes shall, by public notice according to the form and manner hereafter prescribed, declare whether or not two thirds of the votes given have been given in favour of the adoption of the said Act (or so much thereof as relates to watching or lighting, as in the notice), and also as to the sum of money to be raised in the succeeding year, and the number of inspectors to be elected to be (as in the notice) : Provided always, that the whole number of persons voting shall be a clear majority of the ratepayers of the parish : Provided also, that in case of a poll being demanded as aforesaid, the adoption or non-adoption of this Act, with the sum to be raised, and the number of inspectors to be elected as aforesaid, shall be decided by such number of votes as aforesaid : Provided also, that the expenses incurred by the churchwardens in calling such meeting, giving the notices as aforesaid, and in taking such poll, shall be paid out of the rate collected for the relief of the poor in the said parish.

Churchwardens to examine the votes, and declare whether two thirds of them are in favour of adopting this Act.

13. Provided always, and be it further enacted, that any of the ratepayers of the aforesaid parish, not exceeding five together, may inspect, at or in the vestry-room, or in some convenient place within the same parish, and they are hereby empowered to inspect, the votes so given for and against the adoption of this Act, with the sum to be raised, and number of inspectors to be elected as aforesaid, at all seasonable times within one month after such notice shall have been given ; and the churchwardens of the said parish are hereby required carefully to preserve the said votes, and freely to permit and allow the examination thereof by the aforesaid ratepayers of the said parish at all seasonable times within the period aforesaid.

Ratepayers may inspect votes.

14. And be it further enacted, that no person shall be deemed a ratepayer, or be entitled to vote, or do any other act, matter, or thing as such, under the provisions of this Act, unless he or she shall have been rated to the relief of the poor for the whole year immediately preceding his so voting or otherwise acting as such ratepayer, and shall have paid all the parochial rates, taxes, and assessments due from him or her at the time of so voting or acting, except such as have been made or become due within the six months immediately preceding such voting.

No person to vote unless he has been rated one year.

15. And be it further enacted, that notice of the adoption of this Act (or any part thereof, specifying it), with the amount of the sum to be raised in the succeeding year, and the number of inspectors to be elected by any parish, shall be forthwith given by the churchwardens for the time being of the said parish by affixing a notice of the same to the principal door of every church and chapel within the said parish, or on the usual place of affixing notices relating to the parochial affairs of such parish ; and in such case the provisions of this Act shall from thenceforth take effect and come into operation in such parish : Provided always that it shall be lawful for the inhabitants present at any meeting called in manner herein directed, at any time after the expiration of three years from the time when the provisions of this Act shall have been

Notice of adoption of this Act.

Act may be abandoned.

Secs. 15-19. adopted, to determine that the provisions of this Act shall, from and after a day to be fixed upon at such meeting, cease to be acted upon; in which case, from and after such last-mentioned day, the provisions of this Act shall no longer be in force in such parish: Provided, nevertheless, that the provisions in this Act contained shall remain and continue in force for the purpose of collecting and recovering any rate which may have been previously made; and if on the abandonment and ceasing to act upon the provisions of this Act there shall be any balance in the hands of the said inspectors, after defraying the expenses incurred in carrying into effect the provisions of this Act, the said balance shall be paid over to the overseers of the poor of the said parish, to be applied in aid of the poor rates of the said parish.

If meeting determine against adopting this Act.

16. And be it further enacted, that in case any such meeting convened as aforesaid, or, in case of a poll having been demanded as aforesaid, a majority of two thirds of the votes as aforesaid shall not have determined to adopt the provisions of this Act, it shall not be lawful for the inhabitants to meet again in less than one year from the period at which such meeting shall have been so convened as aforesaid.

Mode of electing inspectors.

17. And be it further enacted, that the inspectors herein mentioned shall be elected in manner following; (that is to say,) the churchwardens of any parish adopting the provisions of this Act shall, in the manner herein first directed, forthwith call a meeting of the ratepayers of such parish, and each candidate, being a person who shall reside within such parish, and who shall have been assessed or charged by the last rate made for the relief of the poor in respect of a dwelling-house or other tenement or premises of the annual value, according to the said rate, of fifteen pounds or more, shall be eligible to be elected an inspector for the purposes of this Act, and shall be proposed at the said meeting by some person duly qualified to vote thereat, and shall be seconded by some other person in like manner qualified; and if more candidates than the number of inspectors authorised to be elected shall be proposed, and a poll shall be demanded by any ten persons qualified to vote on behalf of any such candidates, then the chairman shall open and proceed with such poll, and in a book or books prepared for that purpose, which book or books the churchwardens are hereby required to cause to be prepared, shall enter or cause to be entered the name of all such candidates, and the name of every person duly qualified to be present and vote who shall desire to vote, together with his description and abode, and shall register the vote of every such person for every or any such candidate as every such person may respectively require; and if the votes of all the persons duly qualified and desirous to vote cannot be conveniently collected and registered by four of the clock of the same day upon which the poll shall have been commenced, then the chairman shall at that hour adjourn such poll to the day next succeeding, unless such day shall be a Sunday, Christmas Day, or Good Friday, and in that case to the day following, and then proceed to collect and register the votes of all persons duly qualified and applying to vote; provided, nevertheless, that the poll shall finally close at four of the clock on the day to which it shall have been adjourned, or sooner, provided all persons duly qualified and desirous to vote shall have voted, and after the lapse of one hour without any person offering to vote; and as soon after the close of the poll as may be possible the result thereof shall be declared at the place where the election may have been holden, and certified by the chairman to the overseers of the poor; and the said churchwardens shall be reimbursed all such reasonable charges and expenses as may be incurred in providing clerks and books, and otherwise in the performance of the duties hereby required of them by the candidates at the said election for the said office: Provided, nevertheless, that if the provisions of this Act are adopted at the meeting first called for that purpose, the said inspectors may be appointed at the same time by the ratepayers of such parish then present, unless a poll should be demanded, and if such poll should be demanded it shall be proceeded with as herein directed.

At the end of twelve months the inspectors to give notice to churchwardens that they are ready to produce their accounts, and churchwardens to call a meeting for that purpose.

18. And be it further enacted, that in every parish adopting the provisions of this Act the inspectors shall, within one month next after the expiration of twelve calendar months from the day of such adoption, give notice to the churchwardens of the said parish that they are ready to produce their accounts and vouchers for the previous year, and thereupon the said churchwardens shall give due notice, in the manner required with respect to the first meeting to be held under this Act, that a meeting of the ratepayers of the said parish will be held at an hour and place in the said notice to be mentioned, on some day, not being a Sunday, within ten days from the receipt of such notice, for the purpose of the said inspectors producing such accounts and vouchers, and for the election of inspectors for the execution of this Act, and for determining the amount of the money to be raised for the purposes of this Act, for the current year; and in every future year such meeting shall, for the purposes aforesaid, be held on the same day in the corresponding month, except such day should fall on a Sunday, and then on the day following.

Meetings in future years.

19. And be it further enacted, that at such annual meeting the said inspectors shall produce their accounts and vouchers of all moneys received and paid by virtue of this Act for the previous year; and a duplicate or copy of such accounts, verified on oath before any two justices by the

- aid inspectors or any two of them, shall be deposited with the said inspectors, and shall be open at all reasonable times to the inspection of all parties interested; and at such annual meeting one third of the inspectors, or as near thereto as the number appointed will admit of, shall go out of office in rotation; and in place of such inspectors so going out of office a like number of other inspectors shall be elected: Provided always, that any of such outgoing inspectors shall be re-eligible, and may be re-elected, and shall in such case continue to act and remain in office, anything herein contained to the contrary notwithstanding.
20. And be it further enacted, that the chairman appointed to preside at such annual meeting shall proceed in such manner as the chairman at the first meeting to be held under this Act is hereinbefore directed to proceed at the election of the inspectors to be first appointed for the execution of this Act, and shall decide on questions which may arise as to the eligibility or qualification of any person whatsoever, and as to all matters whatsoever connected with the said election, and shall declare the result of the same as aforesaid.
21. And be it further enacted, that in case any inspector shall die, or become disqualified by change of residence or otherwise, or shall neglect to act, and in case of any casual vacancy happening in any manner whatever, so that the number of inspectors shall be reduced to less than three, notice shall be immediately given by the acting inspectors to the churchwardens of the parish, who shall forthwith, in the manner directed by this Act, call a meeting of the rated inhabitants as aforesaid for the purpose of filling up such vacancy or vacancies.
22. And be it further enacted, that the inspectors for executing this Act in any parish shall meet on the first Monday in every month, at noon, at some convenient place or office previously publicly notified; and at such monthly meeting it shall be lawful for any inhabitant rated to the relief of the poor of any such parish to appear there, and prefer any matter of complaint which he may think proper to make concerning any matter or thing done by force or in pursuance of or under pretence of the provisions of this Act.
23. And be it further enacted, that such inspectors shall meet at all other times and so often at any previous meeting shall be determined upon; and it shall be at all times competent for any one inspector, when three inspectors only shall have been appointed, and in all other cases for any two inspectors, by writing under his or their hands, to summon, upon at least forty-eight hours notice, the inspectors for any special purpose therein named, and for such time as shall be therein named; and that at all meetings of such inspectors any number not less than one third of the whole number when more than three inspectors shall have been appointed, and when only three inspectors shall have been appointed then not less than two inspectors, shall constitute a quorum for transacting business.
24. And be it further enacted, that it shall be lawful for the said inspectors elected in any parish under this Act for the time being, and they are hereby authorised and required, to appoint, during pleasure, such treasurer and other officers as they shall think necessary for effecting the purposes of this Act, and to remove and displace the same, and to hire and rent a sufficient office house or room for holding their meetings and transacting their business, and also to appoint suitable salaries, wages, and allowances for such treasurer and other officers, and also to agree to a reasonable rent for such office or house or room, and to pay such salaries, wages, and allowances, and such rent, out of the moneys received by the inspectors under the authority of this Act: Provided, nevertheless, that no person shall at the same time hold two offices or positions under the said inspectors.
25. And be it further enacted, that it shall be lawful for the said inspectors, or any two or more of them, and they are hereby required, to take security from the treasurer to be appointed by virtue of this Act for the due execution of his office of treasurer, according to the true intent and meaning of this Act, which security shall be to the full amount of the sum likely to be in the hands of the said treasurer at any one time; and in case any such treasurer shall neglect or refuse for the space of three weeks next after his appointment to give or offer such security to the satisfaction of the said inspectors, then the appointment of every such person so neglecting or refusing shall be null and void to all intents and purposes, and the said inspectors shall within three weeks then next assemble and appoint some other fit and proper person to the office of treasurer, instead of the person so refusing or neglecting as aforesaid, and shall so assemble and appoint from time to time until security shall be given to their satisfaction as aforesaid.
26. And be it further enacted, that every such treasurer and other officer appointed by virtue of this Act shall under his respective hand, and at such time or times and in such manner as the said inspectors shall direct, deliver to the said inspectors, or such person as they shall appoint, true and perfect accounts in writing of all matters and things committed to his charge by virtue of this Act, and also of all moneys which shall have been by such officer received by virtue of or for the purposes of this Act, and of how much thereof shall have been expended and disbursed, and for what purposes, together with proper vouchers for such payments, and that every such officer shall pay all such moneys as shall remain due from him to the treasurer for the time being, or to such person or persons as the said inspector shall appoint to receive the same; and if any such treasurer, officer, or other person shall refuse or neglect to make and render such account, or to produce and deliver up the vouchers relating to the same, or to make payments as aforesaid, or shall refuse or wilfully neglect to deliver to the said inspectors or to such person or persons as they shall appoint to receive the same, within three days after being thereunto required by the said inspectors by notice in writing under the hands and seals of any two or more of the said inspectors given to or left at the last or usual place of abode of such officer, all books, papers, and writings in his custody or power relating to the execution of this Act, or to give satisfaction to the said inspectors or such other person or persons as aforesaid respecting the same, then and in every such case, upon complaint made by the said inspectors, or by such person or persons as they the said inspectors shall appoint for that purpose, of any such refusal or wilful neglect as aforesaid, to any justice of the peace, such justice may and he is hereby authorised and required to issue a summons under his hand and seal for the officer so refusing or neglecting to appear before two justices of the peace; and upon the said officer appearing, or having been so summoned and not appearing without some sufficient and reasonable excuse, or not being found, it shall be lawful for the said justices to hear and determine the matter in a summary way; and if, upon confession of the party, or by the testimony of any credible witness or witnesses upon oath (which oath such justices are hereby empowered to administer), it shall appear to such justices that any moneys remain due from such officer, such justices may and they are hereby authorised and required, upon non-payment thereof, by warrant under their hands and seals, to cause such money to be levied by distress and sale of the goods and chattels of such officer; and if no goods and chattels of such officer shall be found sufficient to answer and satisfy the said money, and the charges of distraining and selling the said goods and chattels, or if it shall appear to such justices that such officer had refused or wilfully neglected to render and give such account, or to produce the vouchers relating thereto, or that any books, papers, or writings relating to the execution of this Act remained in the hands or in the custody or power of such officer, and he refused or wilfully neglected to deliver or give satisfaction respecting the same as aforesaid, then and in every such case such justices shall and they are hereby required to commit such offender to the common gaol or house of correction for the county, city, or place where such offender shall be or reside, there to remain, without bail or mainprize, until he shall have given a true and perfect account as aforesaid, or until he shall have paid such moneys as aforesaid, or compounded with the said inspectors for such money, and shall have paid such composition in such manner as they shall appoint (which composition the said inspectors are hereby empowered to make and receive), and until he shall have delivered up such books, papers, and writings, or given satisfaction in respect thereof, to the said inspectors or to such other person or persons as aforesaid; but no such offender shall be kept or detained in such common gaol or house of correction for want of sufficient distress by virtue of this Act for any longer space or time than three calendar months.

27. And be it further enacted, that no prosecution or commitment, under the provisions of this Act, of any treasurer or other officer or person to be appointed under the powers of this Act, shall acquit or discharge any surety or security that shall or may have been taken by or given to the said inspectors for the due and faithful execution of his or their office, or the payment of the moneys received or to be received by him or them respectively.

28. And be it further enacted, that if any person who shall be employed as treasurer, or any other officer or servant who shall be in anywise employed by the said inspectors for putting this Act or any of the powers thereof into execution, shall exact, take, or accept any fee or reward whatsoever other than such salaries, allowances, and rewards as are appointed by this Act, or shall be appointed, allowed, and approved of by the said inspectors, for or on account of anything done or to be done by virtue of this Act, or on any account whatsoever relative to putting this Act into execution, or shall in anywise be concerned or interested in any bargain or contract made or to be made by the said inspectors; and no person during the time he holds the office of inspector shall accept or hold any office or place of trust created by virtue of this Act within the said parish, or shall be concerned directly or indirectly in any contract with the said parish; every such person so offending shall be incapable of ever serving or being employed under this Act, and shall over and above forfeit the sum of fifty pounds to any person or persons who shall sue for the same.

Inspectors may sue and be sued in the name of

29. And be it further enacted, that the said inspectors may sue and be sued in the name of any one of the inspectors for the time being; and all actions or suits that may be necessary or expedient to be brought for the recovery of any penalty or sum of money due or payable by virtue of this Act, or for or in respect of any other matter or thing relating to this Act, may be brought in the name of any one of the said inspectors; and that no action or suit which may be brought, commenced, or prosecuted by or against the said inspectors, or any of them, by virtue or on account of this Act, shall abate or be discontinued by the death, resignation, or removal of such inspector, but such inspector shall be deemed plaintiff or defendant in any such action or suit (as the case may be): Provided also, that in all cases in which the inspector as aforesaid shall, in pursuance of this Act, be the plaintiff or defendant on the record in any action or actions, suit or suits, in which in effect the said inspectors shall be suing or sued in the name of such one inspector as aforesaid, be (although appearing as the plaintiff or defendant on the record) may and shall nevertheless (if not otherwise interested or objectionable) be a good examinable and competent witness in every action or suit either for or against the said inspectors; and all the affidavits of debt or service which may be necessary or expedient to be made preparatory to or in the prosecution or defence of any and every such action, suit, or proceeding shall and may be lawfully made by such one inspector, notwithstanding he shall be nominal plaintiff or defendant on the record as aforesaid: Provided also, that every or any such inspector in whose name any action or suit shall be commenced, prosecuted, or defended in pursuance of this Act shall always be reimbursed and paid, out of the moneys to arise by virtue of this Act, all such costs, charges, and expenses as he shall be put to or become chargeable with by reason of his being made plaintiff or defendant therein; and in case of his removal from office, or ceasing to act as such inspector, all such costs, charges, and expenses shall be paid by the inspector for the time being; and no inspector shall be personally answerable or liable for the payment of the same or any part of them, unless such action or suit shall arise in consequence of his own wilful neglect or default, or have been brought or commenced or be defended without the order or direction of the said inspectors.

30. And be it further enacted, that all acts, orders, and proceedings of the said inspectors at any of their meetings shall be entered in a book to be kept by them for that purpose, and shall be signed by two of the inspectors who were then present; and all such acts, orders, and proceedings shall then be deemed and taken to be original acts, orders, and proceedings; and such books shall and may be produced and read as evidence of all such acts, orders, and proceedings upon any appeal or trial or information, or any proceedings, civil or criminal, and in any court or courts of law or equity whatsoever.

Proceedings at meetings of inspectors to be entered in books, which shall be good evidence.

31. And be it further enacted, that the said inspectors shall and they are hereby required from time to time to order and direct a book or books to be provided and kept, in which book or books shall be entered true and regular accounts of all sums of money received, paid, and expended for or on account of the purposes of this Act, and of the several articles, matters, and things for which such sums of money shall have been dispersed and paid; and such book or books shall at all reasonable times be open to the inspection of the said inspectors and of every inhabitant rated to the relief of the poor of the parish adopting the provisions of this Act, without fee or reward; and the said inspectors and other persons aforesaid, or any of them, shall or may take copies of or extracts from the said book or books, or any part thereof, without paying for the same; and in case the said inspectors shall refuse to permit or shall not permit the said persons aforesaid to inspect the same, or take copies or extracts as aforesaid, such inspector shall forfeit and pay any sum of money not exceeding five pounds for each default, to be levied and applied in manner hereinafter provided.

Accounts to be kept.

32. And be it further enacted, that as soon as the inspectors have been elected as aforesaid, it shall be lawful for them, or any two or more of them, from time to time to issue an order under their hands to the overseers of the poor of any parish to which the provisions of this Act shall be extended, by which order they shall require the said overseers to levy the amount mentioned in the said order.

Inspectors to issue an order to overseers for payment of money for the purposes of this Act.

33. And be it further enacted, that the overseers aforesaid shall, for the purpose of collecting, raising, and levying the rate necessary for the purposes of this Act, proceed in the same manner, and have the same powers, remedies, and privileges, as for levying money for the relief of the poor in the said parish: Provided always, that owners and occupiers of houses, buildings, and property (other than land) rateable to the relief of the poor in any such parish shall be rated at and pay a rate in the pound three times greater than that at which the owners and occupiers of land shall be rated at and pay for the purposes of this Act: Provided also, that the total amount of the sum to be collected, raised, and levied for the purposes of this Act within any one year shall not exceed such sum as shall have been agreed on by the inhabitants of the said parish as aforesaid, and that the said sum shall be assessed upon the full and fair annual value of which lands, houses, buildings, and other property within the said parish shall be rated or shall be rateable according to the last valuation made and acted upon for the rate for the relief of the poor within the said parish.

Power to collect rates.

poor of any such parish, and they are hereby required, whenever, according to the rate made for the relief of the poor, one and the same person shall be rated in one sum in respect of land, and also of houses, buildings, and other property, to cause such land, and also such houses, buildings, and other property, to be separately assessed, and the sum hereby authorised to be levied shall be assessed accordingly: Provided always, that every court-yard, yard, or garden (such garden not being a market garden or nursery ground) shall be included in and make part of the assessment to be made on the house, buildings, or other property to which they may be respectively attached: Provided also, that such land, houses, buildings, and other property shall not in the while be assessed at a higher amount than they were in the last rate made for the relief of the poor within the said parish.

ceeding over-
rate.

35. And be it further enacted, that if the overseers of the poor of any parish adopting the provisions of this Act shall go out of office before they shall have collected or levied the amount mentioned in the order issued under the hands of the said inspectors in pursuance of this Act, they shall deliver to the succeeding overseers, within seven days from the time they go out of office, a full and particular account in writing of the names of the parties from whom any money may be due on account of the rate made in pursuance of this Act, as well as the last order issued to them by the said inspectors; and in such case the succeeding overseers shall have the like powers and remedies under this Act for the collecting and recovery thereof, and shall be liable to the same penalties and forfeitures in case of the non-payment to the said inspectors, as their predecessors had or were liable to.

treasurer.

36. And be it further enacted, that the overseers of the poor of every parish adopting the provisions of this Act, to whom any such order as aforesaid shall be issued, shall pay over the amount mentioned in such order to the treasurer to be appointed in the said parish under this Act within three calendar months from the delivery of such order to one of the overseers, and shall keep the amounts of the said rate levied for the purposes of this Act separate and distinct from the accounts of the rates levied in the same parish for the relief of the poor; and at the time of making any payment to the said treasurer the said overseers shall deliver to him a note in writing signed by them, specifying the amount so paid, which note shall be kept by the treasurer as a voucher for his receipt of that particular amount; and the receipt of the said treasurer specifying the amount paid to him by the overseers, shall be a sufficient discharge to the overseers for such amount, and shall be allowed as such in passing their accounts with their respective parishes.

treasurer to be
overseers.

37. And be it enacted, that where any persons other than the overseers of the poor shall by virtue of any office or appointment be authorised and required to make and collect or cause to be collected the rate for the relief of the poor in any parish to which all or any of the provisions of this Act shall be extended, such persons, by whatsoever title they may be called, shall be deemed to be overseers of the poor within the meaning of this Act, and to be included under and denoted by the words "overseers of the poor," for all the purposes of this Act, as fully as if they were commonly called or known by the title of overseers of the poor.

authorised to collect poor's rates, such persons to be

Overseers may be summoned
payment.

38. And be it enacted, that in case the amount directed by such order as aforesaid to be paid by the overseers in any parish to which all or any of the provisions of this Act shall be extended shall not be paid to the said treasurer within the time specified for that purpose in the said order, any justice of the peace, upon complaint thereof made to him by the said treasurer or by any one of the inspectors, may and he is hereby authorised and required to issue a summons under his hand and seal for the said overseers so refusing or neglecting to pay such money as aforesaid to appear before two justices of the peace; and upon the said overseers appearing, or having been so summoned and not appearing without some sufficient and reasonable excuse, or not being found, it shall be lawful for the said justices and they are hereby required, in case the said money is not paid, to issue their warrant for levying the amount, or so much thereof as may be in arrears, by distress and sale of the goods of all or any of the said overseers; and in case the goods of all the said overseers shall not be sufficient to pay the same, the arrears thereof shall be added to the amount of the next levy which shall be directed to be made in such parish for the purposes of this Act, and shall be collected by the like method.

39. And be it further enacted, that the said inspectors shall from time to time appoint and employ such number of able-bodied watch-house keepers, sergeants of the watch, watchmen, patrolmen, streetkeepers, and other persons as they shall think sufficient for the proper protection of the inhabitants, houses, and property, streets and other places within the limits of this Act, by day or by night, or by day and by night, and provide for the use of all such watchmen, watch-house keepers, sergeants of the watch, patrolmen, and persons as aforesaid such clothing, arms, ammunition, and weapons, and shall assign to them such beats and rounds and duties, and appoint such laws for them to be on duty, and also such wages, rewards, and gratuities, or remunerations for their services, and also make such rules, orders and regulations relative to such watch-house keepers, sergeants of the watch, watchmen, patrol, streetkeepers, and other persons, and their duties, as to the said inspectors shall seem meet, and also shall and may offer and give, as well to the said persons as to any other not specially employed by them, such gratuities and rewards for apprehending felons and others, offenders within the limits of this Act, as to them shall seem proper; and shall and may defray the expenses of prosecuting any such felons and offenders, for the protection of the inhabitants of any parish adopting the provisions of this Act, or in defending any of the said persons or other officers of the said inspectors in the execution of their duty, as they shall think proper; and the said wages, rewards, gratuities, and the costs of such prosecutions or defences, and all other expenses that may be incurred by the said inspectors for the protection and guard of the inhabitants, shall and may be paid by the said inspectors out of the moneys received in pursuance of this Act.

40. And be it further enacted, that all such clothing, arms, ammunition, and weapons, so provided for the use of such watchmen, watch-house keepers, sergeants of the watch, patrol, and persons as aforesaid, shall remain and continue the property of the inspectors for the time being; and in case of the resignation, removal, or death of any such watchmen, watch-house keeper, sergeant of the watch, patrol, or person as aforesaid, shall be returned to the said inspectors; and in case of neglect or refusal so to do, the said watchmen, watch-house keeper, sergeant of the watch, patrol, or person as aforesaid, or in case of his death, the party in possession thereof, shall be subject and liable to a penalty not exceeding the sum of twenty pounds, to be recovered for the use of the said inspectors.

Watchmen, &c.
to deliver up
removal, &c.

41. And be it further enacted, that the watchmen, sergeants of the watch, patrols, and other persons to be appointed by virtue of this Act shall, during the time they shall be on duty, use their utmost endeavours to prevent any mischief by fire, and also to prevent all robberies, burglaries, and other felonies and misdemeanours, and other outrages, disorders, and breaches of the peace, within the limits of the parish adopting the provisions of this Act; and to apprehend and secure all felons, rogues, vagabonds, and disorderly persons who shall disturb the public peace, or any person or persons wandering, secreted, or misbehaving himself, herself, or themselves, or whom they shall have reasonable cause to suspect of any evil designs, and to secure and keep in safe custody every such person, in order that he or she may be conveyed as soon as conveniently may be before one of His Majesty's justices of the peace, to be examined and dealt with according to law; and it shall and may be lawful to and for the said watchmen, sergeants of the watch, patrols, and other person or persons so appointed as aforesaid, to call and require any person or persons to aid and assist them in taking such felons, rogues, vagabonds, and all disorderly or suspected persons as aforesaid; and in case any person or persons shall assault or resist or shall promote or encourage the assaulting or resisting any of the watchmen, sergeants of the watch, patrols, or other person or persons so appointed as aforesaid, in the execution of their duty, every such person shall for every such offence forfeit and pay any sum not exceeding forty shillings; and in case any such offender shall not, on conviction, pay the said forfeiture, such justice is hereby required to commit him, her, or them to the house of correction, there to be kept to hard labour, if the said justice shall so order, for any time not exceeding three calendar months, unless such forfeiture shall be sooner paid; or instead of committing the said offender as aforesaid, the said justice may, by warrant under his hand and seal, cause the said forfeiture, as well as the costs (if any) to be levied by distress and sale of the goods and chattels of the offender, returning the overplus (if any) of the money raised or recovered, after discharging the said forfeiture and the costs and expenses of recovering and levying the same, to the owner of the goods and chattels so seized and distrained.

Duty of watchmen, &c.

42. And be it further enacted, that all watchmen, sergeants of the watch, and patrols shall be sworn in as constables before any justice of the peace, and act as such while in execution of the powers and authorities of this Act; and they are hereby invested with and shall have and enjoy the like powers and authorities, privileges, and immunities, and shall be subject and liable to such and the like penalties and forfeitures, as any constable or constables is or are invested with, or shall or may have and enjoy, or is or are or shall be subject or liable to by law: Provided nevertheless, that no person by being sworn in and acting as or executing the office of a constable shall thereby gain a settlement in such parish.

Watchmen, &c.
to be sworn in,
and to have the
constables.

43. And be it further enacted, that in all such cases in which any of the duties usually performed by constables shall have been executed by any of the officers appointed by the inspectors as hereinbefore enacted, all fees and allowances for the performance of such duties shall be paid over to the said inspectors, to be by them applied in aid of the rate levied under the provisions of this Act.

44. And be it further enacted, that it shall be lawful for the said inspectors from time to

Secs. 44-48. time to provide and keep up fire engines, with pipes and other utensils proper for the same, for the use of the parish adopting the provisions of this Act, and to provide a proper place or places for the keeping of the same, and to place such engines under the care of some proper person or persons, and to make him or them such allowance for his or their trouble as may be thought reasonable, and the expenses attending the providing and keeping of such engines shall be paid out of the money authorised to be received by the inspectors under the provisions of this Act.

Lamp irons to be put up.

45. And be it further enacted, that it shall be lawful for the said inspectors, and they are hereby empowered, from time to time to cause such lamp irons or lamp posts or other posts to be put or fixed upon or against the walls or palisadoes of any houses, tenements, buildings, or inclosures (doing as little damage as may be practicable thereto), or to be put up and erected in such other manner, within all or any of the said roads, streets, and places within the limits of this Act, as they shall think proper; and also to cause such number of lamps, of such sizes and sorts, to be provided and affixed and put upon such lamp irons and lamp posts as they shall think necessary for lighting all or any of such roads, streets, and places, and cause the same to be lighted with gas, oil, or otherwise, for such number of hours in every twenty-four hours as they shall think necessary: and also to cause such a number of watch-houses or watch-boxes to be provided, erected, or affixed as they shall think necessary for watching all or any of the streets, roads, and places within the limits of this Act.

Gas pipes not to be laid on private premises without consent.

46. Provided always, and be it further enacted, that nothing herein contained shall extend or be construed to extend to authorise or empower the said inspectors, or any body or bodies politic or corporate, or person or persons contracting with the said inspectors for lighting with gas such roads, streets, and public places, to carry or lay any pipe or pipes, cocks or branches from any mains or pipes, against, into, or through any dwelling house or dwelling houses, manufactories, public or private buildings, or to continue the same, without the consent in writing of the owner or owners, occupier or occupiers for the time being of such dwelling house or dwelling houses, manufactories, public or private buildings respectively, nor to enable any body or bodies politic or corporate, or person or persons contracting with the said inspectors for lighting such streets and public places, to enter into or upon any private lands or grounds, without the consent in writing of the owner or owners, occupier or occupiers of such lands or grounds for that purpose first had and obtained.

Owners of private grounds may alter position of pipes.

47. Provided also, and be it further enacted, that in case the soil, pitching, or pavement of any road or way, for the purpose of laying any gas main or gas pipe along, under, or across the same, be broken up with the consent of the owner or owners of the soil for the time being, and after the same shall have been so laid and placed such owner or owners shall be desirous of having the same removed, it shall be lawful for such owner or owners at any time or times thereafter, if he, she, or they shall deem it necessary or expedient, at his, her, or their own costs and charges, to alter and vary the position of such pipe or pipes, main or mains, and to relay the same, so that no damage be done thereby to the said body or bodies politic or corporate or person or persons contracting with the said inspectors, and so that such body or bodies politic or corporate or person or persons contracting with the said inspectors as aforesaid be not thereby prevented from or obstructed in lighting any public or private lamp, unless such damage or obstruction be unavoidable.

For stopping the escape of gas.

48. And be it further enacted, that whenever any gas shall be found to escape from any of the pipes which shall be laid down or set up by order of the said inspectors in pursuance of this Act, the body or bodies politic or corporate, or person or persons whosever, making, furnishing, or supplying any gas used or burnt for lighting any highway, street, or place, or any houses, manufactory, building, or other premises within the limits of any parish adopting the provisions of this Act, shall at their own expense, immediately after receiving notice by parol or in writing from any person or persons whatsoever, to be given or left at their office or usual place of transacting their business, of any such escape of gas, cause the most speedy and effectual measures to be taken to stop or prevent such gas from escaping; and in case the said body or bodies politic or corporate, or person or persons as aforesaid, shall not within twenty-four hours next after such notice by parol or in writing being given of any such escape of gas, effectually stop and prevent the gas from escaping, and wholly and satisfactorily remove the cause of complaint, then and in every such case the said body or bodies politic or corporate, or person or persons as aforesaid, shall for every such offence forfeit and pay any sum not exceeding five pounds for each and every day, after the expiration of twenty-four hours from the time of giving any such notice, during which the gas shall be suffered to escape as aforesaid; which penalty shall from time to time be recoverable in a summary way, on the oath or affirmation of one or more credible witness or witnesses before any two justices of the peace, and shall and may be recovered, with all reasonable charges, by distress and sale of the goods and chattels of any such body or bodies politic or corporate, or person or persons as aforesaid, by the warrant of any two justices of the peace as aforesaid, to be granted in like manner and subject to the like provisions as are herein directed touching other penalties to be recovered by virtue of this Act. Secs. 48-50.

49. And be it further enacted, that it shall be lawful for the body or bodies politic or corporate, or other person or persons whatsoever, making, furnishing, or supplying any gas used or burnt for lighting any highway, street, or place, or any house, manufactory, building, or other premises, within the limits of any parish adopting the provisions of this Act, to lay iron pipes, of such breadth, depth, and dimensions, and in such manner as they shall think expedient, under the roads, streets, and other public places within the limits of this Act, for the purpose of carrying off the washings or other waste liquids which may arise in the prosecution of the works aforesaid, the said body or bodies politic or corporate, or other person or persons as aforesaid, doing as little damage as may be in laying the said pipes, and immediately repairing, at their own expense, all such damage; provided that no such washings or other waste liquids, or any other matter or thing made or arising in the manufacture of such gas, shall be conducted or conveyed into any river, brook, canal, or running stream; and that no such pipe shall be laid in any situation where the same can, shall, or may in any manner interfere with, prejudice, or affect any of the present or future public or private wells, sewers, or drains within the limits of the parish adopting the provisions of this Act, or without the consent of the said inspectors. Power to convey away washings of gas works.

And be it further enacted, that if any body or bodies politic or corporate, company or companies of proprietors, or any other person or persons whatsoever, making, furnishing, or supplying any gas used or burnt for lighting any highway, street, or place, or any house, manufactory, building, or other premises, within the limits of any parish adopting the provisions of this Act, shall at any time empty, drain, or convey, or cause or suffer to be emptied, drained, or conveyed, or to run or flow, any washings or other waste liquids, substances, or things whatsoever which shall arise or be made in the prosecution of the said gas works, or in the manufacture or process of making or procuring such gas, into any river, brook, or running stream, reservoir, canal, aqueduct, waterway, feeder, pond or springhead, or well, or into any drain, sewer, or ditch communicating with any of them, or do or cause to be done any annoyance, act, or thing to the water contained in any of them, whereby the water contained therein, or any part thereof, shall or may be spoiled, fouled, or corrupted, then and in every such case any such body or bodies politic or corporate, company or companies of proprietors, or other person or persons, so offending as aforesaid, shall forfeit and pay for every such offence the sum of two hundred pounds; and such penalty or forfeiture shall and may be sued for and recovered, together with full costs of suit, in any of His Majesty's courts of law, by regular or summary action of debt or on the case, or by bill, plaint, or information, wherein no essoign, protection, privilege, wager of law, nor more than one imparlance shall be allowed; and the whole of such penalty shall be paid to the person or persons who shall inform or sue for the same: Provided always, that no such penalty or forfeiture shall be recoverable unless the same be sued for within six calendar months from after the time when such annoyance, nuisance, injury, damage, act, or thing shall have ceased and determined: Provided also, that over and above and in addition to the said penalty of two hundred pounds, and whether such penalty shall or shall not have been sued for or recovered, in case any of the said washings or other waste liquid, or noisome or offensive liquid, substances, or things, shall be emptied, drained, conducted or conveyed, or caused or suffered to run or flow, in manner aforesaid, into any river, brook, or running stream, or any reservoir, canal, aqueduct, waterway, feeder, pond or springhead, or well, or into any drain, sewer, or ditch communicating with any of them, or any such annoyance, nuisance, injury, damage, act, or thing shall be done or caused to be done as aforesaid, and notice thereof in writing shall have been given by any person or persons to whom the same shall belong, or by any other person or persons whomsoever, to the said body or bodies politic or corporate, company or companies of proprietors, or any of them, or other the person or persons making, furnishing, or supplying any gas used or burnt for lighting any highway, street, or place, or any house, manufactory, building, or other premises, within any parish or part of a parish adopting the provisions of this Act, so offending, or to his, her, or their clerk or clerks, or to any person in his or their service or employ, and such body or bodies politic or corporate, company or companies of proprietors, or other person or persons, shall not within twenty-four hours after such notice shall have been given to them or him as aforesaid, stop and hinder or prevent all and every such washings, waste liquids, or noisome or offensive liquids, substances, or things, from being emptied, drained, conducted, or conveyed, or from running or flowing, in manner aforesaid, and every such other annoyance, nuisance, injury, damage, act, or thing from being done as aforesaid, then and in every such case the said body or bodies politic or corporate, company or companies of proprietors, or other person or persons so offending, shall forfeit and pay the sum of twenty pounds for each and every day such washings, waste liquids, or noisome Penalty for conveying washings into any river, &c.

or offensive liquids, substances, or things, shall be so emptied, drained, conducted, or conveyed, or caused or suffered to run or flow, in manner aforesaid, or such other annoyance, nuisance, injury or damage, act or thing shall be so done or caused to be done as aforesaid; and such last-mentioned penalty shall and may be recovered and levied in such and the like manner as any other penalty or forfeiture is in and by this Act directed to be recovered and levied, and shall be paid to the informer, or to the person or persons who, in the judgment of the justice before whom the conviction shall take place, shall have sustained any annoyance, injury, or damage by any such act so done or committed.

Gas pipes to be laid four feet from water pipes and in a particular manner.

51. And be it further enacted, that all and every the pipes or other conduits to be used or laid for the conveyance of gas, in, under, through, along, across, or round any road, street, or other place within the limits of any parish adopting the provisions of this Act, shall be so laid at the greatest practical distance, and whenever the width of the carriageway in such street or place will allow thereof, at the distance of four feet at least from the nearest part of any water pipe already laid down or hereafter to be laid down for the conveyance of water in, under, through, along, across, or round any of the said roads, streets, or other places within the limits of any parish adopting the provisions of this Act, excepting in cases where it shall be unavoidably necessary to lay the gas pipes across any of the said water pipes, in which cases the said gas pipes shall be laid over and above the said water pipes, at the greatest practical distance therefrom, and shall form therewith a right angle, and in such cases the said gas pipes so crossing the said water pipes shall be at least nine feet in length, so that no joint of any of the said gas pipes shall be nearer to any part of the said water pipes than four feet at least; and in laying down the said gas pipes the said contractors or other persons supplying gas shall in no case join two or more gas pipes together previous to their being laid in the trench, but shall lay each pipe as near as may be in its place in the trench, and shall in such trench properly form the jointing with the other pipes to be added thereto with proper and sufficient materials, and shall also make and keep all and every such pipes, and all pipes connected and communicating therewith, and all the screws, joints, inlets, apertures, or openings therein respectively, air-tight, and in all and every respect prevent the said gas from escaping therefrom, upon pain of forfeiting for every offence the sum of five pounds.

To prevent escape of gas and contamination of water.

52. And be it further enacted, that whenever the water of any company of proprietors for supplying the inhabitants of any houses within the limits of any parish, part of a parish, or place adopting the provisions of this Act, with water shall be contaminated by any of the gas used or burnt for lighting any highway, street, or place, or any house, manufactory, building, or other premises, within the limits of any parish, part of a parish, or place, adopting the provisions of this Act, the body or bodies politic or corporate, or person or persons making, furnishing, or supplying such gas, shall forfeit and pay the sum of twenty pounds, to be sued for and recovered, and shall be applied to and for the use and benefit of the said company supplying water as aforesaid; and in case any such water shall be contaminated or affected by gas in any way whatsoever, then and in every such case the said company or other persons making, furnishing, or supplying such gas shall, within twenty-four hours next after the notice thereof in writing, signed by the treasurer or other officer of and for such water company as aforesaid, or by any person making use of such water, to be left at the usual place or office of transacting business of the said body or bodies politic or corporate, or other person or persons, cause the most proper and effectual measures to be taken to stop and prevent gas from escaping from their mains, works, or pipes, or contaminating or affecting the water of such company as aforesaid; and in case the said body or bodies politic or corporate, or other person or persons, making, furnishing, or supplying gas, shall not, within twenty-four hours next after such notice so left as aforesaid, effectually stop and prevent the gas from so escaping, and wholly and satisfactorily remove the cause of every such complaint, and prevent all and every such contamination whereof notice shall be given as aforesaid, that then the said body or bodies politic or corporate, or other person or persons as aforesaid, shall on each and every complaint forfeit and pay to the treasurer or other officer for the time being of such water company as aforesaid, for the use and benefit of the said company, over and above the beforementioned penalty of twenty pounds, the sum of ten pounds for each and every day during which the water of the said last mentioned company shall be and remain contaminated or affected by such gas; and in default of payment thereof as aforesaid, such penalty or penalties shall and may be recovered by information, to be exhibited on the oath of one credible witness, by and in the name of the treasurer or other officer for the time being of the said water company as aforesaid, or by and in the name of any one or more of the directors of the said company, at the option of the parties prosecuting such information against the said body or bodies politic or corporate, or other person or persons, making, furnishing, or supplying gas, before any two justices of the peace, with costs, to be assessed by such justices, and to be levied by distress and sale of the goods and chattels of the said body or bodies politic or corporate, or other person or persons making, furnishing, or supplying such gas, together with the charges of such distress and sale, by warrant under the hand and seal of such justices, which warrant such justices are hereby empowered to grant; and such penalty or penalties, when so levied, shall be paid to the treasurer or other officer for the time being of such water company, for the use of such water company. Secs. 52-55.

53. And be it further enacted, that in any case in which it shall be or become a question upon such complaint as aforesaid, whether the said water be contaminated or affected by the gas of the said body or bodies politic or corporate, or other person or persons, making, furnishing, or supplying any gas used or burnt for lighting any highway, street, or place, or any house, manufactory, building, or other premises, within the limits of this Act, it shall be lawful for the company of proprietors, or other the owners or proprietors of any waterworks, to dig to and about and search and examine the mains, pipes, conduits, and apparatus of the said body or bodies politic or corporate, or other person or persons as aforesaid, for the purpose of ascertaining whether such contamination proceed or be occasioned by the gas of the said body or bodies politic or corporate, or other person or persons as aforesaid; and if it shall appear that the said water has been contaminated by any escape of gas as aforesaid, the costs and expenses of the said digging, search, and examination, and of the repair of the pavement of the roads, street, or streets which shall be taken up or disturbed, shall be borne and paid by the said body or bodies politic or corporate, or person or persons as aforesaid; which costs and expenses of digging, search, and examination shall be ascertained and determined, if necessary, by such justices as aforesaid, and be recovered in like manner as any penalty may be recovered by virtue of this Act: Provided always, that if upon such examination it shall appear that such contamination has not arisen from any such escape of gas from any of the mains, pipes, or conduits of the said body or bodies politic or corporate, or other person or persons as aforesaid, then and in such case the said company of proprietors, or other the owners or proprietors of such waterworks, shall bear and pay all the costs and expenses of such search, examination, and repair as aforesaid, and shall also make good to the said body or bodies politic or corporate, or other person or persons as aforesaid, any loss, injury, or damage which may be occasioned to the said mains, pipes, conduits, or apparatus of the said body or bodies politic or corporate, or other person or persons as aforesaid, in and by such search and examination, the amount of such injury, loss, or damage to be ascertained and determined by such justices of the peace as aforesaid.

For ascertaining if the water be contaminated.

54. Provided always, and be it further enacted, that nothing in this Act contained shall extend or be construed to extend to prevent any person from proceeding by indictment or otherwise against any of the officers, servants, or workmen of the body or bodies politic or corporate, or other person or persons whomsoever, making, furnishing, or supplying any gas used or burnt for lighting any highway, street, or place, or any house, manufactory, building, or other premises, within the limits of any parish adopting the provisions of this Act, in respect of any works or other means which shall be employed by them or any of them in making the said gas, and using the same in furnishing with lights as aforesaid, as a public or private nuisance, or from bringing any action against the said body or bodies politic or corporate, company of proprietors, or person or persons as aforesaid, or any of their officers, servants, or workmen, for any injury sustained by reason of any such works, or the use of the said gas, or the method of lighting therewith, whether such injury shall proceed from the preparation or the use of the same gas, or method of lighting, or the carelessness or want of skill of any of the persons employed therein, or from any other cause whatsoever.

Persons supplying gas liable to be indicted for nuisance.

55. And be it further enacted, that if any person shall wilfully break, throw down, spoil, or damage any watchhouse, watchbox, or lamp, lamp iron, lamp post, pole, rail, chain, or other furniture thereof, or wilfully extinguish the light of any such lamp, it shall be lawful for any person or persons who shall see the offence committed to apprehend, and also for any other person or persons to assist in apprehending, the offender or offenders, and by the authority of this Act, and without any warrant, and to deliver him or them to any constable, who is to keep him, her, or them in safe custody, and with all reasonable despatch to convey him, her, or them before any justice of the peace; and such justice shall examine upon oath any witness or witnesses who shall appear to be produced to give evidence touching such offence; and if the party accused shall be convicted of any such offence, either by his, her, or their confession, or upon such evidence as aforesaid, he, she, or they shall forfeit any sum not exceeding forty shillings for every lamp, lamp iron, or lamp post so broken, thrown down, or damaged, and shall also make full satisfaction for the damage which shall have been done thereby, and not exceeding five pounds for any other such offence as aforesaid, and shall also make full satisfaction for the damage which shall have been done thereby; and one moiety of such forfeiture shall be paid to the person or persons apprehending such offender, and the other moiety shall be applied for the purposes of this Act, and shall be levied and recovered in the same manner as any forfeiture

Penalty for wilfully destroying or injuring lamps.

Secs. 55-60. is by this Act hereinbefore directed to be levied and recovered in the case of any person assaulting any watchman or other person in the execution of his duty.

How persons accidentally breaking lamps are to be dealt with.

56. And be it further enacted, that if any person shall carelessly or accidentally break any of the said lamps, lamp irons, or lamp posts, or do any such damage or injury as hereinbefore is mentioned, and shall not, upon demand, make satisfaction to the said inspectors for the damage or injury so done, it shall and may be lawful for any justice of the peace, upon any complaint thereof made to him upon oath, to summon the party complained of, and upon hearing the parties upon both sides, or on the non-appearance of the party complained of, to examine the matter of complaint, and award such sum of money, by way of satisfaction to the said inspectors for such damage, as such justice shall think reasonable; and in case of neglect or refusal forthwith to pay such money, then the same and all expenses attending the recovery thereof may be levied and recovered as any forfeiture is by this Act hereinbefore directed to be levied and recovered in the case of any person assaulting any watchman or other person in the execution of his duty.

Power for inspectors to contract for the works directed to be done by this Act.

57. And be it further enacted, that it shall and may be lawful to and for the said inspectors from time to time to enter into any contract or contracts with any person, company or companies whatsoever, for lighting the same streets, roads, and other places, or any of them, or any part thereof, either with oil or with gas, or with any other material or in any other manner whatsoever, or for furnishing lamps, lamp irons, lamp posts, watchboxes, posts, chains, pales, rails, and other things necessary for the purposes aforesaid, or any materials for the same, which contract or contracts shall specify the several works to be done and the prices to be paid for the same, and the time or times when the works shall be completed, and the penalties to be suffered in cases of non-performance thereof, and shall be signed by two or more of the said inspectors, and also by the person or persons contracting to perform such works respectively, which contract or contracts, or a copy or copies thereof, shall be entered in a book to be kept for that purpose; but no contract above the value or sum of twenty pounds shall be entered into, unless previous to the making of any such contract fourteen days notice shall be given in one or more of the public newspapers published in the county in which the said parish shall be situate, expressing the intention of entering into such contract, in order that any person or persons willing to undertake the same may make proposals for that purpose, to be offered and presented to the said inspectors at a certain time and place in such notice to be mentioned: Provided always, that if the said inspectors shall be of opinion that it will not be advantageous to contract with the person or persons offering the lowest price, it shall be lawful for the said inspectors to contract with such other person or persons as they shall think proper.

Inspectors may sue for breach of contract;

58. And be it further enacted, that in case the same shall not be well and sufficiently performed, according to the terms, intent, and meaning of such contract or contracts, or shall not be finished or completed at or within the time or times specified in such contract or contracts, then the said inspectors may cause an action to be brought in any of His Majesty's courts of law at Westminster, against any such contractor, for any penalty contained in his contract; and on proof of his signing the said contract or contracts, or non-performance thereof at the time or times for that purpose to be therein mentioned, the said inspectors shall be entitled to and recover the full penalty contained in any such contract, which, when recovered, shall be applied for the purposes of this Act: Provided always, that it shall be lawful for the said inspectors (if they think fit) to compound and agree with any contractor for any penalty incurred by him for the breach or non-performance of any such contract, for such sum of money as the said inspectors shall think proper, not being less than the injury or damage sustained by the breach or non-performance of such contract, and all costs, charges, and expenses which shall be occasioned thereby; and it shall be lawful for the said inspectors to cancel or make void any contract with any person or persons whomsoever, by mutual consent, if they shall think proper.

or may compound with contractor.

Inspectors may purchase or rent ground or buildings for the purposes of this Act.

59. And be it further enacted, that the said inspectors may and they are hereby authorised and empowered to treat with the owner or owners and occupier or occupiers of any houses, buildings, lands, and grounds, for the purposes of this Act, for such sum or sums of money, or yearly rent, or for such time as to them shall appear reasonable (which sum or sums of money and yearly rent shall be respectively paid out of the moneys to arise by virtue of this Act), in such place or places as they may think proper.

Property of lamps, &c. vested in the inspectors.

60. And be it further enacted, that the property of and in all lamps, lamp irons, lamp posts, watch-houses, watchboxes, posts, chains, pales, and rails in, about, or belonging to the said streets and places within any parish or part of a parish adopting the provisions of this Act, or any of them, and of and in all the iron, timber, stone, bricks, and other materials and furniture and things of, in, and belonging thereto (except when the same shall be otherwise regulated by contract with the said inspectors), shall be and the same are hereby vested in the said inspectors, and may be sold and disposed of from time to time as they shall think proper; and the money arising from such sale or sales shall be applied towards the purposes of this Act; and the said inspectors are hereby authorised and empowered to bring or cause to be brought any action or actions in such name or names and in manner as herein is provided, or to prefer or order and direct the preferring of any bill or bills of indictment, against any person or persons who shall steal, take, or carry away (as the case may be) all or any part of such lamp irons, lamp posts, watch-houses, watchboxes, iron, timber, and stone, bricks, furniture, posts, chains, pales, rails, or other materials and things as aforesaid; and in all such actions or bills of indictment it shall be and be deemed and taken to be sufficient to state generally that the article or articles, thing or things, for or on account of which such action or actions shall be brought, or such bill or bills of indictment preferred, is or are the property of the inspectors, without particularly stating or specifying the name or names of all or any of the said inspectors.

Secs. 60-66.

61. And be it further enacted, that it shall be lawful for the inspectors appointed by any parish adopting the provisions of this Act to unite with the inspectors of any adjoining parish or parishes, for the better carrying into effect the purposes of this Act.

Inspectors of adjoining parishes may unite.

63. And be it further enacted, that all fines, penalties, and forfeitures inflicted or imposed by this Act, or by virtue of any rule or order made in pursuance hereof (the mode of recovery whereof is not herein otherwise provided for), may in case of non-payment thereof be recovered in a summary way, by order and adjudication of any two justices of the peace, on complaint to them for that purpose exhibited, and afterwards be levied, as well as the costs (if any) of such proceedings, on non-payment, by distress and sale of the goods and chattels of the offender or respective offenders, or person or persons liable to pay the same, by warrant under the hands and seals of such justices; all which penalties, not herein directed to be otherwise applied, shall be paid to the said inspectors or their treasurer, to be applied for such purposes of this Act as the said inspectors shall order and direct, except in all such cases where the penalty or forfeiture shall be incurred by the said inspectors, and then the same shall be paid to the informer; and if upon the return of such warrant or warrants it shall appear that no sufficient distress can be had whereupon to levy the said penalty or penalties and such costs as aforesaid, and the same shall not be forthwith paid, or in case it shall appear to the satisfaction of any such justices, upon the confession of the offender or offenders, or otherwise, that he, she, or they have or hath not sufficient goods and chattels whereupon such penalties, forfeitures, costs, and expenses can be levied if a warrant of distress were issued, such justices shall not be required to issue such warrant of distress, and thereupon it shall be lawful for such justices, and they are hereby required and empowered, by warrant or warrants under their hands and seals, to commit such offender or offenders to the common gaol or house of correction in the said county or place in which the said parish shall be situate, there to be kept, with or without hard labour (!).

Recovery and application of penalties.

64. Provided always, and be it further enacted, that nothing herein contained shall be deemed, construed, or taken to extend to render the said inspectors personally, or any of their goods and chattels (other than such as may be invested in them in pursuance of this Act), liable to the payment of any sum or sums of money as or by way of compensation or satisfaction in the cases in which such compensation or satisfaction is herein directed to be made by the said inspectors.

Inspectors exempted from personal liability.

66. Provided also, and be it further enacted, that if any person or persons shall find himself, herself, or themselves aggrieved by any order, direction, or appointment of the said inspectors, or any order or conviction of one or more justice or justices of the peace, it shall be lawful for such person or persons to appeal to any general or quarterly sessions of the peace to be held in and for the county, city, riding, borough, town, shire, division, liberty, or place in which the parish shall be situate, within four calendar months next after the cause of complaint shall have arisen, or if such sessions shall be held before the expiration of one calendar month, then such appeal shall be made to the secondly succeeding sessions, either of which court of sessions is hereby empowered to hear and finally determine the matter of the said appeal, and to make such order therein as to them shall seem meet, which order shall be final and conclusive to and upon all parties; provided that the person or persons so appealing shall give or cause to be given at least fourteen days' notice in writing of his, her, or their intention of appealing as aforesaid, and of the matter or cause thereof, to the said inspectors, or other the respondent or respondents, that (and) within five days after such notice shall enter into a recognizance before some justice of the peace, with sufficient securities, conditioned to try such appeal at the then next general sessions or quarter sessions of the peace, which shall first happen, and to abide the order of and pay such costs as shall be awarded by the justices at such quarter sessions or any adjournment thereof; and such justices, upon hearing and finally determining such matter of appeal, shall and may, according to their discretion, award such costs to the party appealing or appealed against as they shall think proper; and their determination in or concerning the premises shall be conclusive and binding on all parties to all intents and purposes whatsoever.

(!) This section is given as amended by 47 & 48 Vict. c. 43, which also repeals section 62.

Secs. 67-73.

Appeals against rate to be subject to same rules as appeals against poor rates.

Plaintiff not to recover in any action after tender of sufficient amends.

Limitations of actions.

Proceedings not to be unlawful for want of form.

Parishes may adopt only parts of Act.

Limiting the powers of the Act.
10 Geo. IV., c. 44.

Parts of parishes may adopt the provisions of this Act;

67. Provided also, and be it further enacted, that if any person or persons shall find himself, herself, or themselves aggrieved by any rate made by the overseers of the poor for the purposes of this Act, he, she, and they may appeal to any general or quarterly sessions of the peace, to be held in and for the county, city, riding, borough, town, shire, division, liberty, or place in which the parish shall be situated; and all such appeals shall be subject to the same rules, regulations, provisions, and directions, and shall be prosecuted and proceeded with in the like manner, as appeals against rates made for the relief of the poor in such parish.

68. Provided also, and be it further enacted, that no plaintiff or plaintiffs shall recover in any action or actions for any irregularity, trespass, or other proceedings made or committed in execution of this Act if tender of sufficient amends shall be made by or on behalf of the party or parties who shall have committed any such irregularity, trespass, or wrongful proceedings before such action brought; and in case no tender shall have been made, it shall be lawful for the defendant or defendants in any such action, by leave of the court where such action shall depend, at any time before issue joined, to pay into court such sum of money as he or they shall think fit, whereupon such proceedings, order, and adjudication shall be made, had, and given in and by such court as in other actions where the defendant is allowed to pay money into court.

69. And be it further enacted, that no action or suit shall be commenced against any person or persons for anything done in pursuance of or under the authority of or colour of this Act until twenty-one days notice has been given thereof in writing to the said inspectors, nor after sufficient satisfaction or tender thereof has been made to the party or parties aggrieved, nor after six calendar months next after the fact committed for which such action or actions, suit or suits, shall be so brought; and every such action shall be brought, laid, and tried where the cause of action shall have arisen, and not in any other county or place; and the defendant or defendants in such actions or suits may plead the general issue, or give this Act and every special matter in evidence, at any trial or trials which shall be had thereupon; and if the matter or thing shall appear to have been done under or by virtue of this Act, or if it shall appear that such action or suit was brought before twenty-one days notice thereof was given as aforesaid, or if any action or suit shall not be commenced within the time before limited, or shall be laid in any other county or place than as aforesaid, then the jury or juries shall find a verdict for the defendant or defendants therein; and if a verdict or verdicts shall be found for any such defendant or defendants, or if the plaintiff or plaintiffs in such action or actions, suit or suits, shall become nonsuit, or suffer a discontinuance of such action or actions, or if, upon any demurrer or demurrers in such action or actions, judgment shall be given for the defendant or defendants therein, then and in any of the cases aforesaid such defendant or defendants shall have double costs, and shall have such remedy for recovering the same as any defendant or defendants may have for his, her, or their costs in any other case by law.

70. And be it further enacted, that no proceedings to be had and taken in pursuance of this Act shall be quashed or vacated for want of form, or be removed by certiorari or any other writ or process whatsoever into any of His Majesty's courts of record at Westminster or elsewhere.

71. And be it further enacted, that the provisions of this Act may be adopted in any parish either as to lighting or as to watching, or as to lighting and watching, as may be deemed expedient; and that the provisions of this Act may be adopted in any parish so far as the same relate to lighting, although such parish shall be watched under or by virtue of any Act of Parliament passed for that purpose, and may be adopted in any parish so far as the same relate to watching, although such parish shall be lighted under or by virtue of any Act of Parliament passed for that purpose.

72. And be it further enacted, that nothing in this Act contained shall be construed to extend to abridge, repeal, alter, amend, or interfere with the powers and provisions contained in an Act made and passed in the tenth year of the reign of His late Majesty King George the Fourth, intituled "An Act for improving the Police in and near the Metropolis," or to extend to any parish or place already regulated by or under the provisions of any Act of Parliament for all the purposes herein-before provided for, or to interfere with the powers which any corporate body may have with respect to watching and lighting.

73. And be it further enacted, that it shall and may be lawful to and for the inhabitants of part of any parish to hold a meeting of the inhabitants of such part, to be convened in manner herein directed, and to be composed of such inhabitants only, for the purpose of determining whether the provisions in this Act contained, or any of them, shall be adopted and carried into execution in such part of the said parish; and that all such meetings shall be subject and liable to all the clauses, regulations, and restrictions in this Act contained in respect of meetings to be convened for the purposes thereof; and that the churchwardens of the said parish shall act in the same manner for such part of the parish the inhabitants of which may be desirous of adopting the provisions of this Act, for carrying the provisions of the same into effect, as they could by virtue hereof act for the parish at large; and that the overseers of the poor of the said parish, or of any township or division of the said parish, shall be amenable to the provisions of this Act, so far as they may relate to the part of such parish situate within or partly within the division or district for which such overseers shall act, for the purpose of levying, raising, and paying the rates within the part of such parish adopting the provisions of this Act, in the same manner as they would be if the whole parish, township, or place for which they act had adopted the provisions of this Act: Provided always, that no proceedings of the said inhabitants, nor any rate to be raised or levied in pursuance of such proceedings, shall extend to any part of the said parish which may already be regulated by or under the provisions of any Act for the purposes in this Act mentioned, nor interfere with the powers and provisions of such Act or the execution thereof in any respect whatsoever.

but not to interfere with any local Act.

74. And be it further enacted, that it shall be lawful for any surveyor or other person or persons acting by or under the authority of Commissioners of Sewers, at any time or times in the day time, to enter into any manufactory, gasometer, receiver, or other building, belonging to any gas company or companies, or the said inspectors, in order to inspect and examine if there be any escape of gas, or any washings, or other waste liquids, substances, or other things whatsoever, which shall arise or be produced in the prosecution of the said gas works, or in the manufacture or process of making or procuring such gas, into any public sewer or drain; and if such surveyor or other person or persons acting by or under the authority of Commissioners of Sewers shall at any such time or times be refused admittance or entrance into any such manufactory, gasometer, receiver, or other building, for the purpose of making such inspection and examination as aforesaid, or on being admitted shall be obstructed in or prevented from making such inspection and examination as aforesaid, the said gas company or companies, or the said inspectors, so offending shall forfeit and pay for every such offence the sum of twenty pounds.

Surveyor of Commissioners of Sewers may enter into gas works, to see if there be any escape of gas, &c.

75. Provided always, and be it further enacted, that nothing in this Act contained shall extend, or be deemed or construed to extend, to prejudice, diminish, alter or take away any of the rights, powers, or authorities vested in Commissioners of Sewers, but all the rights, powers, and authorities vested in them shall be as good, valid, and effectual as if this Act had not been made.

Not to prejudice the rights of the Commissioners of Sewers;

76. Provided always, and be it further enacted, that nothing in this Act contained shall extend to alter or in any manner to affect any of the rights or privileges of the Universities of Oxford or Cambridge, or any of the powers vested by charter or otherwise in the chancellors, masters, and scholars, and their successors, of the said Universities.

nor to affect the Universities.

77. And be it further enacted, that the powers given to watch and light any parish shall be understood to be given to any wapentake, division, city, borough, liberty, township, market town, franchise, hamlet, tithing, precinct, and chapelry, or parts within the same; and that where the word "parish" is used, it shall be understood to extend to any parts within the same; and that the powers given to a churchwarden shall be understood to be given to any chapelwarden, overseer, or other person usually calling any meeting on parochial business; and that the words "justices of the peace" shall be understood to mean justices of the peace for the county, city, borough, town, division, riding, shire, liberty, or place in which the parish which may adopt the provisions of this Act shall be situate; and the word "ratepayer" to include all persons assessed to and paying rates for the relief of the poor.

REGULATION OF BREAD ACT, 1836.

6 & 7 WILL. IV. C. 37.

An Act to repeal the several Acts now in force relating to Bread to be sold out of the City of London and the Liberties thereof, and beyond the Weekly Bills of Mortality and Ten Miles of the Royal Exchange; and to provide other Regulations for the making and Sale of Bread, and for preventing the Adulteration of Meal, Flour, and Bread, beyond the Limits aforesaid.

[28th July, 1836.]

1. From and after the first day of October, one thousand eight hundred and thirty-six all and every Acts or Act of Parliament now in force relating to the making and selling of bread, or to the assize and price thereof, or to the punishment of persons who shall adulterate meal, flour, or bread, or who shall sell bread deficient in its due weight, out of the city of London and the

Section 1.

All Acts relating to the making and selling of bread,

Secs. 1—7. liberties thereof, and beyond the weekly bills of mortality and ten miles of the Royal Exchange, be and the same are hereby repealed: and there shall be no longer any assize of bread beyond the limits aforesaid, or any regulation respecting the price thereof.

or to the punishment for adulterating meal, &c. out of the City of London and beyond the bills of mortality, repealed.

Bread made of the articles herein mentioned may be sold.

Bakers to make bread of any weight, or size.

Bread to be sold by weight, and in no other manner.

Penalty.

Bakers to use avoirdupois weight.

Penalty for using any other.

Bakers to provide in their shops beams, scales and weights, &c., and to weigh bread, &c.

Penalty.

Bakers and sellers of bread, &c. delivering by cart, &c. to be provided with scales, weights, &c. for weighing bread.

2. And be it enacted, that it shall and may be lawful for the several bakers or sellers of bread out of the city of London and the liberties thereof, and beyond the weekly bills of mortality and ten miles of the Royal Exchange, to make and sell or offer for sale, in his, her, or their shop, or to deliver to his, her, or their customer or customers, bread made of flour or meal of wheat, barley, rye, oats, buck wheat, Indian corn, peas, beans, rice, or potatoes, or any of them, and with any common salt, pure water, eggs, milk, barm, leaven, potatoe or other yeast, and mixed in such proportions as they shall think fit, and with no other ingredient or matter whatsoever, subject to the regulations hereinafter contained.

3. And be it enacted, that it shall and may be lawful for the several bakers or sellers of bread beyond the limits aforesaid to make and sell, or offer for sale, in his, her, or their shop, or to deliver to his, her, or their customer or customers, bread made of such weight or size as such bakers or sellers of bread shall think fit; any law or usage to the contrary notwithstanding.

4. And be it enacted, that from and after the commencement of this Act all bread sold beyond the limits aforesaid shall be sold by the several bakers or sellers of bread respectively beyond the said limits by weight; and in case any baker or seller of bread beyond the limits aforesaid shall sell or cause to be sold bread in any other manner than by weight, then and in such case every such baker or seller of bread shall for every such offence forfeit and pay any sum not exceeding forty shillings, which the magistrate or magistrates, justice or justices, before whom such offender or offenders shall be convicted, shall order and direct (1): Provided always, that nothing in this Act contained shall extend or be construed to extend to prevent or hinder any such baker or seller of bread from selling bread usually sold under the denomination of French or fancy bread or rolls without previously weighing the same (2).

5. And be it enacted, that the several bakers or sellers of bread respectively beyond the said limits in the sale of bread shall use avoirdupois weight of sixteen ounces to the pound, according to the standard in the exchequer, and the several gradations of the same for any less quantity than a pound; and in case any such baker or seller of bread shall at any time use any other than the avoirdupois weight, and the several gradations of the same, he, she, or they shall for every such offence forfeit and pay any sum not exceeding five pounds nor less than forty shillings, as the magistrate or magistrates, justice or justices, before whom such conviction shall take place shall from time to time order and adjudge.

6. And be it enacted, that every baker or seller of bread beyond the limits aforesaid shall cause to be fixed in some conspicuous part of his, her, or their shop, on or near the counter, a beam and scales with proper weights, or other sufficient balance, in order that all bread there sold may from time to time be weighed in the presence of the purchaser or purchasers thereof, except as aforesaid; and in case any such baker or seller of bread shall neglect to fix such beam and scales, or other sufficient balance, in manner aforesaid, or to provide and keep for use proper beam and scales and proper weights, or balance, or shall have or use any incorrect or false beam or scales or balance, or any false weight not being of the weight it purports to be, according to the standard in the exchequer, then and in every such case he, she, or they shall for every such false beam and scales and balance, or false weight, forfeit and pay any sum not exceeding five pounds, which the magistrate or magistrates, justice or justices, before whom such offender or offenders shall be convicted, shall order and direct.

7. And be it enacted, that every baker or seller of bread beyond the limits aforesaid, and every journeyman, servant, or other person employed by such baker or seller of bread, who shall convey or carry out bread for sale in and from any cart or other carriage, shall be provided with and shall constantly carry in such cart or other carriage a correct beam and scales with proper weights, or other sufficient balance, in order that all bread sold by every such baker or seller of bread, or by his or her journeyman, servant, or other person, may from time to time be weighed in the presence of the purchaser or purchasers thereof, except as aforesaid; and in case any such baker or seller of bread, or his or her journeymen, servant, or other person, shall at any time carry out or deliver any bread without being provided with such beam and scales with proper weights, or other sufficient balance, or whose weights shall be deficient in their due weight according to the standard in the exchequer, or shall at any time refuse to weigh any bread

9. And be it enacted, that if any person beyond the limits aforesaid shall put into any corn, meal, or flour which shall be ground, dressed, bolted, or manufactured for sale beyond such limits, either at the time of grinding, dressing, bolting, or manufacturing the same, or at any other time, any ingredient or mixture whatsoever not being the real and genuine produce of the corn or grain which shall be so ground; or if any person shall beyond the limits aforesaid knowingly sell or offer or expose for sale, either separately or mixed, any meal or flour of one sort of corn or grain as the meal or flour of any other sort of corn or grain, or any ingredient whatsoever mixed with the meal or flour so sold or offered or exposed for sale, then and in every such case every such person shall, upon conviction before any one or more magistrate or magistrates, justice or justices, of the city, county, borough, or place where such offence shall have been committed, on the oath, or in case of a Quaker by affirmation, of one or more credible witness or witnesses, or by his, her, or their own confession, forfeit and pay for every such offence any sum not exceeding twenty pounds ⁽³⁾.

Adulterating corn, meal, or flour.

Selling flour of one sort of corn as the flour of another sort.

Penalty.

10. And be it enacted, that every person who shall make for sale, or sell or expose for sale, beyond the limits aforesaid, any bread made wholly or partially of peas or beans, or potatoes, or of any sort of corn or grain other than wheat, shall cause all such bread to be marked with a large Roman M; and if any person shall at any time beyond the limits aforesaid make or sell, or expose for sale, any such bread without such mark as hereinbefore directed, then and in every such case every person so offending shall, upon conviction in manner hereinafter mentioned, forfeit and pay for every pound weight of such bread, and so in proportion for any less quantity which shall be so made for sale, or sold or exposed for sale, without being so marked as aforesaid, any sum not exceeding ten shillings, as the magistrate or magistrates, justice or justices, before whom such conviction shall take place, shall from time to time order and adjudge: Provided always, that nothing in this Act contained shall extend or be construed to extend to require any bread made of the meal or flour of wheat only, and in the making of which potatoe yeast shall be used, to be marked as hereinbefore is mentioned.

Bread made of mixed meal or flour to be marked with a Roman M.

Obstructing search.

12. And be it enacted, that every miller, mealman, or baker beyond the limits aforesaid, in whose house, mill, shop, stall, bakehouse, bolting house, pastry warehouse, outhouse, ground, or possession any ingredient or mixture shall be found which shall, after due examination, be adjudged by any magistrate or magistrates, justice or justices of the peace, to have been deposited there for the purpose of being used in adulterating meal, flour, or bread, shall, on being convicted of any such offence, either by his, her, or their own confession, or by the oath, or in case of a Quaker by affirmation, of one or more credible witness or witnesses, forfeit and pay on every such conviction any sum not exceeding ten pounds for the first offence, five pounds for the second offence, and ten pounds for every subsequent offence, or in default of payment thereof shall, by warrant under the hand and seal or hands and seals of the magistrate or magistrates, justice or justices, before whom such offender shall be convicted, be apprehended and committed to the house of correction or some prison of the city, county, or place where the offence shall have been committed, or the offender or offenders shall be apprehended, there to remain with or without hard labour from the time of such commitment (unless the penalty be sooner paid), as any such magistrate or magistrates, justice or justices, shall think fit and order; and it shall be lawful for the magistrate or magistrates, justice or justices, before whom any such offender shall be convicted, to cause the offender's name, place of abode, and offence to be published in some newspaper which shall be printed or published in or near the city, county, borough, or place where the offence shall have been committed, and to defray the expense of publishing the same out of the money to be forfeited as last mentioned, in case any shall be so forfeited, paid, or recovered ⁽¹⁾.

13. And be it enacted, that if any person or persons shall wilfully obstruct or hinder any such search as hereinbefore is authorised to be made, or the seizure of any meal, flour, dough, or bread, or of any ingredient or mixture which shall be found on any such search, and deemed to have been lodged with an intent to adulterate the purity or wholesomeness of any meal, flour, Bakings may be delivered till half past one on Sundays.

No miller, mealman, or baker to act as a justice of the peace under this Act.

Penalty, £100.

Opposing execution of the Act. Penalty.

Recovery and application of penalties and forfeitures.

Distress.

Imprisonment.

Proceedings not to be quashed for want of form.

15. Provided always, and be it enacted, that no person who shall follow or be concerned in the business of a miller, mealman, or baker shall be capable of acting or shall be allowed to act as a justice of the peace under this Act, or in putting in execution any of the powers in or by this Act granted; and if any miller, mealman, or baker shall presume so to do, he or they so offending in the premises shall for every such offence forfeit and pay the sum of one hundred pounds to any person or persons who will inform or sue for the same, to be recovered, together with full costs of suit, in any of His Majesty's courts of record at Westminster, by action of debt, bill, plaint, or information, wherein no essoign, wager of law, or more than one imparlance shall be allowed.

16. And be it enacted, that in case any person or persons shall resist or make forcible opposition against any person or persons employed in the due execution of this Act, every such person offending therein shall for every such offence forfeit any sum not exceeding ten pounds, at the discretion of the magistrate or magistrates, justice or justices of the peace, before whom he or she shall be convicted of such offence.

17. And be it enacted, that all penalties, forfeitures, and fines by this Act inflicted or authorised to be imposed (the manner of levying and recovering and applying whereof is not herein otherwise directed) shall, upon proof and conviction of the offences respectively before any magistrate or justice of the peace for the city, county, or place where the offence shall have been committed (as the case may require), either by the confession of the party offending, or by the oath, or in case of a Quaker on affirmation, of any credible witness or witnesses, which oath or affirmation every such magistrate or justice is in every such case hereby fully authorised to administer, be levied, together with the costs attending the information and conviction, by distress and sale of the goods and chattels of the party or parties offending, by warrant under the hand and seal of such magistrate or justice; but if upon the return of such warrant it shall appear that no sufficient distress can be had thereupon, then it shall be lawful for any such magistrate or justice of the peace as aforesaid, and he is hereby authorised and required, by warrant or warrants under his hand and seal, to cause such offender or offenders to be committed to the common gaol or house of correction of the city, county, or place where the offender shall be or reside, there to remain, without bail or mainprize, for any time not exceeding one calendar month, with or without hard labour, (save and except as herein otherwise directed) unless such penalties, forfeitures, and fines, and all reasonable charges attending the same, shall be sooner paid and satisfied; and the moneys arising by such penalties, forfeitures, and fines respectively, when paid or levied, if not otherwise directed to be applied by this Act, shall be from time to time paid, one moiety thereof to the informer or person suing for and recovering the same ⁽¹⁾.

24. And be it enacted, that no order, judgment, or conviction made touching or concerning any of the matters in this Act contained, or of any proceedings to be had touching the conviction of any offender or offenders against this Act, shall be quashed for want of form, or be removed or removable by certiorari, or any other writ or process whatsoever, into any of His Majesty's courts of record at Westminster ⁽¹⁾.

25. Provided always, and be it hereby enacted, that if any person or persons convicted of any offence punishable by this Act shall think him, her, or themselves aggrieved by the judgment of the magistrate or magistrates, justice or justices, before whom he, she, or they shall have been convicted, it shall be lawful for such person or persons from time to time to appeal to the justices at the next general or general quarter sessions of the peace which shall be held for the city, county, division, liberty, town, or place where such judgment shall have been given, and that the execution of such judgment shall in such case be suspended ⁽¹⁾.

Secs. 25-31.

Appeal to quarter sessions.

29. And be it further enacted, that every action or suit which shall be brought or commenced against any magistrate or magistrates, justice or justices, or any peace officer or officers, for any matter or thing done or committed by virtue of or under this Act, shall be commenced within six calendar months next after the fact committed, and not afterwards, and shall be laid or brought in the city, county, or place where the matter in dispute shall arise, and not elsewhere, and that the statute made in the twenty-fourth year of the reign of King George the Second, intituled "An Act for rendering Justices of the Peace more safe in the Execution of their Office, and for indemnifying Constables and others acting in obedience to their Warrants," so far as the said Act relates to the rendering the justices more safe in the execution of their office, shall extend and be construed to extend to the magistrate and magistrates, justice and justices of the peace, acting under the authority or in pursuance of this Act; and that no action or suit shall be had or commenced against, nor shall any writ be sued out, or copy of any writ be served upon, any peace officer or officers, for any thing done in the execution of this Act, until seven days after a notice in writing shall have been given to or left for him or them at his or their usual place of abode, by the attorney for the party intending to commence such action, which notice in writing shall contain the name and place of abode of the person intending to bring such action, and also of his attorney, and likewise the cause of action or complaint; and any peace officer or officers shall be at liberty, and may by virtue of this Act, at any time within seven days after any such notice shall have been given to or left for him, tender or cause to be tendered any sum or sums of money as amends for the injury complained of to the party complaining or to the attorney named in such notice; and if the same be not accepted, the defendant or defendants in any such action or actions may plead such tender in bar of such action or actions, together with the general issue or any other plea, with leave of the court in which the action shall be commenced; and if, upon issue joined on such tender, the jury shall find the amends tendered to have been sufficient, they shall find a verdict for the defendant or defendants; and in every such case, or if the plaintiff shall become nonsuit or discontinue his action, or if judgment shall be given for the defendant or defendants upon demurrer, or if any action or suit shall be brought after the time limited by this Act for bringing the same, or shall be brought in any other county or place than as aforesaid, then and in every such case the jury shall find a verdict for the defendant or defendants, and the defendant or defendants shall be entitled to his or their costs; but if the jury shall find that no such tender was made, or that the amends tendered were not sufficient, or shall find against the defendant or defendants on any plea or pleas by him or them pleaded, they shall then give a verdict for the plaintiff, and such damages as they shall think proper; and the plaintiff shall thereupon recover his costs against every such defendant or defendants.

Part of 24 Geo. II. c. 44, extended to this Act.

Service of writ upon peace officer.

Costs.

30. And be it further enacted, that if any action or suit shall be commenced against any other person or persons than a magistrate, justice, or peace officer for any thing done in pursuance of this Act, the defendant or defendants in any such action or suit may plead the general issue, and give this Act and the special matter in evidence at any trial to be had thereupon, and that the same was done in pursuance and by the authority of this Act; and if it shall appear so to have been done, or if a verdict shall be recorded for the defendant or defendants, or if the plaintiff or plaintiffs shall be nonsuited or discontinue his, her, or their action after the defendant or defendants shall have appeared, or if judgment shall be given upon a verdict or demurrer against the plaintiff or plaintiffs, the defendant or defendants in every such action shall and may recover treble costs, and have the like remedy for the same as any defendant or defendants hath or have in other cases by law for the recovery of his, her, or their costs.

In actions for executing Act general issue may be pleaded.

Treble costs.

31. Provided also, and be it further enacted, that no person shall be convicted of any offence under this Act unless the complaint is made within forty-eight hours after the offence shall have been committed, or within such reasonable time as to the justice or justices shall seem fit, except in cases of perjury; and that no person who shall be prosecuted to conviction for any offence done or committed against this Act shall be liable to be prosecuted for the same offence under any other law.

(1) See note (2), a. l. c., p. 1465.

Secs. 32, 33.

Application of penalties.

32. And be it also enacted, that all penalties and forfeitures by this Act inflicted, and the application of which is not hereinbefore directed, shall, when recovered or paid, go and be disposed of in manner following; (that is to say,) one moiety thereof, where any offender or offenders shall be convicted, either by his, her, or their confession, or by the oath or affirmation of one or more credible witness or witnesses, shall go and be paid to the person or persons who shall inform against and prosecute to conviction any such offender or offenders; and the other moiety thereof (or in case there be no such person informing then the whole thereof) shall go and be paid to some one of the overseers of the poor, or to some other officer (as the convicting justice or justices may direct) of the parish, township, or place in which the offence shall have been committed, to be by such overseer or officer paid over to the use of the general rate of the county, riding, or division in which such parish, township, or place shall be situate, whether the same shall or shall not contribute to such general rate; and no inhabitant of such county, riding, or division shall be deemed an incompetent witness in any proceeding under this Act by reason of the application of such penalty or forfeiture to the use of the said general rate as aforesaid.

Proviso for rights of particular persons.

33. Provided always, and be it enacted, that this Act or any thing herein contained shall not extend or be construed to extend in any way to affect, lessen, or infringe upon any right or custom of the universities of Oxford or Cambridge or either of them, or of any lord or lords of any leets, or the rights of any clerk or clerks of the market in any place, which may be exercised and enjoyed by them or any of them by virtue of any charter, bye-laws, prescriptions, usages, customs, privileges, grants, or Acts of Parliament, except so far as relates to the assize of bread and the regulations of the price and weight thereof, but that all such rights and privileges shall be held, exercised, and enjoyed by the parties respectively entitled thereto as fully and amply to all intents and purposes as the same were held, exercised, and enjoyed before the passing of this Act, any thing herein contained to the contrary notwithstanding.

CANAL BOATS ACT, 1877.

40 & 41 VICT. c. 60.

An Act to provide for the Registration and Regulation of Canal Boats used as Dwellings.

[14th August, 1877.]

Secs. 1, 2.

Registration of use of canal boat as dwelling.

Be it enacted by the Queen's most excellent Majesty, by and with the advice and consent of the Lords Spiritual and Temporal, and Commons, in this present Parliament assembled, and by the authority of the same, as follows:

1. After the expiration of twelve months after the commencement of this Act, or if the regulations of the Local Government Board hereinafter mentioned have not at that time come into force, then after the expiration of six months from the date at which they have come into force, a canal boat shall not be used as a dwelling unless it has been registered in accordance with this Act.

The owner of a canal boat may register that boat with the registration authority hereinafter mentioned as a dwelling for such number of persons of the specified age and sex as may be allowed under the provisions of this Act; and the boat shall be used as a dwelling only for the number of persons of the age and sex for which it is registered.

If a canal boat is used as a dwelling in contravention of this Act, the master of the boat, and also the owner of the boat, if he is in fault, shall each be liable to a fine not exceeding twenty shillings for each occasion on which the boat is so used ⁽¹⁾.

2. The Local Government Board shall make regulations, and may from time to time revoke and vary such regulations ⁽²⁾—

- (1) For the registration of canal boats under this Act, including certificates of registration, and the fees in connection with such registration; and
- (2) For the lettering, marking, and numbering of such boats; and

(1) As to application of fines, see Canal Boats Act, 1884, 47 & 48 Vict. c. 75, s. 8.

(2) As to penalty for contravention of regulations, see the Canal Boats Act, 1884, 47 & 48 Vict. c. 75, s. 2, post. And as to application of fines, see ibid, s. 8, post.

Local Government Board to make regulations for registration, fixing number of persons, promoting cleanliness, and preventing infectious disease.

(3.) For fixing the number, age, and sex of the persons who may be allowed to dwell in a canal boat, having regard to the cubic space, ventilation, provision for the separation of the sexes, general healthiness, and convenience of accommodation of the boat ; and

(4.) For promoting cleanliness in and providing for the habitable condition of canal boats : and (5.) For preventing the spread of infectious disease by canal boats.

The registration authority shall register every canal boat which conforms to the conditions of registration provided by the said regulations for the number of persons allowed by those regulations to dwell therein.

3. Upon the registry of a boat under this Act, the registration authority shall give to the owner thereof two certificates of registry, identifying the owner and the boat, and stating the place to which the boat is registered as belonging, and the number, age, and sex of the persons allowed to dwell in the boat, and such other particulars as may be provided by regulations under this Act, or may seem fit to the registration authority, and the master shall have the care of one of such certificates ⁽¹⁾.

Certificate of registry and lettering and numbering of boat.

Every canal boat when registered shall be lettered, marked, and numbered in some conspicuous manner (as directed by the regulations made under this Act), and such lettering, marking, and numbering shall include the word "registered," and the name of the place to which the boat is registered as belonging, and the registered number ⁽²⁾.

Any boat not lettered, marked, and numbered in conformity with this section, or having the letter, mark, or number altered, defaced, or obliterated, shall be deemed, for the purposes of this Act, to be an unregistered canal boat.

4. Where any sanitary authority within whose district a canal or any part of a canal is situate is informed by the master of a canal boat or otherwise that a person on a canal boat is suffering from an infectious disorder, the authority shall cause such steps to be taken as may by the certificate of their medical officer of health, or of any other legally qualified practitioner, appear requisite for preventing the said disorder from spreading, and for that purpose may exercise the power of removing a person suffering as aforesaid, and all other powers in relation to provisions against infection conferred by the Public Health Act, 1875, and may also, if need be, detain the boat ; but such boat shall not be detained a longer time than is necessary for cleansing and disinfecting the same.

Power of sanitary authority for prevention of infectious disease in canal boats.

38 & 39 Vict. c. 55.

5. Where any person duly authorised by a registration or sanitary authority, or by a justice of the peace, has reasonable cause to suppose, either that there is any contravention of this Act on board a canal boat, or that there is on board a canal boat any person suffering from an infectious disorder, he may, on producing (if demanded) either a copy of his authorisation, purporting to be certified by the clerk or a member of the sanitary authority, or some other sufficient evidence of his being authorised as aforesaid, enter by day such canal boat and examine the same and every part thereof, in order to ascertain whether on board such boat there is any contravention of this Act, or a person suffering from an infectious disorder, and may, if need be detain the boat for the purpose, but for no longer time than is necessary.

Authorised person may enter boat, &c.

The master of the boat shall, if required by such person, produce to him the certificate of registry (if any) of the boat, and permit him to examine and copy the same, and shall furnish him with such assistance and means as such person may require for the purpose of his entry and examination of and departure from the boat in pursuance of this section.

A refusal to comply with the requisition of such person under this section shall be deemed to be an obstruction of such person.

If such person is obstructed in the performance of his duty under this Act in the case of any boat, the person so obstructing shall be liable to a fine not exceeding forty shillings.

6. [Education of children dwelling on board canal boats, 33 & 34 Vict. c. 75, 36 & 37 Vict. c. 86, 39 & 40 Vict. c. 79.]

7. For the purpose of the registration of canal boats the registration authority shall be such one or more of the sanitary authorities having districts abutting on a canal as may from time to time be prescribed by regulation of the Local Government Board.

Registration authority.

A canal boat shall be registered with some registration authority having a district abutting on the canal on which such boat is accustomed or intended to ply.

With a view of determining the place to which a canal boat belongs, for the purpose of the Elementary Education Acts, 1870, 1873, and 1876, the registration authority shall register any

33 & 34 Vict. c. 75.
36 & 37 Vict. c. 86.
39 & 40 Vict. c. 79.

⁽¹⁾ The certificate of registry is made void by structural alterations, see Canal Boats Act, 1884, 47 & 48 Vict. c. 75, s. 1, post.

⁽²⁾ See now the Canal Boats Act, 1884, 47 & 48 Vict. c. 75, s. 7, post.

Secs. 7—14. canal boat in respect of which an application is made for registration as belonging to some place which is either a school district or is part of a school district, and is situate wholly or partly within the jurisdiction of the registration authority with which it is registered.

authority.

8. The expenses incurred in the execution of this Act by a local authority shall be defrayed as follows :

38 & 39 Vict.
c. 55.

(1.) When they are incurred by an urban sanitary authority, a rural sanitary authority, or a port sanitary authority, they shall be defrayed out of the fund or rate out of which the expenses of such authority, as a sanitary authority under the Public Health Act, 1875, are defrayed ; provided that when they are incurred by a rural sanitary authority they shall be deemed to be general expenses ; and

18 & 19 Vict.
c. 120.
Regulations to be laid before Parliament.

(2.) When they are incurred by a vestry or district board in the metropolis they shall be defrayed as expenses incurred by such vestry or board in the execution of the Metropolis Management Act, 1855, and the Acts amending the same.

9. An order of the Local Government Board making, revoking, or varying any regulation in pursuance of this Act shall not come into force until it has lain in a complete form as settled and approved by the Board for forty days before both Houses of Parliament during the session of Parliament.

The Local Government Board shall take steps for enabling all persons interested in any regulations made by that Board in pursuance of this Act to obtain copies thereof at such places in the neighbourhood of canals as the Local Government Board may prescribe, on payment of such sum not exceeding sixpence as may be prescribed by that Board.

Illegal detention
registry.

10. If the master of any canal boat illegally detains the certificate of registry of such boat, he may, on summary conviction before two justices, be directed by order of such justices to deliver up such certificate, and shall, in addition thereto, be liable to a fine not exceeding forty shillings, and the justices may direct any part of such fine to be paid to the person injured by the detention of such certificate.

Application of
Act.

11. All fees paid in respect of registration under this Act shall be carried to the fund or rate out of which the expenses incurred in the execution of this Act by the authority making such registration are by this Act declared to be payable.

penalties.

12. [Power of canal company, &c., to establish schools.]

13. Offences under this Act may be prosecuted, and fines under this Act may be recovered on summary conviction before two justices having jurisdiction, either in the place to which the boat in respect of which the offence was committed is registered as belonging, or in the place where the offence is committed, or in the place where the alleged offender for the time being is, in manner provided by the Act of the eleventh and twelfth years of the reign of Her present Majesty, chapter forty-three, intituled "An Act to facilitate the performance of the duties of Justices of the Peace out of Sessions within England and Wales with respect to summary convictions and orders," and the Acts amending the same (1).

Definitions.

14. In this Act, unless the context otherwise requires—

18 & 19 Vict.
c. 120.

The expression "sanitary authority" means an urban sanitary authority, a rural sanitary authority, or a port sanitary authority ; provided that in the case of the parishes mentioned in Schedule A. and the districts mentioned in Schedule B. to the Metropolis Management Act, 1855, so far as they are not within the jurisdiction of a port sanitary authority, the vestry of any such parish and the district board of any such district elected under the Metropolis Management Act, 1855, and the Acts amending the same, shall be deemed to be sanitary authorities, and where other sanitary authorities are by this Act empowered to exercise powers conferred by the Public Health Act, 1875, may exercise similar powers conferred by any Act of Parliament extending to such parishes or districts :

38 & 39 Vict.
c. 55.

The expression "parent" includes guardian, and every person who is liable to maintain or has the actual custody of any child :

17 & 18 Vict.
c. 104.

The expressions "urban sanitary authority" and "rural sanitary authority" and "port sanitary authority" have the same meaning as in the Public Health Act, 1875 :

The expression "canal" includes any river, inland navigation, lake, or water being within the body of a county, whether it is or not within the ebb and flow of the tide :

The expression "canal boat" means any vessel, however propelled, which is used for the conveyance of goods along a canal as above defined, and which is not a ship duly registered under the Merchant Shipping Act, 1854, and the Acts amending the same :

The expression "owner" includes a person who, though only the hirer of a canal boat, appoints the master and other persons working such boat :

(1) As to application of fines, see Canal Boats Act, 1884, 47 & 48 Vict. c. 75, s. 8, post.

The expression "master" in relation to a canal boat means the person having for the time being command or charge of the boat. Secs. 14-17.

15. This Act shall come into operation on the first day of January one thousand eight hundred and seventy-eight, which day is in this Act referred to as the commencement of this Act. Commencement of Act.

16. This Act shall not extend to Scotland or Ireland. Extent of Act.

17. This Act may be cited as the Canal Boats Act, 1877. Short title.

CANAL BOATS ACT, 1884.

47 & 48 VICT. c. 75.

An Act to amend the Canal Boats Act, 1877.

[14th August, 1884.]

Whereas it is expedient to amend the Canal Boats Act, 1877, in this Act referred to as the principal Act : Secs. 1-6.

Be it therefore enacted by the Queen's most excellent Majesty, by and with the advice and consent of the Lords Spiritual and Temporal, and Commons, in this present Parliament assembled, and by the authority of the same, as follows:

1. A certificate of registration granted under the principal Act shall cease to be in force in the event of any structural alterations having been made in the canal boat affecting the conditions upon which the certificate of registration has been obtained. 40 & 41 Vict. c. 60.

2. If default is made in complying with any of the regulations made or to be made by the Local Government Board and Education Department under the principal Act or this Act, and for the time being in force, the master of the boat with respect to which the default is made, and also the owner of the boat, if in default, shall for each default be liable on summary conviction to a fine not exceeding twenty shillings. Certificate of registry made void by structural alterations. Penalty for contravention of regulations under Canal Boats Acts.

3. It shall be the duty of every registration or sanitary authority within whose district any canal, or any part of a canal is situate, to enforce within such district the provisions of the principal Act and this Act, and any regulations made thereunder by the Local Government Board; and every such authority shall, within twenty-one days after the thirty-first day of December in every year, make a report to the Local Government Board as to the execution of the principal Act and this Act, and of the regulations made thereunder as aforesaid, and as to the steps taken by such authority during the year to give effect to the provisions of the said Acts and regulations. Enforcement of Act by registration and sanitary authority, and report to be made.

4. The Local Government Board shall in every year present a report to both Houses of Parliament as to the execution of the principal Act and this Act, and the observance of the regulations made by them thereunder; and shall cause inquiries to be made from time to time by an inspector or inspectors to be appointed by them for that purpose. Inquiries and reports by Local Government Board.

Such inspectors shall for the purpose of any inquiry under this Act have, in relation to witnesses and their examination, the production of papers, and inspection of places and matters required to be inspected, similar powers to those which poor-law inspectors have under the Acts relating to the relief of the poor for the purposes of those Acts, and may enter any canal boat at any time by day, and examine the same and every part thereof, and may, if need be, for the purpose of such inquiry, detain the boat, but for no longer time than is necessary.

The master of the boat shall, if required by any such inspector, produce to him the certificate of registry, if any, of the boat, and permit him to examine and copy the same, and shall furnish him with such assistance and means as such inspector may require for the purpose of his entry and examination of and departure from the boat in pursuance of this section.

A refusal to comply with the requisition of such inspector under this section shall be deemed to be an obstruction of such inspector.

If such inspector is obstructed in the performance of his duty under this Act, the person obstructing him shall be liable to a fine not exceeding forty shillings.

5. The power to make regulations given to the Local Government Board by the principal Act and this Act shall include power to the Education Department to make regulations with respect to the form of certificates or pass books as to attendance at school to be used by children in canal boats. Power to make regulations as to school certificates, &c.

6. The Education Department shall every year report to Parliament as to the manner in which the Elementary Education Acts, 1870 and 1873, 1876 and 1880, are enforced with respect to children in canal boats, and shall for that purpose direct Her Majesty's inspector of schools to communicate with the school boards and school attendance committees in their district. Annual report by Education Department.

- Secs. 7—11. 7. A canal boat shall not be deemed to be lettered, marked, and numbered in conformity with section three of the principal Act, unless it is so lettered, marked, and numbered on both sides of the canal boat, or in some suitable position on the stern of the boat, so that the lettering, marking, and numbering may be plainly visible from both sides of the canal whereon the boat may be.
- Lettering and numbering of canal boats.
8. Every fine recovered under the principal Act or this Act shall be paid in the case of a prosecution by any registration or sanitary authority or person authorised by any such authority to such authority or person, and if paid to such person shall be paid by him to such authority, and shall be applied towards the expenses of executing the principal Act and this Act, any Act to the contrary notwithstanding.
- Application of fines.
9. The expression "by day" in the principal Act and this Act shall be deemed to include the hours between six o'clock in the morning and nine o'clock at night.
- Definition of term "by day."
10. If it shall at any time appear to the Local Government Board, on the representation of any registration or sanitary authority or of any inspector appointed under this Act, that the principal Act and this Act ought to apply to any vessel or class of vessels which would be within the definition of canal boat contained in section fourteen of the principal Act, if such vessel or class of vessels were not registered under the Merchant Shipping Act, 1854, and the Acts amending the same, the Local Government Board may declare that the principal Act and this Act shall apply to such vessel or class of vessels, although the same may be registered as aforesaid, and thereupon the same shall be deemed to be a canal boat or canal boats within the meaning of the principal Act and this Act, and the definition contained in section fourteen of the principal Act shall be amended accordingly.
- Amendment of definition of canal boat.
11. This Act may be cited as the Canal Boats Act, 1884, and shall be construed as one with the Canal Boats Act, 1877, which Act and this Act may be cited together as the Canal Boats Acts, 1877 and 1884.
- Short title and construction of Act.

FACTORIES (STEAM WHISTLES) ACT, 1872.

35 & 36 VICT. c. 61.

An Act to regulate the use of Steam Whistles in certain Manufactories.

[6th August, 1872.]

- Secs. 2—4. 2. No person shall use or employ in any manufactory, or any other place, any steam whistle or steam trumpet for the purpose of summoning or dismissing workmen or persons employed without the sanction of the sanitary authority, and every person offending against this section shall be liable to a penalty not exceeding five pounds, and to a further penalty not exceeding forty shillings for every day during which such offence continues: Provided always, that the sanitary authority, in case they have sanctioned the use of any such instrument as aforesaid, may at any time revoke such sanction on giving one month's notice to the person using the same: Provided also, that it shall be lawful for the Local Government Board, on representation made to them by any person that he is prejudicially affected by such sanction, to revoke the same, and such revocation shall have the same force and effect as if it had been made by the sanitary authority.
- Use of steam whistles and trumpets.
3. "Sanitary authority" means the authority at the time being empowered to execute the Nuisance Removal Acts, as defined and extended by the Sanitary Act, 1866⁽¹⁾.
- Definition.
4. All offences and penalties under this Act may be prosecuted and recovered in England in manner directed by the Act of the session of the eleventh and twelfth years of the reign of Her present Majesty, chapter forty-three, and any Acts amending the same⁽²⁾.
- Legal procedure.

PUBLIC HEALTH (CONFIRMATION OF BYE-LAWS) ACT, 1884.

47 VICT. c. 12.

An Act to amend the Public Health Act, 1875, so far as relates to the Confirmation of Bye-laws.

[19th May, 1884.]

Be it enacted by the Queen's most excellent Majesty, by and with the advice and consent of the Lords Spiritual and Temporal, and Commons, in this present Parliament assembled, and by the authority of the same, as follows : Secs. 1—4.

1. This Act may be cited as the Public Health (Confirmation of Bye-laws) Act, 1884, and shall be construed as one with the Public Health Act, 1875. Short title and construction.

2. In this Act, if not inconsistent with the context, the following expressions have the meanings hereinafter respectively assigned to them ; (that is to say), Definitions.

"Incorporated enactments" means section one hundred and twenty-eight of the Towns Improvement Clauses Act, 1847 ⁽¹⁾, sections sixty-eight and sixty-nine of the Town Police Clauses Act, 1847 ⁽²⁾, and section forty-two of the Markets and Fairs Clauses Act, 1847 ⁽³⁾, which Acts are hereinafter referred to as the incorporated Acts :

"Confirming authority" means, as regards bye-laws, rules, and regulations confirmed prior to the nineteenth day of August one thousand eight hundred and seventy-one, or made under any of the incorporated enactments by reason of the incorporation thereof with any local Act and confirmed prior to the tenth day of August, one thousand eight hundred and seventy-two, one of Her Majesty's principal Secretaries of State; and as regards other bye-laws, rules, and regulations, the Local Government Board.

3. Every bye-law made or to be made under any of the incorporated enactments by reason of the incorporation thereof with the Public Health Act, 1848, the Local Government Act, 1858, or the Public Health Act, 1875, or any Local Act, or any Provisional Order or any Act confirming such Provisional Order, and every rule and regulation made or to be made by an urban authority under section forty-eight of the Tramways Act, 1870, shall be deemed to have required or to require the confirmation of the confirming authority, and not to have required, or to require any other confirmation, allowance, or approval. Confirmation of bye-laws.

4. This Act shall not invalidate the confirmation, allowance, or approval of any bye-law, rule, or regulation confirmed, allowed, or approved prior to the passing of this Act, nor shall this Act apply to any bye-law made or to be made under any of the incorporated enactments by reason of the incorporation thereof with any local Act, if such bye-law has or will come into force without any confirmation, allowance, or approval, or if by the express provisions of the local Act and without reference to the provisions with respect to confirmation, allowance, or approval of bye-laws in any of the incorporated Acts, such bye-law is required to be confirmed, allowed, or approved otherwise than by the confirming authority. Saving clause.

PUBLIC LIBRARIES ACT, 1884.

47 & 48 VICT. c. 37.

An Act to amend the Public Libraries Acts.

[28th July, 1884.]

1. Whereas doubts have arisen as to whether authorities acting under the Public Libraries Acts, have power to fulfil the conditions required for a parliamentary grant in aid of the establishment of a school of science and art, and it is expedient to remove such doubts : It is therefore hereby declared and enacted that,— Section 1.

Explanation of 18 & 19 Vict.
c. 70, s. 18.
18 & 19 Vict.
c. 70, s. 9.

2. Whereas section eighteen of the Public Libraries Act, 1855, as regards England, and section nine of the Public Libraries Act (Ireland), 1855, as regards Ireland, provide for the erection of buildings "suitable for public libraries, or museums, or both, or for schools for science or art":

and doubts are entertained as to the meaning of those provisions: Now, therefore, it is hereby declared and enacted that—

Buildings may under the said sections be erected for public libraries, public museums, schools for science, art galleries, and schools for art, or for any one or more of those objects.

Power to establish library, museum, or school for

CONTAGIOUS DISEASES (ANIMALS) ACT, 1884.

47 VICT. c. 13.

An Act to amend the Contagious Diseases (Animals) Act, 1878.

[19th May, 1884.]

Whereas it is expedient to amend the Contagious Diseases (Animals) Act, 1878, in this Act referred to as the principal Act :

Be it enacted, &c.

1. For the purpose of preventing the introduction into the United Kingdom of the infection of foot and mouth disease, the Privy Council may from time to time by general or special order prohibit, whenever they deem it expedient so to do, the landing of animals from any foreign country or countries or any specified part thereof, and they shall prohibit such landing whenever they are not satisfied with respect to any foreign country, or any specified part thereof, that having regard to the sanitary condition of the animals therein, or imported therefrom, to the laws made by such country for the regulation of the importation and exportation of animals, and for the prevention of the introduction or spreading of disease, and to the administration of such laws, the circumstances are such as to afford reasonable security against the importation therefrom of animals affected with foot and mouth disease.

c. 74.

Power to Privy Council to prohibit landing of foreign animals in certain cases.

2. The provisions relating to quarantine contained in Part II. of the fifth schedule annexed to the principal Act shall apply to animals brought from foreign countries from which the importation of animals is for the time being prohibited.

Extension of provisions relating to quarantine.

3. The Privy Council may, if they think fit, exercise the powers vested in them, under Part IV. of the said fifth schedule, so far as relates to the admission of animals without being subject to slaughter, in relation to any specified part of a foreign country in the same manner as in relation to the whole of a foreign country, subject to such regulations as to the route by which the animals are conveyed to this country, quarantine, or otherwise as the Privy Council may from time to time by general or special order direct.

Amendment of 41 & 42 Vict. c. 74, Sch. V., Pt. 4.

4. In addition to the powers conferred on the Privy Council by the Contagious Diseases (Animals) Act, 1878, the Privy Council may make such orders as they think fit for prohibiting the conveyance of animals by any specified vessel to or from any port in the United Kingdom for such time as they may consider expedient.

Additional power to Privy Council.
41 & 42 Vict. c. 74.

5. Any order made in pursuance of this Act shall forthwith after the making thereof, if Parliament is then sitting, and if it is not sitting then forthwith after the next meeting of Parliament, be laid before both Houses of Parliament.

Orders to be laid before Parliament.

6. This Act, so far as is consistent with the tenour thereof, shall be construed as one with the Contagious Diseases (Animals) Act, 1878, and shall apply to Ireland with the modifications and subject to the provisions contained in Part IV. of the principal Act, and this Act and the principal Act may be cited together as the Contagious Diseases (Animals) Acts, 1878 and 1884, and this Act may be cited separately as the Contagious Diseases (Animals) Act, 1884.

Construction of Act and short title.

CONTAGIOUS DISEASES (ANIMALS) TRANSFER OF PARTS OF DISTRICTS ACT, 1884.

47 & 48 VICT. c. 47.

An Act to enable Local Authorities to transfer the whole or certain parts of their districts for the purposes of the Contagious Diseases (Animals) Act, 1878, to the districts of neighbouring Local Authorities.

[7th August, 1884.]

Whereas it is expedient for the more effectual and convenient administration of the provisions of the Contagious Diseases (Animals) Act, 1878, to enable local authorities to transfer the whole or certain parts of their districts for the purposes of that Act to the districts of neighbouring local authorities :

Secs. 1, 2.

Be it therefore enacted, &c.

41 & 42 Vict.
c. 74.

1. This Act may be cited as the Contagious Diseases (Animals) Transfer of Parts of Districts Act, 1884, and shall be construed as one with the Contagious Diseases (Animals) Act, 1878.

Short title.

2. Wherever the whole or any part of the district within which any local authority exercises jurisdiction under the provisions of the Contagious Diseases (Animals) Act, 1878, or any Order

Transfer of powers from one local

Secs. 2—5. of Council from time to time in force by virtue thereof, is wholly surrounded by or has a common boundary with the district within which any other local authority exercises the like jurisdiction, those two local authorities may by agreement in writing between themselves make and from time to time vary and rescind provisions for the exercise by one of them (in this Act referred to as the administering authority) of jurisdiction under the said Act or any such Order within the whole or any part or parts of the district of the other (in this Act referred to as the surrendering authority) and for ascertaining the proportion of the expenses of the administering authority to be paid by the surrendering authority, such proportion to be fixed with reference to the rateable value of the part of the district of the surrendering authority surrendered to the administering authority as compared with the rateable value of the original area of the district of the administering authority.

The district or part of a district subjected, in pursuance of an agreement under this section, to the jurisdiction of the administering authority, shall, for the purpose of the exercise of such jurisdiction, be deemed to be part of the district of the administering authority, and be dealt with accordingly.

Any expenses payable by a surrendering authority to an administering authority under this section shall be paid out of the rate or fund out of which such expenses would have been paid had they been incurred by the surrendering authority itself.

Provided that where the surrendering authority is a borough and the administering authority is a county to the rate of which such borough is assessed, the first provision of section forty-seven of the Contagious Diseases (Animals) Act, 1878, requiring repayment by the local authority of the county to the local authority of the borough therein mentioned shall not apply.

Formation of united district.

3. A local authority may from time to time by agreement concur with any other local authority or authorities in appointing out of their respective bodies a joint committee consisting of such number of members with such tenure of office as they may determine, and in assigning to such joint committee a district consisting of the whole or such parts of the districts of the constituent authorities as such authorities may determine, and in delegating to such joint committee within their district the whole or any part of the jurisdiction of a local authority under the Contagious Diseases (Animals) Act, 1878, or any Order of Council from time to time enforced by virtue thereof, and any such committee shall, in respect of any jurisdiction so assigned to them, exercise the same powers and be subject to the same obligations, and the said Act and any Order made in pursuance thereof shall, in respect of the district so assigned, take effect as if such district were the district of a local authority and the joint committee were a local authority within the meaning of the said Act.

All expenses incurred by such joint committee shall be apportioned among the component areas belonging to the different constituent authorities in proportion to the rateable values of such areas, as compared with each other, and shall be paid out of the rates or funds out of which such expenses would have been paid had they been incurred by the constituent authorities themselves.

Execution of agreement.

4. Any agreement made by a local authority under this Act shall be binding so far as respects such authority if executed by the chairman for the time being of the local authority and two other members of such authority, or, where such authority is a corporation, if executed under the corporate seal.

No such agreement shall be valid unless it has been approved by the Privy Council.

Definition of "jurisdiction."

5. The expression "jurisdiction" shall not include the power of making or levying a rate, but shall include all other powers, duties, and obligations exercisable by or imposed on a local authority or its officers under the Contagious Diseases (Animals) Act, 1878, or any Order of Council from time to time enforced by virtue of such Act.

PUBLIC HEALTH (OFFICERS) ACT, 1884.

47 & 48 VICT. c. 74.

An Act to amend the Public Health Act, 1875, with respect to the officers of local authorities.

[14th August, 1884.]

Secs. 1, 2.

Short title.
Restriction on recovery of penalties.

1. This Act may be cited as the Public Health (Officers) Act, 1884, and shall be construed as one with the Public Health Act, 1875, in this Act called the principal Act.

2. Proceedings for the recovery of any penalty under the hundred and ninety-third section⁽¹⁾ of the principal Act shall not be taken except with the consent in writing of the Attorney-General.

SALE OF FOOD AND DRUGS ACT, 1875.

COUNTY AUTHORITIES.

Local Government Board, Whitehall, S.W., 30th September, 1875.

SIR,

I am directed by the Local Government Board to draw the attention of the court of quarter sessions to the Sale of Food and Drugs Act of the last session (38 & 39 Vict. c. 63), which will come into force on the 1st of October, 1875.

In accordance with the recommendation of the Select Committee of the House of Commons upon the Adulteration of Food and Drugs Act, 1872 (35 & 36 Vict. c. 74), the present statute repeals that Act, together with the Adulteration of Food and Drink Act, 1860 (23 & 24 Vict. c. 84), and the 24th section of the Sale of Poisons and Pharmacy Act, 1868 (31 & 32 Vict. c. 121), and, whilst re-enacting several of the provisions thus repealed, it has made many important amendments in the previous law.

The following statement shows the most material of these amendments:—

Appointment of Analysts.

Express power is now given to the Local Government Board, by section 10, to require, in the case of any future appointment of an analyst, satisfactory proof of his competency. They are, moreover, empowered to qualify their approval by such modifications with respect to the period of appointment and removal, or otherwise, as they may think proper. It must, however, be distinctly understood that these provisions do not in any way relieve the local authority from the responsibility of satisfying themselves that the person appointed by them is in every respect qualified to discharge with efficiency the duties of his office.

Another important amendment is that in future no analyst is to be appointed for any place in which he is engaged, either directly or indirectly, in any trade or business connected with the sale of food or drugs.

The Act of 1872 prescribed as the qualifications of an analyst that he should possess competent medical, chemical, and microscopical knowledge; but section 10 of the new Act requires that he should possess competent knowledge, skill, and experience.

The Act, however, in no way interferes with any existing appointment.

In consequence of the difficulty which had been experienced in obtaining the services of a competent analyst for small areas, section 11 empowers the town council of any borough to engage the services of the analyst for the county or any neighbouring borough, and the Board hope that the local authorities referred to will freely avail themselves of this new power. At the same time they may remark that the facilities thus afforded by the Legislature to meet the difficulty referred to has removed any ground which may have previously existed for neglecting to comply with the requirements of the law.

Duties of Analysts.

Complaints have been made that, when a long interval has been suffered to elapse between the taking of the sample and the making of the analysis, in the case of commodities liable to decomposition, a change has often taken place in the constitution of the article, which has rendered the analysis unreliable. These complaints are met by section 13, which requires that the analysis shall be made with all convenient speed; and it will be seen, by reference to the note to the form of certificate given in the schedule, that, as regards perishable articles, the analyst is to report specially whether or not any such change has taken place.

Under the repealed Acts the analyst was required to specify in the certificate whether, in his opinion, the article was adulterated, and in case of articles of food and drink, whether they were so adulterated as to be injurious to the health of the consumer. In the present Act a form of certificate is prescribed, which requires him to state the parts or percentages of the foreign materials; but he will be at liberty to express therein his opinion as to the purpose for which the mixture was made, and also whether or not the ingredients are injurious to health.

The Act of 1872 required the analyst to make to the authority by whom he was appointed a quarterly report, showing the number of articles analysed and the nature of the adulterations detected. Every such report must, for the future, specify the result of each analysis, and the sum paid in respect thereof, and must be presented at the next meeting of the authority. Certified copies of all such reports are to be annually transmitted by the authority to the Local Government Board. (See section 19.)

Proceedings to obtain Analyses.

Under the Act of 1872, the only officers who could be employed to obtain samples for analysis were inspectors of nuisances, inspectors of weights and measures, and inspectors of markets. Section 13 authorises the employment of medical officers of health and police constables for this purpose, in addition to the inspectors before referred to, and not only the authority appointing such officers, but any authority charged with the execution of the Act, may direct them to procure samples.

Another important amendment will be observed in section 14, which requires the purchaser to notify to the seller, after the purchase has been completed, his intention to submit the article purchased for analysis, and to offer to divide it into three parts, each to be marked and sealed or fastened up. If such offer is accepted, he is to deliver one of such parts to the seller and one to the analyst, and to retain the third himself, for production in case of proceedings. If the offer is refused, the purchaser is to divide the article into two parts, retaining one himself, and delivering or sending the other to the analyst.

Hitherto it has been necessary for the officer of the local authority personally to deliver the sample to the analyst. This provision having entailed considerable expense and inconvenience, especially in cases where the analyst resided outside the district, it is provided by section 16 that if he does not reside within a distance of two miles of the residence of the person requiring the article to be analysed, the sample may be forwarded to him by post in a registered packet, subject to any regulations of the Postmaster-General. A copy of the regulations which the Postmaster-General has issued on the subject will be found at the end of this circular.

It has frequently happened that a trader has refused to allow a sample to be purchased when he has had a suspicion that it was required for analysis. Section 17 now imposes a penalty not exceeding £10 upon any trader refusing to sell for analysis samples in such quantity as shall be reasonably requisite of any articles exposed for sale, if the officer tenders the price for the same.

Description of Offences.

In lieu of the somewhat complicated provisions of the previous Act as to the offences of adulterating articles with injurious ingredients, and of selling the same when so adulterated, the present Act (section 3) imposes a penalty of £50 for mixing, with intent to sell, any article of food with any ingredient so as to render the article injurious to health, or for selling any article so mixed, the offender being liable to be imprisoned for six months, with hard labour, for every second and subsequent offence.

Section 4 imposes similar penalties on any person who, except for the purpose of compounding in accordance with the demand of the purchaser, mixes, with intent to sell, any drug with any ingredient so as to affect injuriously its quality or potency, or who sells any drug so mixed.

By a further amendment (section 5) proof of guilty knowledge on the part of the defendant is not required from the prosecutor; but the defendant may show that he had no knowledge of the adulteration, and that he could not with reasonable diligence have obtained that knowledge.

The principal offence created by the Act of 1872 was that in relation to the ordinary retail sale of articles of food which had been adulterated, although not with injurious or poisonous ingredients; but, as there was no statutory definition of the term adulteration, there was a great want of uniformity in the administration of the law, and considerable hardships were in consequence inflicted upon some branches of the trading community.

It is obvious, moreover, that there may be other fraudulent practices which do not necessarily constitute adulteration, such as the substitution of one article for another, or the admixture of one article with another of the same kind, but of inferior quality. The term adulteration, therefore, is not used in the present Act, and in future it will constitute an offence to sell, to the prejudice of the purchaser, any article not of the nature, substance, and quality of that demanded. It will not, however, be an offence to add to food or drugs any matter or ingredient required for their production or preparation as articles of commerce in a state fit for carriage or consumption, provided that the addition does not fraudulently increase the bulk, weight, or measure of the article, or conceal its inferior quality. Exceptions are also made in favour of proprietary medicines and patented articles, and the seller is also protected when the article is unavoidably mixed with extraneous matter in the process of collection or preparation.

Section 8 further amends the law, in the case of compound articles, by enabling the seller to protect himself against proceedings if, with the article, he delivers to the purchaser a label, distinctly and legibly written or printed, to the effect that the article is mixed. It is necessary, however, that the matter added should not be injurious to health, or intended fraudulently to increase the bulk, weight, or measure, or to conceal the inferior quality of the compounded article. The giving of a false label renders the person liable to a penalty of £20.

While these alterations have been made to meet the reasonable objections of traders as to the uncertainty of the law, it will be seen that section 9 constitutes a new offence, by providing that no person shall, with the intent that the same may be sold in its altered state without notice, abstract from any article of food any part of it, so as to affect injuriously its quality, substance, or nature; and no person shall sell any article so altered without making disclosure of the alteration, under a penalty not exceeding £20. This amendment will, for example, render the fraudulent abstraction of cream from milk an offence punishable summarily.

It will be observed that, with respect to tea, special provision is made by section 30, under which all imported tea will be subject to examination by persons appointed by the Commissioners of Customs; but, although this provision will doubtless operate as a protection both to the public and the trading community, it will not exempt any seller of tea from the proceedings to which he may be liable under the provisions before mentioned.

Before concluding this part of their circular, the Board are desirous of removing an erroneous impression which appears to prevail in certain localities, viz., that the special legal provisions made by the Licensing Act, 1872, with regard to the offence of adulterating beer, are still in force.

It is true that statute contained enactments on this subject, and a schedule of adulterants of beer was appended to it. Moreover, certain regulations, framed with regard to the then state of the law, were issued, under which the officers of the Commissioners of Inland Revenue and the police were in the habit of instituting prosecutions in cases where the percentage of salt and other substances was considered excessive. The Act of 1872, however, together with the schedule, was repealed by the Licensing Act, 1874, with the express intention that proceedings for the offence of adulterating beer should thenceforward be placed on the same footing as those in respect of other articles.

Proceedings against Offenders.

An important amendment in the law will be found in section 21, which enables a defendant to tender himself and his wife to be examined on his behalf.

It will also be observed that the justices or Court of Appeal may in their discretion, upon the request of either party cause any article to be sent to the Commissioners of Inland Revenue to be analysed by the chemical officers of that department at Somerset House, the expense of such analysis to be paid by the complainant or defendant, as the justices may direct. It will also be competent for the defendant to require the analyst to be called as a witness, and the parts of the articles retained by the purchaser to be produced (section 21).

As it is important that great care should be observed in forwarding the samples to the Commissioners of Inland Revenue, and that the analysis should be effected with the greatest despatch consistent with accuracy, the Commissioners have prepared instructions for the guidance of the clerks to the justices in performing the new duty imposed upon them. A copy of these instructions is appended to this circular, and the board suggest that the court of quarter sessions should cause them to be communicated to the clerks to the justices in the several petty sessional divisions of the county.

In connection with proceedings against offenders, the Board may further point out that it will be open to the defendant to prove that he is protected by any provision or exception contained in the Act with reference to compounded articles. He will be entitled to be discharged if he proves to the satisfaction of the justices or court that he bought the article as the same in nature, substance, and quality as that demanded of him, and with a written warranty, that he had no reason to believe that the article was otherwise, and that he sold it in the same state as when he purchased it; but he will be liable to pay the costs of the prosecutor in such a case, unless he has given him due notice of his intention to rely on this defence.

Section 27 constitutes the forging of a warranty a misdemeanor punishable by imprisonment, and imposes a penalty of £20 for the misapplication of warranties and the giving of false warranties.

Section 28 enables a person in an action brought by him for breach of contract on the sale of any article of food or of any drug, to recover the penalty incurred by him, together with the costs in relation to the proceedings under the Act, if the article was sold to him as being of the same nature, substance, and quality as that which was demanded of him, and he purchased it not knowing it to be otherwise.

Application of Penalties.

Penalties recovered under the Act by the officers of a local authority who have appointed an analyst, or agreed to the acting of an analyst within their districts, are to be paid to them, and by them to such authority, to be applied towards the expenses of executing the Act.

The Board have thought it right not to confine their observations to those provisions of the Act which relate more immediately to the duties devolving upon the court of quarter sessions; but in drawing attention to a statute of so much importance, they have adverted to the chief alterations in the law which affect the trading community and the public, and which may be summed up as follows:—

AS REGARDS THE TRADING COMMUNITY—

It protects the seller—

- (1.) By permitting those practices in the established usage of trade with respect to the addition of harmless ingredients not intended fraudulently to increase the bulk or weight of the article, or to conceal its inferior quality, which clearly ought not to constitute an offence.
- (2.) By enabling him to protect himself in the case of a mixed article, by affixing a label to it.
- (3.) By giving him the right, when he has a written warranty, to plead the warranty as a defence.
- (4.) By providing that, if convicted, he may, in an action against the wholesale vendor for breach of contract, recover the costs of his conviction, if he proves that the article was sold to him as being of the same nature, substance, and quality as that demanded of him, that he purchased it not knowing it to be otherwise, and that he afterwards sold it in the same state.
- (5.) By requiring the purchaser, when he intends to have the article analysed, to divide the sample, and leave one part with the seller.
- (6.) By providing, in the case of tea, that it shall be examined by officers of the Customs at the port of landing.
- (7.) By enabling the seller and his wife to be examined as witnesses on his behalf.
- (8.) By authorising the justices, where the result of the analysis is questioned, to have the article referred for analysis to the laboratory at Somerset House.

AS REGARDS THE PUBLIC—

- (1.) The former law only protected the public against adulterated or mixed articles; but the new Act protects the purchaser against the delivery of any article which differs in substance, nature, or quality from the one demanded.
- (2.) It punishes the seller who abstracts any part of an article so as to affect injuriously its quality.
- (3.) It prevents the sale of articles mixed with ingredients not in accordance with the demand of the purchaser without a label indicating that they are mixed.
- (4.) It enables medical officers of health and police constables, in addition to the inspectors authorised by the former law, to obtain articles and submit them for analysis when directed to do so.
- (5.) It assists the local authority of a small district in obtaining the services of an efficient analyst by empowering them to engage the analyst of another authority; and it enables a purchaser, in a district where there is no analyst, to obtain analyses from the analyst of another district.
- (6.) It compels the trader to sell a sample for analysis on demand.

- (7.) And, lastly, it renders the law more intelligible, and therefore more practicable, accessible, and certain.

It will be seen, therefore, that whilst some of the amendments which have been made afford to the trading community the reasonable protection to which they were justly entitled, others have rendered the law much more stringent and effectual in the interest of the public.

I am, &c.,

JOHN LAMBERT,
Secretary.

To the Clerk of the Peace.

Regulations issued by the Postmaster-General for the transmission by post of samples for analysis :—

1. Each packet must be addressed according to the official designation of the analyst, as "public analyst," or otherwise, and the nature of its contents must be stated on the front of the packet.
2. Any postmaster at whose office a packet for a public analyst shall be tendered for registration, may refuse to accept it for this purpose unless it be packed in so secure a manner as to render it at least unlikely that its contents will escape and injure the correspondence.
3. Liquids for analysis shall be contained in stout bottles or bladders, which shall be enclosed in strong wooden boxes with rounded edges—the boxes being covered by stout wrappers of paper or cloth; and no such package shall exceed 8 inches in length, 4 inches in width, and 3 inches in depth.
4. No packet whatever addressed to a public analyst shall exceed the dimensions of 18 inches in length, 9 inches in width, or 6 inches in depth.
5. The postage and registration fee on each packet must of course be prepaid.

Regulations to be observed in transmitting articles for analysis to the Commissioners of Inland Revenue:—

1. The sample retained by the purchaser, as stated in sections 14 and 15 of the Act, should be carefully sealed up and secured either in paper or in a box, as the case may be.
2. The seal should bear a motto or device not in common use, to enable its identity to be sworn to.
3. If sent through the post, the instructions issued by the Postmaster-General for the transmission of such samples should be carefully carried out, and the parcel should be addressed to

THE COMMISSIONERS OF INLAND REVENUE, INLAND REVENUE OFFICE,
SOMERSET HOUSE,
LONDON, W.C.

The Principal of the Laboratory.

And in addition to the nature of the contents being stated on the front of the packet, as enjoined by the Postmaster-General, the name of the place whence sent should be stated.

If dispatched by railway or other conveyance, the address above given, with the name of the place from which forwarded, will be sufficient.

4. At the time the parcel is dispatched by post or otherwise, a letter should be sent by post to the principal of the laboratory, apprising him of the transmission of the sample for analysis, and stating the nature of the alleged adulteration, and such other particulars as may be considered necessary to facilitate the examination of the sample.

MEDICAL OFFICERS AND INSPECTORS OF NUISANCES.

THE PUBLIC HEALTH ACT, 1875.

MEMORANDUM RELATIVE TO THE JOINT APPOINTMENT OF MEDICAL OFFICERS OF HEALTH OR OF INSPECTORS OF NUISANCES FOR TWO OR MORE SANITARY DISTRICTS.

Local Government Board, Whitehall, S. W., February, 1876.

By section 189 of the Public Health Act, 1875, every urban sanitary authority is required to appoint, from time to time, fit and proper persons to be medical officer of health and inspector of nuisances; and, by section 190, every rural sanitary authority is required to appoint, from time to time, fit and proper persons to be medical officer or officers of health and inspector or inspectors of nuisances.

By section 191, sub-section 2, it is enacted that the same person may, with the sanction of the Local Government Board, be appointed medical officer of health or inspector of nuisances for two or more districts, by the local authorities of such districts; and that the Local Government Board shall, by order, prescribe the mode of such appointment, and the proportions in which the expenses of such appointment and the salary and charges of the officer shall be borne by the authorities.

In those cases in which sanitary authorities, whether urban or rural, propose to make appointments in pursuance of section 191, sub-section 2, the following course of proceeding should be adopted.

Each of the authorities proposing to combine should pass a resolution agreeing to combine with the other authorities in the appointment of the same person as medical officer of health or inspector of nuisances, as the case may be; and, when an arrangement has been arrived at as to the period for which the appointment is to be made, the amount of the salary to be paid to the officer when appointed, and the proportions to be borne by each authority, copies of the resolutions embodying the proposals should be transmitted to the Local Government Board for their consideration.

If the proposal be sanctioned by the Board, they will then issue the order required by the statute.

The order will provide:—

- (a.) For the election of a joint committee, to consist of a certain number of members of each authority, upon whom the appointment of the officer will devolve.
- (b.) For convening a meeting of the joint committee, at which the appointment is to be made in the mode prescribed by the order.
- (c.) For the appointment of the clerk of one of the authorities to act as clerk to the committee, for the purpose of conducting the requisite proceedings in regard to the appointment.
- (d.) For the proportions in which the salary and charges of the officer, as well as the expenses of the appointment, including the remuneration of the clerk to the joint committee, shall be borne by the several authorities.
- (e.) For the tenure of office and duties of the officer; and also for his qualification in the case of a medical officer of health.
- (f.) For the re-appointment, from time to time, of the person elected under the order, provided that the sanitary authorities by whom the appointment was made should be desirous of continuing his appointment for a further period.

When the appointment has been duly made, in pursuance of the order, the clerk to the joint committee should forthwith report the appointment to the Local Government Board for their approval.

JOHN LAMBERT, Secretary.

REPORTS OF MEDICAL OFFICERS OF HEALTH.

ANNUAL REPORTS OF MEDICAL OFFICERS OF HEALTH APPOINTED UNDER BOARD'S ORDERS OF 11TH NOVEMBER, 1872.

Local Government Board, Whitehall, S.W.,30th December, 1876.

SIR,

I am directed by the Local Government Board to forward to you, herewith, copies of instructions which have been prepared by the medical officer of the Board with reference to the annual reports which are to be made by medical officers of health appointed under the Board's order of the 11th November, 1872; and I am to request that one of the copies may, without delay, be sent to each medical officer of health in the rural [or urban] sanitary district. I am also to enclose forms for use by the medical officers of health in making their reports for 1876, three copies of which should, at the same time, be sent to each of them.

The Board attach much importance to the annual reports of the medical officers of health. If carefully made in accordance with the instructions, the reports will afford valuable information and assistance both to the sanitary authority and to the Board. It is also important that they should be made within a reasonable time from the close of the year to which they relate and the Board rely upon receiving, within the time specified, the copies which are to be transmitted to them.

I am, &c.,

JOHN LAMBERT,

*Secretary.To the Clerk to theRural [or Urban] Sanitary Authority.*

ANNUAL REPORTS OF MEDICAL OFFICERS OF HEALTH.

Instructions.

Every medical officer of health, appointed under the order of the Local Government Board dated the 11th November, 1872, is required to make an annual report with regard to each sanitary district, or division of a district, which is under his superintendence. This report is to be for the year ending the 31st of December, or, if the officer at that date has not been in office for a whole year, then for so much of the year as has elapsed since his appointment. The report is to be made to the sanitary authority, and a copy of it is to be sent by the medical officer of health to the Local Government Board. It should be made as soon as practicable after the expiration of the year to which it relates. The medical officer of health ought not, in general, to have any difficulty in doing this within a month or six weeks; but if from any special circumstances the report cannot be completed within six weeks, it should be understood that the delay must not be indefinite, and that the report, complete or incomplete, should be in the hands of the sanitary authority within, at most, three months from the end of the year. The Board's copy of the report should be forwarded to them when the original is sent to the sanitary authority, except where the report is likely to be printed by order of the authority. In such cases the Board need only be supplied with a printed copy. But in all cases in which the report cannot be sent to the Board within six weeks from the end of the year, they should be informed by the medical officer of health as to the reason for the delay.

Article 14 of section 4 of the Board's order (a copy of which section is printed below) provides that the annual report is to contain information as to the sickness and deaths that have occurred during the year; the measures taken in order to prevent the spread of disease; and the proceedings of the medical officer of health. It would be well if the report, so far as it relates to the medical officer of health's proceedings, were, in the main, the same in arrangement as the articles which deal with these proceedings; thus stating first what has been done under articles 1—3, which make it the duty of the medical officer of health to inform himself as to the sanitary state of the district, and to make the inquiries and inspections necessary for this purpose; next, the advice which has been given to the sanitary authority under articles 4 and 5; and, lastly, the action he has taken under articles 6—10 in the several matters therein referred to.

As regards the duties imposed under these several articles, each of which will thus be reported on, special attention should be had to the provisions of article 3, which directs systematic inspections of the district to be made by the medical officer of health, apart from the inquiries which under other articles of the order he has to make into particular outbreaks of disease, or into unwholesome conditions to which his attention may have been specially called by complaints or otherwise. The object of these systematic inspections is that the medical officer of health may assure himself that he is well acquainted with all the discoverable circumstances which are likely to affect the public health in his district. How often these inspections require to be made, and how detailed the inquiries should be, must be determined by the particular circumstances of the locality. In some neighbourhoods a house-to-house inspection should as far as practicable be made; in others this may not be needful; but every medical officer of health should at certain times set himself to examine into the state of his district, devoting some time to each portion of it, so as to be sure that no part escapes his notice. In making such an inspection the medical officer of health will usually require the assistance of the inspector of nuisances. Of these inspections, of the judgment he has formed thereon as to the sanitary state of his district, and of the advice he has in consequence given to the sanitary authority, and the action taken by the authority thereon, the annual report should contain a full account.

As regards the tabular statements of sickness and mortality (forms for which statements are now issued by the Board), only one observation appears to be needful. The district under the superintendence of a medical officer of health will often contain several parts evidently differing in their circumstances, or having very different death rates, either of all registered deaths, or of those from some particular disease or class of diseases. The observation of these differences can scarcely fail to lead to valuable information, and it is in view of those differences that in article 14 the tabular statements are required to be classified according to localities, and that provision for such a classification is made in the enclosed forms for returns of deaths. In the absence of any ascertained differences of the above sort, it will still be desirable to classify the deaths of the district according to the part of the district in which they occur; and for this purpose any areas of known population (such as parishes, townships, or wards) may be taken as representing "localities" for the purposes of the order. Classification on this basis will be likely to lead to the discovery of real differences when the returns for several years can be compared together.

Having regard to the imperfect character of the information which is obtainable as to non-fatal sickness, such a classification cannot, it seems, be generally attempted in the sickness returns; but in particular cases medical officers of health may be able, and may find it useful, so as to classify the pauper sickness of which they receive information.

What has been said above with regard to the information which an annual report should contain must be understood, not as suggesting that the report should be limited to these subjects, or that more detailed or differently arranged tabular statements may not be added, but as indicating the minimum of information which will satisfy the requirements of the Board's order. Many medical officers of health will doubtless, and with great advantage to the administration of their district, give much more detailed information than they are actually required to furnish, and will give especial prominence to the questions to which they have been led by the circumstances of the past year to devote particular attention, or in the investigation of which they may have arrived at valuable conclusions. Any information of this kind will be gladly received by the Local Government Board.

EDWARD C. SEATON, M.D.,

Medical Officer.

*Local Government Board,
December, 1876.*

EXTRACT FROM THE GENERAL ORDER OF THE LOCAL GOVERNMENT BOARD OF THE 11TH NOVEMBER, 1872, AS TO MEDICAL OFFICERS OF HEALTH ⁽¹⁾.

SECTION IV.—Duties.

The following shall be the duties of a medical officer of health in respect of the sanitary district for which he is appointed; or if he shall be appointed for more than one district, or for a part of a district, then in respect of each of such districts, or of such part :—

- (1.) He shall inform himself as far as practicable respecting all influences affecting or threatening to affect injuriously the public health within the district.
- (2.) He shall inquire into and ascertain by such means as are at his disposal the causes, origin, and distribution of diseases within the district, and ascertain to what extent the same have depended on conditions capable of removal or mitigation.
- (3.) He shall by inspection of the district, both systematically at certain periods, and at intervals as occasion may require, keep himself informed of the conditions injurious to health existing therein.
- (4.) He shall be prepared to advise the sanitary authority on all matters affecting the health of the district, and on all sanitary points involved in the action of the sanitary authority; and, in cases requiring it, he shall certify, for the guidance of the sanitary authority, or of the justices, as to any matter in respect of which the certificate of a medical officer of health or a medical practitioner is required as the basis or in aid of sanitary action.
- (5.) He shall advise the sanitary authority on any question relating to health involved in the framing and subsequent working of such bye-laws and regulations as they may have power to make.
- (6.) On receiving information of the outbreak of any contagious, infectious, or epidemic disease of a dangerous character within the district, he shall visit the spot without delay and inquire into the causes and circumstances of such outbreak, and advise the persons competent to act as to the measures which may appear to him to be required to prevent the extension of the disease, and, so far as he may be lawfully authorised, assist in the execution of the same.
- (7.) On receiving information from the inspector of nuisances that his intervention is required in consequence of the existence of any nuisance injurious to health, or of any overcrowding in a house, he shall, as early as practicable, take such steps authorised by the statutes in that behalf as the circumstances of the case may justify and require.
- (8.) In any case in which it may appear to him to be necessary or advisable, or in which he shall be so directed by the sanitary authority, he shall himself inspect and examine any animal, carcase, meat, poultry, game, flesh, fish, fruit, vegetables, corn, bread, or flour, exposed for sale, or deposited for the purpose of sale or of preparation for sale, and intended for the food of man, which is deemed to be diseased, or unsound, or unwholesome, or unfit for the food of man; and if he finds that such animal or article is diseased, or unsound, or unwholesome, or unfit for the food of man, he shall give such directions as may be necessary for causing the same to be seized, taken, and carried away, in order to be dealt with by a justice according to the provisions of the statutes applicable to the case.
- (9.) He shall perform all the duties imposed upon him by any bye-laws and regulations of the sanitary authority, duly confirmed, in respect of any matter affecting the public health, and touching which they are authorised to frame bye-laws and regulations.
- (10.) He shall inquire into any offensive process of trade carried on within the district, and report on the appropriate means for the prevention of any nuisance or injury to health therefrom.
- (11.) He shall attend at the office of the sanitary authority, or at some other appointed place, at such stated times as they may direct.
- (12.) He shall from time to time report, in writing, to the sanitary authority, his proceedings, and the measures which may require to be adopted for the improvement or protection of the public health in the district. He shall in like manner report with respect to the sickness and mortality within the district, so far as he has been enabled to ascertain the same.

- (13.) He shall keep a book or books, to be provided by the sanitary authority, in which he shall make an entry of his visits, and notes of his observations and instructions thereon, and also the date and nature of applications made to him, the date and result of the action taken thereon, and of any action taken on previous reports, and shall produce such book or books, whenever required, to the sanitary authority.
- (14.) He shall also prepare an annual report, to be made to the end of December in each year, comprising tabular statements of the sickness and mortality within the district, classified according to diseases, ages, and localities, and a summary of the action taken during the year for preventing the spread of disease. The report shall also contain an account of the proceedings in which he has taken part or advised under the Sanitary Acts, so far as such proceedings relate to conditions dangerous or injurious to health, and also an account of the supervision exercised by him, or on his advice, for sanitary purposes over places and houses that the sanitary authority has power to regulate, with the nature and results of any proceedings which may have been so required and taken in respect of the same during the year. It shall also record the action taken by him, or on his advice, during the year, in regard to offensive trades, bakehouses, and workshops.
- (15.) He shall give immediate information to the Local Government Board of any outbreak of dangerous epidemic disease within the district, and shall transmit to the Board, on forms to be provided by them, a quarterly return of the sickness and deaths within the district, and also a copy of each annual and of any special report.
- (16.) In matters not specifically provided for in this order, he shall observe and execute, so far as the circumstances of the district may require, the instructions of the Local Government Board on the duties of medical officers of health, and all the lawful orders and directions of the sanitary authority applicable to his office.
- (17.) Whenever the Diseases Prevention Act of 1855 is in force within the district, he shall observe the directions and regulations issued under that Act by the Local Government Board, so far as the same relate to or concern his office.
- (18.) Where more than one medical officer of health shall be appointed by a sanitary authority, such authority, with the approval of the Local Government Board, may either assign to each of the officers a portion of the district, or may distribute the duties of medical officer of health amongst such officers.

It will be observed that this form is the same as that upon which medical officers of health make their quarterly returns to the Local Government Board; and information given in this table is a summary of their returns for the year 1876. The blanks on this side should be filled in, as well as the columns of the table on the other side.

The table has reference to A—Mortality among all classes.

B—Sickness and mortality among persons receiving poor law medical relief.

C—Sickness and mortality among patients of any hospital or other public medical institution.

And in recording the facts under various headings, attention has been given to the following points:—

NOTE 1. Medical officers of health of "combined districts" must make a separate return for the district of each sanitary authority.

2. Medical officers of health acting for the whole district of a sanitary authority should strike out the words [Division of the] above ().*

3. Medical officers of health acting for a portion only of the district of a sanitary authority should write, in space above (), the number or other designation of the division for which they act.*

4. Insert in the space (†) the word "urban" or "rural," according as the sanitary authority for the district is urban or rural.

5. Vagrants and visitors coming into the district are considered (for the purposes of B and C) as belonging to the district, unless brought into the same for the purpose of treatment in some public medical institution therein. New cases of sickness occurring in club or other private medical practice are not included in the columns of the table. In filling the schedule care has been taken not to count the same case of sickness twice over, e.g., once when attended at his own home, and again when removed to a public institution.

MEMORANDUM.

ON HOSPITAL ACCOMMODATION TO BE GIVEN BY LOCAL AUTHORITIES.

A large part of the mortality of England is caused by diseases which spread readily by infection from person to person ; such as scarlatina, typhus, small-pox. In order to prevent the extension of such diseases in neighbourhoods where they have begun, it is of the utmost importance that, in addition to whatever other sanitary measures may be requisite, every practicable endeavour should be made to separate the sick from the healthy. Such separation is comparatively easy, if means to attain it are taken early, while cases of the disease are very few : but any interval of delay allows the cases of sickness to multiply, and perhaps at last to become so numerous that endeavours to isolate them cannot succeed. These considerations are especially important with regard to the poorer classes of the population, whose usually crowded and ill-ventilated dwellings give extreme facilities for infection ; and among these classes, the sick, generally speaking, cannot be separated from the healthy, except in proportion as they can be removed from home into proper hospital accommodation provided for their reception.

Under the 131st section of the Public Health Act, 1875, every sanitary authority (whether urban or rural) has power to provide "for the use of the inhabitants of their district, hospitals or temporary places for the reception of the sick." When this provision has been made, any justice may order the removal to such place of any person suffering from any dangerous infectious disease, if he is without proper lodging or accommodation, or lodged in a room occupied by more than one family, or is on board any ship or vessel.

The present memorandum is intended for the assistance of sanitary authorities, who having to secure the isolation that is needed for cases of dangerous infectious disease, but not yet having the requisite hospital accommodation within their districts, desire to provide such accommodation under the powers of section 131 of the Public Health Act, 1875, or otherwise.

A condition of the highest degree of importance for the usefulness of any such accommodation is, that the accommodation shall be ready beforehand. The quantity of accommodation wanted will, of course, be widely different in different cases ; but it must always be remembered that when two infectious diseases are prevalent in one place at one time, patients having the one infectious disease cannot properly be in the same ward with patients having the other infectious disease. In kind, the accommodation ought, in all cases, to be as good as the authority can reasonably supply. It is believed, however, that, even under these conditions, the costs of providing hospital accommodation, whether for villages or for towns, needs not ever be proportionately great.

As regards villages,—each village ought to have the means of accommodating instantly, or at a few hours' notice, say, four cases of infectious disease in at least two separate rooms, without requiring their removal to a distance. A decent four-room or six-room cottage, at the disposal of the authority, would answer this purpose ; or permanent arrangement might be made beforehand with trustworthy cottage-holders, not having children, that they should receive and nurse, in case of need, patients requiring such accommodation ; and small adjacent villages (if under the same sanitary authority) might often have such arrangements in common. If, in villages where such provision as this has been made, cases of disease in excess of the accommodation occur, the sick must not be crowded together, but temporary further provision should be made for them. The most rapid and the cheapest way of obtaining this further accommodation, may often be to hire other neighbouring cottages ; or, in default of this, tents or huts may be erected upon adjacent ground.

In towns, hospital accommodation for infectious diseases is wanted more constantly, as well as in larger amount, than in villages ; and in towns there is greater probability that room will be wanted at the same time for two or more infectious diseases which ought not to be treated in the same ward. The permanent provision to be made in a town, in order to obtain reasonable security against the spread of infectious diseases, should consist of not less than four rooms, in two separate pairs ; each pair to receive the sufferers from one infectious disease, the men and women of course separately. The number of cases for which permanent provision should be made must depend upon various circumstances, chiefly upon the size of the town ; and, as no closely limited amount of permanent accommodation can be trusted always to suffice for the requirements of considerable epidemics, foresight, must from the first be used, how, in emergency, additional accommodation can be temporarily given, to meet requirements in excess of the permanent provision. Accordingly, for a town of any importance, the hospital provision ought to consist of a permanent building, having around it space enough for the erection of temporary structures, as occasion may require. Considerations of ultimate economy make it wise to have the permanent building equal to somewhat more than the average necessities of the place, so that recourse to temporary extensions may less often be wanted. In small towns, for instance, if a hospital, consisting of four wards and the necessary administrative offices, is to be provided, the original expense of making each ward serve for (say) eight persons, will be far less than double that of making the wards for four. And in any case it is well to make the administrative offices somewhat in excess of the wants of the permanent wards: because thus, at little additional first cost, they will be ready to serve, when occasion comes, for the wants of the temporary extensions.

It is not proposed to discuss in detail, in this memorandum, the principles on which permanent hospitals for infectious diseases should be built; but it may be noted, that, in order to the practical success of any such hospital, the following conditions have particularly to be studied:—

Accessibility of situation, so that the sick may not be exhausted by long journeys; wholesomeness of situation; and, as far as consists with these conditions, an open, uncrowded neighbourhood:

Adequate ward-space for each patient, approaching as nearly as circumstances allow to 2000 cubic feet, with a floor space of not less than 144 square feet:

Thoroughly good provision for ward ventilation (i.e., for sufficient unceasing entrance of pure air and of exit of ward air), with arrangements also for immediate change of air in the whole ward, when necessary:

Perfect security against the possibility of any foul air (as from privies or sinks) entering any ward:

Means of warming each ward in winter to a temperature of 60° Fahrenheit, and of keeping it cool in summer:

Safe means (safe both for the hospital and for the neighbourhood) for disposing of excremental matters and of slops, and for cleansing and disinfecting infected linen and bedding:

Facilities for obtaining, in the use of the hospital, the very strictest cleanliness of every part.

When the pressure of a particular epidemic requires temporary extension of the accommodation, or when, the provision of a permanent hospital having been neglected, accommodation for cases of infectious disease is suddenly required, huts, or, in summer, tents, will sufficiently answer the purpose.

The tents may be either such as the bell tent or hospital marquee of Her Majesty's army, or one of the various forms of tent and marquee used in civil life. Huts may be of wood or iron; and, if the administrative part of the original building have been thoughtfully devised, these temporary erections may be of very simple construction. Both tents and huts need to be carefully arranged and regulated, especially in the following respects.

As to Tents.—It is essential to secure the dryness of the ground upon which they are pitched, by trenching around and between them, so as to carry off all rainfall and prevent the lodgment of moisture. The tents should everywhere be distant at least a diameter and a half from each other. The approaches should be paved or otherwise prepared, to prevent their being trodden into mud in wet weather, and it is especially requisite that abundant proper means be provided for the reception of refuse matters, and that no casting of slops or other refuse upon the ground in the vicinity of the tents be allowed. In the distribution of patients in active stages of disease, not more than one patient should be assigned to a bell tent of the ordinary regulation size, nor more than three such patients to the regulation hospital marquee⁽¹⁾; and in other forms of tents the number of patients should be regulated in similar proportions. Tents should always be provided with special ventilating openings. They should have boarded floors, raised sufficiently above the ground so as to allow of air passing freely beneath. From the ready inflammability of the ordinary canvas of which tents are constructed, much care is required in the use of lights in tents; and tents should not be used in states of weather which render artificial warming necessary, if sufficiently rapid provision for the isolation of the sick can otherwise be had. The safest method of warming a hospital marquee is by a flue carried beneath the floor, from a stove placed in an excavation outside the tent to a chimney also beyond the tent wall.

As to Huts.—Dryness of site is, as in the case of tents, of the first importance. Each hut should be trenched round. Its floors should be raised a foot or a foot and a half from the earth, so as to permit the free under passage of air; but care must be taken to prevent the lodgment of moisture or impurities beneath the floor. In some cases a layer of concrete under the hut may be necessary to prevent dampness. A distance not less than three times the wall-height of a hut should intervene between any two huts, and each hut should be so placed as not unnecessarily to interfere with free circulation of air round other huts. In huts, as in permanent buildings for the treatment of infectious diseases, 2,000 cubic feet, with 144 square feet of floor, is the standard of space that should be allowed to each patient. The ventilation of huts, also, is of equal importance with that of permanent hospital buildings. It is best secured by the combination of side-windows with roof-opening, the latter protected from rain, and running the whole length of the ridge of the roof. The side-windows should not be of less size than ordinary house windows; they must freely open top and bottom, and for this purpose had best be sash-windows; they should be placed in similar series on opposite sides of the wards, one window between each pair of beds. The ventilating opening beneath the ridge may have flaps, moveable from within the hut by ropes and pulleys, so that the opening to windward can be closed, if necessary, in high winds. Double-walled wood huts may have additional ventilation by the admission of air between the outer and inner walls, and its passage into the interior of the hut through openings with moveable covers at the top of the inner lining. The roof should be covered with waterproof felt; the edges of the felt fastened down by strips of wood, not directly by nails. The hut should be warmed by open fire-places, fixed in brick stove-stacks, or by open stoves placed in the centre of the floor, the flue being carried through the roof, with all the needful precautions to guard against ignition of the wood-work.

Regulation Hospital Marquee.—Length 29 ft.; width 14 ft.; side walls, 5 feet 4 in.; height to ridge, 11 ft. 8 in.; area of base, 396 square ft.; cubic capacity, 3,366 ft.

The sewerage and scavenging arrangements both of tents and huts demand very careful consideration. When the tents or huts are placed within the area of a public system of sewerage and water supply, no difficulty will arise; for drains may be laid into the public sewer, and water-closets may easily be adopted. But where no system of sewerage exists, the disposal of excremental matters and other refuse will require special provisions. In regard to excremental-disposal under such circumstances, the best method to adopt is the dry-earth system, or, failing this, a pail system, with careful arrangements for the disinfection and subsequent disposal of the excrementitious matter. All slops and other refuse should be deposited in metal pails, to be removed from the tents and huts at frequent intervals, and should be so disposed of as not to become a nuisance. Too much attention cannot be given to the careful scavenging of tents and huts, and to the proper disposal of the refuse from them; and the servant or servants to whom the duty is assigned (as indeed all service which concerns the cleanliness and wholesomeness of the hospital) should be under very vigilant supervision.

ON AMBULANCES.

For the conveyance of patients who are sick with infectious disease, special carriages, which are known by the name of "ambulances," are necessary. Such carriages may be provided by sanitary authorities under section 123 of the Public Health Act, 1875. The following points have to be attended to in the provision and use of such carriages:—

1. If the ambulance be intended only for journeys of not more than a mile, it may be made so as to be carried between two people, or it may be on wheels and to be drawn by hand. If the distance be above a mile, the ambulance should be drawn by a horse. Every ambulance on wheels should have easy carriage-springs.
2. In the construction of an ambulance, special regard should be had to the fact that after each use it has to be cleansed and disinfected. The entire interior, and the bed-frame and bed, should be of materials that can be washed.
3. The ambulance should be such that the patient can lie at full length in it; and the bed-frame and bed should be moveable, so that the patient can be arranged upon the bed before being taken out of his house.
4. With an ambulance there should always be a person specially in charge of the patient; and a horse-ambulance should have a seat for such person inside the carriage.
5. After every use of an ambulance for infectious disease, it should be cleansed and disinfected to the satisfaction of a medical officer.
6. Both in very populous districts, and in districts which are of very wide area, it may often happen that more than one ambulance will be wanted at one time; and, in any district, if more than one infectious disease is prevailing, there will be an evident sanitary advantage in having more than one ambulance for use.

THE SALE OF FOOD AND DRUGS ACT, 1875.

(Section 19.)

Local Government Board, Whitehall, S.W., 16th January, 1877.

SIR,

I am directed by the Local Government Board to call attention to the provisions of section 19 of "The Sale of Food and Drugs Act, 1875" (38 & 39 Vict. c. 63), which enacts as follows:—

"Every analyst appointed under any Act hereby repealed, or this Act, shall report quarterly to the authority appointing him the number of articles analysed by him under this Act during the foregoing quarter, and shall specify the result of each analysis, and the sum paid to him in respect thereof, and such report shall be presented at the next meeting of the authority appointing such analyst; and every such authority shall annually transmit to the Local Government Board, at such time and in such form as the Board shall direct, a certified copy of such quarterly report."

The Board, in pursuance of the powers conferred upon them in that behalf, have directed that certified copies of the quarterly reports made to the authorities, mentioned in paragraph 1 of section 10 of the statute referred to by the analyst duly appointed by them, shall be forwarded by the Board in the month of January in every year according to the annexed form.

I am, &c.,

JOHN LAMBERT,
Secretary.

[No. of Authority.] [Official Address.]

[Date.]

SIR,

I hereby, in obedience of the provisions of "The Sale of Food and Drugs Act, 1875," transmit to the Local Government Board a copy of the reports of Mr. _____, the analyst appointed for the _____ during the quarters ended on the _____, the _____, the _____ and the _____ in the year 18 _____, as laid by the analyst before such authority.

(This communication to be on paper of foolscap size, with an inner margin of one fourth of the page.)

[Here insert copies of the reports leaving an inner margin of one third of the page.]

I am, &c.

*To the Secretary,
Local Government Board, Whitehall, S.W.*

Clerk to the

THE RIVERS POLLUTION PREVENTION ACT, 1876 ⁽¹⁾.

Local Government Board, Whitehall, S.W., 6th August, 1877.

SIR,

I am directed by the Local Government Board to bring under the notice of the sanitary authority the provisions of the Rivers Pollution Prevention Act, 1876 (39 & 40 Vict. c. 75) ⁽¹⁾, and in so doing, to point out that after the 15th instant the proceedings authorised by the Act in respect of offences arising from sewage, manufacturing, or mining pollutions may be taken.

The sanitary authority are doubtless aware that it has been competent for them to enforce the prohibition against putting solid matters into streams from the date of the passing of the Act.

Offences against the Act.

Offences against the Act are divided into four classes, according as they consist of the pollution or obstruction of streams:—

- (1.) By the solid refuse of any manufactory, manufacturing process, or quarry, or any rubbish or cinders, or any other waste, or any putrid solid matter;
- (2.) By solid or liquid sewage matter;

- (3.) By any poisonous, noxious, or polluting liquid from any factory or manufacturing process ; or
- (4.) By the solid matter from any mine in such quantities as to prejudicially interfere with the due flow of the stream, or by any poisonous, noxious, or polluting solid or liquid matter from any mine, other than water in the same condition as drained or raised from the mine.

In proving the pollution of the stream, or interference with its due flow, in the first class of cases, evidence may be given of repeated acts which together cause the pollution or interference, although each act, taken by itself, may not be sufficient for that purpose.

It will be an offence of the second class, except in certain exceptional cases mentioned in the Act, to cause to fall or flow, or knowingly to permit to fall or flow, or to be carried into any stream any solid or liquid sewage matter.

The Board are desirous of specially drawing the attention of the sanitary authority to the provisions in relation to sewage pollutions, inasmuch as any infringement of them will render the authority liable to hostile proceedings under the Act, on the part either of other sanitary authorities, or of any person or body of persons aggrieved by the commission of the offence.

In determining whether or not such an offence has been committed, it should be noted that a marked distinction is drawn between the cases in which the sewage is conveyed into the stream along channels, the construction of which had not been commenced at the time of the passing of the Act, and those in which it is so conveyed along channels then already existing, or in process of construction. In the former case it will be an offence against the Act for any sanitary authority to cause or permit the discharge into any stream of any solid or liquid sewage matter. In the latter an offence will not be deemed to have been committed if it can be shown to the satisfaction of the court having cognizance of the case that the best practicable and available means are used to render the sewage harmless. Moreover, in this class of cases the important power has been given to the Board of suspending, in any particular instance, for a limited period the operation of this portion of the Act beyond the twelve months allowed by the statute, provided that they are satisfied, after local inquiry, that further time ought to be granted to the sanitary authority for the purpose of enabling them to adopt the best practicable and available means for rendering the sewage harmless.

In connexion with offences of this class it should be stated that where any local authority or any rural or urban sanitary authority have been empowered or required by any Act of Parliament to carry any sewage into the sea or any tidal waters, nothing done by such authority in pursuance of such enactment will be deemed to be an offence against the Act.

As regards pollutions from factories or manufacturing processes, a distinction is drawn similar to that already referred to with respect to sewage pollutions, between the cases where the liquid finds its way into the stream along a channel used, constructed, or in process of construction at the date of the passing of the Act, or any new channel constructed in substitution thereof, and having its outfall at the same spot, and those in which it is conveyed into the stream along a channel not falling under either of the above descriptions. In the former cases an offence against the Act will not be deemed to have been committed, if it can be shown to the satisfaction of the court having cognizance of the case that the person complained of is using the best practicable and reasonably available means to render the liquid harmless.

With respect to pollutions from mines, an offence will not be deemed to have been committed if it can be shown to the satisfaction of the court that the person complained of is using the best practicable and reasonably available means to render the polluting matter harmless ; and it must be observed that it is immaterial in this case whether the channel by which the discharge is effected was or was not constructed or in process of construction before the passing of the Act.

Administration of the Law.

It will be observed that the new and important powers and duties conferred upon sanitary authorities, with a view to prevent the pollution of streams, apply not only to rivers, streams, canals, lakes, and certain watercourses, but also to the sea to such extent, and tidal waters to such point, as may be determined by the Board.

Subject to certain restrictions contained in the Act, every sanitary authority will have power to enforce its provisions in relation to any stream which is within, or which passes through or by any part of their district ; and for this purpose they may institute proceedings in respect of any offence against the Act which causes within their district the pollution of any stream, or an interference with its due flow. These proceedings may be taken either against any other sanitary authority or against any person or body of persons, and whether or not the offence is committed within the district of the prosecuting authority.

Any expenses incurred by a sanitary authority in the execution of the Act will be payable as if they were expenses incurred by the authority in the execution of the Public Health Act, 1875.

Restrictions on Proceedings.

As has been already stated, an interval of twelve months from the passing of the Act is required in certain cases to elapse before proceedings can be instituted. Independently of this restriction, no proceedings can be taken in any case in respect of any offence under the Act, until the expiration of two months after written notice has been given to the offender; nor may any such proceedings be taken while other proceedings under the Act are pending in relation to the offence.

No proceedings can be taken in respect of offences arising from the discharge into streams of the liquid refuse from manufactories, or the solid or liquid refuse from mines, without the consent of the Board.

In giving or withholding their consent the Board are to have regard to the industrial interests involved in the case, and to the circumstances and requirements of the locality; and they are prohibited from giving their consent to proceedings by the sanitary authority of any district which is the seat of any manufacturing industry, unless they are satisfied, after due inquiry, that means for rendering harmless the liquid refuse from the processes of such manufactures are reasonably practicable and available under all the circumstances of the case, and that no material injury will be inflicted by such proceedings on the interests of such industry.

When the consent of the Board has been given to the proceedings, it will still be competent to the person against whom they are proposed to be taken, to object before the sanitary authority to their being taken; and the authority, if required in writing by such person, must thereupon allow him to be heard before them by himself, his agents and witnesses; and after inquiry they are to determine whether or not the proceedings shall be taken, having regard to the same considerations as those by which the board are to be guided in giving or withholding their consent.

Where any sanitary authority have taken proceedings under the Act, it will not be competent to other sanitary authorities to do so till the party complained of has failed to carry out, within a reasonable time, the order of any competent court under the Act.

It should here be mentioned that whereas proceedings in respect of other offences against the Act may be taken by any person aggrieved by the commission of the offence, the enforcement of the Act, so far as it relates to prosecutions in respect of mining and manufacturing pollutions, is for the present devolved exclusively on sanitary authorities. It must, however, be borne in mind that if the sanitary authority, on the application of any person interested, refuse to take proceedings in respect of these pollutions, or to apply for the consent of the Board for that purpose, the person so interested may apply to the Board; and if they, on inquiry, are of opinion that the sanitary authority should take proceedings, they may give directions accordingly, in which case the authority are thereupon required by the Act to commence proceedings.

Every sanitary or other local authority having sewers under their control are required by the Act to give facilities for enabling manufacturers within their district to carry the liquids proceeding from their factories or manufacturing processes into such sewers.

It is, however, expressly provided that this enactment shall not compel the authority to admit into their sewers any liquid which would prejudicially affect the sewers, or the disposal by sale, application to land, or otherwise, of the sewage matter conveyed along them, or which would, from its temperature or otherwise, be injurious in a sanitary point of view. Nor are the authority to be required to give such facilities where their sewers are only sufficient for the requirements of their district, nor where such facilities would interfere with any order of any court of competent jurisdiction respecting the sewage of the authority.

Proceedings against Offenders.

The Act, while providing that the powers which it confers shall be cumulative, and that no act or default which would otherwise be a nuisance or contrary to law shall be legalised by it, was for the first time rendered the pollution and obstruction of streams, wherever situated, a statutory offence, in respect of which the county court having jurisdiction in the place where the offence is committed may make a summary order, requiring the offender to discontinue the pollution or obstruction. Any such order may, if the offence consists in default to perform a duty, require the offender to perform the duty, and specify the manner in which this is to be done, and may impose a penalty not exceeding £50 a day for every day during which the offender continues in default. In the event of his continuing in default for a period of not less than a month, or such other shorter period as may be prescribed by the order, the county court is enabled, in addition to the penalty imposed, to appoint one or more persons to carry the order into effect, and to provide for the recovery from the offender of the consequent expenses.

Appeals may be made from the decision of the county court to the High Court of Justice; and any county court plaint under the Act may be removed into the High Court of Justice by leave of any judge of such court.

Certificates of Inspectors of the Board.

One of the most important provisions in the Act is that under which inspectors of proper qualifications, appointed by the Board, are authorised to grant certificates to the effect that the means used for rendering harmless any sewage, or poisonous, noxious, or polluting solid or liquid matter discharged into any stream are the best or only practicable and available means under the circumstances of the particular case. Such certificates will, in all courts and proceedings under the Act, be conclusive evidence of the fact, and they must also be taken into consideration by any court before which any legal proceedings are pending with reference to the pollution of any stream, although such proceedings may not have been instituted under the Act. If any party is aggrieved by the grant or withholding of a certificate, an appeal may be made to the Board against the decision of the inspector; and the Board may either confirm, reverse, or modify his decision, and may make such order as to the party or parties by whom the costs of the appeal are to be borne, as they may think just.

The certificate will continue in force for a period to be named therein, not exceeding two years; and at the expiration of that period it may be renewed for the like or any less period. The expense of obtaining the certificate must be paid by the applicants.

The Board may state that they have already appointed Mr. Robert Rawlinson, C.B., their chief engineering inspector, and Dr. Angus Smith, F.R.S., the chief inspector under the Alkali Acts, as inspectors for granting the certificates referred to.

The above is a summary of the more important provisions of the Act, so far as they relate to sanitary authorities. It is hoped that they may conduce in no inconsiderable degree to the mitigation of existing and the prevention of future pollutions; and that at the same time they will not be found to have imposed undue restrictions upon local authorities, or the manufacturing or mining interests of the country.

INSTRUCTIONS AS TO APPLICATIONS TO THE LOCAL GOVERNMENT BOARD BY URBAN SANITARY AUTHORITIES FOR PROVISIONAL ORDERS TO CONFIRM IMPROVEMENT SCHEMES UNDER THE ARTIZANS' AND LABOURERS' DWELLINGS IMPROVEMENT ACT, 1875.

1. The application must be made by a petition of the sanitary authority, containing the particulars required by section 6 of the Artizans' and Labourers' Dwellings Improvement Act, 1875. The petition should be under the seal of the sanitary authority. (See section 24 of the Act).

2. The petition must be presented not later than the 1st January, if the advertisements of the scheme were published in September or October; and not later than the 1st February, if they were published in November.

3. The petition should be accompanied by the following documents:—

(a.) A copy of the official representation.

(b.) Two copies of the improvement scheme.

(c.) Two copies of the estimate of the cost of carrying the scheme into effect.

(d.) Particulars of the scheme, giving the acreage of the area affected by it, the number of persons of the working class who will be displaced, and the number for whom, and the place at which, accommodation is to be provided. Where this accommodation is not intended to be provided within the limits of the area included in the scheme, or in the vicinity thereof, the special reasons for this course must be stated, and the distance by the nearest public thoroughfare from the area affected must be given.

It must be clearly stated in what way it is proposed to deal with the area included in the scheme, and with the area on which dwellings for the artizan class are to be erected, and also what sanitary arrangements are to be provided. Particulars should also be given showing by reference to the numbers of the properties on the maps (1) the area included in the official representation; (2) any lands excluded from such area by the sanitary authority; (3) any lands included in it by the sanitary authority, as falling under the description of property named in section 3 of the Act; (4) any lands so included for widening existing approaches to the unhealthy area or otherwise for opening out the same for purposes of ventilation or health; and (5) lands proposed to be taken compulsorily.

e.) Maps showing the area included in the official representation and the improvement scheme. The several properties should be numbered consecutively on the maps, so as to correspond with a book of reference which should be forwarded in duplicate.

f.) A statutory declaration, properly stamped, and showing that the requirements of section 6 of the Act with respect to advertisements and notices have been complied with, and that the petition states the names of the owners or reputed owners, and lessees or reputed lessees, who have dissented in respect of the taking of their lands. Copies of the newspapers containing the advertisements, and also of the form of notice served on the owners, lessees, and occupiers, should be annexed to the declaration as exhibits. The declaration should specify in which of the modes mentioned in section 6 of the Act the notices have been served, and so far as relates to such notices, it should be made by the persons who served them.

Copies of the forms for advertisements, and notices, which the Board have prescribed under section 26 of the Act, are annexed to these instructions. The adoption of these forms is not obligatory, but when adopted, they are to be deemed sufficient for all the purposes of the Act.

g.) The Standing Orders of both Houses of Parliament require that at the same time as the maps and book of reference are deposited with the Board, duplicates thereof shall be deposited with the clerk of the Parliaments, and at the private bill office, unless the deposit with the Board is made after the prorogation of Parliament and before the 30th November, in which case the deposit with the clerk of the Parliaments, and at the private bill office must be made on the day last mentioned.

In order that compliance with these requirements may be proved before the examiners of Standing Orders, the Board should be furnished with an affidavit, sworn before a justice of the peace or a commissioner for taking affidavits, by the person by whom the deposits have been made.

THE SALE OF FOOD AND DRUGS ACT, 1875.

(Section 19) (1).

Local Government Board, Whitehall, S. W.,
8th January, 1878.

SIR,

I am directed by the Local Government Board to call your attention to their circular letter of the 16th January last, with reference to the quarterly reports required to be made by public analysts under the 19th section of "The Sale of Food and Drugs Act, 1875;" (1) and I am to remind you that a copy of the reports for the several quarters of the year 1877 should be forwarded to the Board in the course of the present month (2).

I am at the same time to state that in some instances the public analysts reports, of which copies have been received by the Board, have not appeared to be in strict compliance with the requirements of the section above referred to. The Board, therefore, think it desirable to suggest that in future such reports should either be made in a tabular form, or should be accompanied by a tabular statement, showing—

- (1.) The description of article submitted for analysis;
- (2.) Whether or not the sample was submitted to the analyst by an officer acting under direction of a local authority, under section 13 of the Act;
- (3.) Whether the sample was genuine or adulterated, and, if adulterated, what were the nature and extent of the adulteration;
- (4.) The sum paid in respect of the analysis;
- (5.) The observations, if any, which the analyst may wish to make in reference to the analysis.

A specimen form is enclosed herewith for the information of the public analyst.

PORT SANITARY AUTHORITIES.

APPOINTMENT OF OFFICERS.

Local Government Board, Whitehall, S.W.26th September, 1878.

SIR,

I am directed by the Local Government Board, with respect to the letter which they some time since addressed to you on the subject hereinafter referred to, to forward herewith two copies of an order which they have issued reconstituting the port sanitary authority for the port of

The Board on the present occasion have adopted a different mode of providing for the appointments of medical officer of health and inspector of nuisances, and for the duties to be discharged by those officers. Instead of inserting in the order reconstructing the authority, a substantive provision requiring the appointments to be made, and instead of dealing with the duties by way of reference to the general orders of the 11th November, 1872, the Board have in the order assigned to the authority the powers and obligations contained in section 189 of the Public Health Act, 1875, so far as regards a medical officer of health and an inspector of nuisances, and assistants to those officers. The Board have also issued two general orders to port sanitary authorities which have been temporarily constituted, containing regulations with respect to the duties of their officers, as well as with respect to the mode of their appointment, their tenure of office and remuneration. Six copies of each of those orders are herewith enclosed for the use of the port sanitary authority and their officers.

It will be observed that the general orders only apply in the cases of the officers of the authority when a portion of their salaries is repaid out of money voted by Parliament.

The Board have taken the opportunity of adding to the article assigning to the authority powers and obligations under the Public Health Act, 1875, a few additional sections of that Act which it appeared to them desirable to introduce.

As the qualification of the medical officer of health, which is dealt with in the existing orders by a substantive provision, is provided for by section 191 of the Act, the Board have not reinserted that provision in the present order.

I am, &c.,

JOHN LAMBERT,

Secretary.

To
The Clerk to the Port Sanitary Authority.

PORT SANITARY AUTHORITIES (TEMPORARY):

REGULATIONS WITH RESPECT TO MEDICAL OFFICERS OF HEALTH.

GENERAL ORDER.

To the several urban and rural sanitary authorities named in the second columns of the Schedules A. and B. to this order, being respectively the port sanitary authorities for the ports named in the first columns of those schedules;—

To the joint boards constituting the port sanitary authorities named in the second column of the Schedule C. to this order;

And to all others whom it may concern.

Whereas by certain orders of the Local Government Board, the several urban and rural sanitary authorities named in the second columns of Schedules A. and B. to this order have been constituted, until the dates specified in the third columns of those schedules, port sanitary authorities for the respective ports named in the first columns of such schedules, or for parts of such ports.

And whereas by certain orders of the Local Government Board, joint boards have been constituted, under the names mentioned in the second column of the Schedule C. to this order, port sanitary authorities, until the dates specified in the third column of that schedule, for the respective ports named in the first column of such schedule, or for parts of such ports.

And whereas by the said orders the Local Government Board have assigned to the said port sanitary authorities certain powers, rights, duties, capacities, liabilities, and obligations created by or arising out of certain sections of the above-cited Act, including the following:—

Section 189, so far as relates to medical officers of health and assistants to those officers; and Section 191.

And whereas by the last-named section it is enacted as follows:—

“A person shall not be appointed medical officer of health under this Act unless he is a legally qualified medical practitioner, and the Local Government Board shall have the same powers as it has in the case of a district medical officer of a union, with regard to the qualification, appointment, duties, salary, and tenure of office of a medical officer of health or other officer of a local authority, any portion of whose salary is paid out of moneys voted by Parliament."

Now therefore, we, the Local Government Board, in pursuance of the powers given by the several statutes in that behalf, hereby order as follows, with respect to the mode of appointment, tenure of office, duties, and salary of medical officers of health to be appointed by the port sanitary authorities referred to in the Schedules A., B., and C. to this order, in all cases where any portion of the salary of any such officer is paid out of moneys voted by Parliament.

SECTION I.—Mode of Appointment.

Art. 1.—No appointment of a medical officer of health shall be made, unless an advertisement giving notice of the day when such appointment will be made shall have appeared in some public newspaper circulating in the district of the port sanitary authority, at least seven days before the day on which the appointment is to be made.

Provided that no such advertisement shall be necessary for the renewal of an appointment already made, or for the appointment of a temporary substitute.

Art. 2.—Every such appointment shall, within seven days after it is made or renewed, be reported to the Local Government Board by the clerk to the port sanitary authority.

SECTION II.—Tenure of Office.

Art. 3. Every medical officer of health appointed under this order shall continue to hold office for such period as the port sanitary authority may, with the approval of the Local Government Board, determine, or until he die, or resign, or be removed by such authority with the assent of the Local Government Board, or by the Local Government Board.

Provided that no medical officer of health shall be appointed for a period extending beyond the date until which the port sanitary authority making the appointment shall have been constituted.

Art. 4. No person shall be appointed a medical officer of health who does not agree to give one month's notice previous to resigning the office, or to forfeit such sum as may be agreed upon as liquidated damages.

SECTION III.—Duties.

Art. 5. The following shall be the duties of the medical officer of health in respect of the port sanitary district for which he is appointed.

- (1.) He shall inform himself as far as practicable respecting all influences affecting or threatening to affect injuriously the health of crews and other persons on ship-board within the district.
- (2.) He shall inquire into and ascertain by such means as are at his disposal the causes, origin, and distribution of diseases in the ships and other vessels within the district, and ascertain to what extent the same have depended on conditions capable of removal or mitigation.
- (3.) He shall by inspection of the shipping in the district keep himself informed of the conditions injurious to health existing therein.
- (4.) He shall be prepared to advise the port sanitary authority on all matters affecting the health of the crews and other persons on ship-board in the district, and on all sanitary points involved in the action of the port sanitary authority; and in cases requiring it, he shall certify, for the guidance of the port sanitary authority, or of the justices, as to any matter in respect of which the certificate of a medical officer of health or a medical practitioner is required as the basis or in aid of sanitary action.
- (5.) He shall advise the port sanitary authority on any question relating to health involved in the framing and subsequent working of such byelaws and regulations as they may have power to make.
- (6.) On receiving information of the arrival within the district of any ship or other vessel having any infectious or epidemic disease of a dangerous character on board, or of the outbreak of any such disease on board any ship or other vessel within the district, he shall visit the vessel without delay and inquire into the causes and circumstances of such outbreak, and advise the persons competent to act as to the measures which may appear to him to be required to prevent the extension of the disease, and, so far as he may be lawfully authorised, assist in the execution of the same.
- (7.) On receiving information from the inspector of nuisances that his intervention is required in consequence of the existence of any nuisance injurious to health, or of any overcrowding in a ship or other vessel, he shall, as early as practicable, take such steps authorised by the Public Health Act, 1875, in that behalf, as the circumstances of the case may justify and require.

- (8.) He shall perform all the duties imposed upon him by any byelaws and regulations of the port sanitary authority, duly confirmed, in respect of any matter affecting the public health, and touching which they are authorised to frame byelaws and regulations.
- (9.) He shall attend at the office of the port sanitary authority, or at some other appointed place, at such stated times as they may direct.
- (10.) He shall from time to time report, in writing, to the port sanitary authority, his proceedings and the measures which may require to be adopted for the improvement or protection of the health of crews or other persons on ship-board in the district. He shall in like manner report with respect to the sickness and mortality of persons on ship-board within the district, so far as he has been enabled to ascertain the same.
- (11.) He shall keep a book or books, to be provided by the port sanitary authority, in which he shall make an entry of his visits, and notes of his observations and instructions thereon, and also the date and nature of applications made to him, the date and result of the action taken thereon, and of any action taken on previous reports, and shall produce such book or books, whenever required, to the port sanitary authority.
- (12.) He shall also prepare an annual report, to be made to the end of December in each year, comprising tabular statements of the sickness and mortality of persons on ship-board within the district, classified according to diseases, ages, and vessels, and a summary of the action taken during the year for preventing the spread of disease. The report shall also contain an account of the proceedings in which he has taken part or advised under the Public Health Act, 1875, so far as such proceedings relate to conditions dangerous or injurious to health, and also an account of the supervision exercised by him, or on his advice, for sanitary purposes over places and vessels that the port sanitary authority has power to regulate, with the nature and results of any proceedings which may have been so required and taken in respect of the same during the year ⁽¹⁾.
- (13.) He shall give immediate information to the Local Government Board of any vessel having arrived within the district with infectious or epidemic disease of a dangerous character on board, and of any outbreak of infectious or epidemic disease of a dangerous character on ship-board within the district, and shall transmit to the Board a copy of each annual and of any special report ⁽¹⁾.
- (14.) In matters not specifically provided for in this order, he shall observe and execute, so far as the circumstances of the district may require, the instructions of the Local Government Board on the duties of medical officers of health, and all the lawful orders and directions of the port sanitary authority applicable to his office.
- (15.) Whenever the Local Government Board shall make regulations for all or any of the purposes specified in section 134 of the Public Health Act, 1875, and shall declare the regulations so made to be in force within any area comprising the whole or any part of the district, he shall observe such regulations so far as the same relate to or concern his office.

SECTION IV.—Remuneration.

Art. 6.—The port sanitary authority shall pay to any medical officer of health appointed under this order such salary or remuneration as may be approved by the Local Government Board.

Provided that the port sanitary authority, with the approval of the Local Government Board, may pay to any such officer a reasonable compensation on account of extraordinary services, or other unforeseen circumstances connected with his duties or the necessities of the district for which he is appointed.

Art. 7.—The salary or remuneration of every such officer shall be payable up to the day on which he ceases to hold office, and no longer, subject to any deduction which the port sanitary authority may be entitled to make in respect of Art. 4 of this order; and in case he shall die whilst holding office, the proportion of salary (if any) remaining unpaid at his death shall be paid to his personal representatives.

Art. 8.—The salary or remuneration assigned to such officer shall be payable quarterly, according to the usual feast days in the year, namely, Christmas-day, Lady-day, Midsummer-day, and Michaelmas-day; but the port sanitary authority may pay to him at the expiration of every calendar month such proportion as they may think fit on account of the salary or remuneration to which he may become entitled at the termination of the quarter.

PORT SANITARY AUTHORITIES (TEMPORARY):

REGULATIONS WITH RESPECT TO INSPECTORS OF NUISANCES.

GENERAL ORDER.

To the several urban and rural sanitary authorities named in the second columns of the Schedules A. and B. to this order, being respectively the port sanitary authorities for the ports named in the first columns of those schedules;—

To the joint boards constituting the port sanitary authorities named in the second column of the Schedule C. in this order;—

And to all others whom it may concern.

Whereas by certain orders of the Local Government Board, the several urban and rural sanitary authorities named in the second columns of Schedules A. and B. to this order have been constituted, until the dates specified in the third columns of those schedules, port sanitary authorities for the respective ports named in the first columns of such schedules, or for parts of such ports.

And whereas by certain orders of the Local Government Board, joint boards have been constituted, under the names mentioned in the second column in the Schedule C. to this order, port sanitary authorities, until the dates specified in the third column of that schedule, for the respective ports named in the first column of that schedule, or for parts of such ports.

And whereas by the said orders the Local Government Board have assigned to the said port sanitary authorities certain powers, rights, duties, capacities, liabilities, and obligations created by or arising out of certain sections of the above cited Act, including the following:—

Section 189, so far as relates to inspectors of nuisances and assistants to those officers; and Section 191.

And whereas by the last named-section it is enacted as follows:—

“The Local Government Board shall have the same powers as it has in the case of a district medical officer of a union, with regard to the qualification, appointment, duties, salary, and tenure of office of a medical officer of health or other officer of a local authority, any portion of whose salary is paid of moneys voted by Parliament.”

Now, therefore, we, the Local Government Board, in pursuance of the powers given by the several statutes in that behalf, hereby order as follows, with respect to the mode of appointment, tenure of office, duties, and salary of inspectors of nuisances to be appointed by the port sanitary authorities referred to in the Schedules A, B, and C. to this order, in all cases where any portion of the salary of any such officer is paid out of moneys voted by Parliament.

SECTION I.—Mode of Appointment.

Art. 1.—No appointment of an inspector of nuisances shall be made, unless an advertisement giving notice of the day when such appointment will be made shall have appeared in some public newspaper circulating in the district of the port sanitary authority, at least seven days before the day on which the appointment is to be made.

Provided that no such advertisement shall be necessary for the renewal of an appointment already made for the appointment of a temporary substitute.

Art. 2.—Every such appointment shall, within seven days after it is made or renewed be reported to the Local Government Board by the clerk to the port sanitary authority.

Art. 3.—In case of illness or incapacity of any inspector of nuisances appointed under this order, the port sanitary authority may appoint and pay a deputy inspector of nuisances, subject to the approval of the Local Government Board.

SECTION II.—Tenure of Office.

Art. 4.—Every inspector of nuisances appointed under this order shall continue to hold office for such period as the port sanitary authority may, with the approval of the Local Government Board, determine, or until he die, resign, or be removed by such authority with the assent of the Local Government Board, or by the Local Government Board.

Provided that no inspector of nuisances shall be appointed for a period extending beyond the date until which the port sanitary authority making the appointment shall have been constituted.

Art. 5.—No person shall be appointed an inspector of nuisances who does not agree to give one month's notice previous to resigning the office, or to forfeit such sum as may be agreed upon as liquidated damages.

SECTION III.—Duties.

Art. 6.—The following shall be the duties of the inspector of nuisances in respect of the port sanitary district for which he is appointed:—

- (1.) He shall perform, either under the special directions of the port sanitary authority, or (so far as authorised by the port sanitary authority) under the directions of the medical officer of health, or in cases where no such directions are required, without such directions, all the duties specially imposed upon an inspector of nuisances by the sections of the Public Health Act, 1875, which shall apply to the port sanitary authority, or by the orders of the Local Government Board, so far as the same apply to his office.
- (2.) He shall attend all meetings of the port sanitary authority when so required.
- (3.) He shall, by inspection of the shipping in the district, keep himself informed in respect of the nuisances existing therein that require abatement under the Public Health Act, 1875.
- (4.) On receiving notice of the existence of a nuisance on board of any ship or other vessel within the district, or of the breach of any bye-laws or regulations made by the sanitary authority for the suppression of nuisances, he shall, as early as practicable, visit the vessel, and inquire into such alleged nuisance or breach of bye-laws or regulations.
- (5.) He shall give immediate notice to the medical officer of health of the occurrence within his district of any contagious, infectious, or epidemic disease of a dangerous character, or of the arrival within the district of any ship or other vessel having such disease on board; and whenever it appears to him that the intervention of such officer is necessary in consequence of the existence of any nuisance injurious to health, or of any overcrowding in a vessel, he shall forthwith inform the medical officer thereof.
- (6.) He shall, subject in all respects to the directions of the port sanitary authority, attend to the instructions of the medical officer of health with respect to any measures which can be lawfully taken by him under the Public Health Act, 1875, for preventing the spread of any infectious or epidemic disease of a dangerous character.
- (7.) He shall enter from day to day, in a book to be provided by the port sanitary authority, particulars of his inspections and of the action taken by him in the execution of his duties. He shall also keep a book or books, to be provided by the port sanitary authority, so arranged as to form, as far as possible, a record of the sanitary condition of each of the ships or other vessels in respect of which any action has been taken under the Sanitary Acts, and shall keep any other systematic records that the sanitary authority may require.

- (8.) He shall at all reasonable times, when applied to by the medical officer of health, produce to him his books, or any of them, and render to him such information as he may be able to furnish with respect to any matter to which the duties of inspector of nuisances relate.
- (9.) In matters not specifically provided for in this order, he shall observe and execute all the lawful orders and directions of the port sanitary authority, and the orders of the Local Government Board which may be hereafter issued, applicable to his office.

SECTION IV.—Remuneration.

Art. 7.—The port sanitary authority shall pay to any inspector of nuisances appointed under this order such salary or remuneration as may be approved by the Local Government Board.

Provided that the port sanitary authority, with the approval of the Local Government Board, may pay to any such officer a reasonable compensation on account of extraordinary services, or other unforeseen circumstances connected with his duties or the necessities of the district for which he is appointed.

Art. 8.—The salary or remuneration of every such officer shall be payable up to the day on which he ceases to hold office, and no longer, subject to any deduction which the port sanitary authority may be entitled to make in respect of Art. 5 of this order; and in case he shall die whilst holding office, the proportion of salary (if any) remaining unpaid at his death shall be paid to his personal representatives.

Art. 9.—The salary or remuneration assigned to such officer shall be payable quarterly, according to the usual feast days in the year, namely, Christmas-day, Lady-day, Midsummer-day, and Michaelmas-day; but the port sanitary authority may pay to him at the expiration of every calendar month such proportion as they may think fit on account of the salary or remuneration to which he may become entitled at the termination of the quarter.

THE HIGHWAYS AND LOCOMOTIVES (AMENDMENT) ACT, 1878 ⁽¹⁾.

URBAN SANITARY AUTHORITIES (ENGLAND AND NORTH WALES).

Local Government Board, Whitehall, S.W., 30th September, 1878.

SIR,

The President of the Local Government Board has directed me to bring under the notice of the urban sanitary authority the Highways and Locomotives (Amendment) Act of the last session (41st and 42nd Vict. c. 77) ⁽¹⁾, which received the Royal assent on the 16th of August last.

The following statement will explain the chief provisions of the Act which affect the urban sanitary authority.

Main Roads.

One half of all expenses incurred by the urban sanitary authority after the 29th of September, 1878, in the maintenance of any main road, will be repaid to them out of the county rate, provided the county surveyor, or some other person appointed in that behalf by the county authority, who by the Act are defined to be "the justices of a county in general or quarter sessions assembled," certifies that the road has been maintained to his satisfaction.

The moiety thus repayable will, however, be confined to repairs defrayed out of the current rates, and will not include any repayment of moneys borrowed by the urban sanitary authority, or any interest thereon.

The following are constituted main roads for the purposes of the Act, viz. :

- (1.) Roads which have ceased to be turnpike roads between the 31st of December, 1870, and the 16th of August, 1878, the date of the passing of the Act ; and
- (2.) Roads which, being turnpike roads at the time of the passing of the Act, afterwards become disturnpiked.

The urban sanitary authority will not fail to observe that a highway, although it is not within either of the above descriptions, may become a main road if, by reason of its being a medium of communication between great towns or a thoroughfare to a railway station, or otherwise it is subject to extraordinary traffic of a public and general character.

Where the urban sanitary authority consider that for either of the reasons mentioned, any ordinary highway in their district ought to become a main road, application should be made by them to the county authority, to make an order for this purpose. If that authority are satisfied, after causing the road to be inspected, that the application ought to be complied with, it will be incumbent on them to make an order declaring the highway to be a main road ; but the order will not come into force unless confirmed by a subsequent order made within six months.

Accounts of Expenses of Main Roads.

It will be obligatory on the urban sanitary authority to keep, in such form as may be directed by the county authority, a separate account of the expenses of the maintenance of the main roads within their district, and to forward copies of such account to the county authority at such times as may be required by them. The accounts so kept must be audited in the same manner as the other accounts of the urban sanitary authority, unless such authority are the council of a borough, in which case the accounts will be subject to such audit, as the county authority may direct.

Special attention should be paid to the requirements of the Act relating to the separate account referred to, for, if default is made in complying with these requirements, or with any directions given pursuant to them by the county authority, that authority may withhold the contribution payable under the Act towards the maintenance of main roads by the urban sanitary authority for the year in which such default occurs.

Extraordinary Traffic.

If it should appear to the urban sanitary authority upon the certificate of their surveyor, that by reason of damage done to their roads by excessive weight or extraordinary traffic they have incurred extraordinary expenses in repairs, regard being had to the average expense of repairing highways in the neighbourhood, the authority may recover in a summary manner from the person responsible for the conveyance of the excessive weight or extraordinary traffic, the amount of such extraordinary expenses as may be proved to the satisfaction of the court having cognizance of the case to have been so incurred. It is important, however, to observe that any person from whom such expenses may be recoverable may enter into an agreement with the urban sanitary authority for the payment of a composition in respect of the damage done by him. These provisions will doubtless prove serviceable in enabling highway authorities to recoup the excessive expenditure not unfrequently occasioned by extraordinary and exceptionally heavy traffic arising from building and similar operations of a temporary character and from other causes by which the road accommodation provided for all alike at the public expense is sometimes abused by individuals for private purposes.

Saving for Minerals.

It should be noted that section 27 of the Act contains a provision by which all mines and minerals of every description under any disrumpiked road or highway vested in the urban sanitary authority by virtue of section 68 of the Public Health Act, 1848, or section 149 of the Public Health Act, 1875, will belong to and may be worked by the person who would be entitled thereto if the road or highway had not become so vested. This section removes a doubt with respect to the ownership of minerals under highways transferred to urban sanitary authorities upon the formation of Local Government Districts, and which has been occasioned by the decision of the High Court of Judicature in the case of Coverdale v. Charlton, L. R. 3 Q. B. D. 376; 47 L. J. N. S. 446.

Defaulting Authorities.

Some provisions of much importance are contained in the Act, enabling the county authority to enforce the repairs of highways in cases where that duty has been neglected by the urban sanitary authority.

By these provisions the county authority, if satisfied after due inquiry and report by their surveyor that the urban sanitary authority have made default in the maintenance or repair of any highway, are required to make an order limiting a time for the performance of the neglected duty, and if the urban sanitary authority fail to show sufficient cause for their noncompliance with the order, the county authority may appoint some person to perform the duty, and direct the expenses of performing the same, together with the reasonable remuneration of the person so appointed, to be paid by the urban sanitary authority.

If, however, the urban sanitary authority dispute their liability to repair, and notify that they decline to comply with the order until that question is determined by a jury, the county authority must either satisfy the urban sanitary authority by cancelling or modifying the order, or else proceed to submit to a jury the question of liability.

It should be added that the Act so far as it relates to main roads and highways, does not apply to any urban sanitary district consisting of a borough with a separate court of quarter sessions; but at the same time it will be observed that when part of a parish is included in any urban sanitary district as defined by section 38 for the purpose only of the repairs of the highways, such part will be deemed to be included in the district for the purposes of the Act.

The President trusts that the foregoing description of the more material provisions of the Act relating to urban sanitary authorities may be of service to the urban sanitary authority in the discharge of their duties.

I am, &c.

Secretary.

THE HIGHWAYS AND LOCOMOTIVES (AMENDMENT) ACT, 1878 ⁽¹⁾.

RURAL SANITARY AUTHORITIES.

Local Government Board, Whitehall,5th October, 1878.

SIR,

The President of the Local Government Board has directed me to draw the attention of the rural sanitary authority to the important provisions contained in sections 3 to 5, both inclusive, of the Highways and Locomotives (Amendment) Act of the last session (41st and 42nd Vict. c. 77.) ⁽¹⁾.

By the first of these sections, the county authority, who are defined by the Act to be "the justices of a county in general or quarter sessions assembled," are required in forming new highway districts, or in altering the boundaries of existing ones, to have regard to the boundaries of the rural sanitary districts in their county, and, so far as may be found practicable, to form highway districts so as to be coincident in area with rural sanitary districts or wholly contained within those districts.

The intention of this direction is shown by the following section which provides that where a highway district, whether formed before or after the passing of the Act, is or becomes coincident in area with a rural sanitary district, the rural sanitary authority may apply to the county authority stating that they are desirous to exercise the powers of a highway board under the Highway Acts within their district, and on such application the county authority may, if they see fit, by their order declare that from and after a day to be named in the order the rural sanitary authority shall exercise all the powers of a highway board, and as from the commencement of the order the existing highway board (if any) will be dissolved, and waywardens or surveyors will not hold office, or be elected for any parish in the district.

An order so made may be amended, altered, or executed by a subsequent order of the county authority.

Where a highway district, coincident in area with a rural sanitary district, is situate in more than one county, the order may be made by the county authority of any one of such counties; but the order will not be of any force or effect until approved by the county authority or authorities of the remainder of such counties.

After the commencement of an order enabling the rural sanitary authority to exercise the powers of a highway board, the property which would otherwise belong to the highway board or the surveyor of any separate highway parish forming part of the district will become vested in the rural sanitary authority, subject to all debts and liabilities affecting the same.

The expenses incurred by the rural sanitary authority in the performance of their duties as a highway board will be deemed to be general expenses within the meaning of the Public Health Act, 1875; and this arrangement is in harmony with the provisions contained in the present Act, under which all expenses of highway boards, after the 25th of March, 1879, will be chargeable on the district fund.

If at any time after a rural sanitary authority has become invested with the powers of a highway board in pursuance of the foregoing provisions, the boundaries of the rural sanitary district are altered, the powers and jurisdiction of the authority will be exercised within such altered district; and on the application of any authority or person interested, the Local Government Board may by order provide for the adjustment of any accounts or the settlement of any doubt or difference, so far as relates to highways, consequent on the alteration of the boundaries of the altered district.

The intention of the Legislature in making these provisions has evidently been to guard against the confusion occasioned by the further overlapping of highway districts with rural sanitary areas, and to facilitate the transfer to the rural sanitary authorities of the management of the highways within their respective districts, where circumstances point to such an arrangement as tending to economical and efficient administration.

At the present time the duty devolves upon the rural sanitary authorities of providing works of sewerage and water supply for the areas under their jurisdiction; and as these works necessitate frequent and serious interference with the public roads, it is obviously desirable, looking at the advantages experienced in urban districts from having all matters affecting the roads under the direction of one body, that there should be means readily available for placing the highways in rural districts also under the control and management of the sanitary authority.

In corroboration of this view, reference may be made to the report of the select committee appointed by the House of Commons during the last session to inquire into the system under which guardians of the poor and members of local boards are elected, in which the committee recommend that wherever practicable the powers of highway boards in rural sanitary districts shall be transferred to the rural sanitary authority.

In those counties where highway districts have already been formed, there are doubtless instances in which some of the districts are coincident with the areas under the jurisdiction of the rural sanitary authorities; and in those cases it will be for the rural sanitary authorities to consider whether they should not apply to the county authority for an order authorising them to exercise the powers of a highway board, so that the roads may be entirely under their jurisdiction.

In those counties, however, where the district system has not yet been carried into effect, the facilities for accomplishing this object will be much greater, and the President cannot but suppose that any expression of a desire on the part of the rural sanitary authority to be invested with the management of the roads within their respective districts would have much influence with the county authority in determining the course to be adopted by them with respect to the formation of new districts under the Act.

It remains to be added, that the provisions of the Act to which the attention of the rural sanitary authority has been directed do not extend to the Isle of Wight or to South Wales.

I am, &c.,

The Clerk to the Rural Sanitary Authority.

Secretary.

THE LOCAL LOANS ACT, 1875.

RETURN AS TO SINKING FUND. (ORDER).

To the several Local Authorities in England and Wales, as defined by "The Local Loans Act, 1875" ⁽¹⁾;—

And to all others whom it may concern.

Whereas "The Local Loans Act, 1875," ⁽²⁾, by section 13, requires that every loan borrowed in manner provided by that Act shall be discharged within the prescribed period from the date thereof, and that such discharge shall be secured, where a sinking fund is prescribed, but not otherwise, by the establishment of a sinking fund, and the application thereof in manner by that Act provided;

And whereas by section 16 of the said Act it is enacted that "where a sinking fund is created for the purpose of discharging any loan or part of a loan the local authority shall, until such loan or part of a loan is discharged, within twenty-one days after the expiration of each year, transmit to the Local Government Board a return in such form, and verified in such manner, as the Board from time to time directs, showing the amount which has been invested or applied for the purpose of such sinking fund during the year next preceding the making of such return, and the description of the securities upon which any investment has been made, and the purposes to which any portion of the sinking fund has been applied during the same period, and the total amount (if any) remaining invested at the end of the year:"

Now, therefore, we, the Local Government Board, in pursuance of the powers given to us by the statutes in that behalf, hereby order that, until we shall otherwise direct, the returns relating to a sinking fund required to be transmitted to us in pursuance of section 16 above recited, shall be in the form set forth in the schedule to this order, and shall be verified by statutory declaration.

THE DISTRICT AUDITORS ACT, 1879.

FINANCIAL STATEMENT (STATUTORY). (POOR LAW, PUBLIC HEALTH, AND EDUCATION).—GENERAL ORDER (UNIONS).

To the guardians of the poor of the several unions in England and Wales ;—
To the several district auditors in England and Wales ;—
And to all others whom it may concern.

Whereas by section 3 of "The District Auditors Act, 1879," it is enacted as follows:—

"Where the accounts of the receipts and expenditure of a local authority are audited by a district auditor, the local authority shall prepare and submit to the district auditor at every audit (other than an extraordinary audit, held in pursuance of section 6 of the Poor Law Amendment Act, 1866), a financial statement in duplicate in the prescribed form and containing the prescribed particulars; one of such duplicates shall have the stamp charged under this Act affixed thereon, and the auditor at the conclusion of the audit shall cancel that stamp and certify on each duplicate, in the prescribed form, the amount in words at length of the expenditure so audited and allowed, and further, that the regulations with respect to such statement have been duly complied with, and that he has ascertained by the audit the correctness of the statement."

And whereas guardians of the poor are a local authority within the terms of the said section :
Now therefore, we, the Local Government Board hereby order with respect to each union in England and Wales as follows :

Art. 1. The financial statement to be prepared and submitted to the district auditor in duplicate by the guardians of the poor as a local authority, in accordance with the provisions of the section above recited, shall be in the Form (A.) in the schedule to this order, so far as the same is applicable to the circumstances of each case, and shall contain the particulars therein set forth; and the certificate of the district auditor to be appended to each such duplicate shall be in the form set forth at the foot of the said statement.

And whereas it is expedient that certain information should from time to time be furnished to the Local Government Board with reference to loans obtained by guardians of the poor under the several statutes in that behalf :

Now therefore, we, the Local Government Board, in pursuance of the powers given to us, hereby further order, with respect to each union in England and Wales, as follows :

Art. 2. The clerk to the guardians shall prepare at the close of each year ending at Lady-day a loan account, which shall be in the Form (B.) in the schedule to this order, so far as the same is applicable to the circumstances of each case, and shall be submitted to the district auditor at the audit of the accounts for the half-year ending at that date.

Art. 3. The district auditor shall transmit to the Local Government Board the said loan account, duly examined and signed by him, together with the stamped duplicate of the financial statement certified at the same audit as required by Article 1 of this order.

Art. 4. In this order—

The word “union” includes any union of parishes incorporated or united for the relief or maintenance of the poor under any Act of Parliament.

The expression “guardians of the poor” includes any governors, directors, acting guardians, vestrymen, or other officers appointed or entitled to act in the distribution or ordering of relief to the poor from the poor rates under any Act of Parliament.

Given under the seal of office of the Local Government Board, this twenty-fifth day of April, in the year one thousand eight hundred and seventy-nine.

THE DISTRICT AUDITORS ACT, 1879.

FINANCIAL STATEMENT (STATUTORY). POOR LAW, PUBLIC HEALTH, AND EDUCATION.—GENERAL ORDER (SEPARATE PARISHES).

To the guardians of the poor of the several separate parishes in England and Wales ;—

To the district auditors for the time being, authorised to audit the accounts of the said separate parishes respectively ;—

And to all others whom it may concern.

Whereas by section 3 of "The District Auditors Act, 1879," it is enacted as follows :

"Where the accounts of the receipts and expenditure of a local authority are audited by a district auditor, the local authority shall prepare and submit to the district auditor at every audit (other than an extraordinary audit, held in pursuance of section 6 of the Poor Law Amendment Act, 1866), a financial statement in duplicate, in the prescribed form, and containing the prescribed particulars ; one of such duplicates shall have the stamp charged under this Act affixed thereon, and the auditor, at the conclusion of the audit, shall cancel that stamp, and certify on each duplicate in the prescribed form the amount in words at length of the expenditure so audited and allowed, and further that the regulations with respect to such statement have been duly complied with, and that he has ascertained by the audit the correctness of the statement."

And whereas guardians of the poor are a local authority within the terms of the said section :

Now therefore, we, the Local Government Board, hereby order with respect to each of the separate parishes in England and Wales, as follows :

Art. 1. The financial statement to be prepared and submitted to the district auditor in duplicate by the guardians of the poor as a local authority, in accordance with the provisions of the section above recited, shall be in the Form (A.) in the schedule to this order, so far as the same is applicable to the circumstances of each case, and shall contain the particulars therein set forth ; and the certificate of the district auditor to be appended to each such duplicate shall be in the form set forth at the foot of the said statement.

And whereas it is expedient that certain information should from time to time be furnished to the Local Government Board with reference to loans obtained by guardians of the poor under the several statutes in that behalf.

Now therefore, we, the Local Government Board, in pursuance of the powers given to us, hereby further order with respect to each of the separate parishes in England and Wales, as follows :

Art. 2. The clerk to the guardians shall prepare at the close of each year ending at Lady-day a loan account, which shall be in the Form (B.) in the schedule to this order, so far as the same is applicable to the circumstances of each case, and shall be submitted to the district auditor at the audit of the accounts for the half-year ending at that date.

Art. 3. The district auditor shall transmit to the Local Government Board the said loan account, duly examined and signed by him, together with the stamped duplicate of the financial statement certified at the same audit as required by Article 1 of this order.

Art. 4. In this order—

The term "separate parish" means a parish or place which is under a separate board of guardians ; The expression "guardians of the poor" includes any governors, directors, acting guardians, vestrymen, or other officers appointed or entitled to act in the distribution or ordering of relief to the poor from the poor rates under any Act of Parliament.

HIGHWAY DISTRICTS.

GENERAL ORDER FOR ACCOUNTS.

To the highway boards of the several highway districts for the time being, constituted in pursuance of the Highway Act, 1862, and the Highway Act, 1864, or one of such Acts;—

To the clerks, treasurers, and district surveyors for the time being appointed by the said highway boards respectively;—

To the several district auditors authorised for the time being to audit the accounts of the said highway boards respectively;—

And to all others whom it may concern.

Whereas by section 9 of "The Highways and Locomotives (Amendment) Act, 1878," it is enacted that the accounts of the highway authority of every highway district shall be made up in such form as the Local Government Board shall from time to time prescribe, and shall be balanced to the twenty-fifth day of March in each year;

And whereas by section 5 of "The District Auditors Act, 1879," it is enacted as follows:—

"Where any accounts of the receipts and expenditure of a local authority are subject by law to be audited by a district auditor, the Local Government Board may from time to time by order make, and when made revoke and vary, such regulations as seem to the Board necessary or proper respecting the audit of such accounts, including the form of keeping the accounts of the local authority and their officers, the day or days to which the accounts are to be made up, the time within which they are to be examined by the local authority, the mode in which, if it is so prescribed, they are to be certified by the local authority or any officer of that authority, the mode of publishing the time and place of holding the audit, the persons by whom such accounts are to be produced for audit, and the mode of conducting the audit, and an order under this section shall be deemed to be an order within the meaning of section ninety-eight of the Poor Law Amendment Act, 1834."

Now, therefore, we, the Local Government Board, hereby order as follows:—

Art. 1.—The several regulations in this order contained shall henceforth be observed in regard to the accounts of every highway board, and of their officers, and to the audit of such accounts, except in so far as the Local Government Board may from time to time assent to any departure from such regulations.

Accounts to be kept by the Clerk.

Art. 2.—The clerk shall enter from time to time at proper dates in the minute book of the highway board a statement of the books and accounts inspected and examined by him, and of all orders drawn on the treasurer, and of all moneys paid or received, and of all minutes relating to the allocation or division of charges, or any other pecuniary transaction of the highway board, and shall insert marginal notes of reference to the folios of the respective ledgers in which the items relating to any such orders, payments, receipts, or other pecuniary transactions are entered.

Art. 3.—The clerk shall also punctually enter up and accurately keep the following books and accounts, according to the forms and directions relating to such books and accounts respectively in this order and in the schedule thereto, namely:—

(1.) A ledger (Form A.), in which the items contained in the minute book of the various transactions relating to the receipt or payment of moneys by the highway board, and the receipt and disposal of goods or materials, or the execution of works, or performance of services, on behalf of the district, or of any highway parish therein, shall be entered and posted up according to their proper dates, under the following heads of account (or as many thereof as may be requisite), and such additional heads as may be or may from time to time become necessary:

District surveyor's cash account.

Manual labour account.

Team labour account.

Materials account.

Tradesmen's bills account.

Improvements account.

Law charges account.

Salaries account.

Clerk's petty cash account.

Main roads account.

County authority's account.
 Turnpike roads account.
 Loan account (principal).
 Loan account (interest).
 Sinking fund account.
 District fund account.
 Treasurer's account.
 General balance account.

An account shall also be kept in the same ledger, or in a separate ledger in a similar form, with every highway parish in the district.

And in connection with the several items in each of the said accounts, the respective dates of the transactions shall be inserted, together with references to the folios of the minute book in which the entries relating to such transactions are contained, and to the folios of the corresponding credits and debits respectively.

- (2.) An order check book, in the Form (B.), which shall contain all orders given by the highway board for stores or other articles or for work, and counterfoils of such orders, and forms of the invoices to accompany commodities supplied, or to be delivered when work is done. Such orders, when signed by the clerk, together with the forms of invoice, shall be detached from the said book, and issued to the tradesmen or other persons dealt with or employed, to be returned and disposed of in the manner described thereon; and the counterfoils, certified by the clerk's initials, shall be retained in the said book.
- (3.) A petty cash book, in which shall be entered promptly, and in order of date, an account of the sums received and paid by the clerk for petty disbursements, which account shall be balanced quarterly, and laid before the highway board at their ordinary meetings.

Treasurer's Book.

Art. 4.—The treasurer of the highway board shall keep a book according to the Form (C.) in the said schedule, in which shall be entered punctually and accurately an account of all moneys received and paid by him on account of the highway board. He shall balance and sign this account quarterly, and shall cause the book to be laid before the highway board when required by them.

District Surveyor's Accounts.

Art. 5.—The district surveyor shall punctually enter up and accurately keep the following books and accounts, according to the forms and directions relating to such books and accounts respectively in this order and in the schedule thereto, namely:

- (1.) A cash book, Form (D.), in which shall be entered in order of date under the several headings indicated in the form, all sums received or paid by him on behalf of the highway board (excepting those entered in his petty cash book, which may be transferred in gross sums), with the date of receipt or payment, and a reference as regards items of expenditure to the folios of the wages book or contract book in which the detailed particulars are entered: and as regards "Tradesmen's bills and Miscellaneous" expenses of repairs, a reference to the number of the invoice in each case. This book shall be balanced at the end of each quarter, and at such other times as the highway board may direct.

- (2.) A contract book, Form (E.), the pages of which shall be arranged so as to form divisions under the four following headings, viz.,

1. Manual labour,
2. Team labour,
3. Materials,
4. Improvements, and under those several headings the particulars of the work performed under contract, as well as the amounts payable in respect thereof and the payments (if any) made to contractors by the district surveyor, shall be entered from time to time according to the arrangements of the columns in each division, the particulars as respects main roads, district roads, and existing turnpike roads being shown separately in the columns provided for that purpose. The date of payment and the folio of the cash book to which the payments are transferred shall also be inserted in connection with each entry.

There shall also be entered under the heading of materials the particulars indicated in the form as to materials supplied by contractors.

The sums entered under each of the four headings above named in the columns headed "Amounts payable under contract," shall be cast up at the foot of each page and the totals, as brought forward, cast up at the end of each quarter.

- (3.) A wages book, Form (F.), in which shall be entered in respect of each parish in the district the names of the labourers employed and paid by the district surveyor, the days on and places at which they were so employed, the rate of pay and the amount of wages earned, together with the date of payment and a reference to the folio in the cash book to which the payments are transferred.

The district surveyor, or other person making the payments on his behalf, shall, at the time of payment, obtain the signatures of the labourers in the column provided for that purpose, or if any of them are unable to write, their marks shall be affixed, attested by the initials of the district surveyor or of such other person.

At the end of each month, or of such shorter period as the highway board may direct, the Wages Book, as regards each parish in which labourers have been employed by the district surveyor during that period, shall be submitted by him to the waywarden of that parish, or to one of such waywardens, if there be more than one.

- (4.) A receipt check book, Form (G.), containing receipts and counterfoils in the form prescribed, each receipt and counterfoil bearing a corresponding number, and the numbers being printed thereon in consecutive order. Whenever money is received by the district surveyor from any other source than the highway board, he shall duly fill up one of the receipts and counterfoils, and shall deliver the receipt (stamped with an adhesive stamp where the amount of the payment shall render such stamp necessary) to the person making the payment, and shall retain the counterfoil in the book.
- (5.) A stock and stores account, in the Form (H.), in which the district surveyor shall keep an account of all materials, tools, or other articles intrusted to his charge, and shall show how the same shall have been disposed of and what remains in store. This book shall be balanced yearly and laid before the highway board from time to time as required by them.
- (6.) A petty cash book, in which shall be entered promptly and in order of date, an account of the sums received and paid by the district surveyor for petty disbursements, which account shall be balanced quarterly, and laid before the highway board at their ordinary meetings.

Closing and Examination of Accounts.

Art. 6. All the accounts of the highway board and their officers shall be made up and balanced to the twenty-fifth day of March in every year, and shall be submitted to the highway board at their first meeting after that day.

Financial Statement.

And whereas by section 3 of "The District Auditors Act, 1879," it is enacted as follows:

"Where the accounts of the receipts and expenditure of a local authority are audited by a district auditor, the local authority shall prepare and submit to the district auditor at every audit (other than an extraordinary audit, held in pursuance of section 6 of the Poor Law Amendment Act, 1866), a financial statement in duplicate in the prescribed form and containing the prescribed particulars; one of such duplicates shall have the stamp charged under this Act affixed thereon, and the auditor at the conclusion of the audit shall cancel that stamp, and certify on each duplicate, in the prescribed form, the amount in words at length of the expenditure so audited and allowed, and further, that the regulations with respect to such statement have been duly complied with, and that he has ascertained by the audit the correctness of the statement."

Now, therefore, we, the Local Government Board, hereby further order as follows:

Art. 7. The financial statement to be prepared and submitted to the district auditor in duplicate by the highway board as a local authority under section 3 above recited shall, from and after the 25th day of March, 1880, be in the Form (I.) in the schedule to this order, and shall contain the particulars therein specified or referred to, and the certificate of the district auditor to be appended to each such duplicate shall be in the form set forth at the foot of the said statement.

Parochial Statement.

Art. 8. The statement which, by section 9 of "The Highways and Locomotives (Amendment) Act, 1878," the highway board are required, within thirty days after the completion of the audit, to furnish to each member of the board and to the overseers of the parishes in the highway district, shall, from and after the 25th day of March, 1880, be in the Form (L.) in the schedule to this order.

Notice of Audit: Production of Books.

Art. 9. The district auditor shall audit the accounts of the highway board and their officers once in every year; that is to say, as soon as may be after the twenty-fifth day of March: Provided always, that if the district auditor shall be required by the Local Government Board to hold an extraordinary audit, either of the whole or any portion of the accounts, in addition to the ordinary audit, all the provisions herein contained, with reference to the ordinary audit, shall so far as they may be applicable, apply to such extraordinary audit.

Art. 10. The district auditor, in respect of every ordinary audit, shall give to the clerk, the treasurer, and the district surveyor fourteen days' notice in writing of the time and place on and at which he intends to commence the audit of the accounts. The district auditor shall also give the like notice to the waywarden or waywardens for each of the highway parishes in the district.

Art. 11. The clerk and the other officers of the highway board who by law are liable to account to the district auditor shall attend at the time and place appointed by him for the audit of their accounts, and shall submit to him all books, documents, and vouchers containing or relating to their accounts; and the same shall at the time of the audit be open to the inspection of any owner of property or ratepayer having an interest in such accounts, but to such extent and in such manner only as will not, in the judgment of the said district auditor, interfere with the audit.

Mode of Audit.

Art. 12. In auditing the accounts, the district auditor shall see that they have been kept and are presented in proper form, that the particular items of receipt and expenditure are stated in sufficient detail, and that the payments are supported by adequate vouchers and authority. He shall ascertain whether all sums received, or which ought to have been received, are brought into account, and shall examine whether the expenditure is in all cases such as might lawfully be made. He shall also reduce such payments and charges as are exorbitant; shall surcharge moneys not duly accounted for, or lost by negligence, upon the person who ought to account for the same, or whose negligence or improper conduct has caused the loss; and shall disallow and strike out such payments as are not authorised by law.

Art. 13. When the district auditor disallows any payment or surcharges any sum upon any person, he shall declare the ground of his decision, and offer to state such ground in writing, if required by the person aggrieved to do so, in the proper book of account forthwith, or as soon as the arrangements for the business of his audit will permit, and shall report such disallowance or surcharge to the Local Government Board.

Art. 14. The district auditor shall examine and collate the several books and papers of account; and shall ascertain that the several entries correspond with and balance each other, where such balance may be required; but in case of any error caused by inadvertence or accident in any account, he may require the officer rendering it to correct the same, and the officer shall make the necessary correction, and the district auditor shall then deal with the account so corrected. But if the officer shall refuse to do so, the district auditor shall himself make the correction, and report the circumstances of the case to the Local Government Board.

Art. 15. The district auditor shall compute the several accounts so as to verify the arithmetical accuracy thereof, and the balance due to or from the officers rendering the same at the time to which the audit relates; and he shall state the balance in words at length, and certify the same by his signature or initials, and add the date of the audit; and when he certifies any sum or other matter to be due he shall, as far as practicable, enter his certificate and his reasons for the same (when they are required) in some part of the book of account which shall be free from other writing.

Art. 16. The district auditor shall receive any objection made by a ratepayer, or any person aggrieved, against the accounts undergoing audit, or any item or charge therein, or any vouchers or authority for the same; and shall examine into the merits of such objection, and make a decision respecting the same, stating the grounds thereof, and offering to enter the same in the book of account then being examined, if required to do so, as in the case of a disallowance or surcharge.

Art. 17. If he shall doubt the correctness of any account, or any item or charge in any account, he shall require the officer rendering the account, or any other person holding or accountable for any money, books, deeds, or chattels relating to the highway district to appear before him, and shall call upon such person to produce any accounts, books, or papers which he may lawfully require; and he shall examine such officer or person as may then appear, and such accounts, books, and papers as may be produced before him, respecting such account, item, or charge.

Art. 18. If the auditor find that any money, goods, or chattels belonging to the highway board, have been purloined, embezzled, wasted, or misapplied, or that any deficiency or loss has been incurred by the negligence or misconduct of any officer or other person accounting, and shall surcharge such officer or person with such amount or value in his account, he shall submit a statement of such surcharge to the highway board as soon as he conveniently can do so.

Art. 19. The personal representatives of an officer accountable under this order, dying before the audit of his accounts, shall, so far as they may be by law required, account, in conformity with the provisions herein contained, in the place of such deceased officer, and all regulations affecting the accounts of such officer shall, so far as may be otherwise lawful, affect the accounts of his personal representatives.

Art. 20. The district auditor shall, at the close of such audit, transmit to the Local Government Board a statement in the Form (M.) in the said schedule, showing which of the books directed by this order to be kept is not kept, or is imperfectly kept, or kept in a form different from that prescribed by the Local Government Board.

INTERPRETATION OF TERMS.

Art. 21. In this order and in the forms set forth in the schedule thereto,— “Highway district” means a district constituted in pursuance of the Highway Act, 1862, and the Highway Act, 1864, or one of such Acts.

“Highway board” means the highway board having jurisdiction within a highway district.

“Clerk” means the clerk to the highway board.

“District surveyor” includes an assistant surveyor, where such an assistant is appointed, and where he may be required by the highway board, under the direction of the district surveyor, to perform any of the duties prescribed herein.

“Main roads” means roads so constituted under “The Highways and Locomotives (Amendment) Act, 1878.”

“Manual labour” means manual labour employed in the actual execution of repairs, as distinct from such labour employed in obtaining, delivering, or preparing materials for repairs, and includes contract work for repairs where such repairs are let by contract under section 52 of “The Highway Act, 1864,” and where the contract is not made exclusively for the purposes hereinafter described under either of the heads of “team labour” or “materials.”

“Team labour” means labour of that kind employed in the collection, delivery, or distributions of materials for the purpose of executing repairs, or in the actual execution thereof, and includes such labour employed under any contract entered into for those purposes exclusively, under the section last above mentioned.

“Materials” means stone or other materials for repairs, and includes the cost of purchasing, getting, carrying, or preparing such materials, and of delivering the same other than by means of team labour. It also includes any such cost incurred under any contract entered into for those purposes exclusively under the section last above mentioned, as well as damage to land in getting materials for the purpose of repairs, and royalty or rent of pits or quarries for that purpose.

“Tradesmen’s bills” includes the cost of tools, implements, and other stock supplied by tradesmen for repairs, and not hereinbefore included in the term “materials,” and the cost incurred in repairs of drains, bridges, and fences, executed by tradesmen; and when used in connection with “main roads” means tradesmen’s bills for repairs incurred for main roads exclusively.

“Improvements” means—

- (1.) The conversion of any road that has not been stoned into a stoned road :
- (2.) The widening of any road, the cutting off the corners in any road where land is required to be purchased for that purpose, the levelling roads, the making any new road, and the building or enlarging bridges :
- (3.) The doing of any other work in respect of highways beyond ordinary repairs essential to placing any existing highway in a proper state of repair :
- (4.) The abolition of tolls, where effected under section 15 of the Act, 35 & 36 Vict. c. 85.

Given under the seal of office of the Local Government Board this twenty-ninth day of April, in the year one thousand eight hundred and seventy-nine.

THE DISTRICT AUDITORS ACT, 1879.

FINANCIAL STATEMENT: LOCAL BOARDS.—GENERAL ORDER ⁽¹⁾.

To the local boards, for the time being, of the several local government districts in England and Wales ;—

To the several district auditors in England and Wales ;—

And to all others whom it may concern.

Whereas by section 3 of "The District Auditors Act, 1879," it is enacted as follows :

"Where the accounts of the receipts and expenditure of a local authority are audited by a district auditor, the local authority shall prepare and submit to the district auditor at every audit (other than an extraordinary audit, held in pursuance of section 6 of the Poor Law Amendment Act, 1866), a financial statement in duplicate in the prescribed form and containing the prescribed particulars ; one of such duplicates shall have the stamp charged under this Act affixed thereon, and the auditor at the conclusion of the audit shall cancel that stamp, and certify on each duplicate, in the prescribed form, the amount in words at length of the expenditure so audited and allowed, and further, that the regulations with respect to such statement have been duly complied with, and that he has ascertained by the audit the correctness of the statement."

And whereas local boards appointed for local government districts are local authorities within the terms of the said section :

Now therefore, we, the Local Government Board, hereby order and prescribe, with respect to each local government district in England and Wales, as follows :

The financial statement to be prepared and submitted to the district auditor in duplicate by the local board as a local authority, in accordance with the provisions of the section above recited, shall be in the Form (A.) in the schedule to this order, and shall contain the particulars therein specified or referred to ; and the certificate of the district auditor to be appended to each such duplicate shall be in the form set forth at the foot of the said statement.

Given under the seal of office of the Local Government Board, this twenty-ninth day of April, in the year one thousand eight hundred and seventy-nine.

PUBLIC HEALTH (INTERMENTS) ACT, 1879.

19th August, 1879.*

SIR,

I am directed by the President of the Local Government Board to request that you will bring under the notice of the sanitary authority the provisions of the Public Health (Interments) Act, 1879 (42 & 43 Vict. c. 31) ⁽¹⁾, which received the royal assent and came into operation on the 21st of July last.

The object of the Act is to enable sanitary authorities, rural as well as urban, to provide cemeteries for their districts, and for this purpose all the provisions of the Public Health Act, 1875, with respect to a mortuary are extended to a cemetery.

As the sanitary authority are aware section 141 of the Public Health Act enables a sanitary authority to provide and fit up a proper place as a mortuary for the reception of dead bodies before interment, and to make bye-laws with respect to the management and charges for the use of the same, and it is moreover compulsory on a sanitary authority to provide a mortuary if they should be required by the Local Government Board to do so.

The effect, therefore, of the Act which has just been passed is, in like manner, to empower a sanitary authority to provide a cemetery, and to render it compulsory on them to do so if the Local Government Board should require one to be provided.

The legislature has not specified the cases in which it is incumbent upon the sanitary authority to give effect to the provisions of the new statute; but, seeing that it is incorporated with the Public Health Act, there can be no doubt that wherever, in the interests of the public health, it is necessary that a cemetery should be provided in any locality, the legislature contemplated that the local authority would exercise the important powers now conferred upon them.

The following may be referred to as circumstances under which it will be incumbent upon the sanitary authority to take action:

1. Where in any burial ground which remains in use there is not proper space for burial, and no other suitable burial ground has been provided;
2. Where the continuance in use of any burial ground (notwithstanding there may be such space) is by reason of its situation in relation to the water supply of the locality, or by reason of any circumstances whatsoever, injurious to the public health;
3. Where, for the protection of the public health, it is expedient to discontinue burials in a particular town, village, or place or within certain limits.

There are other circumstances which might render it necessary or expedient that a cemetery should be provided, such as inconvenience of access from the populous parts of the district to the existing burial ground, or the nature of the site, or the character of the subsoil; and instances may exist where, in deference to the wishes of the inhabitants, it may be expedient to provide, in accordance with the policy of the Burial Acts, a cemetery in which persons of different creeds may be buried with their own religious rites. On all or any of the foregoing grounds the authority of the Local Government Board may be invoked, and if the application should prove well founded a compulsory order would necessarily follow.

The question, however, whether a cemetery should be provided for a particular locality will be one for the determination of the sanitary authority in the first instance; and it is only in the event of their default to establish a proper cemetery where one is required, or in consequence of a loan being needed to carry out the undertaking, or, if they should determine to construct a cemetery outside their district, of objection being taken to such a proceeding, that the Local Government Board have any authority to interfere.

The President has reason to believe that in numerous localities considerations of public health require that a cemetery should be provided, and with a view of enabling the authority to determine whether on sanitary grounds it is necessary or desirable that a cemetery should be provided for all or any part of their district the medical officers of health should be instructed to report upon the state of the several burial grounds within the area subject to their jurisdiction.

The statute enables a sanitary authority to acquire, construct, and maintain a cemetery either within or without their district. In the latter case, however, at least three months before the cemetery is commenced, public notice must be given, and in the event of any objection, the work cannot proceed without the sanction of the Local Government Board after local inquiry.

It will be seen, therefore, that a sanitary authority are empowered not only to establish a cemetery, but also to purchase an existing one; and it will be competent for the sanitary authority, in the event of their failure to acquire a suitable site by agreement, to apply for a Provisional Order enabling them to take lands for the purpose compulsorily.

Moreover, with the sanction of the central authority, they will be enabled to borrow money to pay for the purchase of the requisite land, for draining and inclosing the site, and for rendering it otherwise suitable for the object intended.

At the same time I am to point out that, if the sanitary authority should deem it expedient to provide a cemetery without resorting to a loan for the purpose, it is competent for them to do so, and to charge the cost upon the local rates.

In the case of an urban sanitary authority the rate liable for this cost will be the general district rate, or other rate applicable to the general purposes of the Public Health Act within the district. In the case of a rural sanitary authority the amount would come under the head of general expenses, and be defrayed out of the rate applicable to the payment of such expenses.

If, however, the cemetery were provided for a separate contributory place, by which is meant a parish or special drainage district, or so much of a parish as is not within an urban sanitary district or a special drainage district, it would be competent for the Local Government Board to order the amount to be special expenses, in which event the charge would be borne by the particular contributory place, but with this distinction in the incidence of the rate, that whereas in the case of general expenses the amount is either paid out of the poor rate or levied by a rate of an equal sum in the pound, in the case of special expenses the amount is raised by a separate rate to which lands are assessable at only one fourth. It may be useful to add here that the rates referred to would in like manner be applicable to the maintenance of the cemetery after it is established, and also that a rural sanitary authority may depute to a parochial committee the exercise of their powers in connection with the management of any cemetery which may be required for any contributory place.

In addition to the powers conferred upon sanitary authorities of purchasing land for a cemetery the recent Act authorises them to accept a donation of land for the purpose, and also a donation of money or other property for enabling them to acquire, construct, or maintain a cemetery.

With regard to the regulation of the cemetery after it has been established, I am to state that the application to a cemetery of section 141 of the Public Health Act, 1875, will enable the sanitary authority to make bye-laws with respect to the management and charges for the use of any cemetery established by them, and in this manner to provide for the orderly conduct of all persons within its limits, for the regulation of graves, and for the payment of reasonable fees for interments therein.

It should be borne in mind, however, that such bye-laws must be made in conformity with the Public Health Act, and be confirmed by the central authority; and the President contemplates that the department should hereafter frame a series of model bye-laws to be recommended for adoption.

In order to make further provision for the due maintenance and management of a cemetery he recent statute incorporates the Cemeteries Clauses Act, 1847 (10 & 11 Vict. c. 65).

That Act forms one of a series of statutes passed in 1847, the object being in each case to comprise in one general Act the provisions usually contained in Acts of Parliament relating to matters of local improvement or administration. Several of these Acts, as well as other Consolidation Acts, were incorporated, either wholly or partly, with the Public Health Act, 1875, and the particular Act referred to has previously been incorporated with some General and several Local Improvement Acts. Its provisions will now form part of the Public Health Act, 1875, and will apply, subject to the necessary qualifications, to all cemeteries acquired, constructed, or maintained by a sanitary authority under the new Act.

The President, therefore, thinks it right to direct the attention of the sanitary authority to the following obligations and powers imposed upon and exercisable by them under the incorporated enactments.

With respect to the making of the Cemetery.

The cemetery is not to be constructed nearer to any dwelling-house than 200 yards, except with the consent of the owner and occupier.

The sanitary authority may build such chapels in the cemetery for the performance of burial services as they may think fit, and lay out and embellish the grounds of the cemetery.

The cemetery must be inclosed by substantial walls, or iron railings, of the height of eight feet at least.

The sanitary authority must keep the cemetery and the buildings and fences thereof, in complete repair and in good order and condition.

With respect to Burials.

The sanitary authority may set apart a portion of the cemetery for burials according to the rites of the Established Church, and the bishop of the diocese, may, on the application of the sanitary authority, consecrate the portion so set apart.

A chapel, to be approved by the bishop, must be built on the consecrated part for the performance of the burial service of the Established Church.

A salaried chaplain is to be appointed to officiate in the consecrated part of the cemetery, the appointment and salary to be subject to the approval of the bishop.

The sanitary authority may set apart the whole or a portion of the unconsecrated part of the cemetery as a place of burial for persons not being members of the Established Church, and may allow in any chapel built in such unconsecrated part a burial service to be performed according to the rites of any church or congregation other than the Established Church.

With respect to exclusive Rights of Burial and Monumental Inscriptions.

The sanitary authority may set apart portions of the cemetery for the purpose of granting exclusive rights of burial therein, and may sell the exclusive right of burial in such portions, and the right of placing any monument or gravestone in the cemetery or any tablet or monumental inscription on the walls of any chapel or other building in the cemetery.

It should be observed that the Act under consideration does not extend to the metropolis, and it is scarcely necessary to point out that in other parts of the country where suitable cemeteries are in existence there can rarely be need for resorting to its provisions.

The President trusts, however, that in other localities the sanitary authorities will not hesitate to avail themselves of the important powers conferred by the Act, having regard to their serious obligations in the interest of the public health and to the responsibilities imposed upon them by the Legislature.

THE PUBLIC WORKS LOANS ACT, 1875, SECTION 13.

Local Government Board, Whitehall, S.W.,
1st November, 1879.

SIR,

The Board may take this opportunity of stating that the Lords Commissioners of Her Majesty's Treasury have issued a minute with respect to the rate of interest to be charged by the Public Works Loan Commissioners when making advances to local authorities under any special enactments empowering them to lend money at a low rate of interest. This minute, which has been made in consequence of the passing of the Public Works Loans Act of the last session (42 & 43 Vict. c. 77) ⁽¹⁾, applies to advances made by the Commissioners to sanitary authorities under section 243 of the Public Health Act, 1875 ⁽²⁾, or section 22 of the Artizans' and Labourers' Dwellings Improvement Act ⁽³⁾ of that year.

The rates of interest which will now be charged by the Commissioners when lending money under those sections will be as follows:

When the loan is repayable within a period—

Not exceeding 20 years	3½ per cent.
„ 30 „	3¾ „
„ 40 „	4 „
Exceeding 40 „	and not exceeding
50 years	4½ „

It will be observed that the rates charged become higher according as the loan is repayable within a longer term, and it will be a question for consideration in many cases whether the sanitary authority may not find it desirable to raise the loan for a shorter period than that which the Board have hitherto usually allowed under similar circumstances, in order that the sanitary authority may secure the advantage of obtaining the money at a lower rate of interest.

⁽³⁾ Ante, p. 600.

It must be borne in mind that the Commissioners do not make advances, under section 243 of the Public Health Act, for all the purposes of that Act for which money may be borrowed. It is only where the sanitary authority are raising a loan for works of primary sanitary importance, such, e.g., as sewerage, water supply, hospitals and public baths, that the Commissioners are willing to lend money under the section referred to. If a loan is obtained from them for any purpose of the Act which is not of primary sanitary importance, the rate of interest charged will be 5 per cent., and the term for repayment will not exceed 20 years.

It should be added that the section 3 of the Public Works Loans Act, 1879, will preclude the Commissioners in future from advancing more than £100,000, in any financial year, to any one sanitary authority.

JOHN LAMBERT,

THE ARTIZANS' AND LABOURERS' DWELLINGS IMPROVEMENT ACT 1879 ⁽¹⁾.

(42 & 43 Vict. c. 63.)

Local Government Board, Whitehall, S.W., 19th November, 1879.

SIR,

I am directed by the Local Government Board to draw the attention of the urban sanitary authority to the Artizans' and Labourers' Dwellings Improvement Act, 1879 (42 & 43 Vict. c. 63) ⁽¹⁾, and to point out that the Act confers important facilities for the carrying out of improvement schemes under the principal Act, viz., the Artizans' and Labourers' Dwellings Improvement Act, 1875.

By the 3rd section of the Act of the last session the amount of compensation, payable under any scheme, will be considerably diminished in cases where the houses or premises proposed to be taken can be proved to the arbitrator to have been, at any time between the date of the official representation and that of the confirming Act, a nuisance within the meaning of the Public Health Act, 1875, and any local Act which contains any provisions with respect to nuisances in the district.

The 4th section enables the confirming authority to relax the restrictions imposed by the principal Act, which required that the accommodation for persons of the working classes should be provided within the area affected by the scheme, or in its immediate vicinity, unless there were special reasons to the contrary.

It will be observed that the schedule to the Act contains a provision requiring additional notices to be given of the appointment of the arbitrator, and also confers upon him powers with regard to the apportionment of certain charges, the severance of buildings, and the awarding of compensation for omitted interests.

The Board trust that the sanitary authority will take advantage of the facilities referred to by promoting schemes under the principal Act, so that the serious injury to the public health in large towns, caused by the existence of unhealthy areas, in which large numbers of the working classes are now compelled to dwell, may be removed with the least possible delay.

JOHN LAMBERT,

SALE OF FOOD AND DRUGS ACT.

Local Government Board,

31st December, 1879.

SIR,

I am directed by the Local Government Board to call your attention to section 19 of the Sale of Food and Drugs Act, 1875, and to remind you that a copy of the reports made by public analysts for the several quarters of the year 1879, should be forwarded to the Board in the course of the month of January next.

A copy of so much of the Board's Annual Report for 1878-79, as relates to the reports of public analysts for the year 1878, with a numerical abstract of those reports, is enclosed for the information of the authority.

The Board takes this opportunity of referring to the provisions of the Sale of Food and Drugs Act Amendment Act of last session (42 & 43 Vict. c. 30), which has made several amendments in the law, the most important of which are as follows:—

Section 2 explains and amends the language of the 6th section of the principal Act with regard to articles purchased for analysis by expressly declaring that, although an article may have been purchased solely for analysis, it shall be no defence to allege that the purchaser was not prejudiced thereby. Moreover it enacts that it shall not be a good defence to prove that the article though defective in nature or in substance or in quality, was not defective in all three respects.

By sections 3 and 4 special provision is made for procuring samples of milk in course of delivery, under contract, to the purchaser or consignee. This enactment, by making the consignor liable to a penalty, will afford to dairymen protection against the consignment to them of adulterated milk.

By section 6 it is provided that the sale of spirits to which only water has been added shall not of itself constitute an offence under the 6th section of the principal Act if such admixture has not reduced brandy, whisky, or rum more than 25°, or gin more than 35° under proof.

Section 10 makes special provision as to the time within which any summons for violating the provisions of the principal Act must be served, and also as to the period to be allowed before such summons is returnable.

I am, &c.,

JOHN LAMBERT,

Secretary.

GENERAL ORDER (URBAN SANITARY AUTHORITIES).

REGULATIONS AS TO MEDICAL OFFICERS OF HEALTH, WHOSE SALARIES ARE PARTLY REPAID OUT OF MONEYS VOTED BY PARLIAMENT ⁽¹⁾.

To the several urban sanitary authorities, for the time being, in England and Wales;—
And to all others whom it may concern.

Whereas by a General Order dated the 11th day of November, 1872, addressed to "The several urban sanitary authorities in England and Wales constituted by the Public Health Act, 1872" ⁽²⁾, the Local Government Board, acting under the authority conferred upon them by section 10 of that Act, prescribed regulations with respect to the qualification, appointment, duties, salary, and tenure of office of medical officers of health appointed by urban sanitary authorities, in all cases where any portion of the salary of any such officer was paid out of moneys voted by Parliament.

And whereas it is required by section 189 of the Public Health Act, 1875 ⁽³⁾, that every urban sanitary authority shall from time to time appoint a medical officer of health, and by section 191 of that Act it is enacted that a person shall not be appointed medical officer of health under that Act unless he is a legally qualified medical practitioner; and that the Local Government Board shall have the same powers as it has in the case of a district medical officer of a union, with regard to the qualification, appointment, duties, salary, and tenure of office of a medical officer of health of a local authority, any portion of whose salary is paid out of moneys voted by Parliament:

And whereas urban sanitary authorities are local authorities within the meaning of the last-named section.

Now therefore, we, the Local Government Board, hereby order that the above cited order shall not apply to any medical officer of health appointed or re-appointed by any urban sanitary authority after the twenty-fifth day of March, one thousand eight hundred and eighty.

⁽³⁾ Ante, p. 150. As to rural authorities, see section 190, ante, p. 151.

And we hereby order as follows with respect to the qualification, appointment, duties, salary, and tenure of office of every medical officer of health, any portion of whose salary is paid out of moneys voted by Parliament, and who may be appointed by any urban sanitary authority after the twenty-fifth day of March, one thousand eight hundred and eighty, or who, having been appointed by such authority under the provisions of the above cited order, may be re-appointed by them after that date.

Qualification.

Art. 1. A person shall not be qualified to be appointed unless he shall be registered under "The Medical Act" of 1858, and qualified by law to practise both medicine and surgery in England and Wales, such qualification being established by the production to the sanitary authority of a diploma, certificate of a degree, licence, or other instrument granted or issued by competent legal authority in Great Britain or Ireland, testifying to the medical or surgical, or medical and surgical, qualification or qualifications of the candidate for such office.

Provided that the Local Government Board may, upon the application of the sanitary authority, dispense with so much of this regulation as requires that the medical officer of health shall be qualified to practise both medicine and surgery, if he is duly registered under the said Act to practise either medicine or surgery.

Appointment.

Art. 2. A statement shall be submitted to the Local Government Board, in a form to be supplied by them, showing the population and area of the district of the sanitary authority, together with the salary intended to be assigned to the officer, and such other particulars as may be prescribed by such form.

Provided that where any such statement has been submitted to the said Board under the said order of the eleventh day of November, one thousand eight hundred and seventy-two, or under this order, no further statement under this article shall be necessary, unless required by the said Board.

Art. 3. When the approval of the Local Government Board has been given to the proposals contained in the statement so submitted to them, the sanitary authority shall proceed to the appointment of a medical officer of health accordingly.

Art. 4. An appointment of a medical officer of health shall not be made unless an advertisement specifying the amount of salary proposed to be assigned, and the day fixed for such appointment, shall have appeared in some public newspaper circulating in the district at least seven days before the day so fixed.

Art. 5. Every such officer shall be appointed by a majority of the members present, at a meeting of the sanitary authority, and voting on the question.

Art. 6. Every appointment shall, within seven days after it is made, be reported to the Local Government Board by the clerk to the sanitary authority.

Art. 7. Upon the occurrence of a vacancy in the office of medical officer of health, the sanitary authority shall proceed to make a fresh appointment, which shall be reported to the Local Government Board as required by Art. 6 of this order.

Provided always as follows :—

(1.) If the sanitary authority desire to make any fresh arrangement with respect to the terms of the appointment, they shall, before filling up the vacancy, supply the particulars of the arrangement of the Local Government Board in the manner prescribed by Art. 2 of this order in regard to the first appointment, and if the approval of the Local Government Board be given, absolutely or with modifications, the sanitary authority shall then proceed to fill up the vacancy according to the terms of the approval so given.

(2.) If the vacancy arise from notice given by an officer of an intended resignation to take effect on a future day, the sanitary authority may elect a successor to such officer in conformity with the above regulations, at any time subsequent to such notice.

(3.) If the sanitary authority deem it advisable that the vacancy should not be filled up forthwith, they may appoint a person to act temporarily, subject to the approval of the Local Government Board.

(4.) In the case of an officer who holds his office for a specified term, the sanitary authority may provide for the continuance of such officer, or appoint his successor, within three calendar months next before the expiration of such term.

Art. 8. If in the case of an officer who may have been appointed for a specified term, the sanitary authority should desire to renew his appointment for a further term or otherwise in conformity with the provisions of this order, and no fresh arrangement should be proposed with respect to the terms of the appointment, it shall not be necessary for that purpose that Articles 2, 3, and 4 of this order should be complied with, but it shall be sufficient if the sanitary authority, at a meeting held after notice given at one of their two ordinary meetings next preceding such meeting, pass a resolution renewing the appointment accordingly on the expiration of the term for which it was made, and the Local Government Board sanction such resolution.

Art. 9. If any officer be at any time prevented by sickness or accident, or other sufficient reason, from performing his duties, the sanitary authority may appoint a person qualified as aforesaid to act as his temporary substitute, and may pay him a reasonable compensation for his services; and it shall not be necessary in any such case that Arts. 2, 3, and 4 of this order shall be complied with, but Arts. 5 and 6 of this order shall apply in every such case.

Tenure of Office.

Art. 10. Every officer shall continue to hold office for such period as the sanitary authority may, with the approval of the Local Government Board, determine, or until he die, or resign, or be removed by such authority with the assent of the Local Government Board, or by the Local Government Board, or be proved to be insane by evidence which that Board shall deem sufficient.

Art. 11. The sanitary authority may at their discretion suspend any officer from the discharge of his duties, and shall, in case of every such suspension, forthwith report the same, together with the cause thereof, to the Local Government Board; and if the Local Government Board remove the suspension of such officer by the sanitary authority, he shall forthwith resume the performance of his duties.

Art. 12. Where any change in the duties or salary of any officer may be deemed necessary, and he shall decline to acquiesce therein, the sanitary authority may, with the consent of the Local Government Board, but not otherwise, and after six months' notice in writing, signed by their clerk, given to such officer, determine his office.

Art. 13. A person shall not be appointed who does not agree to give one month's notice previous to resigning the office, or to forfeit such sum as may be agreed upon as liquidated damages.

Salary.

Art. 14. The sanitary authority shall pay to every officer such salary as may be approved by the Local Government Board.

Provided always that the sanitary authority, with the approval of the Local Government Board, may pay to any officer a reasonable compensation on account of extraordinary services, or other unforeseen or special circumstances connected with his duties or the necessities of the district.

Art. 15. The salary of every officer shall be payable up to the day on which he ceases to hold the office, and no longer, subject to any deduction which the sanitary authority may be entitled to make in respect of Art. 13 of this order; and in case he shall die whilst holding such office, the proportion of salary (if any) remaining unpaid at his death shall be paid to his personal representatives.

Provided that an officer who may be suspended, and who may, without the previous removal of such suspension, resign or be removed under Art. 10 of this order, shall not be entitled to any salary from the date of such suspension.

Art. 16. The salary assigned to every officer shall be payable quarterly, according to the usual feast days in the year, namely, Lady-day, Midsummer-day, Michaelmas-day, and Christmas-day; but the sanitary authority may pay to him at the expiration of every calendar month such proportion as they may think fit, on account of the salary to which he may become entitled at the termination of the quarter.

Art. 17. All salary shall be considered as accruing from day to day, and be apportionable in respect of time accordingly, in pursuance of the provisions of "The Apportionment Act, 1870."

Duties.

Art. 18. The following shall be the duties of the medical officer of health in respect of the district for which he is appointed.

- (1.) He shall inform himself as far as practicable respecting all influences affecting or threatening to affect injuriously the public health within the district.
- (2.) He shall inquire into and ascertain by such means as are at his disposal the causes, origin, and distribution of diseases within the district, and ascertain to what extent the same have depended on conditions capable of removal or mitigation.

- (3.) He shall by inspection of the district, both systematically at certain periods, and at intervals as occasion may require, keep himself informed of the conditions injurious to health existing therein.
- (4.) He shall be prepared to advise the sanitary authority on all matters affecting the health of the district, and on all sanitary points involved in the action of the sanitary authority; and in cases requiring it, he shall certify, for the guidance of the sanitary authority or of the justices, as to any matter in respect of which the certificate of a medical officer of health or a medical practitioner is required as the basis or in aid of sanitary action.
- (5.) He shall advise the sanitary authority on any question relating to health involved in the framing and subsequent working of such byelaws and regulations as they may have power to make.
- (6.) On receiving information of the outbreak of any contagious, infectious, or epidemic disease of a dangerous character within the district, he shall visit the spot without delay and inquire into the causes and circumstances of such outbreak, and in case he is not satisfied that all due precautions are being taken, he shall advise the persons competent to act as to the measures which may appear to him to be required to prevent the extension of the disease, and, so far as he may be lawfully authorised, assist in the execution of the same.
- (7.) Subject to the instructions of the sanitary authority, he shall direct or superintend the work of the inspector of nuisances in the way and to the extent that the sanitary authority shall approve, and on receiving information from the inspector of nuisances that his intervention is required in consequence of the existence of any nuisance injurious to health, or of any overcrowding in a house, he shall, as early as practicable, take such steps authorised by The Public Health Act, 1875, in that behalf as the circumstances of the case may justify and require.
- (8.) In any case in which it may appear to him to be necessary or advisable, or in which he shall be so directed by the sanitary authority, he shall himself inspect and examine any animal carcase, meat, poultry, game, flesh, fish, fruit, vegetables, corn, bread, flour, or milk exposed for sale, or deposited for the purpose of sale or of preparation for sale, and intended for the food of man, which is deemed to be diseased, or unsound, or unwholesome, or unfit for the food of man; and if he finds that such animal or article is diseased, or unsound, or unwholesome, or unfit for the food of man, he shall give such directions as may be necessary for causing the same to be seized, taken, and carried away, in order to be dealt with by a justice according to the provisions of the statutes applicable to the case.
- (9.) He shall perform all the duties imposed upon him by any byelaws and regulations of the sanitary authority, duly confirmed, in respect of any matter affecting the public health, and touching which they are authorised to frame byelaws and regulations.
- (10.) He shall inquire into any offensive process of trade carried on within the district, and report on the appropriate means for the prevention of any nuisance or injury to health therefrom.
- (11.) He shall attend at the office of the sanitary authority or at some other appointed place, at such stated times as they may direct.
- (12.) He shall from time to time report in writing to the sanitary authority his proceedings, and the measures which may require to be adopted for the improvement or protection of the public health in the district. He shall in like manner report with respect to the sickness and mortality within the district, so far as he has been enabled to ascertain the same.
- (13.) He shall keep a book or books, to be provided by the sanitary authority, in which he shall make an entry of his visits, and notes of his observations and instructions thereon, and also the date and nature of applications made to him, the date and result of the action taken thereon and of any action taken on previous reports; and shall produce such book or books, whenever required, to the sanitary authority.
- (14.) He shall also prepare an annual report, to be made to the end of December in each year, comprising a summary of the action taken during the year for preventing the spread of disease, and an account of the sanitary state of his district generally at the end of the year. The report shall also contain an account of the inquiries which he has made as to conditions injurious to health existing in his district, and of the proceedings in which he has taken part or advised under the Public Health Act, 1875, so far as such proceedings relate to those conditions; and also an account of the supervision exercised by him, or on his advice, for sanitary purposes over places and houses that the sanitary authority have power to regulate, with the nature and results of any proceedings which may have been so required and taken in respect of the same during the year. It shall also record the action taken by him, or on his advice, during the year, in regard to offensive trades, and to factories and workshops. The report shall also contain tabular statements (on forms to be supplied by the Local Government Board, or to the like effect), of the sickness and mortality within the district, classified according to diseases, ages, and localities.

- (15.) He shall give immediate information to the Local Government Board of any outbreak of dangerous epidemic disease within the district, and shall transmit to the Board a copy of each annual and of any special report.
- (16.) In matters not specifically provided for in this order, he shall observe and execute the instructions of the Local Government Board on the duties of the medical officers of health, and all the lawful orders and directions of the sanitary authority applicable to his office.
- (17.) Whenever the Local Government Board shall make regulations for all or any of the purposes specified in section 134 of The Public Health Act, 1875 ⁽¹⁾, and shall declare the regulations so made to be in force within any area comprising the whole or any part of the district, he shall observe such regulations, so far as the same relate to or concern his office.

Given under the seal of office of the Local Government Board this eighth day of March, in the year one thousand eight hundred and eighty.

GENERAL ORDER (URBAN SANITARY AUTHORITIES.)

REGULATIONS AS TO MEDICAL OFFICERS OF HEALTH, NO PORTION OF WHOSE SALARIES IS REPAID OUT OF MONEYS VOTED BY PARLIAMENT⁽¹⁾.

To the several urban sanitary authorities, for the time being, in England and Wales;—

And to all others whom it may concern.

Whereas by section 189 of the Public Health Act, 1875⁽²⁾, it is enacted that every urban sanitary authority shall from time to time appoint a medical officer of health, and by section 191 of that Act it is enacted as follows:—

“A person shall not be appointed medical officer of health under this Act unless he is a legally qualified medical practitioner; and the Local Government Board shall have the same powers as it has in the case of a district medical officer of a union, with regard to the qualification, appointment, duties, salary, and tenure of office of a medical officer of health or other officer of a local authority, any portion of whose salary is paid out of moneys voted by Parliament, and may by order prescribe the qualification and duties of other medical officers of health appointed under this Act.”

Now therefore, we, the Local Government Board, hereby order as follows with respect to the qualification and duties of every medical officer of health, no portion of whose salary is paid out of moneys voted by Parliament, and who may be appointed or re-appointed by any urban sanitary authority after the twenty-fifth day of March, one thousand eight hundred and eighty.

Qualification.

Art. 1. [The same as Art. 1, ante, p. 1557.]

Duties.

Art. 2. The following shall be the duties of the medical officer of health in respect of the district for which he is appointed:—

- (1.) He shall, within seven days after his appointment, report the same in writing to the Local Government Board.

[The other duties are identical with those of medical officers, whose salaries are partly repaid out of moneys voted by Parliament.]

GENERAL ORDER (URBAN SANITARY AUTHORITIES).

REGULATIONS AS TO INSPECTORS OF NUISANCES, WHOSE SALARIES ARE PARTLY REPAID OUT OF MONEYS VOTED BY PARLIAMENT.

To the several urban sanitary authorities, for the time being, in England and Wales ;—

And to all others whom it may concern.

Whereas by a General Order dated the 11th day of November, 1872, addressed to "The several urban sanitary authorities in England and Wales constituted by the Public Health Act, 1872," the Local Government Board, acting under the authority conferred upon them by section 10 of that Act, prescribed regulations with respect to the appointment, duties, salary, and tenure of office of inspectors of nuisances appointed by such authorities, in all cases where any portion of the salary of any such officer was paid out of moneys voted by Parliament :

And whereas it is required by section 189 ⁽¹⁾ of the Public Health Act, 1875, that every urban sanitary authority shall from time to time appoint an inspector of nuisances, and by section 191 ⁽²⁾ of that Act it is enacted that the Local Government Board shall have the same powers as it has in the case of a district medical officer of a union, with regard to the qualification, appointment, duties, salary, and tenure of office of any officer of a local authority, any portion of whose salary is paid out of moneys voted by Parliament ;

And whereas urban sanitary authorities are local authorities within the meaning of the last-named section :

Now therefore, we, the Local Government Board, hereby order that the above cited order shall not apply to any inspector of nuisances appointed or re-appointed by any rural sanitary authority after the twenty-fifth day of March, one thousand eight hundred and eighty.

And we hereby order as follows with respect to the appointment, duties, salary, and tenure of office of every inspector of nuisances, any portion of whose salary is paid out of moneys voted by Parliament, and who may be appointed by any urban sanitary authority after the twenty-fifth day of March one thousand eight hundred and eighty, or who, having been appointed by such authority under the provisions of the above cited order, may be re-appointed by them after that date.

Appointment.

Art. 1. A statement shall be submitted to the Local Government Board, in a form to be supplied by them, showing the population and area of the district of the sanitary authority, together with the salary intended to be assigned to the officer, and such other particulars as may be prescribed by such form.

Provided that where any such statement has been submitted to the said Board under the said order of the eleventh day of November, one thousand eight hundred and seventy-two, or under this order, no further statement under this article shall be necessary, unless required by the said Board.

Art. 2. When the approval of the Local Government Board has been given to the proposals contained in the statement submitted to them, the sanitary authority shall proceed to the appointment of an inspector of nuisances accordingly.

Art. 3. An appointment of an inspector of nuisances shall not be made unless an advertisement specifying the amount of salary proposed to be assigned, and the day fixed for such appointment, shall have appeared in some public newspaper circulating in the district at least seven days before the day so fixed.

Art. 4. Every officer shall be appointed by a majority of the members present at a meeting of the sanitary authority, and voting on the question.

Art. 5. Every appointment shall, within seven days after it is made, be reported to the Local Government Board by the clerk to the sanitary authority.

Art. 6. Upon the occurrence of a vacancy in the office of inspector of nuisances, the sanitary authority shall proceed to make a fresh appointment, which shall be reported to the Local Government Board as required by Art. 5 of this order :

Provided always as follows :—

- (1.) If the sanitary authority desire to make any fresh arrangement with respect to the terms of the appointment, they shall before filling up the vacancy, supply the particulars of the arrangement to the Local Government Board in the manner prescribed by Art. 1 of this order in regard to the first appointment, and if the approval of the Local Government Board be given, absolutely or with modifications, the sanitary authority shall then proceed to fill up the vacancy according to the terms of the approval so given.
- (2.) If the vacancy arise from notice given by an officer of an intended resignation to take effect on a future day, the sanitary authority may elect a successor to such officer in conformity with the above regulations, at any time subsequent to such notice.
- (3.) If the sanitary authority deem it advisable that the vacancy should not be filled up forthwith, they may appoint a person to act temporarily, subject to the approval of the Local Government Board.
- (4.) In the case of any officer who holds his office for a specified term the sanitary authority may provide for the continuance of such officer, or appoint his successor, within three calendar months next before the expiration of such term.

Art. 7. If in the case of an officer who may have been appointed for a specified term, the sanitary authority should desire to renew his appointment for a further term or otherwise in conformity with the provisions of this order, and no fresh arrangement should be proposed with respect to the terms of the appointment, it shall not be necessary for that purpose that Articles 1, 2, and 3 of this order should be complied with, but it shall be sufficient if the sanitary authority, at a meeting held after notice given at one of their two ordinary meetings next preceding such meeting, pass a resolution renewing the appointment accordingly on the expiration of the term for which it was made, and the Local Government Board sanction such resolution.

Art. 8. If any officer be at any time prevented by sickness or accident, or other sufficient reason, from performing his duties, the sanitary authority may appoint a person qualified as aforesaid to act as his temporary substitute, and may pay him a reasonable compensation for his services ; and it shall not be necessary in any such case that Arts. 1, 2, and 3 of this order shall be complied with, but Arts. 4 and 5 of this order shall apply in every such case.

Tenure of Office.

Art. 9. Every officer shall continue to hold office for such period as the sanitary authority may, with the approval of the Local Government Board, determine, or until he die, or resign, or be removed by such authority with the assent of the Local Government Board, or by the Local Government Board, or be proved to be insane by evidence which that Board shall deem sufficient.

Art. 10. The sanitary authority may at their discretion suspend any officer from the discharge of his duties, and shall, in case of every such suspension, forthwith report the same, together with the cause thereof, to the Local Government Board ; and if the Local Government Board remove the suspension of such officer by the sanitary authority, he shall forthwith resume the performance of his duties.

Art. 11. Where any change in the duties or salary of any officer may be deemed necessary, and he shall decline to acquiesce therein, the sanitary authority may, with the consent of the Local Government Board, but not otherwise, and after six months' notice in writing signed by their clerk, given to such officer, determine his office.

Art. 12. A person shall not be appointed who does not agree to give one month's notice previous to resigning the office, or to forfeit such sum as may be agreed upon as liquidated damages.

Salary.

Art. 13. The sanitary authority shall pay to every officer such salary as may be approved by the Local Government Board.

Provided always, that the sanitary authority, with the approval of the Local Government Board, may pay to any officer a reasonable compensation on account of extraordinary services, or other unforeseen or special circumstances connected with his duties or the necessities of the district.

Art. 14. The salary of every officer shall be payable up to the day on which he ceases to hold the office, and no longer, subject to any deduction which the sanitary authority may be entitled to make in respect of Art. 12 of this order; and in case he shall die whilst holding such office, the proportion of salary (if any) remaining unpaid at his death shall be paid to his personal representatives.

Provided that an officer who may be suspended, and who may, without the previous removal of such suspension, resign or be removed under Article 9 of this order, shall not be entitled to any salary from the date of such suspension.

Art. 15. The salary assigned to every officer shall be payable quarterly, according to the usual feast days in the year, namely, Lady-day, Midsummer-day, Michaelmas-day, and Christmas-day, but the sanitary authority may pay to him at the expiration of every calendar month such proportion as they may think fit, on account of the salary to which he may become entitled at the termination of the quarter.

Art. 16. All salaries shall be considered as accruing from day to day, and be apportionable in respect of time accordingly, in pursuance of the provisions of "The Apportionment Act 1870."

Duties.

Art. 17. The following shall be the duties of the inspector of nuisances in respect of the district for which he is appointed:—

- (1.) He shall perform, either under the special directions of the sanitary authority, or (so far as authorised by the sanitary authority) under the directions of the medical officer of health, or in cases where no such directions are required, without such directions, all the duties specially imposed upon an inspector of nuisances by the Public Health Act 1875, or by the orders of the Local Government Board, so far as the same apply to his office.
- (2.) He shall attend all meetings of the sanitary authority when so required.
- (3.) He shall, by inspection of the district, both systematically at certain periods, and at intervals as occasion may require, keep himself informed in respect of the nuisance existing therein that require abatement under the Public Health Act, 1875.
- (4.) On receiving notice of the existence of any nuisance within the district, or of the breach of any bye-laws or regulations made by the sanitary authority for the suppression of nuisances, he shall, as early as practicable, visit the spot, and inquire into such alleged nuisance or breach of bye-laws or regulations.
- (5.) He shall report to the sanitary authority any noxious or offensive businesses, trades, or manufactories established within the district, and the breach or non-observance of any bye-laws or regulations made in respect of the same.
- (6.) He shall report to the sanitary authority any damage done to any works of water supply or other works belonging to them, and also any case of wilful or negligent waste of water supplied by them, or any fouling by gas, filth, or otherwise, of water used for domestic purposes.
- (7.) He shall from time to time, and forthwith upon complaint, visit and inspect the shops and places kept or used for the sale of butchers' meat, poultry, fish, fruit, vegetables, corn, bread, flour, or milk, or as a slaughter-house, and examine any animal, carcase, meat, poultry, game, flesh, fish, fruit, vegetables, corn, bread, flour, or milk which may be therein; and in case any such article appear to him to be intended for the food of man, and to be unfit for such food, he shall cause the same to be seized, and take such other proceedings as may be necessary in order to have the same dealt with by a justice: Provided that in any case of doubt arising under this clause, he shall report the matter to the medical officer of health, with the view of obtaining his advice thereon.

- (8.) He shall, when and as directed by the sanitary authority, procure and submit samples of food, drink, or drugs suspected to be adulterated, to be analysed by the analyst appointed under "The Sale of Food and Drugs Act, 1875" ⁽¹⁾, and upon receiving a certificate stating that the articles of food, drink, or drugs are adulterated, cause a complaint to be made, and take the other proceedings prescribed by that Act.
 - (9.) He shall give immediate notice to the medical officer of health of the occurrence within the district of any contagious, infectious, or epidemic disease; and whenever it appears to him that the intervention of such officer is necessary in consequence of the existence of any nuisance injurious to health, or of any overcrowding in a house, he shall forthwith inform the medical officer thereof.
 - (10.) He shall, subject to the directions of the sanitary authority, attend to the instructions of the medical officer of health with respect to any measures which can be lawfully taken by an inspector of nuisances under the Public Health Act, 1875, for preventing the spread of any contagious, infectious, or epidemic disease of a dangerous character.
 - (11.) He shall enter from day to day, in a book to be provided by the sanitary authority, particulars of his inspections and of the action taken by him in the execution of his duties. He shall also keep a book or books, to be provided by the sanitary authority, so arranged as to form, as far as possible, a continuous record of the sanitary condition of each of the premises in respect of which any action has been taken under the Public Health Act, 1875, and shall keep any other systematic records that the sanitary authority may require.
 - (12.) He shall at all reasonable times, when applied to by the medical officer of health, produce to him his books, or any of them, and render to him such information as he may be able to furnish with respect to any matter to which the duties of inspector of nuisances relate.
 - (13.) He shall, if directed by the sanitary authority to do so, superintend and see to the due execution of all works which may be undertaken under their direction for the suppression or removal of nuisances within the district.
 - (14.) In matters not specifically provided for in this order, he shall observe and execute all the lawful orders and directions of the sanitary authority, and the orders of the Local Government Board which may be hereafter issued, applicable to his office.
- Given under the seal of office of the Local Government Board, this tenth day of March, in the year one thousand eight hundred and eighty.

GENERAL ORDER (RURAL SANITARY AUTHORITIES).

REGULATIONS AS TO INSPECTORS OF NUISANCES, WHOSE SALARIES ARE PARTLY REPAID OUT OF MONEYS VOTED BY PARLIAMENT.

To the several rural sanitary authorities, for the time being, in England and Wales;—
And to all others whom it may concern.

[The order is similar to that addressed to urban sanitary authorities, ante, p. 1562, with the exception of Arts. 3, 4, 6, 7, and 11, which are given below, and which take the place of Arts. 3, 4, 6, 7, and 11, in the order addressed to urban authorities.]

Inspectors of Nuisances.

Art. 3. An appointment of an inspector of nuisances shall not be made unless notice has been given at one of the two ordinary meetings next preceding the meeting at which the appointment is to be made by the sanitary authority, such notice being duly entered on the minutes, or unless an advertisement specifying the district or districts for which such appointment is to be made, together with the amount of salary proposed to be assigned, and the day fixed for such appointment shall have appeared in some public newspaper circulating in the district of the sanitary authority at least seven days before the day so fixed.

(1) The Act will be found, ante, p. 632.

Art. 4. Every such officer shall be appointed by a majority of the members present at a meeting of the sanitary authority consisting of more than three members, or by three members, if no more be present.

Art. 6. Upon the occurrence of a vacancy in the office of inspector of nuisances, the sanitary authority shall proceed to make a fresh appointment, which shall be reported to the Local Government Board as required by Art. 5 of this order.

Art. 7. If in the case of an officer who may have been appointed for a specified term, the sanitary authority should desire to renew his appointment for a further term or otherwise in conformity with the provisions of this order, and no fresh arrangement should be proposed with respect to the district or districts, or the terms of the appointment, it shall not be necessary for that purpose that Articles 1, 2, and 3 of this order should be complied with, but it shall be sufficient if the sanitary authority, at a meeting held after notice given at one of their two ordinary meetings next preceding such meeting, pass a resolution renewing the appointment accordingly on the expiration of the term for which it was made, and the Local Government Board sanction such resolution.

Art. 11. Where any change in the extent of the district or districts of any officer, or in his duties or salary, may be deemed necessary, and he shall decline to acquiesce therein, the sanitary authority may, with the consent of the Local Government Board, but not otherwise, and after six month's notice in writing, signed by their clerk, given to such officer, determine his office.

Given under the seal of office of the Local Government Board, this thirteenth day of March, in the year one thousand eight hundred and eighty.

LOCAL BOARDS ACCOUNTS ORDER 1880 ⁽¹⁾.

To the local boards, for the time being, of the several Local Government Districts in England and Wales;—

To the district auditors within whose districts the said Local Government Districts are for the time being, respectively included;—

And to all others whom it may concern.

Whereas by section 245 of the Public Health Act, 1875, it is enacted that the accounts of the receipts and expenditure under that Act of every local authority shall be made up in such form and to such day in every year as the Local Government Board may appoint.

And whereas by section 5 of the District Auditors Act, 1879, it is enacted as follows:—

“Where any accounts of the receipts and expenditure of a local authority are subject by law to be audited by a district auditor, the Local Government Board may from time to time by order make, and when made revoke and vary, such regulations as seem to the Board necessary or proper respecting the audit of such accounts, including the form of keeping the accounts of the local authority and their officers, the day or days to which the accounts are to be made up, the time within which they are to be examined by the local authority, the mode in which, if it is so prescribed, they are to be certified by the local authority or any officer of that authority, the mode of publishing the time and place of holding the audit, the persons by whom such accounts are to be produced for audit, and the mode of conducting the audit, and an order under this section shall be deemed to be an order within the meaning of section 98 of the Poor Law Amendment Act, 1834.”

And whereas local boards for Local Government Districts are local authorities within the meaning of the sections above-cited.

Now, therefore, we, the Local Government Board, in pursuance of the powers given to us by the statute in that behalf, hereby order as follows:—

Art. 1. The several regulations in this order contained shall, from and after the twenty-fifth day of March, one thousand eight hundred and eighty, be observed in regard to the accounts of the local board, for the time being, of every Local Government District in England and Wales, and of their officers, and in regard to the audit of such accounts, except in so far as the Local Government Board may from time to time assent to any departure from such regulations.

Closing of Accounts.

Art. 2. All the accounts of the local board and their officers shall be made up and balanced to the twenty-fifth day of March in every year.

Local Board's Accounts.

Art. 3. The clerk or other officer duly authorised by the local board shall enter from time to time at proper dates in the Minute Book of the local board, according to the Form (A.) in the schedule to this order, a statement of all orders drawn on the treasurer and of all moneys paid or received on behalf of the local board, and of all minutes relating to the allocation or division of charges, or any other pecuniary transaction of the local board, and shall insert marginal notes of reference to the respective folios of the ledger in which the items relating to any of such orders, payments, receipts or other pecuniary transactions are entered.

Art. 4. The clerk or other officer duly authorised by the local board shall accurately and punctually enter up and keep the following books and accounts, according to the forms and directions relating to such books and accounts respectively in this order and in the schedule thereto, namely:—

(1.) A ledger, in the Form (B.), in which the items contained in the minute book of the various transactions relating to the receipt or payment of moneys in respect of the district, or of any part thereof, shall be entered and posted up according to their proper dates, under the following heads of subordinate accounts (or as many thereof as may be necessary), and such additional heads as may be or may from time to time become necessary, viz.;

Subordinate Accounts of Public Works :—

- Sewerage.
- Water supply.
- Gas supply.
- Repairs of highways (main roads).
- Repairs of highways (other roads).
- Scavenging.
- Watering.
- Street works and improvements.
- Baths and washhouses.
- Market places.
- Slaughter-houses.
- Pleasure grounds.
- Hospitals.
- Sale of surplus lands.

Subordinate Accounts of Private Works :—

- Drainage.
- Water supply.
- Street works.

Subordinate Accounts of a General Character :—

- Salaries of officers.
- Establishment charges, other than salaries.
- Elections.
- Surveys and plans.
- Legal expenses.
- Compensations.
- Collector's account.
- Surveyor's account.
- Treasurer's account.
- School attendance committee account.
- Invoice account, or tradesmen's account.

And with reference to every loan obtained by the local board, there shall be kept in the ledger, separate accounts under the following heads; so far as the same are applicable to the loan :—

The treasurer, in respect of his receipts and payments on account of the loan.

The lender, in respect of the advance and repayment of the loan, and of the payment of the interest thereon.

The permanent works for which the loan is obtained.

The instalments.

The interest on the loan.

The sinking fund.

At the end of every year, or oftener, if directed by the local board, the expenditure so entered under the foregoing subordinate accounts shall be allocated or divided under the direction of the local board amongst the following chief accounts, or such others as may be deemed necessary, viz:—

District fund account.

General district rate account.

Private improvement rate or expenses account.

Water rate account.

Highway rate account.

At the end of every half year a balance sheet or general balance account shall be duly entered in the ledger.

In connection with the several items in each of the accounts mentioned in No. (1.) of this article, the respective dates of the transactions shall be inserted, together with references to the folios of the minute book in which the entries relating to such transactions are contained, and to the folios of the corresponding debits and credits respectively.

(2.) A highway repairs expenditure account, in the Form (C.), in which shall be entered weekly (or at such other period as the local board may direct), under the four following headings:—

1. Manual labour;
2. Team labour;
3. Materials;
4. Tradesmen's bills and miscellaneous;

the particulars of the payments made for the repairs of the highways, according to the arrangement of the columns under each of those headings, the payments being shown separately as regards main roads and other roads in the columns provided for that purpose.

(3.) An order check book, in the Form (D.) which shall contain all orders given by the local board for stores, or other articles, for repairs, or for work, and counterfoils of such orders, and forms of the invoices to accompany commodities supplied, or to be delivered when work is done. Such orders, when duly signed by the clerk or other officers duly authorised, together with the forms of invoice, shall be detached from the said book, and issued to the tradesmen or other persons dealt with or employed, to be returned and disposed of in the manner directed in the form; and the counterfoils, duly signed, shall be retained in the said book.

Treasurer's Account.

Art. 5. The treasurer of the local board shall keep an account according to the Form (E.) in the said schedule, in which shall be entered punctually and accurately all moneys received and paid by him on behalf of the local board. He shall balance and sign this account quarterly, or at such other times as may be directed by the local board.

Surveyor's Accounts.

Art. 6. The surveyor shall accurately and punctually enter up the following accounts, according to the forms and directions relating to such accounts respectively in this order and in the schedule thereto, namely:

(1.) A wages account in the Form (F.), in which shall be entered the names of the labourers employed by the local board, the days on which, as well as the places at and the work on which they were so employed, the rate of pay, and the amount of wages earned, together with the date of payment.

This account shall also distinguish, as regards repairs of the highways, the amounts in respect of main roads from those in respect of other roads, under the following divisions:—

1. Manual labour.
2. Team labour.
3. Materials.

If the local board deem it more convenient, this form may be kept in separate sheets, instead of in a book, and each sheet may, if the local board so direct, be arranged so as to contain such particulars only as relate to a specific description of work, whether in respect of highways or otherwise.

The surveyor shall, at the time of payment, obtain the signatures of the labourers in the column provided for that purpose, or if any of them are unable to write, they shall affix their marks, which shall be duly attested in acknowledgment of the receipt of the money.

The surveyor shall also sign his name in the place provided for that purpose at the foot of the form.

Provided that where, under the directions of the local board, the wages of the labourers are paid by the clerk or other officer, instead of the surveyor, the above requirements in regard to entering the date of payment and obtaining the labourers' signatures or marks, shall not apply to the surveyor, but shall apply to the clerk or other officer as aforesaid.

(2.) A stores account, in the Form (G.), in which, under separate divisions, according to the directions appended to the form, shall be entered on one side, in order of date, the quantities, prices, and cost of stores received, and on the other side the quantities, prices, and cost of stores expended, as well as the places where and the purposes for which they were expended.

The stores account shall be balanced as required by Art. 2, and at such other times as the local board may direct.

(3.) If the surveyor, under the directions of the local board, receives any money, or makes any payments on their behalf, he shall enter such receipts and payments in a cash account, according to the Form (M.), and use a general receipt check book, according to the Form (L.)

Accounts of Collectors and other Officers.

Art. 7. In the case of every rate which may be levied by the local board, there shall be kept, either in the same book with the rate, or in a separate book, a rate collection account, which account shall be in the Form (H.) in the schedule to this order, or in a form to the like effect, and shall be accurately and punctually entered up every week by the collector, in accordance with the directions appended to the said form, and shall be duly signed by him when balanced.

Provided that where the said rate collection account is kept in the same book as the rate, the columns headed "Number of Assessment" and "Amount of rate at in the Pound" may be omitted from the form.

Provided also, that if the local board deem it advisable that the rate collection account should be kept by their clerk, such account may be kept and signed by the clerk accordingly, instead of by the collector.

The rate collection account shall be balanced as required by Art. 2, and if the rate to which it relates is closed at any other time than the 25th day of March, then also at such closing of the rate.

Art. 8. The collector shall keep a collecting and deposit account, in the Form (I.), in which shall be entered accurately, and under their true dates, all sums received by him as such collector or paid over by him to the treasurer of the local board.

Art. 9. The collector shall, in the collection of every rate, use a rate receipt check book, in the Form (K.) in the said schedule, or in such other form as the local board may direct, applicable to one or to several rates as they may think fit. The receipts and counterfoils in this book shall be numbered consecutively according to the numbers or assessments in the rate book.

When the amount of the rate shall be received from any person assessed, the receipt applicable to such person's assessment shall, at that time and not before, be signed by the collector and detached from the rate receipt check book, and shall be delivered, stamped with an adhesive stamp, where the amount of the payment shall render such stamp necessary, to the person making the payment, and the counterfoil, duly filled up, shall be retained in the book. In the receipt so delivered, and in the counterfoil so retained, the true date of the payment shall be inserted.

If upon the closing of any rate not fully collected there shall remain in the rate receipt check book any receipts made out for such rate unused, the collector shall enter upon each of such receipts the reason for not using it, and date and sign such entry.

Art. 10. Whenever money is received by the collector otherwise than in respect of rates, or by the clerk or other officer, on behalf of the local board, he shall duly fill up one of the receipts and counterfoils in the general receipt check book, Form (L.), and shall deliver the receipt (stamped with an adhesive stamp where the amount of the payment shall render such stamp necessary) to the person making the payment, and shall retain the counterfoil in the book. Such receipts and counterfoils shall bear corresponding numbers in consecutive order.

Art. 11. If the clerk, or any other officer except the treasurer and collector, shall, under the directions of the local board, receive or pay moneys on their behalf, he shall keep a cash account according to the Form (M.) in the schedule to this order, and such account shall be balanced at such times as the local board may direct.

Audit.

Art. 12. The district auditor shall audit the accounts of the local board and their officers once in every year, that is to say, as soon as may be after the twenty-fifth day of March. Provided always, that if the district auditor shall be required by the Local Government Board to hold an extraordinary audit, either of the whole or of any portion of the accounts, in addition to the ordinary audit, all the provisions herein contained with reference to the ordinary audit shall, so far as they may be applicable, apply to such extraordinary audit.

Art. 13. The clerk and the other officers of the local board who by law are liable to account to the district auditor shall attend at the time and place appointed by him for the audit of their accounts, and shall submit to him all books and accounts which they are respectively required to keep by this or any other order of the Local Government Board, or by the local board, together with all documents and vouchers containing or relating to such books or accounts; and the same shall at the time of the audit be open to the inspection of any owner of property or ratepayer interested in such accounts, but to such extent and in such manner only as will not, in the judgment of the said district auditor, interfere with the audit.

Art. 14. In auditing the accounts, the district auditor shall see that they have been kept and are presented in proper form, that the particular items of receipt and expenditure are stated in sufficient detail, and that the payments are supported by adequate vouchers and authority. He shall ascertain whether all sums received, or which ought to have been received, are brought into account, and shall examine whether the expenditure is in all cases such as might lawfully be made. He shall also reduce such payments and charges as are exorbitant; shall surcharge moneys not duly accounted for, or lost by negligence, upon the person who ought to account for the same, or whose negligence or improper conduct has caused the loss; and shall disallow and strike out such payments as are not authorised by law.

Art. 15. When the district auditor disallows any payment or surcharges any sum upon any person he shall declare the ground of his decision, and offer to state such ground in writing, if required by the person aggrieved to do so, in the proper book of account forthwith, or as soon as the arrangements for the business of his audit will permit, and shall report such disallowance or surcharge to the Local Government Board.

Art. 16. The district auditor shall examine and collate the several books and papers of account; and shall ascertain that the several entries correspond with and balance each other where such balance may be required; but in case of any error caused by inadvertence or accident in any account he may require the officer rendering it to correct the same, and the officer shall make the necessary correction, and the district auditor shall then deal with the account so corrected. But if the officer shall refuse to do so, the district auditor shall himself make the correction and report the circumstances of the case to the Local Government Board.

Art. 17. The district auditor shall compute the several accounts so as to verify the arithmetical accuracy thereof, and the balance due to or from the officers rendering the same at the time to which the audit relates; and he shall state the balance in words at length and certify the same by his signature or initials, and add the date of the audit; and when he certifies any sum or other matter to be due he shall, as far as practicable, enter his certificate and his reasons for the same (when they are required) in some part of the book of account which shall be free from other writing.

Art. 18. The district auditor shall receive any objection made by a ratepayer, or any person aggrieved, against the accounts undergoing audit, or any item or charge therein, or any voucher or authority for the same; and shall examine into the merits of such objection, and make decision respecting the same, stating the grounds thereof, and offering to enter the same in the book of account then being examined, if required to do so, as in the case of a disallowance or surcharge.

Art. 19. If the district auditor shall doubt the correctness of any account, or any item or charge in any account, he shall require the officer rendering the account, or any other person holding or accountable for any money, books, deeds, or chattels, relating to the Local Government District, to appear before him, and shall call upon such person to produce any account, books, or papers which he may lawfully require; and he shall examine such officer or person may then appear, and such accounts, books, and papers as may be produced before him respecting such account, item, or charge.

Art. 20. If the district auditor find that any money, goods, or chattels belonging to the local board have been purloined, embezzled, wasted, or mis-applied, or that any deficiency or loss has been incurred by the negligence or misconduct of any officer or other person accounting, and shall surcharge such officer or person with such amount or value in his account, he shall submit a statement of such surcharge to the local board as soon as he conveniently can do so.

Art. 21. The personal representatives of an officer accountable under this order, dying before the audit of his accounts, shall, so far as they may be by law required, account in conformity with the provisions herein contained in the place of such deceased officer, and all regulations affecting the accounts of such officer shall, so far as may be otherwise lawful, affect the accounts of his personal representatives.

Art. 22. The district auditor having audited the several accounts in the ledger, shall sign a certificate at the foot of the balance sheet therein, to the following effect:—

“I have examined the several accounts of which the foregoing is the balance sheet, and I have compared the several payments credited to the treasurer with the vouchers, and I hereby certify that the entries appear to be correct and legal. And that [when the balance in the account kept by the treasurer does not agree with the balance in the ledger], subject to the explanation below [the difference to be explained at the foot of the certificate], the balance of the treasurer's account herein, viz., £ , agrees with the balance which by his own account appears to have been in his hands at the time of closing such account.

“Dated—————(Signed)————— District Auditor.”

And in the other books the district auditor shall enter a certificate of his having audited the same, and sign and date the same.

Art. 23. The district auditor shall, at the close of each audit, transmit to the Local Government Board a statement in the Form (R.) in the said schedule, showing which of the books and accounts directed by this order to be kept is not kept, or is imperfectly kept, or kept in a form different from that prescribed by the Local Government Board.

Financial Statement.

Art. 24. The financial statement required to be prepared and submitted to the district auditor in duplicate by the local board, in accordance with the provisions of section 3 of “The District Auditors Act, 1879,” shall be in the Form (O.) in the schedule to this order, and shall contain the particulars therein specified or referred to; and the certificate of the district auditor to be appended to each such duplicate shall be in the form set forth at the foot of the said statement.

Interpretation of Terms.

Art. 25. In this order and in the forms set forth in the schedule thereto, the term—

“Clerk” means the clerk to the local board.

“District auditor” means the auditor for the time being in whose district the Local Government District is included.

“Rate,” unless otherwise expressed, means any rate or assessment which may be made by the local board under the provisions of “The Public Health Act, 1875.”

“Surveyor” means a surveyor appointed by the local board under the provisions of section 189 of “The Public Health Act, 1875”⁽¹⁾, and includes an assistant surveyor, where such an assistant is appointed under those provisions, and where he may be required by the local board to perform any of the duties herein prescribed.

“Main roads” means roads so constituted under “The Highways and Locomotives (Amendment) Act, 1878”⁽²⁾.

“Manual labour” means manual labour employed in the actual execution of repairs, as distinct from such labour employed in obtaining, delivering, or preparing materials for repairs, and includes contract work for repairs, where such repairs are let by contract, and where the contract is not made exclusively for the purposes hereinafter described under either of the heads of “team labour” or “materials.”

"Team labour" means labour of that kind employed in the collection, delivery, or distribution of materials for the purpose of executing repairs, and includes such labour employed under any contract entered into for those purposes exclusively.

“Materials” means stone or other materials for repairs, and includes the cost of purchasing, getting, carrying, or preparing such materials, and of delivering the same other than by means of team labour. It also includes any such cost incurred under any contract entered into for those purposes exclusively, as well as damage to land in getting materials for the purpose of repairs, and royalty or rent of pits or quarries for that purpose.

“Tradesmen’s bills” includes the cost of tools, implements, and other stock supplied by tradesmen for repairs and not hereinbefore included in the term “materials,” and the cost incurred in repairs of drains, bridges, and fences executed by tradesmen ; and when used in connection with “main roads” means tradesmen’s bills for repairs incurred for main roads exclusively.

Given under the seal of office of the Local Government Board, this twenty-second day of March, in the year one thousand eight hundred and eighty.

Date 18 .

Against the name of any Book or Account contained in this Statement which is not kept at all, or is imperfectly kept, the District Auditor is to write in the former case "not kept," and in the latter "imperfectly." In case of any Book or Account being imperfectly kept, the general nature of the imperfection is to be set forth on the other side, together with such observations as the District Auditor considers requisite. Where there is no defect, the District Auditor should state the fact. And where any officer has in any respect disobeyed, neglected, or departed from any of the regulations of this Order applicable to his office, the District Auditor should report the facts on the other side.

GENERAL ORDER FOR ACCOUNTS.

BOARDS FOR REPAIR OF THE HIGHWAYS.

(5 & 6 Will. IV. c. 50, s. 18.)

To the boards for repair of the highways (for the time being) formed under section 18 of "The Highway Act, 1835";—

To the district auditors within whose districts the districts for which the said boards act are, for the time being, respectively included;—

And to all others whom it may concern.

Whereas by section 9 of "The Highways and Locomotives (Amendment) Act, 1878," it is enacted that the accounts of the highway authority of every highway district and highway parish shall be made up in such form as the Local Government Board shall from time to time prescribe, and shall be balanced to the twenty-fifth day of March in each year;—

And whereas by section 5 of "The District Auditors Act, 1879," it is enacted as follows:—

"Where any accounts of the receipts and expenditure of a local authority are subject by law to be audited by a district auditor, the Local Government Board may from time to time by order make, and when made revoke and vary, such regulations as seem to the Board necessary or proper respecting the audit of such accounts, including the form of keeping the accounts of the local authority and their officers, the day or days to which the accounts are to be made up, the time within which they are to be examined by the local authority, the mode in which, if it is so prescribed, they are to be certified by the local authority or any officer of that authority, the mode of publishing the time and place of holding the audit, the persons by whom such accounts are to be produced for audit, and the mode of conducting the audit, and an order under this section shall be deemed to be an order within the meaning of section 98 of the Poor Law Amendment Act, 1834."

Now therefore, we, the Local Government Board, hereby order as follows:—

Art. 1.—The several regulations in this Order shall, subject to the provision contained in Art. 11 with respect to the financial statement for the year ended the 25th day of March, 1880, be observed from and after the 29th day of September, 1880, in regard to the accounts of every board for repair of the highways (for the time being) formed under section 18 of "The Highway Act, 1835," and of the officers of such board, and to the audit of such accounts, except in so far as the Local Government Board may from time to time assent to any departure from such regulations.

Accounts to be kept by the Clerk.

Art. 2.—The clerk shall enter from time to time at proper dates in the minute book of the board a statement of the books and accounts inspected and examined by him, and of all orders drawn on the treasurer, and of all moneys paid or received, and of all minutes relating to the allocation or division of charges, or any other pecuniary transaction of the board, and shall insert marginal notes of reference to the folios of the ledger in which the items relating to any of such orders, payments, receipts, or other pecuniary transactions are entered.

Art. 3.—The clerk shall also punctually enter up and accurately keep the following books and accounts, according to the forms and directions relating to such books and accounts respectively in this Order and in the schedule thereto, namely:—

- (1.) A ledger, Form (A.), in which the items contained in the minute book of the various transactions relating to the receipt or payment of moneys by the board, and the receipt and disposal of goods or materials, or the execution of works, or performance of services, on their behalf, shall be entered and posted up according to their proper dates under the following heads of account (or as many thereof as may be requisite), and such additional heads as may be or may from time to time become necessary:—

Assistant surveyor's cash account.
 Manual labour account.
 Team labour account.
 Materials account.
 Tradesmen's bills account.
 Law charges account.
 Salaries account.
 Clerk's petty cash account.
 Main roads account.
 County authority's account.
 Treasurer's account.
 General balance account.

And in connection with the several items in each of the said accounts, the respective dates of the transactions shall be inserted, together with references to the folios of the minute book in which the entries relating to such transactions are contained, and to the folios of the corresponding credits and debits respectively.

- (2.) An order check book, in the Form (B.), which shall contain all orders given by the board for stores or other articles or for work, and counterfoils of such orders, and forms of the invoices to accompany commodities supplied, or to be delivered when work is done. Such orders, when signed by the clerk, together with the forms of invoice, shall be detached from the said book, and issued to the tradesmen or other persons dealt with or employed, to be returned and disposed of in the manner described thereon; and the counterfoils, certified by the clerk's initials, shall be retained in the said book.
- (3.) A petty cash book, in which shall be entered promptly, and in order of date, an account of the sums received and paid by the clerk for petty disbursements, which account shall be balanced quarterly, and laid before the board at their ordinary meetings.

Treasurer's Account.

Art. 4.—The treasurer of the board shall keep an account according to the Form (C.) in the said schedule, in which shall be entered punctually and accurately all moneys received and paid by him on account of the board. He shall balance and sign this account quarterly, and shall cause the book to be laid before the board when required by them.

Assistant Surveyor's Accounts.

Art. 5.—The assistant surveyor shall punctually enter up and accurately keep the following books and accounts, according to the forms and directions relating to such books and accounts respectively in this Order and in the schedule thereto, namely:—

- (1.) A cash book, Form (D.), in which shall be entered in order of date under the several headings indicated in the form, all sums received^a or paid by him on behalf of the board (excepting those entered in his petty cash book, which may be transferred in gross sums), with the date of receipt or payment, and a reference as regards items of expenditure to the folios of the wages book or contract book in which the detailed particulars are entered: and as regards "tradesmen's bills and miscellaneous" expenses of repairs, a reference to the number of the invoice in each case. This book shall be balanced at the end of each quarter, and at such other times as the board may direct.
- (2.) A contract book, Form (E.), the pages of which shall be arranged so as to form divisions under the two following headings, viz.,
 1. Team labour,
 2. Materials,

and under those several headings the particulars of the work performed under contract, as well as the amounts payable in respect thereof, and the payments (if any) made to contractors by the assistant surveyor, shall be entered from time to time according to the arrangement of the columns in each division, the particulars as respects main roads and parish highways being shown separately in the columns provided for that purpose. The date of payment and the folio of the cash book to which the payments are transferred shall also be inserted in connection with each entry.

There shall also be entered under the heading of "materials" the particulars indicated in the form as to materials supplied by contractors.

The sums entered under each of the two headings above named in the columns headed "amounts payable under contract," shall be cast up at the foot of each page, and the totals, as brought forward, cast up at the end of each quarter.

- (3.) A wages book, Form (F.), in which shall be entered the names of the labourers employed and paid by the assistant surveyor, the days on and places at which they were so employed, the rate of pay and the amount of wages earned, together with the date of payment and a reference to the folio in the cash book to which the payments are transferred.

The assistant surveyor, or other person making the payments on his behalf, shall, at the time of payment, obtain the signatures of the labourers in the column provided for that purpose, or if any of them are unable to write, their marks shall be affixed, attested by the initials of the assistant surveyor or of such other person.

- (4.) A receipt check book, Form (G.), containing receipts and counterfoils in the form prescribed, each receipt and counterfoil bearing a corresponding number, and the numbers being printed thereon in consecutive order. Whenever money is received by the assistant surveyor from any other source than the board, he shall duly fill up one of the receipts and counterfoils, and shall deliver the receipt (stamped with an adhesive stamp where the amount of the payment shall render such stamp necessary) to the person making the payment, and shall retain the counterfoil in the book.
- (5.) A stock and stores account, in the Form (H.), in which the assistant surveyor shall keep an account of all materials, tools, or other articles intrusted to his charge, and shall show how the same shall have been disposed of and what remains in store. This book shall be balanced yearly and laid before the board from time to time as required by them.
- (6.) A petty cash book, in which shall be entered promptly and in order of date, an account of the sums received and paid by the assistant surveyor for petty disbursements, which account shall be balanced quarterly, and laid before the board at their ordinary meetings.

Accounts of Collectors or other Officers in reference to Highway Rates.

Art. 6.—The clerk, or other officer directed by the board to do so, shall punctually enter up and accurately keep in the rate book a rate collection account, in the Form (I.) in the schedule to this Order.

Such account shall be duly signed by the clerk or other officer before the book is presented to the district auditor.

Art. 7.—Every collector shall use a rate receipt check book, in the Form (K.) in the said schedule.

The receipts and counterfoils in this book shall be numbered consecutively with numbers corresponding with those in the rate book, and demand notes shall be printed in the rate receipt check book, in the form prescribed in the said schedule, and such demand notes shall be signed by the collector, and numbered so as to correspond with the numbers of the respective receipts.

When the amount of the rate shall be received from any person assessed, the receipt applicable to such person's assessment shall, at that time and not before, be signed by the collector and detached from the rate receipt check book, and shall be delivered, stamped with an adhesive stamp where the amount of the payment shall render such stamp necessary, to the person making the payment, and the counterfoil shall be retained in the book.

In the receipt so delivered and in the counterfoil so retained, the true date of the payment shall be inserted.

If upon the closing of any rate not collected, there shall remain in the rate receipt check book any receipts made out for such rate unused, the collector shall enter upon each of such receipts the reason for not using it, and date and sign such entry.

The collector, before he shall proceed to issue demand notes or to collect any rate, shall prepare demand notes and receipts in one book, or in several, if so directed by the board, in the aforesaid Form (K.), such demand notes, as well as the receipts and the counterfoils thereof, being numbered with consecutive numbers corresponding with those in the rate book, and properly fill in the same respectively with the names of the several ratepayers, and the sum to be collected from each. He shall then submit every such rate receipt check book, so numbered and filled up, to the clerk or other officer referred to in Art. 6, before he proceeds to collect the rate; and the clerk or such other officer shall cause the correctness of the numbering, and the correspondence of the sums, and of the names filled in, with the rate book to which they relate, to be ascertained, and on the leaf next after the last of the receipts so made out in respect of any one rate the clerk or other officer as aforesaid shall certify the fact that such rate receipt check book has been examined and ascertained to be correct, and shall state in words at length the number of receipts filled up for the rate then to be collected, which certificate shall be in the form set forth in the said schedule, and shall be signed by the clerk or other officer as aforesaid, and correctly dated.

Art. 8.—If, in the opinion of the board, the circumstances of the parish render it expedient, the receipts (and corresponding counterfoils) in the rate receipt check book, instead of being prepared before the collection of the rate and numbered consecutively according to the rate book, may each of them be filled up at the time when the payment of the assessment to which it relates is actually made, the numbers being printed beforehand on the receipts and counterfoils in consecutive order.

Provided that in such cases :

- (1.) Whenever the collector receives the rate, he shall insert in the receipt given and in the counterfoil retained the number (or numbers) in the rate book of the assessment or assessments to which they relate.
- (2.) Where more than one rate receipt check book is required for one rate, the printed consecutive numbers shall run on without interruption throughout all the receipt check books used for such rate.
- (3.) When a new rate is made, all the unused receipts for the former rate shall, where the rate receipt check book is used by the collector, be delivered by him to the clerk.
- (4.) The demand notes shall form a separate book, still bearing the same numbers as those in the rate book.

Art. 9.—Every collector shall keep a book, to be called the collecting and deposit book, in the Form (L.) in the said schedule, in which shall be entered accurately, and under their true dates, all sums received and deposited with the treasurer by him as such collector, and also the number of every receipt given by him as such collector out of the rate receipt check book, and he shall balance such book at such times as may be directed by the board.

Closing and Examination of Accounts.

Art. 10.—All the accounts of the board and their officers shall be made up and balanced to the twenty-fifth day of March in every year, and shall be submitted to the board at their first meeting after that day.

Financial Statement.

Art. 11.—The financial statement required to be prepared and submitted to the district auditor in duplicate by the board as a local authority under section 3 of "The District Auditors Act, 1879," shall, as regards the year ended the 25th day of March, 1880, and all subsequent years, be in the Form (M.) in the schedule to this Order, and shall contain the particulars therein set forth; and the certificate of the district auditor to be appended to each such duplicate shall be in the terms set forth at the foot of the said form.

Notice of Audit: Production of Books.

Art. 12.—The district auditor shall audit the accounts of the board and their officers once in every year, that is to say, as soon as may be after the twenty-fifth day of March. Provided always, that if the district auditor shall be required by the Local Government Board to hold an extraordinary audit, either of the whole or of any portion of the accounts, in addition to the ordinary audit, all the provisions herein contained, with reference to the ordinary audit, shall, so far as they may be applicable, apply to such extraordinary audit.

Art. 13.—The district auditor, in respect of every ordinary audit, shall give the clerk, the treasurer, and the assistant surveyor fourteen days' notice in writing of the time and place on and at which he intends to commence the audit of the accounts.

Art. 14.—The clerk and the other officers of the board who by law are liable to account to the district auditor shall attend at the time and place appointed by him for the audit of their accounts, and shall submit to him all books, documents, and vouchers containing or relating to their accounts; and the same shall at the time of the audit be open to the inspection of any owner of property or ratepayer having an interest in such accounts, but to such extent and in such manner only as will not, in the judgment of the district auditor, interfere with the audit.

Mode of Audit.

Art. 15.—In auditing the accounts, the district auditor shall see that they have been kept and are presented in proper form, that the particular items of receipt and expenditure are stated in sufficient detail, and that the payments are supported by adequate vouchers and authority. He shall ascertain whether all sums received, or which ought to have been received, are brought into account, and shall examine whether the expenditure is in all cases such as might lawfully be made. He shall also reduce such payments and charges as are exorbitant; shall surcharge moneys not duly accounted for, or lost by negligence, upon the person who ought to account for the same, or whose negligence or improper conduct has caused the loss; and shall disallow and strike out such payments as are not authorised by law.

Art. 16.—When the district auditor disallows any payment or surcharges any sum upon any person he shall declare the ground of his decision, and offer to state such ground in writing, if required by the person aggrieved to do so, in the proper book of account forthwith, or as soon as the arrangements for the business of his audit will permit, and shall report such disallowance or surcharge to the Local Government Board.

Art. 17.—The district auditor shall examine and collate the several books and papers of account: and shall ascertain that the several entries correspond with and balance each other, where such balance may be required; but in case of any error caused by inadvertence or accident in any account he may require the officer rendering it to correct the same, and the officer shall make the necessary correction, and the district auditor shall then deal with the account so corrected. But if the officer shall refuse to do so, the district auditor shall himself make the correction, and report the circumstances of the case to the Local Government Board.

Art. 18.—The district auditor shall compute the several accounts so as to verify the arithmetical accuracy thereof, and the balance due to or from the officers rendering the same at the time to which the audit relates; and he shall state the balance in words at length, and certify the same by his signature or initials, and add the date of the audit; and when he certifies any sum or other matter to be due he shall, as far as practicable, enter his certificate and his reasons for the same (when they are required) in some part of the book of account which shall be free from other writing.

Art. 19.—The district auditor shall receive any objection made by a ratepayer, or any person aggrieved, against the accounts undergoing audit, or any item or charge therein, or any vouchers or authority for the same; and shall examine into the merits of such objection, and make a decision respecting the same, stating the grounds thereof, and offering to enter the same in the book of account then being examined, if required to do so, as in the case of a disallowance or surcharge.

Art. 20.—If he shall doubt the correctness of any account, or any item or charge in any account, he shall require the officer rendering the account, or any other person holding or accountable for any money, books, deeds, or chattels relating to the parish or the board to appear before him, and shall call upon such person to produce any accounts, books, or papers which he may lawfully require; and he shall examine such officer or person as may then appear, and such accounts, books, and papers as may be produced before him, respecting such account, item, or charge.

Art. 21.—If the district auditor find that any money, goods, or chattels belonging to the board have been purloined, embezzled, wasted, or misapplied, or that any deficiency or loss has been incurred by the negligence or misconduct of any officer or other person accounting, and shall surcharge such officer or person with such amount or value in his account, he shall submit a statement of such surcharge to the board as soon as he conveniently can do so.

Art. 22.—In the case of an officer accountable under this Order dying before the audit of his accounts, his personal representatives shall, so far as they may be by law required, account, in conformity with the provisions herein contained, in the place of such deceased officer, and all regulations affecting the accounts of such officer shall, so far as may be otherwise lawful, affect the accounts of his personal representatives.

Art. 23.—The district auditor shall, at the close of each audit, transmit to the Local Government Board a statement in the Form (N.) in the said schedule, showing which of the books directed by this Order to be kept is not kept, or is imperfectly kept, or kept in a form different from that prescribed by the Local Government Board.

INTERPRETATION OF TERMS.

Art. 24.—In this Order and in the forms set forth in the schedule thereto, —

“Board” means the board for repair of the highways.

“Clerk” means the clerk to the board.

“Collector” means a collector of highway rates duly appointed under the statutes in that behalf.

“Main roads” means roads so constituted under “The Highways and Locomotives (Amendment) Act, 1878.”

"Manual labour" means manual labour employed in the actual execution of repairs, as distinct from such labour employed in obtaining, delivering, or preparing materials for repairs.

"Team labour" means labour of that kind employed in the collection, delivery, or distribution of materials for the purpose of executing repairs, and includes such labour employed under any contract entered into for those purposes exclusively.

"Materials" means stone or other materials for repairs, and includes the cost of purchasing, getting, carrying, or preparing such materials, and of delivering the same other than by means of team labour. It also includes any such cost incurred under any contract entered into for those purposes exclusively, as well as damage to land in getting materials for the purpose of repairs, and royalty or rent of pits or quarries for that purpose.

"Tradesmen's bills" includes the cost of tools, implements, and other stock supplied by tradesmen for repairs, and not hereinbefore included in the term "materials," and the cost incurred in repairs of drains, bridges, and fences, executed by tradesmen; and when used in connection with "main roads" means tradesmen's bills for repairs incurred for main roads exclusively.

Given under the Seal of Office of the Local Government Board, this thirteenth day of September, in the year one thousand eight hundred and eighty.

FORMS TO BE APPENDED TO ANNUAL REPORTS OF MEDICAL OFFICERS OF HEALTH.

Local Government Board, Whitehall, S. W., 16th December, 1880.

SIR,

I am directed by the Local Government Board to forward to you, herewith, copies of forms to be appended to the annual reports for 1880, required to be made by medical officers of health; and I am to request that three copies of each form may be sent without delay to the medical officer of health for the urban sanitary district.

The Board attach much importance to the annual reports of medical officers of health. If carefully made, in accordance with the official instructions, these reports will afford valuable information and assistance both to the sanitary authority and to the Board. It is also important that they should be made within a reasonable time from the close of the year to which they relate, and the Board rely upon receiving, within the time specified in the instructions, the copies which are to be transmitted to them.

I am, &c. .

JOHN LAMBERT,
Secretary.

NOTES ON TABLE (A.)

NOTE.—1. Medical officers of health of “combined districts” must make a separate return for the district of each sanitary authority.

2. Medical officers of health acting for the whole district of a sanitary authority should strike out the words [Division of the] in the heading of the Table.

3. Medical officers of health acting for a portion only of the district of a sanitary authority should write, in the heading of the Table, the number or other designation of the division for which they act.

4. The words “urban” or “rural” must be inserted in the appropriate space in the heading, according as the sanitary authority for the district is urban or rural.

5. The “localities” adopted for the purpose of these statistics should be areas of known population; such as parishes, groups of parishes, townships or wards.

As stated in the heading of column 1, public institutions should be regarded as separate localities, and the deaths in them should be separately recorded. Workhouses, hospitals, infirmaries, asylums, and other establishments into which numbers of people, and especially of sick people, are received, are public institutions for the purpose of these statistics.

6. The deaths which have to be classified in this Table, and summed-up in the horizontal line of “totals,” are the whole of those registered as having actually occurred in the several localities comprised within the division or district. But the registered number of deaths frequently requires correction before it can give an exact view of the mortality of a division or district; and the two lowest horizontal lines are provided for the purpose of enabling medical officers of health to indicate, to the best of their ability, what the extent of such corrections should be. Details concerning the corrective figures, e.g., the institutions that have been considered, or the particular localities to which the corrections apply, may appear in the text of the report or in supplementary tables.

7. The annexed Schedule should be filled up, and the return be signed by the medical officer of health.

The Officer of Health making this report is desirous to state below the number of persons belonging to this division or district who have during the year newly come under treatment for ALL KINDS of disease and injury, and of whose cases he has had information.

* This refers to cases of sickness not included in the previous classes, if the Medical Officer of Health has information of such cases from other sources.

* This refers to cases of sickness not included in the previous classes, if the Medical Officer of Health has information of such cases from other sources.

NOTES ON TABLE (B.)

NOTE.—1. Medical officers of health of “combined districts” must make a separate return for the district of each sanitary authority.

2. Medical officers of health acting for the whole district of a sanitary authority should strike out the words [Division of the] in the heading of the Table..

3. Medical officers of health acting for a portion only of the district of a sanitary authority should write, in the heading of the Table, the number or other designation of the division for which they act.

4. The words “urban” or “rural” must be inserted in the appropriate space in the heading, according as the sanitary authority for the district is urban or rural.

5. The present Table (B.) is concerned solely with the new cases of sickness that have come to the knowledge of the medical officer of health. It will have reference exclusively to persons belonging to the sanitary division or district to which the Table relates. The figures in the left hand portion of the Table will show the chief sources of information, necessarily varying in various sanitary districts, of which the medical officer of health has availed himself.

6. The “localities” adopted for the purposes of Table (B.) should be the same as those adopted in Table (A.), and new cases taken for treatment into any public institution should be distributed among the localities from which they were taken. Hence workhouses, hospitals, and the like will not appear in this Table, as in Table (A.), except in the case of sickness originating or spreading within the workhouse or hospital; or in the case of sickness among inmates whose previous residence cannot be ascertained. The right hand portion of the Table is now identical in form with that of Table (A.), and to facilitate reference from one Table to the other, the headings of the several columns are numbered from 12 to 28, as in Table (A.)

7. In filling the Schedule care must be taken to avoid (so far as is practicable) counting the same case of sickness twice over, e.g., once when attended at the patient's own house, and again when removed to a public institution.

In recording the facts under the various headings, attention has been given to the foregoing points.

ANNUAL REPORTS OF MEDICAL OFFICERS OF HEALTH.

Local Government Board, Whitehall, S. W.,

16th December, 1880.

SIR,

I am directed by the Local Government Board to call your attention to Section III., Article 12, of their General Order of the 25th September, 1878 ⁽¹⁾, under which it is the duty of the medical officer of health to make to the port sanitary authority an annual report to the 31st of December in each year, giving information as to the sickness and mortality on ship-board in the district, and an account of the proceedings which have been taken by him, or which he has advised, during the year, under the Public Health Act.

I am further to point out that, under Article 13 ⁽¹⁾ of the Order, it is also the duty of the medical officer of health to send a copy of such report to the Local Government Board; and I am to request that the medical officer of health may be directed to forward to the Board a copy of his report for the year 1880, within six weeks from the close of the year.

I am, &c.

JOHN LAMBERT,

Secretary.

HIGHWAY PARISHES.

GENERAL ORDER FOR ACCOUNTS.

To the surveyors of highways, for the time being, of the several highway parishes not in highway districts;—

To the collectors of highway rates, for the time being, of the said highway parishes, respectively;—

To the several district auditors authorised, for the time being, to audit the accounts of the said surveyors and collectors, respectively;—

And to all others whom it may concern.

Whereas by section 9 of "The Highways and Locomotives (Amendment) Act, 1878," it is enacted that the accounts of the highway authority of every highway district and highway parish shall be made up in such form as the Local Government Board shall from time to time prescribe, and shall be balanced to the twenty-fifth day of March in each year :

And whereas by section 5 of "The District Auditors Act, 1879," it is enacted as follows :—

"Where any accounts of the receipts and expenditure of a local authority are subject by law to be audited by a district auditor, the Local Government Board may from time to time by order make, and when made revoke and vary, such regulations as seem to the Board necessary or proper respecting the audit of such accounts, including the form of keeping the accounts of the local authority and their officers, the day or days to which the accounts are to be made up, the time within which they are to be examined by the local authority, the mode in which, if it is so prescribed, they are to be certified by the local authority or any officer of that authority, the mode of publishing the time and place of holding the audit, the persons by whom such accounts are to be produced for audit, and the mode of conducting the audit, and an order under this section shall be deemed to be an order within the meaning of section ninety-eight of the Poor Law Amendment Act, 1834."

And whereas in pursuance of the above-recited enactments the Local Government Board, by an Order dated the 26th day of May, 1879, prescribed regulations with respect to the mode of keeping and auditing the accounts of the surveyors of highways of the several highway parishes not included in highway districts, and of the collectors of highway rates in those parishes ;

And whereas it is expedient that the said Order should be rescinded to the extent hereinafter specified, and that other regulations should be substituted for those contained in that Order :

Now therefore, We, the Local Government Board, hereby order as follows :—

Art. 1.—The said Order dated the 26th day of May, 1879, is hereby rescinded.

Provided as follows :—

1. The financial statement for the year ended the 25th day of March, 1881, shall be in the form prescribed by the said Order.
2. In any highway parish where the surveyor may think fit, the accounts of such surveyor, or of the collector, for the year ending the 25th day of March, 1882, may be kept in the forms prescribed by the said Order, dated the 26th day of May, 1879, and in such case the provisions of that Order shall apply till the termination of that year, and the financial statement for the year shall be in the form prescribed by such Order.
3. Where the form of any book or account prescribed by this Order differs from that prescribed for such book or account by the Order rescinded as above, the form now in use may forthwith be altered and adapted as nearly as may be to the form herein prescribed for such book or account.

Art. 2.—Subject to the provisos to Article 1 of this Order, the following regulations shall henceforth be observed in regard to the accounts of the surveyor of every highway parish not included in any highway district, such surveyor being a highway authority within the terms of the section last above recited, as well as to such accounts as may be kept by collectors of highway rates, for the time being, in such parishes respectively, and to the audit of such accounts, except in so far as the Local Government Board may from time to time assent to any departure from such regulations.

Art. 3.—The surveyor shall punctually enter up and accurately keep a rate book and rate collection account, in the Form (A.) in the schedule to this Order.

In the portion of the said form headed "rate book" shall be inserted the particulars indicated by the headings of the several columns numbered from 1 to 5, both inclusive, and before any rate is presented to the justices for allowance, the surveyor shall sign a declaration, in words at length, of the total amount of the rate so presented for allowance, according to the form of declaration set forth in the said Form (A.), or to the like effect.

If the surveyor shall deem it convenient, the rate may be divided into several portions corresponding with the several divisions of the parish, if any, so as to bring all the rateable property of each division together, and there may be separate series of numbers for the assessments in every division; and he may in like manner bring together in the rate separate classes of rateable property.

The several columns of the rate book and rate collection account which contain the annual value, the rate in the pound assessed, the recoverable arrears, and the total amount to be collected, shall be added up at the foot of every page, and the several totals shall be ascertained and set forth at the foot of the rate, before any sum of money in respect of the said rate is collected.

Where there is a collector, the portion of the said Form (A.) headed "rate collection account" shall, if the surveyor so direct, be entered up by such collector instead of by the surveyor; and the collector shall also enter in the other portion of the said form all such particulars of every assessment as he shall be directed by the surveyor to enter therein.

The portion of the said Form (A.) headed "rate collection account" shall, whether it be entered up by the surveyor or by the collector, be signed by the surveyor before the book is presented to the district auditor.

Art. 4.—In every case where there is no collector, the following regulations numbered (1), (2), (3), (4), and (5) shall apply:

(1.) Where there are more than thirty ratepayers on the rate book the surveyor shall, and where there is a less number of ratepayers the surveyor may, use a rate receipt check book, in the Form (B.) in the said schedule.

(2.) The receipts and counterfoils in this book shall be numbered consecutively with numbers corresponding with those in the rate book, and demand notes shall be printed in the rate receipt check book, in the form prescribed in the said schedule, and such demand notes shall be signed by the surveyor and numbered so as to correspond with the numbers of the respective receipts.

(3.) When the amount of the rate shall be received from any person assessed, the receipt applicable to such person's assessment shall, at that time and not before, be signed by the surveyor and detached from the rate receipt check book, and shall be delivered, stamped with an adhesive stamp where the amount of the payment shall render such stamp necessary, to the person making the payment, and the counterfoil shall be retained in the book.

(4.) In the receipt so delivered and in the counterfoil so retained the true date of the payment shall be inserted.

(5.) If upon the closing of any rate not collected there shall remain in the rate receipt check book any receipts made out for such rate unused, the surveyor shall enter upon each of such receipts the reason for not using it, and date and sign such entry.

Art. 5.—Where there is a collector, the regulations contained in Art. 4, Nos. (2), (3), (4), and (5) shall apply to him, and the rate receipt check book shall be filled up and used by him instead of by the surveyor.

The collector, before he shall proceed to issue demand notes or to collect any rate, shall prepare demand notes and receipts in one book, or in several, if so directed by the surveyor, in the aforesaid Form (B.), such demand notes, as well as the receipts and the counterfoils thereof, being numbered with consecutive numbers corresponding with those in the rate book, and properly fill in the same respectively with the names of the several ratepayers, and the sum to be collected from each. He shall then submit every such rate receipt check book, so numbered and filled up, to the surveyor before he proceeds to collect the rate; and the surveyor shall cause the correctness of the numbering, and the correspondence of the sums, and of the names filled in, with the rate book to which they relate, to be ascertained, and on the leaf next after the last of the receipts so made out in respect of any one rate the surveyor shall certify the fact that such rate receipt check book has been examined and ascertained to be correct, and shall state in words at length the number of receipts filled up for the rate then to be collected, which certificate shall be in the form set forth in the said schedule, and shall be signed by the surveyor and correctly dated.

Art. 6.—Where, in the opinion of the surveyor, the circumstances of the parish render it expedient, the receipts (and corresponding counterfoils) in the rate receipt check book, instead of being prepared before the collection of the rate and numbered consecutively according to the rate book, may each of them be filled up at the time when the payment of the assessment to which it relates is actually made, the numbers being printed beforehand on the receipts and counterfoils in consecutive order.

Provided that in such cases:

(1.) Whenever the surveyor or the collector (as the case may be) receives the rate, he shall insert in the receipt given and in the counterfoil retained the number (or numbers) in the rate book of the assessment or assessments to which they relate.

(2.) Where more than one rate receipt check book is required for one rate, the printed consecutive numbers shall run on without interruption throughout all the receipt check books used for such rate.

(3.) When a new rate is made, all the unused receipts for the former rate shall, where the rate receipt check book is used by the collector, be delivered by him to the surveyor.

(4.) The demand notes shall form a separate book, still bearing the same numbers of the assessments as are entered in the rate book.

Art. 7.—The surveyor shall also punctually enter up and accurately keep the following accounts according to the forms and directions relating to such accounts respectively in this Order and in the schedule thereto; namely,—

(1.) A repairs expenditure account, in the Form (C.), the pages of which shall be arranged so as to form divisions under the four following headings:

1. Manual labour;
2. Team labour;
3. Materials;
4. Tradesmen's bills and miscellaneous expenses for repairs; and under those several headings the particulars of the expenditure incurred in respect of each shall be entered from time to time in order of date and according to the arrangement of the columns in each division, the amounts paid being shown separately as regards main roads and parish highways in the columns provided for that purpose, with date of payment.

The surveyor at the time of making the payments to the labourers shall obtain their signatures in the column provided for that purpose, or if any of them are unable to write they shall affix their marks, which must be attested by the initials of the surveyor or other person making the payments on his behalf: Provided that in parishes where the surveyor does not receive any remuneration for the performance of his duties, and there is no paid collector of the highway rate, the surveyor may abstain from obtaining such signatures or marks.

The sums entered under each of the four headings above-named in the columns headed 'Amounts Paid,' shall be added up and the totals for the year carried into the receipt and expenditure account.

(2.) A receipt and expenditure account, Form (D.), in which shall be entered in order of date all sums received or paid by the surveyor on behalf of the parish, whether in respect of repairs or otherwise, with the date of receipt or payment, and a reference as regards items of expenditure or repairs to the folio of the repairs expenditure account in which the detailed particulars are entered. This book shall be balanced up to the twenty-fifth day of March in each year, and with the repairs expenditure account shall be submitted to the district auditor with full bills of particulars and receipts for all payments charged other than wages.

(3.) A stores account, Form (E.), in which shall be entered the quantity or number of materials, tools, implements, and other stores for the repair of the highways received and consumed during each year, with other particulars set forth in the Form.

Financial Statement.

And whereas by section 3 of "The District Auditors Act, 1879," it is enacted as follows:—

"Where the accounts of the receipts and expenditure of a local authority are audited by a district auditor, the local authority shall prepare and submit to the district auditor at every audit (other than an extraordinary audit held in pursuance of section 6 of the Poor Law Amendment Act, 1866) a financial statement in duplicate in the prescribed form and containing the prescribed particulars; one of such duplicates shall have the stamp charged under this Act affixed thereon, and the auditor at the conclusion of the audit shall cancel that stamp, and certify on each duplicate, in the prescribed form, the amount in words at length of the expenditure so audited and allowed; and further, that the regulations with respect to such statement have been duly complied with, and that he has ascertained by the audit the correctness of the statement."

Now therefore, We, the Local Government Board, hereby further order as follows:—

Art. 8.—The financial statement to be prepared and submitted to the district auditor in duplicate by the surveyor as a local authority under section 3 above recited, shall for the year ending the twenty-fifth day of March, 1882 (subject to the proviso No. 2 to Article 1 of this Order), and henceforth be in the Form (F.) in the schedule to this Order, and shall contain the particulars therein set forth; and the certificate of the district auditor to be appended to each such duplicate shall be in the form set forth at the foot of the said statement.

Closing and Examination of Accounts.

Art. 9.—All the accounts of the surveyor and the collector shall be made up and balanced to the twenty-fifth day of March in every year.

Notice of Audit: Production of Books.

Art. 10.—The district auditor shall audit the accounts of the surveyor and the collector once in every year, that is to say, as soon as may be after the twenty-fifth day of March. Provided always, that if the district auditor shall be required by the Local Government Board to hold an extraordinary audit, either of the whole or of any portion of the accounts, in addition to the ordinary audit, all the provisions herein contained, with reference to the ordinary audit, shall as far as they may be applicable, apply to such extraordinary audit.

Art. 11.—The district auditor, in respect of every ordinary audit, shall give to the surveyor fourteen days' notice in writing of the time and place when and at which he attends to commence the audit of the accounts.

Art. 12.—The surveyor and collector shall attend at the time and place appointed by the district auditor for the audit of their accounts, and shall submit to him all books, documents, and vouchers containing or relating to their accounts; and the same shall at the time of the audit be open to the inspection of any owner of property or ratepayer having an interest in such accounts, but to such extent and in such manner only as will not, in the judgment of the district auditor, interfere with the audit.

Mode of Audit.

Art. 13.—In auditing the accounts, the district auditor shall see that they have been kept and are presented in proper form, that the particular items of receipt and expenditure are stated in sufficient detail, and that the payments are supported by adequate vouchers and authority; and he shall ascertain whether all sums received, or which ought to have been received, are brought into account, and he shall examine whether the expenditure is in all cases such as might lawfully be made; and he shall also reduce such payments and charges as are exorbitant; shall surcharge moneys not duly accounted for, or lost by negligence, upon the person who ought to account for the same, or whose negligence or improper conduct has caused the loss; and shall disallow and strike out such payments as are not authorised by law.

Art. 14.—When the district auditor disallows any payment or surcharges any sum upon any person he shall declare the ground of his decision, and offer to state such ground in writing, if required by the person aggrieved to do so, in the proper book of account forthwith, or as soon as the arrangements for the business of his audit will permit, and shall report such disallowance or surcharge to the Local Government Board.

Art. 15.—The district auditor shall examine and collate the several books and papers of account; and shall ascertain that the several entries correspond with and balance each other, where such balance may be required; but in case of any error caused by inadvertence or accident in any account he may require the officer rendering it to correct the same, and the officer shall make the necessary correction, and the district auditor shall then deal with the account so corrected. But if the officer shall refuse to do so, the district auditor shall himself make the correction, and report the circumstances of the case to the Local Government Board.

Art. 16.—The district auditor shall compute the several accounts so as to verify the arithmetical accuracy thereof, and the balance due to or from the officers rendering the same at the time to which the audit relates; and he shall in the receipt and expenditure account state the balance in words at length, and certify the same by his signature or initials, and add the date of his audit; and when he certifies any sum or other matter to be due he shall, as far as practicable, enter his certificate and his reasons for the same (when they are required) in some part of the book of account which shall be free from other writing.

Art. 17.—The district auditor shall receive any objection made by a ratepayer, or any person aggrieved, against the accounts undergoing audit, or any item or charge therein, or any vouchers or authority for the same; and shall examine into the merits of such objection, and make a decision respecting the same, stating the grounds thereof, and offering to enter the same in the book of account then being examined, if required to do so, as in the case of a disallowance or surcharge.

Art. 18.—If he shall doubt the correctness of any account, or any item or charge in any account, he shall require the officer rendering the account, or any other person holding or accountable for any money, books, deeds, or chattels relating to the highway parish to appear before him, and shall call upon such person to produce any accounts, books or papers which he may lawfully require; and he shall examine such officer or person as may then appear, and such accounts, books, and papers as may be produced before him, respecting such account, item, or charge.

Art. 19.—If the auditor find that any money, goods, or chattels belonging to the highway parish have been purloined, embezzled, wasted, or misapplied, or that any deficiency or loss has been incurred by the negligence or misconduct of any officer or other person accounting, he shall surcharge such officer or person with such amount or value in his account.

Art. 20.—The personal representatives of an officer accountable under this Order, dying before the audit of his accounts, shall, so far as they may be by law required, account, in conformity with the provisions herein contained, in the place of such deceased officer, and all regulations affecting the accounts of such officer shall, so far as may be otherwise lawful, affect the accounts of his personal representatives.

Art. 21.—The district auditor shall, at the close of the audit of the accounts relating to each highway parish where there are any defects in such accounts, transmit to the Local Government Board a statement in the Form (G.) in the said schedule, showing which of the books directed by this Order to be kept is not kept, or is imperfectly kept, or kept in a form different from that prescribed by the Local Government Board. He shall also transmit to the Local Government Board at the close of each audit a certificate in the Form (H.) in the said schedule in respect of the several highway parishes within each poor law union as to which he finds that there has been no default.

INTERPRETATION OF TERMS.

Art. 22.—In this Order and in the forms set forth in the schedule thereto,— “Highway parish” means a parish or place capable of being included in a highway district in pursuance of the Highway Acts, 1862 and 1864, or one of such Acts.

“Surveyor” means any surveyor or surveyors of highways, being the highway authority for the time being.

“Collector” means a collector of highway rates duly appointed under the statutes in that behalf.

“Main roads” means roads so constituted under “The Highways and Locomotives (Amendment) Act, 1878.”

“Manual labour” means manual labour employed in the actual execution of repairs, as distinct from such labour employed in obtaining, delivering, or preparing materials for repairs.

“Team labour” means labour of that kind employed in the collection, delivery, or distribution of materials for the purpose of executing repairs, and includes such labour employed under any contract entered into for those purposes exclusively under section 46 of “The Highway Act, 1835.”

“Materials” means stone or other materials for repairs, and includes the cost of purchasing, getting, carrying, or preparing such materials, and of delivering the same other than by means of team labour. It also includes any such cost incurred under any contract entered into under the section last above mentioned where the contract is not made exclusively for the purposes above described under the head of “team labour,” as well as damage to land in getting materials for the purpose of repairs, and royalty or rent of pits or quarries for that purpose.

“Tradesmen’s bills” includes the cost of tools, implements, and other stores supplied by tradesmen for repairs, and not hereinbefore included in the term “materials,” and the cost incurred in repairs of drains, bridges, and fences, executed by tradesmen; and when used in connection with “main roads,” means tradesmen’s bills for repairs incurred for main roads exclusively.

ALKALI, &c., WORKS REGULATION ACT, 1881.

(44 & 45 VICT. c. 37.) (1).

Local Government Board, Whitehall, S.W., 24th October, 1881.

SIR,

I am directed by the Local Government Board to state that, with a view of giving effect to the provisions of the Alkali, &c., Works Regulation Act, 1881 (1), they are desirous of ascertaining the number of works in the several sanitary districts in England and Wales which will be affected by the Act, and the names and addresses of the proprietors or managers of such works.

By the Alkali Acts, 1863 and 1874, all alkali works, viz.: works for the manufacture of alkali, sulphate of soda, or sulphate of potash, in which muriatic acid gas is evolved, were placed under the inspection of inspectors, appointed by the central authority, in order to insure the condensation of the noxious gases evolved by such works either within a prescribed limit, or according to the best practicable and available means.

The Alkali Works, &c., Regulation Act, 1881, passed during the last session, has consolidated the Acts of 1863 and 1874, and largely extended the beneficial policy of those Acts by providing for the inspection of various other works in which noxious or offensive gases are evolved so that the adoption of the best practicable and available means of condensation may be secured.

The works to which the Act applies, and which, in addition to alkali works, will now be brought under skilled inspection from and after the first day of January next, are the following:—

- (1.) Sulphuric acid works.
- (2.) Chemical manure works.
- (3.) Gas liquor works.
- (4.) Nitric acid works.
- (5.) Sulphate of ammonia works and muriate of ammonia works; and
- (6.) Chlorine works, or works in which chlorine, bleaching powder, or bleaching liquor is made.

As regards the foregoing works it will be the duty of the inspector to see that the noxious and offensive gases evolved from them are condensed in accordance with the requirements of the Act, and to take proceedings against the proprietors in cases of default.

The Act further provides for the inspection of—

- (1.) Salt works in which the extraction of salt from brine is carried on, and
- (2.) Cement works, or works in which aluminous deposits are treated for the purpose of making cement.

In these cases, however, the Act itself does not impose any limit with regard to the escape of the noxious gases evolved; but enables the Local Government Board, under certain restrictions, to require by Provisional Order that the best means for rendering such gases harmless or inoffensive shall be adopted.

In order that the several works before referred to may be brought under inspection, the Act requires that every work shall be duly registered in manner prescribed by the Board, and that from and after the first day of April, 1882, no work shall be carried on unless it is certified to be so registered.

For the purpose of enabling the Board to determine what arrangements it will be necessary to make for the inspection of all the works to which the Act applies, it is essential that they should be in possession of accurate information as to the number and description of such works. They should also know the names and addresses of the proprietors, so that instructions may be issued to them pointing out the steps to be taken to obtain the requisite certificates of registration.

I am, therefore, to request that the sanitary authority will have the goodness to cause the Board to be furnished in the enclosed form with the information required, so far as regards such of the noxious trades of the kinds specified as are carried on within the limits of the district of the sanitary authority.

The Board entertain no doubt that with the assistance of the medical officer of health and inspector of nuisances there will be no difficulty in supplying the particulars asked for, and they will be glad to receive the return duly filled up not later than the 14th of November next.

Before concluding this communication the Board think it right to direct the attention of the sanitary authority to two sections of the Act of the last session which are of considerable importance. The first is section 19, which enacts that if any sanitary authority applies to the central authority for an additional inspector under the Act, and undertakes to pay not less than a moiety of his salary, the Local Government Board may, with the sanction of the Lords Commissioners of Her Majesty's Treasury, appoint an additional inspector, who is to reside within a convenient distance of the works he is required to inspect.

The second is section 23, which provides that where a nuisance arising from any noxious or offensive gas or gases is wholly or partially caused by the acts or defaults of several persons, any person injured may proceed against any one or more of such persons, and may recover damages from each defendant, in proportion to his contribution to the nuisance, notwithstanding that the act or default of such defendant would not separately have caused a nuisance. This section, however, does not apply to a defendant who can produce a certificate from the chief inspector that, in the works of such defendant, the requirements of the Act have been complied with and were complied with when the nuisance arose.

It may also be mentioned, that where it appears to any sanitary authority on the representation of any of their officers, or of any ten inhabitants of their district, that any work to which the Act applies is carried on in contravention of it, and that a nuisance is occasioned thereby to any of the inhabitants of their district, the authority may complain to the central authority, who shall make such inquiry into the matters complained of, and after the inquiry, may direct such proceedings to be taken, as they may deem just.

JOHN LAMBERT,

Secretary.

ALKALI, &c., WORKS REGULATION ACT, 1881.

(44 & 45 VICT. c. 37.) ⁽¹⁾.

Local Government Board, Whitehall, S.W.,

31st December, 1881.

SIR,

I am directed by the Local Government Board to inform you that the Alkali, &c., Works Regulation Act of last session ⁽¹⁾, which comes into operation on the first day of January, 1882, requires that, with a view to inspection, the following works shall be registered, viz. :—

- (1.) Alkali works, including works for the manufacture of alkali, sulphate of soda,* or sulphate of potash, in which muriatic acid gas is evolved.
- (2.) Sulphuric acid works.
- (3.) Chemical manure works.
- (4.) Gas liquor works.
- (5.) Nitric acid works.
- (6.) Sulphate of ammonia works and muriate of ammonia works.
- (7.) Chlorine works, or works in which chlorine, bleaching powder, or bleaching liquor is made.
- (8.) Works in which the extraction of salt from brine is carried on.
- (9.) Cement works, or works in which aluminous deposits are treated for the purpose of making cement.

The Act provides that such works shall not be carried on after the first of April next, unless they are certified to be registered, and that the register shall contain the prescribed particulars, and be conducted, and the certificates issued, in the prescribed manner.

I am further directed to call your attention to the provisions contained in the third and following sub-sections of section 11 of the Act, which are as under :—

- (3.) The owner of an alkali work or of a work required to be registered shall in the month of January or February in every year apply for a certificate of registration in the prescribed manner, and on such application and compliance with the conditions as to registration the certificate shall be issued, and shall be in force for one year from the first day of April following the said application.
- (4.) The owner of an alkali work, or of a work required to be registered, erected after the commencement of the Act shall before commencing any manufacture or process in such work apply for such certificate in the prescribed manner, and on such application and compliance with the conditions as to registration the certificate shall be issued as soon as may be, and shall be in force until the next first day of April.

* N.B.—The formation of any sulphate in the treatment of copper ores by common salt, or other chlorides, is to be deemed to be a manufacture of sulphate of soda.

There shall be charged in respect of every such certificate, in the case of an alkali work, the duty of five pounds; and in the case of a work required to be registered, not being an alkali work, the duty of three pounds.

(5.) Written notice of any change which occurs in the ownership of a work or in the other particulars stated in the register shall, within one month after such change, be sent by the owner to an inspector, and the register and the certificate shall be altered accordingly in the prescribed manner without charge and without the issue of a new certificate. If such notice is not sent as so required the work shall not be deemed to be certified to be registered.

(6.) The owner of a work which is carried on in contravention of this section shall be deemed guilty of an offence against the Act, and shall be liable to a fine not exceeding five pounds for every day during which it is so carried on.

According to the interpretation clause (section 29), the term "prescribed" means "prescribed by the Local Government Board;" and the Board have decided that the register shall be kept at the offices of the Board, and that the applications for certificates shall be made in the enclosed form. Every such application may either be sent by post or delivered at the offices of the Board.

The term "owner" means the lessee, occupier, or any other person carrying on any work to which the Act applies.

If the application is found to contain the requisite particulars, and it appears that a certificate may properly be issued, the Board will inform the applicant of the manner in which the amount of the stamp for the certificate may be transmitted; and upon the receipt of such amount the necessary certificate will be forwarded.

It should be added that section 12 of the Act provides that a work erected after the commencement of the Act, or which has been closed for twelve months, shall not be registered, unless it is furnished with such appliances as at the time of registration appear to the chief inspector, after his own examination, or that of an inspector, or, in case of difference, to the central authority, to be necessary in order to enable the work to be carried on in accordance with the requirements of the Act.

Secretary.

ALKALI, &c., WORKS REGULATION ACT, 1881.

REGISTRATION OF WORKS.

To the Owners of Works to which "The Alkali, &c., Works Regulation Act, 1881," applies;—

And to all others whom it may concern.

Whereas by sections 11 and 12 of "The Alkali, &c., Works Regulation Act, 1881," provision is made for the registration of the works to which that Act applies, subject to conditions to be prescribed from time to time by the Local Government Board:

Now therefore, we, the Local Government Board, hereby prescribe as follows:—

Art. 1.—The registration of the works shall be at the office of the Local Government Board, Whitehall, London, S.W.

Art. 2.—The application for a certificate of registration of any work shall contain the following particulars:—

- (a.) The description of the work, and its name, if any.
- (b.) The parish or place where the work is carried on.
- (c.) The date when the work was erected.
- (d.) If the work is closed, the date when it was closed.
- (e.) The name and address of the owner, lessee, occupier, or other person carrying on the work.

Art. 3.—The application for a certificate shall be addressed to the Local Government Board and sent by post to or delivered at the office of the Board.

Art. 4.—If the application is in due form, and in the case of a work erected after the first day of January, 1882, or which has been closed for a period of twelve months, the work is found to be furnished with such appliances as are required by section 12 of the said Act, a certificate in the Form A. set forth in schedule hereto shall be issued by the Local Government Board upon the receipt by them of a post office order for the amount of the stamp duty payable thereon under the said Act, such order to be made payable to the Postmaster-General at the Parliament Street Post Office, Whitehall, London, S.W.

Art. 5.—Where any change occurs in the ownership of a work, or in any other particulars stated in the register, and written notice thereof is given to an inspector in accordance with the provisions of the said Act, the inspector shall forward such notice to the Local Government Board and the register shall be amended by inserting such alteration accordingly, and an endorsement shall be made by the Local Government Board on the certificate in accordance with the Form B. set forth in the said schedule.

Given under the Seal of Office of the Local Government Board, this seventh day of January, in the year one thousand eight hundred and eighty-two.

ALTERATION OF FORM OF STATUTORY FINANCIAL STATEMENT.

Local Government Board, Whitehall, S.W., 26th March, 1883.

SIR,

I am directed by the Local Government Board to state that it is requisite for statistical purposes that the contributions received by the urban sanitary authority towards the cost of the repair of main roads should be entered separately in the statutory financial statement, instead of being included with other items as receipts "from all other sources."

I am therefore to request that the following may be added in writing or print to the prescribed form of financial statement as the first two items under the head of "other receipts," viz.:

"From county authority in respect of main roads," and

"From parliamentary grant—main roads."

I am also directed to state, in reference to the expenditure side of the financial statement, that the amount received by the urban sanitary authority from the parliamentary grant in aid of the cost of maintenance of main roads may be deducted from the expenditure in respect of highways during the year in which it is received, and that if this be done the words "and parliamentary grant," should be added after the words "less amount borne by county authority," and next below the item "amount borne by county authority," a corresponding item "amount borne by parliamentary grant," and the amount thereof, should be added.

SIR,

I am directed by the Local Government Board to state that it is requisite for statistical purposes that the amount received by the highway board from the parliamentary grant in aid of the cost of maintenance of main roads should be entered separately in the financial statement required by the District Auditors Act, 1879, instead of being included with other items as "other receipts."

I am therefore to request that the words "parliamentary grant in respect of main roads," may be added in writing or print to the prescribed form of financial statement next after the item "contributions from county authority."

I am also directed to state, in reference to the expenditure side of the financial statement, that the amount received from the parliamentary grant may be deducted from the expenditure in respect of main roads during the year in which it is received, and, that if this be done the deduction should be shown in the same manner as that on account of the sum borne by the county authority.

The Clerk to the Highway Board.

WAYWARDENS OF HIGHWAY PARISHES.

To the waywardens for the time being, by whom highway rates may be levied in highway parishes ;—

To the several district auditors authorised for the time being to audit the accounts of the said waywardens ;—

And to all others whom it may concern.

Whereas by section 9 of "The Highways and Locomotives (Amendment) Act, 1878," it is enacted that the accounts of the highway authority of every highway district and highway parish shall be made up in such form as the Local Government Board shall from time to time prescribe ;

And whereas by section 5 of "The District Auditors Act, 1879," it is enacted as follows :—

"Where any accounts of the receipts and expenditure of a local authority are subject by law to be audited by a district auditor, the Local Government Board may from time to time by order make, and when made revoke and vary, such regulations as seem to the Board necessary or proper respecting the audit of such accounts, including the form of keeping the accounts of the local authority and their officers, the day or days to which the accounts are to be made up, the time within which they are to be examined by the local authority, the mode in which, if it is so prescribed, they are to be certified by the local authority or any officer of that authority, the mode of publishing the time and place of holding the audit, the persons by whom such accounts are to be produced for audit, and the mode of conducting the audit, and an order under this section shall be deemed to be an order within the meaning of section 98 of the Poor Law Amendment Act, 1834."

And whereas by sections 3 and 7 of "The Highway Rate Assessment and Expenditure Act, 1882," it is enacted as follows ;—

Section 3.—"Where in any parish the vestry have, under section 4 of the Poor Rate Assessment and Collection Act, 1869, ordered or shall hereafter order that the owners of all rateable hereditaments to which section 3 of that Act extends shall be rated to the poor rate in respect of such hereditaments instead of the occupiers, such order shall be deemed to extend to and include the highway rate, and whilst such order is in force the respective owners of such hereditaments shall be rated and assessed instead of the occupiers thereof to the highway rates made after the passing of this Act for any highway parish which is co-extensive with such parish or with any part thereof, and to which otherwise such occupiers might by law be rated ; subject nevertheless to the abatements or deductions and to the conditions specified in sections 4 and 5 of the the said Act ; and for the purposes of this section the term 'overseers' in section 4 of the said Act shall be construed to mean 'surveyor of highways or other person authorised by law to make and levy a highway rate.'"

"The surveyor of highways, or other person authorised by law to make and levy a highway rate, shall have the same powers, remedies, and privileges for recovering the rates made under this Act upon owners, as the overseers of the poor have under the said Poor Rate Assessment and Collection Act, 1869, for the recovery of a poor rate, and when the overseers are required by law to levy the highway rate, and such rate applies to the whole parish, they may levy the same as part of the poor rate."

"Section 30 of the Highway Act, 1835, relating to the composition for rates in certain cases under local Acts is hereby repealed."

Section 7.—"The provisions of section 9 of the Highways and Locomotives (Amendment) Act, 1878, as amended by the District Auditors Act, 1879, in relation to the audit of the accounts of highway authorities and their officers shall extend to the accounts of a waywarden of any highway parish within a highway district with respect to the highway rates levied by him."

Now therefore, we the Local Government Board, hereby order as follows :

Art. 1.—The following regulations shall henceforth be observed in regard to the accounts with respect to any highway rate levied by any waywarden, for the time being, of a highway parish in a highway district, except in so far as we may from time to time assent to any departure from such regulations.

Art. 2.—The waywarden shall punctually enter up and accurately keep a rate book and rate collection account, which shall be in the form A. in the schedule to this order, subject as hereinafter provided in Art. 4.

In the portion of the form headed "rate-book" shall be inserted the particulars indicated by the headings of the several columns, the numbers of assessments being placed in column 1 in consecutive order, and before any sum in respect of the rate is collected the waywarden shall sign a declaration, in words at length, of the total amount of the rate, according to the form of declaration set forth at the foot of the form of rate, or to the like effect.

Where it is intended that more than one consecutive number and assessment shall, as hereinafter provided, be included in one receipt, there shall be inserted in red ink in the rate book, immediately below the last item of annual rateable value to be included in such receipt, the total of the items of annual rateable value to be so included, and also below the last item of assessment to be so included in such receipt, the total of the items of assessment to be so included.

The several columns of the rate book and rate collection account which contain the annual rateable value, the rate assessed, the recoverable arrears, and the total amount to be collected, shall be added up at the foot of every page, and the several totals shall be ascertained and set forth at the foot of the rate, before any sum of money in respect of the said rate is collected.

The portion of the form headed "rate collection account" shall be signed by the waywarden before the book is presented to the district auditor.

Art. 3.—Where there are more than 30 ratepayers on the rate book the waywarden shall, and where there is a less number of ratepayers the waywarden may, use a rate receipt check book, which shall be in the form B. in the said schedule, subject as hereinafter provided in Art. 4.

The demand notes, receipts, and counterfoils in this book shall be numbered consecutively with numbers corresponding with those in the rate book, but several consecutive numbers and assessments, but no others, for which the same person or persons is or are rated, may be included in one demand note and one receipt; and the demand notes shall be signed by the waywarden.

When the amount of the rate shall be received from any person assessed, the receipt, applicable to such person's assessment shall, at that time and not before, be signed, and detached from the rate receipt check book, and shall be delivered, stamped with an adhesive stamp where the amount of the payment shall render such stamp necessary, to the person making the payment, and the counterfoil shall be retained in the book.

In the receipt so delivered and in the counterfoil so retained the true date of the payment shall be inserted.

If when a new rate is made, the previous rate be not wholly collected, the waywarden shall enter upon each receipt in respect thereof then remaining in the rate receipt check book the reason for not using such receipt, and shall date and sign such entry.

Art. 4.—If in the highway parish the owners of the rateable hereditaments to which section 3 of the "Poor Rate Assessment and Collection Act, 1869," applies, shall not be rateable to the poor rate in respect of such hereditaments instead of the occupiers, in pursuance of section 4 of that Act, the columns numbered 3, 7, and 14 in the form A. of the rate book and rate collection account in the schedule to this order, shall not be filled up and may be omitted from the form, but if omitted, the remaining columns shall be numbered as in the prescribed form. And where the owners are not so rateable, so much of the form B. of the rate receipt check book in the said schedule as refers to allowances to owners shall not be filled up and may be omitted.

Art. 5.—The waywarden shall also punctually enter up and accurately keep a receipt and expenditure account (form C.), in which shall be entered in order of date all sums received or paid by him on behalf of the parish, with the date of receipt or payment. He shall also enter therein the information indicated in the form with respect to the mileage of the roads within the area over which the highway rate is levied by him.

Financial Statement.

And whereas by section 3 of "The District Auditors Act, 1879," it is enacted as follows:—

"Where the accounts of the receipts and expenditure of a local authority are audited by a district auditor, the local authority shall prepare and submit to the district auditor at every audit (other than an extraordinary audit, held in pursuance of section 6 of the Poor Law Amendment Act, 1866) a financial statement in duplicate in the prescribed form and containing the prescribed particulars; one of such duplicates shall have the stamp charged under this Act affixed thereon, and the auditor at the conclusion of the audit shall cancel that stamp, and certify on each duplicate, in the prescribed form, the amount in words at length of the expenditure so audited and allowed; and further, that the regulations with respect to such statement have been duly complied with, and that he has ascertained by the audit the correctness of the statement."

Now therefore, we, the Local Government Board, hereby further order as follows:—

Art. 6.—The financial statement to be prepared and submitted to the district auditor, in duplicate, by the waywarden, shall, for the year ended the thirtieth day of April, 1883, and thenceforth, be in the form D. in the schedule to this order, and shall contain the particulars therein set forth; and the certificate of the district auditor to be appended to each such duplicate shall be in the form set forth at the foot of the said statement.

Closing of Accounts.

Art. 7.—All the accounts of the waywarden shall be made up and balanced to the thirtieth day of April in every year.

Notice of Audit: Production of Books.

Art. 8.—The district auditor shall audit the accounts of the waywarden once in every year, that is to say, as soon as may be after the thirtieth day of April. Provided always, that if the district auditor shall be required by the Local Government Board to hold an extraordinary audit, either of the whole or of any portion of the accounts, in addition to the ordinary audit all the provisions herein contained with reference to the ordinary audit shall, as far as they may be applicable, apply to such extraordinary audit.

Art. 9.—The district auditor, in respect of every ordinary audit, shall give to the waywarden 14 days' notice in writing of the time when, and the place at which, he intends to commence the audit of the accounts.

Art. 10.—The waywarden shall attend at the time and place appointed by the district auditor for the audit of his accounts, and shall submit to him all books, documents, and vouchers containing or relating to his accounts; and the same shall at the time of the audit be open to the inspection of any owner of property or ratepayer having an interest in such accounts, but to such extent and in such manner only as will not, in the judgment of the district auditor, interfere with the audit.

Mode of Audit.

Art. 11.—In auditing the accounts, the district auditor shall see that they have been kept and are presented in proper form; that the particular items of receipt and expenditure are stated in sufficient detail, and that the payments are supported by adequate vouchers and authority; and he shall ascertain whether all sums received, or which ought to have been received, are brought into account; and he shall examine whether the expenditure is in all cases such as might lawfully be made; and he shall reduce such payments and charges as are exorbitant; shall surcharge moneys not duly accounted for, or lost by negligence, upon the person who ought to account for the same, or whose negligence or improper conduct has caused the loss; and shall disallow and strike out such payments as are not authorised by law.

Art. 12.—When the district auditor disallows any payment or surcharges any sum upon any person, he shall declare the ground of his decision, and offer to state such ground in writing, if required by the person aggrieved to do so, in the proper book of account forthwith, or as soon as the arrangements for the business of his audit will permit; and shall report such disallowance or surcharge to the Local Government Board.

Art. 13.—The district auditor shall examine and collate the several books and papers of account; and shall ascertain that the several entries correspond with and balance each other, where such balance may be required; but in case of any error caused by inadvertence or accident in any account he may require the waywarden rendering it to correct the same, and the waywarden shall make the necessary correction, and the district auditor shall then deal with the account so corrected. But if the waywarden shall refuse to do so, the district auditor shall himself make the correction, and report the circumstances of the case to the Local Government Board.

Art. 14.—The district auditor shall compute the several accounts so as to verify the arithmetical accuracy thereof and the balance due to or from the waywarden rendering the same at the time to which the audit relates; and he shall in the receipt and expenditure account state whether he finds any balance, and if so the amount thereof in words at length, and shall in all cases certify the same by his signature or initials, and add the date of his audit; and when he certifies any sum or other matter to be due he shall, as far as practicable, enter his certificate and his reasons for the same (when they are required) in some part of the book of account which shall be free from other writing.

Art. 15.—The district auditor shall receive any objection made by a ratepayer, or any person aggrieved against the accounts undergoing audit, or any item or charge therein, or any vouchers or authority for the same: and shall examine into the merits of such objection, and make a decision respecting the same, stating the grounds thereof, and offering to enter the same in the book of account then being examined, if required to do so, as in the case of a disallowance or surcharge.

Art. 16.—If he shall doubt the correctness of any account, or any item or charge in any account, he shall require the waywarden rendering the account or any other person holding or accountable for any money, books, deeds, or chattels, relating to the highway parish, to appear before him, and shall call upon such person to produce any accounts, books, or papers which he may lawfully require, and he shall examine such waywarden or other person as may then appear, and such accounts, books, and papers as may be produced before him, respecting such account, item, or charge.

Art. 17.—If the district auditor find that any money, goods, or chattels belonging to the highway parish have been purloined, embezzled, wasted, or misapplied, or that any deficiency or loss has been incurred by the negligence or misconduct of any waywarden or other person accounting, he shall surcharge such waywarden or other person with such amount or value in his account.

Art. 18.—If a waywarden accountable under this order shall die before the audit of his accounts, his personal representatives, shall, so far as they may be by law required, account, in conformity with the provisions herein contained, in the place of such deceased waywarden, and all regulations affecting his accounts shall, so far as may be otherwise lawful, affect the accounts of his personal representatives.

Art. 19.—The district auditor shall, at the close of the audit of the accounts relating to each highway parish, where there are any defects in such accounts, transmit to the Local Government Board a statement in the form E. in the said schedule, showing which of the books directed by this order to be kept is not kept, or is imperfectly kept, or kept in a form different from that prescribed by the Local Government Board. He shall also transmit to the Local Government Board at the close of each audit a certificate in the form F. in the said schedule in respect of the several highway parishes within each highway district, as to which he finds that there has been no default as regards the books of the waywardens.

Art. 20.—In this order and in the forms set forth in the schedule thereto—

“Parish” means a place for which a separate poor rate can be made.

“Highway parish” means a place for which a waywarden may be elected or a separate highway rate be made.

Form of Declaration at the foot of the "Rate."

I, the undersigned, hereby declare that the total of the above Rate as shown in Column 6 amounts to the sum of Pounds, Shillings

Wairwarden.

* The sub-division of totals is here introduced to meet a case where it may be found desirable to balance the Book before the closing of the Rate. In such a case the upper division is intended for the amount collected at the first balancing, and the lower one for the amount collected since the first balancing.

ORDER FOR ACCOUNTS (AMENDING).

HIGHWAY PARISHES NOT IN HIGHWAY DISTRICTS.

To the surveyors of highways, for the time being, of the several highway parishes not in highway districts;—

To the collectors of highway rates, for the time being, of the said highway parishes respectively;—

To the several district auditors authorised, for the time being, to audit the accounts of the said surveyors and collectors respectively;

And to all others whom it may concern.

Whereas in pursuance of section 9 of "The Highways and Locomotives (Amendment) Act, 1878," and section 5 of "The District Auditors Act, 1879," the Local Government Board, by an Order dated the 9th day of April, 1881, prescribed regulations with respect to the accounts of the surveyors of highways of the several highway parishes not included in highway districts, and of the collectors of highway rates in those parishes, for the time being;

And whereas by section 3 of "The Highway Rate Assessment and Expenditure Act, 1882," it is provided as follows:—

"Where in any parish the vestry have, under section 4 of the Poor Rate Assessment and Collection Act, 1869, ordered or shall hereafter order that the owners of all rateable hereditaments to which section 3 of that Act extends shall be rated to the poor rate in respect of such hereditaments instead of the occupiers, such order shall be deemed to extend to and include the highway rate, and whilst such order is in force the respective owners of such hereditaments shall be rated and assessed instead of the occupiers thereof to the highway rates made after the passing of this Act for any highway parish which is co-extensive with such parish or with any part thereof, and to which otherwise such occupiers might by law be rated; subject nevertheless to the abatements or deductions and to the conditions specified in sections 4 and 5 of the said Act: and for the purposes of this section the term 'overseers' in section 4 of the said Act shall be construed to mean 'surveyor of highways or other person authorised by law to make and levy a highway rate.'"

"The surveyor of highways, or other person authorised by law to make and levy a highway rate, shall have the same powers, remedies, and privileges for recovering the rates made under this Act upon owners, as the overseers of the poor have under the said Poor Rate Assessment and Collection Act, 1869, for the recovery of a poor rate, and when the overseers are required by law to levy the highway rate, and such rate applies to the whole parish, they may levy the same as part of the poor rate."

"Section 30 of the Highway Act, 1835, relating to the composition for rates in certain cases under local Acts is hereby repealed."

And whereas it is expedient that the said order should be altered as herein-after mentioned:

Now therefore, we, the Local Government Board, hereby order as follows:

From and after the thirty-first day of May, 1883, in every highway parish which is not included in a highway district, and is co-extensive with the whole or any part of a parish in which an order of the vestry under section 4 of the "Poor Rate Assessment and Collection Act, 1869," to the effect that the owners of all rateable hereditaments to which section 3 of that Act extends shall be rated to the poor rate in respect of such hereditaments instead of the occupiers, shall be in force, the following regulations shall be substituted for the regulations contained in Art. 3 of the above cited order, as well as for so much of Art. 4 as prescribes the form of the rate receipt check book:

Provided that we may from time to time assent to any departure from these regulations.

Art. 1.—The surveyor shall punctually enter up and accurately keep a rate book and rate collection account, in the Form A. in the schedule to this order.

In the portion of the said form headed "rate book" shall be inserted the particulars indicated by the headings of the several columns, the number of assessments being placed in column 1 in consecutive order, and before any rate is presented to the justices for allowance, the surveyor shall sign a declaration, in words at length, of the total amount of the rates so presented for allowance, according to the form of declaration set forth at the foot of the form of rate book, or to the like effect.

Where it is intended that more than one consecutive number and assessment shall, as herein-after provided, be included in one receipt, there shall be inserted in red ink in the rate book, immediately below the last item of annual rateable value to be included in such receipt, the total of the items of annual rateable value to be so included, and also below the last item of assessment to be so included in such receipt, the total of the items of assessment to be so included.

The several columns of the rate book and rate collection account which contain the annual rateable value, the rate assessed, the recoverable arrears, and the total amount to be collected, shall be added up at the foot of every page, and the several totals shall be ascertained and set forth at the foot of the rate, before any sum of money in respect of the said rate is collected.

Where there is a collector, the portion of the said Form A. headed "rate collection account," shall, if the surveyor so direct, be entered up by such collector, instead of by the surveyor.

The portion of the said Form A. headed "rate collection account" shall, whether it be entered up by the surveyor or by the collector, be signed by the surveyor before the book is presented to the district auditor.

Art. 2.—The rate receipt check book shall be in the Form B. in the schedule to this order.

Notwithstanding anything in Arts. 4 and 5 of the above cited order, several consecutive numbers and assessments, but no others, for which the same person or persons is or are rated may be included in one demand note and one receipt.

Art. 3.—In this order and in the forms set forth in the schedule thereto—

"Parish" means a place for which a separate poor rate can be made.

"Highway Parish" means a place separately maintaining its own highways, and for which no board for repair of highways has been appointed in pursuance of section 18 of the "Highway Act, 1835."

"Surveyor" means any surveyor or surveyors of highways, or other person authorised by law to make or levy a highway rate.

"Collector" means a collector of highway rates duly appointed under the statutes in that behalf.

PROVISIONAL ORDERS.

Local Government Board, Whitehall, S. W.,30th August, 1883.

SIR,

I am directed by the Local Government Board to state that they deem it desirable to follow a course similar to that adopted by them for several years past, and to fix a day before which all applications for Provisional Orders under the Public Health Act, 1875, or the Artizans and Labourers Dwellings Improvement Act, 1875, must be made, if it is wished that the order should be confirmed during the session of 1884. They have accordingly determined that all such applications must be received by them not later than the 15th of December next, subject to this exception, viz.: That where the application is for an order to put in force the compulsory powers of the Lands Clauses Consolidation Acts, or to confirm an improvement scheme under the Artizans and Labourers Dwellings Improvement Act, and the advertisements were not published until November, the application may be received not later than the 1st of January.

It should be borne in mind, however, that the dates above mentioned are only fixed as the latest at which applications for Provisional Orders can be received. It is not the intention of the Board to interpose any obstacle in the way of these applications being made at earlier periods. On the contrary, where any sanitary authority propose to apply for a Provisional Order, the Board would wish them to make their application as soon as they are in a position to furnish the requisite particulars.

It is particularly important that applications for Provisional Orders to alter Local Acts should be made at the earliest date practicable. These applications often require much consideration, and the Board are able to give more attention to them in the autumn than is possible during the earlier part of the year. It would prove a material assistance to the Board if all applications for Provisional Orders of this kind were sent in before the 15th of October.

The Board direct me at the same time to refer to the provision in section 176 of the Public Health Act, 1875, which enables sanitary authorities to issue in the months of September and October, or of October and November, the advertisements and notices which are required before they can apply for a Provisional Order to enable them to obtain lands by compulsory purchase. It is very desirable that the sanitary authority should avail themselves of this power, if they propose to make an application under the section in question. The same observation applies to applications under the Artizans and Labourers Dwellings Improvement Act.

The Board have found that in some instances a misapprehension has prevailed as to the period within which the advertisements and notices prescribed by section 176 of the Public Health Act must be issued. The section provides that the advertisements shall be published during three successive weeks in the months of September, October, or November, and it is necessary that the three weeks in which the publication takes place should all be included in the same month, whichever of those above mentioned is selected for the purpose. Moreover, the notice to the owners, lessees, and occupiers of the lands which it is proposed to purchase, must in all cases be given in the month immediately following that in which the advertisements are published.

The Board have also found that in some cases the deposit of a plan of the proposed undertaking, which is required by sub-section (2) of section 176, has not been made until after the advertisement referred to in that enactment has been published. They are advised that the deposit should always be made at such time as to enable the plan to be seen at all reasonable hours at the prescribed place as soon as the advertisement is issued.

The Board may take this opportunity of observing, that, if the sanitary authority intend to apply for a Provisional Order to enable them to purchase lands compulsorily in connection with proposed works of sewerage or water supply, some of which will lie outside their district, they will probably find it convenient to satisfy the requirements of sections 32 and 54 of the Public Health Act, when they are issuing the necessary advertisements in respect of the application for a Provisional Order. If this course is taken, it will have the effect of preventing the delay which is occasioned at a subsequent stage of the proceedings, in cases where, after the Provisional Order is confirmed, advertisements and notices under the sections in question have to be issued before the works for which the land is required can be commenced. Section 53 also should be complied with, where it is intended to construct a reservoir to hold more than 100,000 gallons of water.

The requirements of the board with regard to applications for Provisional Orders under the Public Health Act are set forth in instructions which they have issued on the subject, a copy of which is enclosed for the information of the sanitary authority. Similar instructions have also been issued with regard to applications under the Artizans and Labourers Dwellings Improvement Act, and these can be obtained on application to the Board, in cases where they are required.

I am directed to add, that where an urban sanitary authority propose to apply for a Provisional Order for gas purposes under the Gas and Water Works Facilities Acts, the special regulations which have been issued by the Board under those Acts must be complied with. Copies of these regulations can be obtained on application to the Board.

I am, &c.,

HUGH OWEN,

Secretary.

The Clerk to the Sanitary Authority.

INSTRUCTIONS AS TO APPLICATIONS TO THE LOCAL GOVERNMENT BOARD FOR PROVISIONAL ORDERS UNDER THE PUBLIC HEALTH ACT, 1875.

Application for Provisional Orders to put in force the Compulsory Powers of the Lands Clauses Consolidation Acts.

1. The application must be made by a petition under the seal of the sanitary authority, containing the particulars required by section 176 (3) of the Public Health Act, 1875. The lands proposed to be purchased should be specified in a schedule to the petition, which should correspond in all respects with the book of reference mentioned in Instruction 3.

2. The petition must be presented not later than the 15th December, if the advertisements of the proposal were published in September or October, and not later than the 1st January, if they were published in November.

3. The petition should be accompanied by a plan of the proposed undertaking, by a book of reference in duplicate, and by a statutory declaration showing that the requirements of section 176 of the Public Health Act, with respect to advertisements and notices, have been duly complied with. The declaration must be stamped with a half-crown stamp, and copies of the newspapers containing the advertisements, and also of the form of notice, should be annexed to it as exhibits. It should specify the manner in which the notices were served upon the owners, lessees, and occupiers, and, so far as relates to these notices, it should be made by the persons who served them. The service must be effected strictly in accordance with one of the modes prescribed by section 267 of the Act. The plan should be coloured so as to distinguish the land proposed to be actually purchased, and the several properties should be numbered so as to correspond with the schedule to the petition and the book of reference.

Where it is only intended to carry sewers or water mains through lands, such lands should not be included in the petition, as the sanitary authority are empowered by sections 16 and 54 of the Public Health Act to carry sewers or mains through lands without the need of a Provisional Order.

4. The Standing Orders of both Houses of Parliament require that, at the same time as the plan of the undertaking and the book of reference are deposited with the Board, duplicates thereof shall be deposited with the Clerk of the Parliaments and at the Private Bill Office, unless the deposit with the Board is made after the prorogation of Parliament, and before the 30th November, in which case the deposit with the Clerk of the Parliaments, and at the Private Bill Office, must be made on the day last mentioned.

In order that compliance with these requirements may be proved before the Examiners of Standing Orders, the Board should, immediately after the deposits have been made, be furnished with an affidavit, stamped with a half-crown stamp, and sworn before a justice of the peace or a commissioner for taking affidavits, by the person by whom the deposits have been made.

5. The Board have been advised that two or more sanitary authorities cannot jointly petition for a Provisional Order to enable them to put in force the compulsory powers of the Lands Clauses Consolidation Acts. Either each sanitary authority must present a separate petition in respect of the particular lands which they require, or else the several sanitary authorities must combine under section 285 of the Public Health Act, 1875, for the purpose of carrying the proposed scheme into execution, and a petition must be presented by one of them with regard to all the land required. If this course is taken, an agreement under the section should be entered into before application is made for the Provisional Order.

Applications for Provisional Orders to alter the Areas of Sanitary Districts.

6. The application should be made by a resolution of the sanitary authority, a copy of which should be forwarded to the Board.

7. The application must be made not later than the 15th December, and it is very desirable it should be made before.

8. The application should be accompanied by (a) a statement giving the names of the sanitary authorities whose districts are affected by the proposal, and the grounds upon which the application is made, and (b) a map showing the present and proposed boundaries of the urban sanitary districts affected. Where part of a rural sanitary district is affected, the name of each contributory place affected should be given. The map should be an Ordnance map, and, where practicable, on the scale of six inches to a mile. The urban sanitary districts affected, and the areas to be added thereto, or taken therefrom, should, as far as possible, be distinguished by separate colours, with well-defined verge lines, so drawn as to show clearly whether the boundary takes the centre or side of any street, river, railway, or fence shown on the map. In the case of a rural sanitary district the area of each contributory place affected should be clearly shown.

9. Where it is desired that the area of a sanitary district should be altered, and there is a Local Act in force relating to the same subject matters as the Public Health Act, application should be made for an alteration of the Local Act at the same time that the application is sent in for an alteration of the sanitary district, if it is wished that the area to which the Local Act applies should be modified, and Instructions 10 and 12 should be complied with.

Applications for Provisional Orders to repeal, alter, or amend Local Acts.

10. The application should be made by a resolution of the sanitary authority, asking the Board in general terms to repeal, alter, or amend the Local Act, wholly or partially, as the case may require. A copy of the resolution should be forwarded to the Board.

11. The application must be made not later than the 15th December, and it is very desirable that it should be sent in before the 15th October.

12. The application should be accompanied by a copy of the Local Act, and by a statement showing the particular sections which it is proposed should be repealed, altered, or amended, and the precise alteration desired, and in the event of the Local Act having been previously altered by Provisional Order, a reference to such order should be given. The statement should also show the grounds upon which the application is made.

13. Where the effect of the proposed repeal or alteration of the Local Act will be to extend or diminish the area of a sanitary district, the particulars referred to in Instruction 8 should also be furnished.

N.B.—It is particularly requested that all petitions, statutory declarations, and other such documents may be written on foolscap paper of the usual size.

HUGH OWEN.
Secretary.

30th August, 1883.*

STANDING ORDERS OF THE HOUSE OF COMMONS AND HOUSE OF LORDS FOR SESSION 1885, RELATING TO PROVISIONAL ORDERS AND LOCAL GOVERNMENT.

[HOUSE OF COMMONS.]

39. Whenever plans, sections, or books of reference are deposited in the case of an application to any public department for a Provisional Order or Provisional Certificate, duplicates of the said documents shall, at the same time be deposited in the Private Bill Office; provided that with regard to such deposits as are so made at any public department after the prorogation of Parliament, and before the 30th day of November in any year, such duplicates shall be so deposited on the 30th day of November.

Deposit of plans, &c., in case of Provisional Orders or Certificate in Private Bill Office.

72. All petitions for additional provision in private Bills, with the proposed clauses annexed, and all private Bills brought from the House of Lords, and all Bills introduced by leave of the House in lieu of other Bills which shall have been withdrawn, and all Bills to confirm any Provisional Order or Provisional Certificate, after having been read a first time, shall be referred to the examiners, and the examiners shall report to the House whether the Standing Orders have or have not been complied with, and when they have not been complied with the facts upon which his* decision is founded, and any special circumstances connected with the case, and in the case of any Bill which, in pursuance of any report from the Chairman of the Committee of Ways and Means has originated in the House of Lords, the compliance with such Standing Orders only as shall not have been previously inquired into shall be proved.

Petitions for additional provision and private Bills from Lords, &c., to be referred to examiner.

* Sic.

73. In all cases of petitions for additional provision in private Bills, and of private Bills brought from the House of Lords, and of Bills introduced by leave of this House in lieu of other Bills which shall have been withdrawn, and of Bills for confirming any Provisional Order or Certificate, the examiner shall give at least two clear days' notice in the Private Bill Office of the day on which the same will be examined, but in the case of a Bill for confirming any Provisional Order or Certificate, he shall not give such notice until after the Bill has been printed and circulated.

Notice in cases of petitions for additional provision in private Bills.

89. The referees shall decide upon all petitions against private Bills or against Provisional Orders or Provisional Certificates as to the rights of the petitioners to be heard upon such petitions, without prejudice however to the power of the Select Committee to which the Bill is referred to decide upon any question as to such rights arising incidentally in the course of their proceedings.

Referees to decide as to rights of petitioners to be heard upon their petitions.

123. No petition against a private Bill or a Bill to confirm any Provisional Order or Provisional Certificate shall be taken into consideration by the Committee on such Bill which shall not distinctly specify the ground on which the petitioners object to any of the provisions thereof and the petitioners shall be only heard on such grounds so stated, and if it shall appear to the said Committee that such grounds are not specified with sufficient accuracy the Committee may direct that there be given in to the Committee a more specific statement in writing, but limited to such grounds of objection so inaccurately specified.

Petition against Bill to specify grounds of objection.

129. No petitioners against any private Bill or any Bill to confirm any Provisional Order or Provisional Certificate shall be heard before the Committee on the Bill unless their petition shall have been prepared and signed in strict conformity with the rules and orders of this House and shall have been presented to this House by having been deposited in the Private Bill Office, in the case of private Bills not later than ten clear days after the first reading of such Bill, and in the case of Bills to confirm any Provisional Order or Provisional Certificate not later than seven clear days after the examiner shall have given notice of the day on which the Bill will be examined, except where the petitioners shall complain of any matter which may have arisen during the progress of the Bill before the said Committee, or of any proposed additional provision, or of the amendments as proposed in the filled up Bill deposited in the Private Bill Office.

When petition against Bill to be presented.

135. The owner or occupier of any house, shop, or warehouse in any street through which it is proposed to construct any tramway, and who alleges in any petition against a private Bill or Provisional Order that the construction or use of the tramway proposed to be authorised thereby will injuriously affect him in the use or enjoyment of his premises, or in the conduct of his trade or business shall be entitled to be heard on such allegations before any Select Committee to which such private Bill or the Bill relating to such Provisional Order is referred.

Provisional
Orders, &c.

151. Whenever the House shall order that any Bill for confirming a Provisional Order or a Provisional Certificate be referred to the Committee of Selection with respect to any Order or Certificate to be confirmed thereby, the proceedings of the Select Committee to which the Bill is referred and of the referees shall be conducted in like manner as in the case of private Bills, and shall be subject to the same rules and orders of the House so far as they are applicable, except those which relate to the payment of fees by the promoters of such Provisional Order or Certificate.

second reading.

204. There shall not be less than three clear days nor more than seven between the first and second reading of any private Bill or any Bill to confirm any Provisional Order or Provisional Certificate unless any such private Bill have been referred to the Examiners of Petitions for Private Bills, in which case such Bill shall not be read a second time later than seven clear days after the report of the examiner or of the Select Committee on Standing Orders as the case may be.

210. Every petition against a private Bill which shall have been deposited in the Private Bill Office not later than ten clear days after the first reading of such Bill, and every petition against any Bill to confirm any Provisional Order or Provisional Certificate which shall have been deposited in the Private Bill Office not later than seven clear days after the examiner shall have given notice of the day on which the Bill will be examined or which shall have been otherwise deposited in accordance with the Standing Orders of the House and in which the petitioners shall have prayed to be heard by themselves, their counsel or agents, shall stand referred to the committee on such Bill, and such petitioners, subject to the rules and orders of the House, shall be heard upon their petition accordingly if they think fit and counsel heard in favour of the Bill against such petition.

and Committee.

211. There shall be six clear days between the second reading of every private Bill and of every Bill to confirm any Provisional Order or Provisional Certificate, and the sitting of the committee thereupon, except in the case of Name Bills, Naturalization Bills, and Estate Bills (not being Bills relating to crown, church, or corporation property or property held in trust for public or charitable purposes) in respect of which there shall be three clear days between the second reading and the committee.

Provisional Order Bills.

225a. All Bills for confirming Provisional Orders or Certificates shall be set down for consideration each day in a separate list after the private business and arranged in the same order as that prescribed by the Standing Orders for Private Bills.

Tolls and charges not in
a tax.

226. This House will not insist on its privileges with regard to any clauses in private Bills or in Bills to confirm any Provisional Orders or Provisional Certificates sent down from the House of Lords which refer to tolls and charges for services performed and are not in the nature of a tax or which refer to rates assessed and levied by local authorities for local purposes.

Time for depositing
certain cases.

232. Every memorial complaining of non-compliance with the Standing Orders of the House in reference to petitions for additional provision in private Bills, to Bills brought from the House of Lords, and to Bills introduced by leave of this House in lieu of other Bills which shall have been withdrawn, and to Bills for confirming any Provisional Order or Provisional Certificate, shall be deposited in the Private Bill Office, together with two copies thereof, before twelve o'clock on the day preceding that appointed for the examination of any such petition or Bill by the examiner, and the examiner shall be at liberty to entertain such memorial although the party (if any), who may be specially affected by the non-compliance with the Standing Orders, shall not have signed the same.

[HOUSE OF COMMONS.]

172. In the case of all Bills whereby any municipal corporation, local board, improvement commissioners, or other local authority in England or Wales, are authorised to borrow money for any purpose to which the several Acts specified in Part I. of the schedule to "The Local Government Board Act, 1871" relate, without the sanction of the Local Government Board, estimates showing the proposed application of the money for permanent works within the meaning of the 57th section of "The Local Government Act, 1858," or as defined by any subsequent Acts, shall be recited in the Bill as introduced into Parliament and proved before the Select Committee to which the Bill is referred.

Estimates of proposed application of money borrowed by local authorities in certain cases to be recited in Bill and proved before Select Committee.

173a. In the case of any Bill promoted by or conferring powers on a municipal corporation or local board, improvement commissioners, town commissioners or other local authority, or public body having powers of local government or rating, the committee on the Bill shall consider the clauses of the Bill with reference to the following matters:—

Committee to consider clauses of Bill in reference to various matters affecting local government, &c., and report thereon.

- (a.) Whether the Bill gives powers in relation to police or sanitary regulations in conflict with, deviation from, or excess of the provisions or powers of the general law.
- (b.) Whether the Bill gives powers which may be obtained by means of bye-laws made subject to the restrictions of general Acts already existing.
- (c.) Whether the Bill assigns a period for repayment of any loans under the Bill exceeding the period of sixty years, which term the committee shall not in any case allow to be exceeded, or any period disproportionate to the duration of the works to be executed or other objects of the loan.
- (d.) Whether the Bill gives borrowing powers for purposes for which such powers already exist, or may be obtained under general Acts, without subjecting the exercise of the powers under the Bill to approval from time to time by the proper Government department.

And the committee shall report specially to the House—

In what manner any clauses relating to the several matters aforesaid have been dealt with by the committee; and

Whether any report from any Government department relative to the Bill has been referred to the committee; and

If so, in what manner the recommendations in that report have been dealt with by the committee; and any other circumstances of which in the opinion of the committee it is desirable that the House should be informed;

And the report of the committee shall be printed, and shall be circulated with the votes.

PROVISIONAL ORDERS.

[HOUSE OF LORDS.]

39. Whenever plans, sections, or books of reference are deposited in the case of an application to any public department for a Provisional Order or Provisional Certificate, duplicates of the said documents shall, at the same time, be deposited in the Private Bill Office; provided that with regard to such deposits as are so made at any public department after the prorogation of Parliament, and before the 30th day of November in any year, such duplicates shall be so deposited on the 30th day of November. This order shall also apply to maps deposited in the case of Electric Lighting Provisional Orders.

Deposit of plans, &c., in case of Provisional Orders in Parliament Office.

70. Every Provisional Order Confirmation Bill and every Local Bill brought from the House of Commons shall after the first reading be referred to the examiners, but in respect of such Standing Orders only as have not been previously inquired into.

Bills brought from the House of Commons.

72. One of the examiners shall give at least two clear days' notice of the day on which any Bill referred to them after the first reading, or any petition for additional provision shall be examined, but in the case of a Bill for confirming any Provisional Order or Certificate he shall not give such notice until after the Bill has been printed by order of this House.

Notice of examination.

88. No Provisional Order Confirmation Bill shall be read a second time until the examiner has certified whether the Standing Orders have or have not been complied with.

Respecting second reading of Provisional Orders, &c., Bills.

91. No Local Bill or Provisional Order Confirmation Bill originating in this House shall be read a second time earlier than the fourth day or later than the seventh day after the first reading thereof, except Bills in the case of which the examiner has certified that the Standing Orders have not been complied with, in which case the second reading shall not be later than the second day on which the House shall sit after the report from the Standing Orders Committee recommending that the Bill be allowed to proceed, and except Bills referred after the first reading to the examiners under Order 62, 63, or 67, which Bills may be read a second time not later than the fourteenth day after the first reading thereof, and in the case of a certificate of non-compliance, the time for second reading of such last mentioned Bills shall be extended as in the former case.

Time for presenting petitions praying to be heard against Bills originating in this House.

92. No petition praying to be heard upon the merits against any Local Bill or Provisional Order Confirmation Bill originating in this House, shall be received by this House, unless the same is presented by being deposited in the Private Bill Office, before three o'clock in the afternoon, on or before the seventh day after the day on which such Bill has been read a second time.

Time for presenting petitions praying to be heard against Bills originating in the House of Commons.

93. No petition praying to be heard upon the merits against any Local Bill or any Provisional Order Confirmation Bill brought from the House of Commons shall be received by this House, unless the same be presented by being deposited in the Private Bill Office before three o'clock in the afternoon, on or before the seventh day after the day on which such Bill has been read a first time.

Committees on opposed local Bill.

96. Every Local Bill, or Provisional Order Confirmation Bill which is opposed shall be referred to a Select Committee of five.

Committee of Selection.

97. The Chairman of Committees, and four other lords to be named by the House shall be appointed a committee to select and propose to the House the names of the five lords to form a Select Committee for the consideration of each opposed Local Bill, or Provisional Order Confirmation Bill, and shall appoint the chairman of such committee.

Lords interested exempted from serving.

98. Lords shall be exempted from serving on the committee on any Local Bill or Provisional Order Confirmation Bill wherein they have an interest, and lords shall be excused from serving for any special reasons to be approved of in each case by the House.

Hour of meeting, &c., of Committees on opposed local Bills.

99. Every Select Committee shall meet not later than eleven o'clock every morning, and shall sit till four, and shall not meet at a later hour, nor adjourn at an earlier hour without leave of the House, or without reporting to the House the cause of such later meeting or earlier adjournment. No committee shall adjourn over any day except Saturday, Sunday, Christmas Day, and Good Friday, without leave of the House, or without reporting to the House the cause of such adjournment; but should a committee meet on a Saturday the sitting is to be in conformity with this Order.

LOCAL GOVERNMENT.

[HOUSE OF LORDS.]

Deposits on or before the 21st December.

Deposits of Bills at Treasury and other public departments.

33. On or before the twenty-first day of December, a printed copy of every Local Bill shall be deposited at the office of Her Majesty's Treasury and at the General Post Office; a printed copy of every Local Bill whereby application is made by or on behalf of any municipal corporation, local board, improvement commissioners, or other local authority in England or Wales, for power in respect of any purpose to which the several Acts specified in Part I. of the schedule to "The Local Government Board Act, 1871," relate, and of every Bill relating to turnpike roads, or trusts, highways or bridges in England or Wales at the office of the Local Government Board.

Statement relating to houses inhabited by the labouring class to be deposited in Parliament Office and at Office of Central Authority.

38. In the case of any Bill which contains power to take compulsorily or by agreement, as regards England and Wales inclusive of the metropolis, in any city, borough, or other urban sanitary district, or in any parish or part of a parish not being within an urban sanitary district, ten or more houses, occupied either wholly or partially by persons belonging to the labouring class as defined in Order III., as tenants or lodgers, the promoters shall deposit in the office of the Clerk of the Parliaments and at the Office of the Central Authority, as defined in Order III., on or before the 31st day of December, a statement of the number, description, and situation of such houses, and a copy of so much of the plan (if any) as relates thereto.
